Women Gliders Organize Club

12 Answer First Call for Members; Dorothy Potter Declares

Dorothy Potter '28, will carry out further plans for the organization of a Girls' Glider club at the second meeting of those interested Monday, May 19, at the Y. W. C. A.

The club met for the first time Thursday, May 15, with 12 girls, six of whom were university students, in attendance. Public knowledge of gliding, according to Miss Potter is so rudimentary that the club plans to begin with a very elementary study.

Foolproof as Sport

"Most people hardly know what gliding is," she said, "and do not realize that as a sport it is practically foolproof as well as fascinating."

Miss Potter has just returned from California, where she met the organizers of the first girls' glider club in the United States, and made flights with some of the country's most skilled pilots.

Glider May Be Purchased

If the plans for organization make the expected progress, the club may invest in a motored glider of which type of glider one of the United States' rare examples is now being shown at the Madison airport.

Miss Potter began her interest in aviation soon after the war when her parents took her with them on experimental flights during the pioneering days of aviation.

Derby Dope Wavers As Lady Luck Flirts

BULLETIN

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(Special)—Longus, mudder and rail runner, draws rail; becomes threat. Favorites, Gallant Fox, 2-1, Tannery. Alcibides, lone filly entered. Capone rumored in Louisville.

—J. E. H. Jr.

By JOHN E. HOFFMAN JR.
(Of The Cardinal's Sports Staff)
Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 16.—Two Earls are scheduled to monopolize the Kentucky Derby spotlight this afternoon when 12 of America's fleetest horses prance and buck their way up to the starting barrier of Kentucky's historic race track. The English Earl of Derby (pronounced Darby) and the Earl of Sande, America's representative among world champion turf riders, two contrasting figures in horse racing, are the toast of Blue Grass hospitality this day.

Incidentally, it is with no little regret that your correspondent relates the fact that Edward George Villiers Derby, who is by inheritance the 17th Earl of Derby, has a cold in his head. A cold in his head that, according to inside information has made him miserable and no willing subject for interviews.

Various newspapermen who have attempted to intrude upon the sanctity of the Joseph E. Widdener estate where the Earl is resting, testify to the cussedness which an Englishman with a cold can show. The story going the rounds among the correspondents although unofficial, is that the member of the nobility when asked whom he thought would win, replied:

"I doand give a damn who winds." Of course, the legend is to be weighed for what the individual finds it worth, Kentucky's elite scoff at the journalistic report.

But the Earl of Sande, a freckle-faced Yankee who has gained international fame by his ability to bring a thoroughbred home in front, is the American idol.

The man who booted home the winners in the Kentucky races of 1923 and 1925 will have another chance to repeat when he rides Gallant Fox to the post this afternoon.

And don't forget that it is Sande himself who is playing a large part in the favorable odds that are being laid (Continued on page 2)

Wessel Plays For Orchesis Dance Drama

Mark Wessel, internationally known American pianist, will be the guest artist for the coming performances of Dance Drama, to be presented Wednesday and Friday, May 21 and 23, at 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. each night in Bascom theater by the student members of the dance club, Orchesis. Mr. Wessel will play two of his own compositions, a "Trilogy" and "Three Little Old Men."

Mr. Wessel was recently in Europe on a Guggenheim fellowship. During his stay abroad, he worked with Miss Margaret H'Doubler, head of the dance department here and faculty sponsor of Dance Drama, and also with Miss Bertha Oeschner '23. The latter made dance tour with Mr. Wessel, playing his compositions in the cities of Strasbourg, Munich, Budapest, and Vienna.

The dance interpretation which has been worked out to the "Trilogy" is composed of three parts: A mood of supplication, one of realization, and a last one of exultation. It is essentially disciplined movement, a suggestion rather than the full motion.

These compositions were composed especially for the Dance Drama and have not been presented in any other production of this type. Mr. Wessel will play at each of the four performances. Tickets for the performances are now open to public sale at the Bascom theater box office.

Carnival Goers Dance to Music Of Isham Jones

Benefit Held to Keep Venetian Night Permanent Custom

Isham Jones and the spirit of Mardi Gras will dominate the Spring carnival goers who will dance tonight to the music of the composer and his band playing at the first Wisconsin Venetian Night benefit from 8:30 to 12:30 p. m.

