WOMEN TO FETE MRS. BANNING AT FUNCTIONS TODAY

Speaker at Matrix Banquet to be Entertained While in Madison

Several luncheons and dinners have been planned by prominent townswomen and university students in honor of Margaret Culkin Banning, nationally known writer and club woman who will be the main speaker at the Matrix Table banquet tonight at the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Loraine.

Winifred Wise '27, will entertain Mrs. Banning at luncheon today. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Banning will be taken on a tour of the campus by Prof. and Mrs. W. G. Bleyer, of the journalism department.

To Welcome Guests

At the reception which precedes the Matrix Table banquet tonight, Mrs. Banning will be in the receiving line to welcome the guests of Theta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. W. A. Hawley and Mrs. John C. Kenney will entertain Mrs. Banning at luncheon at 1 o'clock tomorrow at the College club.

To Attend Meeting

In the afternoon Mrs. Banning will attend a meeting of the A. A. U. W.

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic fraternity for women, which is sponsoring the Matrix Table banquet, will give a dinner in honor of Mrs. Banning at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Old Fashioned Tea room.

Mrs. Banning will return to Duluth at 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

TEKES IN SERENADE FORECAST SPRINGTIME

That spring is really on the way was proved by fact that the Tekes orchestra last night entertained various sororities with the first serenade of the year. With Jimmy Pediocourt, of Flindt's Strand orchestra, as an added attraction, the group was received with glee as it proceeded from house to house, many co-eds leaning from wide open windows in scanty attire despite the fact that the calendar reads February. More than a hundred students followed the serenaders applauding their selections.

TESTS MADE ON STRUCTURE STEEL

Prof. Withey Conducts Experiments on Building Columns

Builders of steel framed structures soon will have more exact knowledge than they now possess about the behavior of steel columns under oblique and eccentric loads due to a series of tests being conducted by Prof. M. O. Withey, of the College of Engineering.

The tests have been in progress in the materials testing laboratories of the university since August 1924, for the committee on steel column research of the American Society of Civil Engineers, of which committee Dean F. E. Turneaure, of the College of Engineering, is chairman. The results will be reported early in 1928 to the engineering society and in a University of Wisconsin bulletin.

Besides directing the cooperating experiments for the civil engineering society, Prof. Withey is also assisting the committee on yield point of structural steel of the American Society for Testing Materials. As chairman of the committee, he will report the results obtained at Wisconsin and four other cooperating engineering colleges in finding the effect of speed of loading upon the total yield point of steel.

Day By Day With The News

By C. O. S.

Great Britain dispatches a war ship to Nicaragua for protection of her "interests," stirring our old reliable Monroe doctrinists into action.

Another significant step has been taken by Great Britain in the sending of a curt note to Soviet Russia advising that country that diplomatic relations will be broken off unless the Russians cease hostility and propaganda against the British. A split in the British cabinet is almost certain to come.

Weary and bedraggled United States senators debate the Boulder Dam project in a 30-hour session. Sudden illness keeps many of the senators away but the faithful hold sway.

Cantonese sympathizers help their party in the fight to take Shanghai by continued strikes.

President Coolidge defers action on the farm relief bill but signs the measure providing for a $10,000,000 appropriation in the corn borer fight.

Great Britain Enters the Arena

Again the Nicaraguan situation furnishes the biggest news of the day, news that shows that American occupation of the Central American country is fraught with potential possibilities, near and remote, for grave diplomatic strife. Great Britain has sent a warship to Nicaragua to protect her "interests and nationals."

This move may be interpreted in at least three ways. The State department will undoubtedly adopt an "I told you so" attitude asserting that intervention in Nicaragua was necessary because Great Britain recognizes that fact also.

Adherents to the Monroe Doctrine declare that Great Britain cannot send a warship to Nicaragua because such an act offends the Doctrine—the United States will protect small nations of this continent.

Thirdly, the fairminded people recognize that Great Britain's right to protect her interests in Nicaragua is as inalienable as ours.

by 2000 A. D.

Prof. H. H. Barrons in an address to the Hamilton club, Chicago, declared that there will be 325,000,000 people in the United States by the year 2000. With water power not properly utilized resulting in a coal loss of 14,000,000 tons annually, with waste of oil, slashing of forests, etc., the professor doesn't know what we will do with our big population.

