TO SUBSCRIBERS.

The purpose of a work of this nature needs no explanatory preface. Its every page being an example of its general utility and business importance. It is, as it were, an index to the great ledger of the community ; every party representing a family, or business avocation, will be found posted in its pages. That the compilation of a Directory is attended with obstacles, which retard and render difficult its perfect completion, may be easily imagined, but a practical experiment is needed fully to test the vexations to be encountered.

When it is remembered that the copy for publication has to pass through the hands of the canvasser, the assorter or classifier, the compositor, the printer and the proof-reader, the wonder is, not that some errors and omissions are detected, but that so few are to be discerned.

With this defender against the shafts of the critic the book is presented to the public, with a hope that it will be found worthy of the patronage of the citizens.

It is but a matter of justice to those who have kindly tendered information, and by their courtesy and encouragement aided our canvassers, for us to recognize, with many thanks, our sense of the obligations due.

Respectfully,

SMITH, DU MOULIN & CO.

BELOIT COLLEGE.

Beloit College was founded under the combined auspices of the Presbyterian and Congregational Churches of Wisconsin and Northern Illinois. It was located in the year 1845, received its charter from the Legislature of Wisconsin in 1846, and the corner stone of its first edifice was laid on the 24th of June, 1847.

Instruction was commenced with the first regular College class, in the Fall of 1847. Three in that class were graduated in 1851. Since that time, a regular succession of classes has been kept up, making the whole number of graduates to this time, forty.

The Institution provides for a full colligate course of four years, with a standard of scholarship on a par with that of the best Eastern Colleges, a scientific course of two years, which embraces the Mathematics, Science and English literature of the college course without the classics, a Normal Department and a Preparatory Department. The following gentlemen compose the Faculty of the Institution, viz.

President and Professor of History and Civil Polity.—Rev. Aaron L. Chapin, D. D.

Professor of Intellectual and Moral Philosophy.—Rev. Miles P. Squier, D. D.

Hale Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.—Jackson J. Bushnell, A. M.

Williams Professor of the Greek Language and Literature.—Joseph Emerson, A. M.

Professor of Rhetoric and English Literature.—Franklin W. Fisk, A. M.

Professor of the Latin Language and Literature.—Rev. Wm. Porter, A. M.

Professor of Chemistry and Natural Science.—H. B. Nason, Ph. D.

Principal of the Preparatory and Normal Departments.—John P. Fisk, A. M.

Tutor in Mathematics—

The College has two plain, but substantial and commodious buildings, already completed. The first erected, now called Middle College, is occupied mainly with rooms for recitations, lectures and other public purposes. The North College is devoted to the use of the students for dormitories and a boarding establishment. A third building is to be commenced immediately, to provide a chapel and school-room for the Preparatory and Normal Departments.

The Library of the College embraces nearly three thousand volumes, and arrangements are made which will insure its progressive increase in the future. In addition to this, the Archæan Society and the Missionary Society have libraries numbering more than five hundred volumes.

The Cabinet contains specimens of most of the minerals and rock formations of our country, together with a large collection of marine and fresh water shells, and a valuable botanical collection, which embraces more than fifteen hundred species of plants, many of them foreign to this country.

The Departments of Chemistry and Natural Philosophy are illustrated by some valuable apparatus.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class are examined in the following books, viz :

Cicero's Select Orations ; Virgil ; Sallust or Cæsar's Gallic War ; Andrews and Stoddard's Latin Grammar.

Colton's or Owen's Greek Reader ; Sophocles's or Crosby's Greek Grammar.

Thompson's Higher Arithmetic ; Loomis's Algebra through Simple Equations ; English Grammar ; Geography.

Satisfactory testimonials of good moral character are required, and no one can be admitted to the Freshman class until he has completed his fourteenth year, not to an advanced standing without a proportionate increase of age.

In the full collegiate course, the branches of study are distributed through the four years' course of instruction according to the following scheme.

FRESHMAN YEAR.

First Term.—Lincoln's Livy ; Loomis's Algebra ; Homer's Iliad—Felton's or Owen's edition.

Second Term.—Livy continued ; Algebra finished ; Loomis's Geometry begun ; Iliad continued.

Third Term.—Gould's Horace—Odes ; Geometry finished ; Wheeler's Herodotus. Latin Prose Composition throughout the year ; the study of Chaucer and the early English continued throughout the year.

SOPHOMORE YEAR.

First Term.—Horace—Satires and Epistles ; Loomis's Plane Trigonometry and Conic Sections ; Herodotus continued, Xenophons, Memorabilia.

Second Term.—Whately's Rhetoric and Tacitus's Dialogue on Oratory ; Loomis's Navigation, Surveying and Spherical Trigonometry ; The Alcestis of Euripides—Woolsey's edition.

Third Term.—Ancient History ; Tacitus's Dialogue concluded, and Theremin's Rhetoric ; Differential and Integral Calculus ; the study of Chaucer and the early English continued throughout the year.

JUNIOR YEAR.

First Term.—Plato's Gorgias ; Olmsted's Natural Philosophy ; Mediæval and Modern History ; Guizot's History of Civilization.

Second Term.—The Prometheus of Æschylus ; Natural Philosophy finished ; Silliman's Chemistry.