Preparations for the carnival are complete, from the booths in the Rathskeller to the decorations of the Great hall, with Betsy Owen '32 planning the decorations, and Emmett Solomon '31 making the general arrangements for the Venetian Night benefit.

The carnival is being held in an attempt to establish a custom, along with Prom and Military ball, and to provide a means of supporting the Venetian Nights of the future, in order that the old Wisconsin spring tradition might not become extinct.

Balloons, Japanese lanterns, ferns and palms, confetti and serpentine, colored flood lights, and a general atmosphere of spring will pervade throughout the Memorial Union and the numerous courts and terraces about the building. The entire first floor of the main unit will be devoted to lounges, dimly lighted. The second floor, Great hall, and the promenade, will be devoted to dancing, and service from the Rathskeller fountain will be given in the Rathskeller and on the terrace.

Big Ten Medal Awarded June 1

Athletic Board Considers Group of Names, Little Said Wednesday

Although the Big Ten conference medal has not been awarded as yet, a group of names have been chosen by the athletic board for consideration and the award will be announced the last of May or the first of June, George E. Little, director of athletics, said Thursday afternoon.

The medal is awarded on the basis of scholastic standing and athletic achievement by the athletic council, who gives the final decision on the award.

The reason the award has not been given this year as yet is because a number of men whose names have been submitted are still competing in athletic events. This competition in the senior year is important, and it was considered advisable to wait until the spring competition is over before deciding definitely, stated Mr. Little.

Thelander Received 1929 Award

Last year's award was given to Theodore Thelander '29, who had an average of 91; the previous year's award went to Louis Behr '28 with an average of 90; three years ago the medal was awarded to Steve Pulaski, who had an average of 90. That same year Jefferson Burrus was given a gold watch because his average and standing was so near that of Pulaski.

Winners Were Sport Leaders

Besides these scholastic standings, all the men were leaders in some sport on the campus. Thelander was a baseball pitcher for three years. Although he did not make his letter, he was out for football for two years. Behr was captain of the basketball team his senior year and held down the forward position for three years.

Burrus was all-conference end on the football squad the last year of his three years of competition. He was a member of the varsity crew for three years and captain his last year. Pulaski was football captain his senior year. He was also on the freshman basketball squad and an intramural enthusiast.

Phi Eta Sigma Plans Activities

Honor Group Hears Suggestions for Use of Ability for Leadership

As the initial step in introducing a new program of campus social and intellectual activities, 25 members of Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman scholastic fraternity, met Wednesday night in a smoker at the Chi Psi fraternity house. The principal speaker on the short program of addresses was Prof. H. L. Ewbank of the department of speech.

Prof. Ewbank brought before the members of the fraternity a discussion of the possibilities for outstanding campus and community achievement by students who have attained scholastic success in college. He showed, in support of his contention that scholastic ability is a significant indicator of future attainment in leadership, a number of scientific studies made by professors at Harvard and Wisconsin. He urged a program of social and extra-curriculum activity to take up the additional time provided in a curriculum which is designed primarily to keep the average student busy filling its requirements.

Short talks were given by Dean Scott S. Goodnight, Ted Otjen '30, Milton Klein '31, Einar Lunde '31, and J. Gunnar Back '31. Einar Lunde was named senior advisor to replace Milton Klein.

Ted Wadsworth '33, newly elected president of Phi Eta Sigma acted as chairman. He introduced two features of next year's program—that of rushing season for freshmen and the awarding of cups to the fraternity and dormitory section having the most members of the fraternity next year.

Hesperia Hears Proposal to Back Fish Curriculum

"A step in the right direction," was the comment of Julius K. Richter '31 on the Fish curriculum proposal, at a meeting of Hesperia Thursday night in the Memorial Union.

A proposal to back the curriculum report now under faculty consideration was passed at the meeting, in which a discussion of the report, and its relation to the elective system now in effect at Harvard university, was made by Ed Wisniewski '31. Wisniewski pointed out that the Fish report now under consideration contains in general the main points of a report made by Hesperia in 1928.