He should ask Mr. Arthur Brisbane. With characteristic accuracy in presenting half-truths, Brisbane writes in "Today":

"There are only two ways to dispose of surplus farm products, and that is to EAT THEM here or sell them abroad. If you cannot eat the surplus at a fair price, why not allow immigration to come and eat the farm surplus here? Our foolish immigration law, keeping out the people that built up this country, depriving farmers of home customers, is the farmer's danger. We need more good people from Europe—50,000,000 of them."

Senator Porah
Speaks His Mind

"The time has passed when people will go to war to uphold titles which exploiters and investors are unwilling to submit to the scrutiny of judicial investigation. The narrow sordid theory that we must have dollar for dollar, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth, can never be made to fit into the right of every nation to determine for itself what is right and best for it to do."—Address to the Senate.

Extension of Radiophone Service

With the radiophone service to London an assured success it will now be extended to Paris. Later, other European cities—Berlin, Vienna, will be reached. The service in the United States will be carried westward to San Francisco.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB OPENS SEASON AT BELOIT TONIGHT

Thirty-three Men Leave on First Tour of Extensive
Schedule

The 33 men comprising the Men's Glee club will leave Music hall late this afternoon in a chartered motor bus for Beloit where the concert club will open the 1927 concert season by singing its first formal concert there in the First Congregational church.

This evening's concert in Beloit will open a concert season far more extensive than any attempted thus far in the past nine years of the Glee club's organization. The program chosen for the club this year by Prof. E. Earl Swinney, director of the club has been enlarged somewhat over that sung by the club last year, however, the most popular of the choral numbers have been retained and worked up to a higher degree of perfection.

The men who will leave this afternoon are: Langdan P. Divers '28, Falter W. Engelke '28, Ralph W. Leonardson '29, Alphonse E. McGrath '27, Ralph W. Smith '29, Dan E. Vornholt grad, Leander G. Berven '29, Jack W. Jareo '29, Ted E. Maynard '29, Frank H. Nelson '29, Harry M. Schuck grad, Bayrd Still '28; Gallati '27.

Archie D. Scott, professional dancing coach of the Haresfoot club, arrived here yesterday afternoon to take charge of dancing until "Meet the Prince" goes on the road April 1.

Final tryouts and selection of men who will accompany the show in the chorus will be made under Mr. Scott's direction. With the intention of carrying a larger chorus than last year, this year's production will emphasize the dancing angle.

"The Chicken Flutter," originated by Scott, and featured in "Le Maire's Affaires," the "Green Mill" Inn revue, and several other Chicago shows, has been taught the dancing classes.

CELEBRATE AS FIRST UNION STONE IS LAID

The first stone of the Union building was laid Wednesday, and as it was swung into place an informal but enthusiastic celebration was staged on the site by Dr. H. C. Bradley, chairman of the university Union committee, Lowell Frautschi '27, president of Union board, and Porter Butts, Union secretary. It happened also to be Butts' birthday. So from now on he will consider Bedford as his birth stone.

CONFESSES THEFT OF WATCH; STUDENT HELD

Roland Schlitz, an ex-student, has confessed to the theft of a gold watch from a student residing in Adams hall, and is being held by Milwaukee police.

However, it is understood that funeral arrangements have been made for the mysterious personage and that interment will take place today at noon.

One campus leader states definitely that it is his understanding that the ceremonies will take place from Bascom hall in view of the fact the deceased passed beyond because of an undue indulgence in French courses. It was his last wish that the rites be performed at Bascom hall for sentimental reasons.

The funeral cortege will pass from Bascom hall down the center of the hill at the noon hour today, according to rumor.

Progressive Minister to Speak on "How Shall We Know God?"

With the Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin giving the opening address, the annual all-university religious conference will open at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the men's gymnasium. The meeting will last only one hour.

Through the action of President Glenn Frank, and following the precedent set last year, all 3:30 classes will be dismissed.

To Talk On God
"How Shall We Know God?" will be Dr. Coffin's topic in his opening address. Rather than devote the conference to entirely Christian topics, he will deliver the talk this afternoon from a theistic viewpoint. Religion as it relates to any sect will be discussed, rather than to any specific sect.

Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, who will address four mass meetings in all, graduated at Yale and studied at Edinburgh, Scotland; Marburg, Germany; and Union Theological Seminary. At Yale he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Beta Kappa, Skull and Bones, and Chi Alpha.