Third Term.—Tacitus ; The Antigone of Sophocles ; Botany ; Physiology and Zoology.

SENIOR YEAR.

First Term.—Political Economy and Story on the Constitution ; Whateley's Logic ; Select Latin or Greek.

Second Term.—Olmsted's Astronomy ; Demosthenes du Corona ; Mineralogy ; Geology.

Third Term.—Hickok's Mind from Consciousness ; Hickok's Moral Philosophy ; Hopkin's Lowell Lectures.

In the latter part of the course, other Greek and Latin authors are sometimes substituted for those named in the scheme, but without essentially varying the amount of time and attention devoted to these languages.

In the departments of Natural Science and Philosophy, instruction is given both by recitations from text books, and by theoretical and experimental lectures. Lectures are also given, from time to time, by the several members of the Faculty, upon general subjects connected with their respective departments of instruction.

In the Rhetorical department, each member of the Junior and Senior classes presents, once in two weeks, an oration or written discussion for criticism ; each member of the Freshman and Sophomore classes, a composition or original declamation ; and each of the other members of the Institution, a composition or selected declamation. There is also a public Rhetorical Exercise, once a week, at which the Collegiate classes present original, and the other classes selected declamations.

At the close of the first and second terms, each of the classes is examined before the Faculty in the studies of the term. At the close of the Sophomore and Senior years, examinations are held on the studies of the two preceding years. The Biennial examinations are conducted wholly in writing, and occupy from two to three weeks.

In this system of instruction, the proportion established between the different branches of learning is adapted, as much as possible, to give a symmetrical development to all the powers of the mind. The object aimed at is not, in any sense, to complete, but to make good the beginning of a liberal education, by a thorough drilling in those principles of literature and science, which are the common basis of high intellectual attainments in every profession of life.

Students who desire to pursue an advanced course of study in English Literature, Mathematics and Science, can have the opportunity of doing so in connection with the College classes. Candidates for this course will be examined thoroughly upon all the English studies required for admission to the Freshman class.

The course of study embraces the Mathematics, Science and English Literature of the whole College course.

The College is as yet but partially endowed. The aggregate of its property may be estimated at $125,000.

The design of the founders of the Institution was to establish a complete College for the most thorough liberal education. Its character and reputation attest that this design has been in measure, already realized, and it has a flattering prospect for its future enlargement. Without exerting a sectarian influence, it is the aim of the faculty to combine, in due proportion with the elements of intellectual culture, the principles of sound morality, and a pure christian faith.

The Annual Commencement is held on the second Wednesday in July. The division of the year into terms and vacations is the same for all the departments, and is as follows: The first term begins eight weeks after Commencement ; the second on the first Wednesday of January ; and the third on the third Wednesday of April. The first two terms together embrace twenty-eight weeks, and the third twelve weeks. There is a vacation of two weeks between the first and second terms, and one of two or three weeks between the second and third.

The regular Colleges charges are as follows :

For Tuition in the College,	$30 00	per annum.
For Incidental Expenses, $1,50 per Term,	4 50	" $34 50
For Tuition in the Preparatory Departm't,	20 00	"

The Trustees take great pleasure in expressing their entire satisfaction with the indefatigable exertions of Mr. Beane, to make our Seminary what such an institution should be.

The long and ripened experience of the Principals and their assistants enables them to bring to this position the best possible facilities for securing a thorough education, and it is believed that everything essential to this result will be combined in the plans of instruction. Parents from abroad may commit their daughters to the care of Mr. and Mrs. Beane, with the fullest assurance that their morals and manners will be a special object of care and culture, in the family no less than the school room.

L. G. FISHER, President.

B. DURHAM, Secretary.

The subscriber begs leave to say that it will still be his continued endeavor to redeem fully the pledges made on his behalf by the Trustees, and to make the school, in all respects, what it should be. Having had many years' experience, as an educator of youth, he confidently expects that, with the aid of a corps of efficient and accomplished Teachers, he will be able to make the school second in value to no one in the West or in the East.

The most thorough instruction will be given in all the branches of a substantial and polite education.

Prof. Manuel Emelio will take charge of the Department of Vocal and Instrumental Music. The other Departments are all filled by accomplished Teachers.

Frequent lectures on various subjects of practical importance will be given by the Principals.

Classes in the natural sciences will be permitted, in company with one of the Teachers, to attend Lectures, Philosophical, Astronomical, etc., at the College. The winter term will furnish especial advantages in this respect, as a valuable course of lectures is expected.

The discipline of the school will be firm, but kind and paternal. Especial attention will be paid to the health, morals and manners of the pupils. Nor will the culture of the heart be a secondary consideration. Boarding pupils will be regarded as members of the family, enjoying constant intercourse with the Principals and Teachers, and no efforts will be spared to provide for them a pleasant home, constantly pervaded by elevating and refining influences.

To those residing at a distance it is proper to say, that Beloit possesses many attractions, as the location of a Female Seminary. The healthfulness of the climate, beauty of the place and of the surrounding country, together with the peculiar social, literary and religious advantages which it possesses—all combine to make it a most desirable place of resort for young ladies wishing to enjoy the best advantages.

Applications for admission should be early made to the Principal.

Circulars will be forwarded by mail to those who request it.