The Hesperia report of 1928, he said stressed the importance of a revision of the freshman English course to include speech requirements for those in need of oral training.

Because the present proposal of the curriculum committee contains a revision of the freshman English course, Richter proposed that the society back the present revision, as a step in the right direction.

Further investigation of the system now in use at Harvard was decided upon, for a report at the next meeting.

on Gallant Fox. The champion rider has brought sufficient prestige to the eastern colt from the Woodward stables so as to bring prices at a 7 to 5 level late Friday night.

Although the odds are all in favor of the Sande horse, Kentucky is giving no little support to the two Bradley entries "Buckeye Poet" and "Breezing Thru." Gallant Fox's inability to turn in extra good time in his workouts have tended to bring some of the money to the last mentioned nags.

And then there is "Tannery." His backers are also hanging on, and evidently they think he has a chance because 3 to 1 money is being asked on him. If the track becomes a stretch of mud as has usually been the case, the odds, they say will be even shorter.

But all this advance dope doesn't mean a thing. If mud comes, close your eyes and pick the winner. Gallant Fox, son of Sir Gallahad III, does not care particularly for slippery bottom, and then watch the home money come pouring in on Tannery.

Bulgarian Women Tells Librarians Of Native Land

Addressing classes of the Wisconsin library school and Madison trained librarians, Miss Margaret Demchevsky, representative of the Bulgarian government, described the history of her country Friday night at the Madison library.

Miss Demchevsky wore the colorful costume of her native country.

She is the only trained librarian in Bulgaria and is touring the United States to study American library methods for application abroad. She is a member of the Bulgarian department of education.

From Madison, Miss Demchevsky will return to Milwaukee and then continue her tour from Chicago to the Pacific coast.

Bankers' Group Convenes Here

Illinois Economist Addresses Wisconsin Association at Banquet at Park Hotel

"The worst of the current business reaction is over, and I predict that corporation profits of 1930 will measure up to the standard set in 1928," said Mr. C. H. Crennon, economist of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company in a talk given at the banquet of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, held in the Park hotel, Thursday.

In the election of officers held in the morning session of the convention, H. J. Steeps of the Bank of Baraboo was chosen president of group two of the Wisconsin Bankers' association. Other officers chosen were H. W. Burmeister, of Gratiot State bank, P. H. Schroeder of the Bank of Wisconsin, and H. C. Roth of the Commercial Savings bank of Monroe.

American Expects Improvement
"It is an American trait to expect business of one year to exceed business of the last year, and to think that the business of the preceding year is normal is wrong," Mr. Crennon stated.

In a survey which Mr. Crennon has conducted, he has satisfactorily proved that the average annual increase of business is 2.4 per cent. He predicts that the next five years will bring this increase and perhaps more.

Bankers Tour Campus
In a tour of the university campus in the afternoon, the bankers stopped at the college of agriculture where a short symposium was held on "The Newer Things in Agriculture." Prof. K. L. Hatch of the agricultural extension division spoke on the need of team work between bankers and the college of agriculture. He stressed the importance of cooperation with the agricultural leaders.

That the unit banking system had proved unusually successful was stressed in the conference. Plans for a regional clearing-house were drawn up in the resolution.

The Badgers left early Friday for the cadet school to take a few trial runs over the course. As laid out, the short course covers a straight stretch for part of the way and then takes a sharp one-quarter turn before the finish.

The freshman eight that will race today includes Bradley, a former Exeter oarsman, at stroke, with Comee, Jelsmen, Metz, Silbernagel, Tessen-dorf, Richardson, and Bryant following in their respective order. Schaeffer will take the coxswain seat.

Greely, Mehl, Estreen, Zupancio, Wenbun, Kingsley, and Lau were taken along as reserves. The next race for the yearlings will be with Culver immediately preceding the Penn race, May 24.

Prof. Rundell Disqualifies Rumors of New Cut Rules

The rumor that a new cut rule for students of the law school was to be put into force was entirely disquali-fied by Prof. O. S. The rule has not been rigidly enforced during the past few years, the acting dean pointed out, and it is merely being revived this year.