Progressive Leader
As a minister in the Presbyterian church, Dr. Coffin has been a leader among the progressives. The Dr. H. E. Fosdick, he has been the object of much reactionary criticism. He is one of the little group of clergymen who have been particularly well liked at Harvard, Princeton, Yale and other colleges and universities.

GOES TO DALLAS FOR CONVENTION

Prof. E. B. Gordon to Conduct
Monterey High School
Orchestra

Prof. E. B. Gordon of the School of Music, left yesterday for Dallas, Texas, where he will conduct a monster orchestra, composed of 250 of the best high school musicians in the country, assembled to play before the convention of the National Educational Association to be held at that city next week. Aiding Prof. Gordon will be Prof. J. E. Maddy, of the University of Michigan.

The projected concert of the national high school orchestra before the National Educational Association's convention is a new departure in convention programs and is the result of an invitation extended to Prof. Gordon to organize and bring an orchestra to Dallas after an organization of like nature had been assembled to play before the National Music Supervisors' council that met in Detroit, last year.

Student musicians of the highest caliber have been chosen after a nation wide search. Supervisors located in every section of the country were entrusted with the work of choosing students. Madison has been unable to place a student in the orchestra of this year.

SELLERY TALKS ON THE ART OF LIVING

Says Primary Purpose of Education is to Develop Personality

That the art of living is the development of personality and the power of discrimination is the belief of Dean G. C. Sellery, who discussed "College and the Art of Living" in Lathrop parlors Wednesday afternoon.

The primary purpose of education is to develop personality which is the basis of the art of living. College is the most effective place to cultivate personality because there like-minded persons are congregated. Dean Sellery set forth his definition of the person with discrimination by the following qualifications:

He appreciates good literature rather than the shoddy.

He loves good music and develops a capacity for enjoying better music.

He has a fondness for the companionship of people of like tastes.

He will find less pleasure in cheap plays and literature and in jazz.

He will be reverent before the mystery of existence and kind toward the various religions.

He will get satisfaction from the contemplation of the mysteries of life and death.

He should include in the contemplation of the art of living the art of dying.

FIFTH WARD SOCIETY GIVES $100 TO UNION

Memorial Union funds were increased this week by the payment of a $100 subscription made by the Fifth Ward Sewing society. The society made the subscription voluntarily, saying they "wanted to help out."

The Union building is in the fifth ward district. Officers of the society are Mrs. H. B. Gregg, president; Mrs. Hattie Balch, secretary; Mrs. Clara Schreiber, treasurer; and Mrs. Jones.

Committee chairmen who have been working on the conference for the past months are as follows:

James M. Nelson '27, and Eulalie Beffel '27, co-general chairmen; Josephine Barker '28, programs and music; Lowell Frautschi '27, discussion groups; Gordon Ruscha '27, finance; Margaret Birk '28, luncheons and teas; Edward Fronk '29, arrangements; and Alexander Gotlieb '28, publicity.

Departments Move Locations to New Addition of Bascom

The recently completed addition to Bascom hall is rapidly being occupied. Many departments, eager to leave their old haunts, are establishing headquarters in the new wing. Some are already there; more are coming.

The history department has established itself in rooms 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 190, 192, and 194. The German department moved into rooms 69, 79, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, and 87. The philosophy department also sought a new location in rooms 189, 191, 193, 195, 197, and 199. Part of the comparative literature department is now in room 72. The Latin laboratory came from South hall to rooms 75 and 77.

According to G. C. Chandler, secretary of the faculty, many other departments will soon locate themselves in the addition.

French dressing is considered more wholesome for children than mayonnaise or Russian dressing. Olive oil is an excellent food, but the rich ingredients included in the more elaborate dressings are less beneficial.

WRESTLERS DRILL FOR GOPHER MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Meet Will Give Fans Chance to See Revamped
Team

Only a few days remain in which the Badger grapplers can prepare themselves for the invasion of the sturdy Swedes from the Gopher state, with whom they will do battle Saturday evening in the second home wrestling meet of the season. This meet will bring before the fans Coach Hitchcock's revamped team which decisively redeemed itself by giving Chicago a sound trimming last weekend. It will be up to these same youngsters to carry the colors of the Cardinal through to the second victory of the rather hectic wrestling season.