Badger Crew Trails Penn In 1900 Poughkeepsie Race

Wisconsin sent her 1900 crew to Poughkeepsie, after a strenuous season of practice on Lake Mendota, determined to at least equal the record of the previous year, that of running a close second to Pennsylvania.

The same results featured this race as that of 1899, the Penn crew again taking first honors with the Badgers trailing but 25 feet behind. The Badger time was 19:46 2-5, and was closely followed by Cornell, Columbia and George town in the order named.

This same race saw Wisconsin's first yearling eight ever to be presented on

Card Golfers Play Michigan Quintet Today

Badgers Have Record of Three Wins Against One Defeat

Coach Levis' Badger golf team will make its fifth conference start when they engage the Michigan team at the Maplebrook course at 8:30 a. m.

At present, the Cards are near the top in the Big Ten standings with a record of three wins and only one loss at the hands of the powerful Illinois team which is undefeated thus far. As a whole, the team has performed much better than expected before the season opened.

Stewart and Sheldon are both shooting close to par golf in their daily practices being closely followed by Page, Furst, and Febock. These five men will compose the Badger team that will meet the Wolverines this morning.

Next week-end, the team will take in the Big Ten conference meet at Chicago. Illinois will be the favorites while the Badgers are given more than an even chance to finish up among the first three. All the conference schools will be represented at this championship meet.

The golf team will close the season when they meet Minnesota in a dual meet at Minneapolis May 26. With the start that Coach Levis' men have made this year with a fairly inexperienced team, the 1930 season can be deemed as a success.

Winning Pitcher May Seek Title at National Clash

By THE HIRED HAND

The winner of The Daily Cardinal horseshoe pitching tournament will have a chance at the national horseshoe pitching contest, according to information received from the American Horseshoe Pitchers' association. He will be eligible to enter the Milwaukee Sentinel championship, the winners of which will be entered in the national tournament in Chicago.

Noon today is the deadline for entries in this, the first annual Daily Cardinal Silver Shoes Horseshoe Pitching championship tournament. All you fraternities, dormitory houses, and independents had better make a dash for the intramural office and leave your entries with Bill McCarter or someone before the clock in Music hall tower dongs 12 times.

Endorsed by Director of Athletics George Little and the intramural staff, the tournament will uncover the foremost horseshoe pitcher on the campus as well as determine the owner of the first pair of silver shoes. It's worth trying for.

By MORRY ZENOFF

Wisconsin's first place ball club will tangle with the tail-end Maroon aggregation at 2:30 p. m. today on the Camp Randall diamond in an attempt to annex their seventh straight Big Ten victory.

Coach Lowman's choice to assume the mound duties is the miniature "Jake" Sommerfield, a hurler with loads of ability who shows promise of being able to fill the shoes to be left vacant in June by the present ace of the pitching staff, Maury Farber.

Lefty Knowles, the Chicago hurler who has pitched excellent ball throughout the present campaign, will oppose the Badger batsmen. Knowles, thus far, has been the victim of bad mistakes and weak hitting by his mates.

Both of the Maroon games with Michigan should have been won by the Midway group because of airtight hurling on the part of Knowles. This fact, coupled with the desire for a clear record, caused Coach Lowman to decide starting "Jake" Sommerfield on the mound.

"Jake" stopped the Maroons cold in the first game of the Big Ten season at Chicago, April 25, and it is expected that he will produce as strong an effect today.

Considerable action will be seen in Big Ten diamond circles today when eight teams will get into action. Minnesota will seek a few points in the conference ladder when they will meet the lowly Purdue nine. Michigan plays at Illinois while Indiana and Ohio State will clash at Columbus.

Fallows Defeats LaFollette Nine In Dorm Game

In a postponed game of the inter-dormitory league the Tripp hall team, Fallows, defeated LaFollette, 5 to 1. Fallows started off with a two-run lead in the first inning, adding three more tallies in the second frame.

Schippright starred for the Fallows squad, getting on base three times and scoring two runs. Harris played a good game for the losers.

Lineups: LaFollette—Plonsky, Harris, Marks, Goldust, Tenish, Fishman, Silber, Eber, Kebran, Brautigan.

Fallows—Bennet, Shapiro, Sturzingger, Tanaka, Scaeles, Schippright, Lebensohn, Fuller, Mayer, Kuehlthau.

After the Election, The Investigation

AFTER THE ELECTION, the investigation; After nearly every major political campaign, someone finds grounds on which to challenge the expenditures or conduct of the person elected. If the opposition does not make the move, some legislative committee will.

It is not for us to hold trial for a Vare or a McCormick, but one can evaluate the affect on the masses of the circumstances which make investigations necessary. Even though the defendant may be given a clean bill of health on technical grounds, yet the average man is left with the feeling that all was not above-board in the handling of election funds and in the recognition of the statutes dealing with such funds. Too often, the average man cannot help believing that the law was violated by those who in the future are to make laws which they will expect him to obey.

In this frame of mind it is difficult for him to hold sacred laws, the makers of which he does not respect; and it is out of the question to expect him to be moved by the platitudes of Fourth of July and Decoration day. Instead of regarding all citizens as Americans, the average citizen believes, rightly or wrongly, that "the higher-ups can violate the law and get away with it, while we poor devils are sent to jail for the least offense."

Lawmakers, prospective and actual, who become super-patriots, accuse youth of recklessness and anti-Americanism, and bewail the violation of one law or another, ought to know that they themselves aid in creating disrespect for law when they evade the provisions of election laws, and violate wilfully and in devious ways other legal enactments. Until they use all their energies to see that their affairs are managed with a sincere desire to live up to the requirements of the laws having jurisdiction, their prepared speeches and their parading of patriotic virtues will mean little to the rank and file. The twilight area, which, in the eyes of the court, may stand for guilt or lack of it, cannot always be discerned by the average man as anything short of guilt; at least, to him "there is never smoke without some fire."

Perhaps all our citizens elected to office are honest, perhaps they do not violate corrupt practices acts in actuality, but such is not enough; they must be so far removed from the twilight area that the bulk of their fellow-citizens may see clearly that they did not violate the spirit or the letter of the law—that same law which they must legislate or enforce.

TRANSITIONS

By P. T.

DEMOCRACY, according to Prof. Jerome Davis' article in the Spring Century, must meet the challenge both of the communist and the fascist dictatorships. For him the greatest lesson of the Italian and Russian revolutions is that "wherever there is widespread injustice there liberty and democracy are endangered." Although a staunch believer in the American system, Prof. Davis sympathizes with the aspirations of the Russian leaders. He claims that "regardless of the crudities and barbarism which have marred communism, it is definitely trying to envisage the emancipation of the working class."

The success of the communist editors in conditioning the coming generation is illustrated by the tests made by Prof. Davis upon several hundreds of Moscow school children, who were asked to rank the various occupations according to their prestige and social standing. The private entrepreneur, the banker, and the clergyman ranked last, the worker first.

Prof. Davis shows a keener dislike for fascism than he does for communism. "Mussolini," he says, "has been an opportunist in all his life and action." The Duce has succeeded in leaping from extreme socialism to extreme nationalism and militarism. The Mussolini who now embraces Catholicism was once a rabid atheist. What, according to the author, differentiates Mussolini from Lenin is "his personal and political opportunism;" Lenin never compromised his principles. His retreats were always forced by the necessities of strategy. He always considered his compromises temporary, and thought of them with a view of more rapid progress towards his ideal in the future.

FASCISM AND COMMUNISM have only a superficial resemblance. Both systems worship force, suppress minority rights, and rigidly control public opinion. Here their similarity ends. Fascism is a large-scale police measure for the maintenance of the social and economic system of capitalism. The fascists do not wish to disturb, but to secure, our present orders. Prof. Davis' criticism that fascism lacks a definite policy and is primarily opportunistic is beside the point. Fascism lacks the idealistic, theoretical, and political background of communism. Born as a result of a threat from the left, it has used its authority to strengthen and secure the present social and economic scheme. Whenever it acts against the employer, it wishes merely to eliminate abuses which it feels to endanger the proper functioning of the economic system; not to change the basic formulae.

Communism, on the other hand, challenges the arrangements which prevail in western Europe and America. For private ownership it would substitute state ownership. It demands that all able-bodied citizens be gainfully employed or suffer discrimination and disenfranchisement; it aims to eliminate private profit and speculation from industry. It looks with disfavor upon all forms of super-nationalism, and it plans to change many of the basic moral and ethical concepts. It seeks to reorganize fundamentally our thinking and manner of living.

OUR NORTHERN NEIGHBOR Canada does not look with favor upon those self-appointed guardians of righteousness who band together and execute summary justice upon law violators without the tedious and expensive formality of a trial in a regularly constituted court of law.

On February 28, a mob of disguised klansmen sought to prevent a case of miscegenation for which an Ontario license had been secured. They had induced a girl who was white to leave the house of her betrothed, who was presumed to be a Negro, but has since proven to be pure Indian. Three of the mob, who had been recognized, were arrested and brought to trial. Two were released on the technicality that they were unmasked at the time they were apprehended. A third defendant, William A. Phillips, was convicted and fined.

The sentence was appealed in the supreme court of Ontario. The court brought forth a clear decision, too long to reprint here, but part of which will indicate the difference between the attitude of the Canadian courts and of our own.

"THE MOTIVE of the accused," the decision reads, "is immaterial. The accused and companions took it into their heads to interfere with her rights. In doing so they not only committed an offense as regards her, but also a crime against the majesty of the law. It (the law) is the supreme, dominant authority, controlling the conduct of everyone, and no person, however exalted or high his power, is entitled to do with impunity what that lawless mob did. The attack of the accused and his companions upon the rights of this girl was an attempt to overthrow the law of the land, and in its place to set up mob-law, lynch-law, and to substitute lawlessness for the law enforcement which obtains in civilized countries. . . . Mob law such as is disclosed in this case is a step toward barbarism, and, like a venomous serpent, whenever its horrid head appears, must be killed, not merely scotched."

The supreme court was of the opinion that the monetary fine of the lower court was insufficient punishment, and substituted for it a sentence of three months in prison. The court added that its leniency was due to this being the first case of this nature to come before it, and that the sentence imposed is not to be regarded as a precedent in any similar case in the future.

The case may be commended to some of our students and public men, who are constantly bemoaning the break-down of law on this side of the border.

production of 'Othello' was one of the very finest things which our University Theater has ever done. It is doubtless the greatest play in which student actors have performed here during the last decade and in it the principal roles were presented with genuine skill and power. The final act of the tragedy was a thing of sheer beauty, deeply poignant and moving. The people of the university community who did not see it missed a rare treat."--ROSALYN ROSENTHAL '30.

In Reply to Mr. Berman

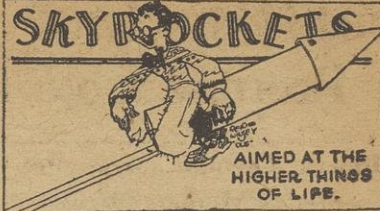

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

THE LETTER of Mr. Berman, bemoaning the fact that false rumors concerning the Experimental college have been printed, seems rather superfluous, since the Cardinal has commented editorially on the matter. However, Mr. Berman took some delight in slandering Mr. Leichman. In answer, we must admit that there were rumors of closing the college. Mr. Leichman is now in New York, and hearing the startling news, thought it "copy" enough for an article. I am positive that Mr. Leichman did not hear the forthcoming denials of the rumor; otherwise, he would not have written his article of April 30.—L. T.

A PROPOSAL that seniors give their opinions of professors they have had during their courses is being considered at the University of Ohio . . . that's one questionnaire that might prove worthwhile . . . the hanging in effigy of the two most unpopular professors at the University of Pennsylvania resulted in a riot and more than 200 student arrests . . . the professors are avenged . . . Oklahoma A. and M. students participated in a wolf drive near Stillwater last Sunday . . . must be a real frontier sport . . . "Studying may make (students) temporarily insane" said a Minneapolis police officer in seeking a reason for the disturbance caused by a student pajama parade last Monday night . . . do pajama paraders study as much as that? . . . a referendum on the Sunday movie question is to be held by Gainesville, home town of the University of Florida . . . but don't snicker—remember Richland Center.

REJOICE! REJOICE! . . .
Topics are due . . . studies urge and whine . . . school takes the form of an incurable headache . . . but who cares . . . Let us call across the dusk . . . and tell of a moon and stars above the Drive . . . of minutes never to be relived . . . so we answer . . . and the study-lamp burns on . . . alone.

For the verse what follows, Bacchus and Morpheus give a rising vote of thanks to one who calls himself "R CUBED."

"If ever I endow a college"
Said Thomas R. McTreats,
"The last two rows in lecture rooms
Will have upholstered seats."
Which is a brave sentiment, followed by even a braver:
"Our service is the best!
Telephone magnates boast,
"Five minutes for connections
And you talk from coast to coast."
But as for LOCAL phoning
They dare not advertise;
For I have tried all afternoon
To get the A. O. P.'s.

But are you sure the Telephone company's to blame? We've heard before this that the A. O. P.'s have a terrible line.

And here's one more, a swell limerick which you've gotta like:
There was a lovely young D. Gam,
Who said to her boy friend, a Phi
Gam,
"If you kiss me, of course,
You will have to use force,
But God knows you are stronger than I am!"
Now for all the above, remember you must thank or blame "R CUBED."

Question Box for Dull and Stupid Readers

Question: What are "diplomatic relations?" Basil.

Answer: We don't know, Basil. We never had any.

Question: How can I be a "big shot?" Hilda.

Answer: Use lots of powder, Hilda.

Question: What is an iceberg? Percy.

Answer: An iceberg is a permanent wave, Percy.

No doubt you are wondering why we haven't been dating lately. We'd like to know too.

We were dallying in the library yesterday, and happened to notice a friend of ours whose actions seemed to be decidedly peculiar. He would alternately glance mournfully at the faces of the fair co-eds about him, and then gaze long and soulfully at his watch. We naturally went over and made inquiries. Quoth he: "The face of the watch seems so intelligent." Now there's a real cynic, friends; a true modern.

"Why do you keep saying that a goose is always cold and nervous, you fool?"

"Well, it's always covered with goose flesh, isn't it?"
Duck, friend, duck!

When short dresses come in again, I suppose the present-day coeds will be saying of their daughters: "Just a snip off the old smock."

And as the dears used to say in grandmother's day: "Something pretty about that coat."

You know, folks, we've just about decided that the fussiest bunch of men we know are these cowardly life prisoners—always picking on something. That ought to make you rock with laughter.

Questioned little Marjorie, pointing to a totter of the frozen fluid—"Is that an iceman?"
"I don't know, dear," responded her older sister, "he doesn't bring ice to our house."

It took us just five hours and thirty five minutes to figure that one out, so we're passing it on to you for a week's study. Don't get cold feet.

"What flower do you like best, uncle?"

"The ice plant, my child," said the old drunkard.

Sorry, but we did our best, BACCHUS and MORPHEUS.

How you can tell the houses apart on Langdon street. Rap on the window. If a hand comes out followed by the whisper: "Here, I'll take the beer," it's a fraternity house. If a hand comes out followed by the whisper: "Sh-h-h! I'll help you in!" it's a sorority house.

Field Day Plans Promise Color

Modern Olympic Meet Presented as Mothers' Week-end Event

Many multi-colored pennants and the flags of various nations will be used to decorate the women's field-house and surrounding grounds on Field day, Saturday, May 24, according to Helen Elliott '31, chairman of the W. A. A. Field day committee.

Under the direction of Caroline Ioscher '31, efforts are being made to suggest a modern Olympic meet through the decorations. Seats along the sidelines will be provided for the mothers and other visitors who will view the parade, archery contest, track meet, and baseball game which are scheduled for the 15th annual Field day.

Transportation to the field will be provided by busses running at intervals from the Memorial Union to Camp Randall. Definite announcement of the schedules will be made in a few days, according to Gweneth Holt '32, chairman of special arrangements for Mother's week-end.

It looks as though unemployment was spreading. There seem to be more vice presidents than ever before.

Stolen Ring Cause Of Aurora Youth's Return to Madison

A ring stolen from the home of Prof. D. D. Lescohier, professor of economics, was the cause Saturday of the forced return of Glen Lewis, 19, from Aurora, Ill. Detective Robert Putnam brought Lewis back to Madison for questioning.

The ring was said to have been taken from the Lescohier home about six weeks ago by a maid in the residence. Lewis was charged with having secured the ring from the maid.

Questioned by police, he is reported to have declared that he lost the ring. Lewis' home is in Aurora but he worked in a dental clinic here at the time the ring was taken. The ring belonged to Mrs. Lescohier.

Gordon Predicts Future of Music

Professor Fears Degeneration to a World of Listeners in Talk

The Confederation of Music clubs which is holding its convention in Madison, gave its banquet Thursday night at 6:30 in the Crystal room of the Loraine hotel.

Prof. C. H. Mills and Prof. E. B. Gordon were the principal speakers. The University Women's Glee under the direction of Mrs. Doris B. Caster entertained with several selections.

Sees Less Opportunity

Prof. Gordon drew the conclusions that there is less opportunity today for young people in musical vocational activities; that the American public wants to get its music when it wants it and hence will turn on the radio or phonograph whenever it has a notion; and that perfectly marvelous orchestras can be heard over the radio from miles distant.

"Among the disadvantages in getting our music second-hand is that there is a great danger in listening to much music in which we ourselves cannot participate. Because one is eliminated from this participation, one becomes moody or emotional."

Appreciation Is Last

"By over-indulgence in turning on the radio and allowing it to run from morning to night is lost the ability to listen to and to appreciate good music. Then, too, this lowers the dignity of music and gives one music indigestion," he stated.

"Are we going to degenerate into a world of listeners?" Prof. Gordon asked.

by tommy

IF YOU'RE EVER in Sterling Hall on a Friday afternoon . . . drop in at 1327 . . . and see how The Daily Cardinal broadcast is put on the air. You won't see much . . . only a small padded room of very small dimensions. On one side is a piano (Mason and Hamlin . . . and we don't get paid for this) . . . on the other side is the instrument panel where Gordon Fredendahl sits and whirled knobs for a pastime. There are two mikes . . . one for the announcer Bud Roddick . . . and another for whoever is providing the entertainment. Most of the hard work is done in the basement where you find an auspicious array of tubes, panels, telephones, loudspeakers . . . and what not.

WHA is a great station . . . but it has the annoying habit of wandering off its wave length. About every other broadcast has to be interrupted in order to adjust this. Yesterday Arnie Dammen was singing a swell song when it occurred . . . so it can't be temperamental.

The Tree Surgeons . . . Doctors DeHaven, Willock, and Abert . . . received a very libelous telegram during their period on the air from the Theta Chi's . . . It went something like this "Your program is terrible . . . get off the air as soon as possible."

"Your program is great . . . keep up the great work . . . signed . . . Theta Chi (fraternity)" . . . which was a nice joke on the Theta Chi's. The hoax was rather expected . . . because Doctor DeHaven happens to be a Theta Chi himself.

Organize New Assisting Staff

Present Union Board Finds Old Plan Too Large and Unwieldy

Reorganization of the assisting staff of Union board into a subsidiary board of 10 members was outlined by Emmet Solomon '31, vice president of Union board, Thursday night. The new subsidiary board will manage minor events of next year, including a winter carnival.

In his announcement of the change, Solomon stated that the old assisting staff had been found too large and unwieldy, this necessitated the cutting down of membership on the new subsidiary board from 21 to 10 members. Burnham Heads Carnation Sale George Burnham '32 was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of the carnation sale to be held for benefit of Venetian night. The assisting staff will be in charge of the sale, which, if successful, will be held annually to perpetuate Venetian night. Carnations will be sold to fraternity and sorority houses in lots, as well as to individuals. The assisting staff committee in charge of the sale under George Burnham '32, will be eight other sophomores: Robert Burgess, Robert Bassett, Ed Gruber, Don Hippenmeyer, Frank Money, Alex Nichols, Summer Summerfield, and George Smith.

John Dern '31 stated that the Winter carnival will be held next year in connection with the Junior prom. The work will be in charge of the subsidiary board. It is hoped to establish the carnival on a basis comparable with that of carnivals now held in the east, as at Dartmouth and Yale.