At no time this year did Hitchcock have a team that looked as formidable as the one that drubbed the Maroons, and broke the jinx that has been trailing the Badgers all year. The Cardinal mentor hopes to send the same team against Minnesota, and if injuries will not interfere, his hope will materialize. It will take a strong and conditioned team to defeat the Northmen, as they will come here with a veteran squad, in fact the same one that so decisively trimmed the Badgers last year at Minneapolis.

Have Been Defeated

Although the Gophers have been defeated by Illinois and Iowa by close scores, nevertheless, they have a few men on their roster that are worrying Coach Hitchcock, because victory may depend upon the outcome of these bouts. The men in question are Easter, 135 pound conference champion, and Koplan, football star, who threw Cole in the only bout that the Badgers lost last year. These two men have been winning consistently this year, and it will take some mighty fast hustling on Smith's and Brackett's part, the Badger entries in these weights, to off-set the experience of these two Gophers when they meet this Saturday.

Hitchcock is working hard with Smith and Brackett in order to have them in the best of condition for their respective tussles, as a fall in either case may decide the meet. The Badger tutor is especially emphasizing the head chancery and the single and double bar-arm-lock, because green men who carry their hands very loosely are subject to this hold, which is dangerous and very difficult to get out of. The half nelson and the single grape-vine are the holds that Hitchcock has been stressing this week in an effort to get his matmen to use these holds in case they get in back of their opponents. All in all the wily coach is leaving nothing undone in preparation for the oncoming Swedes.

Smitz, and Holt, 115 and 125 pound sophomore matmen have finally found themselves and are using all the science that they have learned in the last two years under Hitchcock. The way these two men worked against Chicago, was very encouraging, and if they work the same way this Saturday, they ought to come through with victories, because Minnesota is not very strong in these weights.

L. Schuck, the middleweight find, who upset the dope last week when he defeated Penstone of Chicago, ought to be in much better condition this weekend, because he has been working hard ever since he got back from the Windy City, where he learned that strength, science, and condition go hand in hand when it comes to wrestling. Schuck, who is only a sophomore, needs a little more experience to put him in good stead with the other middleweights in the conference.

PHILOMATHIA MEETS FOR DEBATE TONIGHT

Philomathia literary society will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in 223 Bascom hall. Walter Ela '30 and Rolland Kuckuk '29, will debate the subject, "Resolved, that an official board of censors of moving pictures be established in Madison." Max Gelin '28, will discuss "Labor Injunction," and David Yantz will talk on the problem of "Student Employment."

TRAINING TABLE TIPS

TANKIN UP
THE ILLINOIS RELAYS
THIS BASKETBALL

In the race for bigger and better sporting weekend, it appears that the one about to burst upon us is about the biggest.

Even today, the Wisconsin swimming team is meeting Illinois at Urbana in a dual meet which the Badgers have an excellent chance to win. We base this chance on the fact that Illinois dropped a meet last week to Indiana, 39-30. Groh, sprinter and fancy diver, is the most worthy of the Illini performers, and he may cause trouble, as may also the 200 yard relay team which has the second fastest record in the conference to date.

After doing whatever they do at Illinois, the swimmers must hasten back to Madison in time to paddle against Purdue in the Armory tomorrow afternoon. The Boilermakers also have a fairly strong team and will probably put as strong a tussle as they did last year when Wisconsin defeated them by only a few points.

One of the very high points of the indoor track season arrives under the name of the Illinois relays at Urbana tomorrow. Wisconsin, sending several outstanding stars to the relays, has a chance to finish well up in the final standing.

Erickson, Badger half-miler, is the only conference man who has broken two minutes in the 880-yard run. His time of 1:59.5 is unequalled and he should be a strong favorite in the 1000-yard run which he will enter in the relays.

Zola, two-miler, also has a clear record for his speciality but he will be at a loss to find a suitable event for his talents in the relays. The longest race scheduled is the 1,500 meter run, slightly less than a mile, and Zola will have to tune himself down quite a bit to run such a race well. Payne and Petaja, Wisconsin milers, will probably also enter this event.

Capt. "Chuck" McGinnis will enter the spotlight in three events, the 75-yard high hurdles, the high jump and the pole vault. Only one man appears to surpass Chuck in each of these events. Burg, veteran Maroon high jumper, has an edge on him in that event, and Droege-muller who snapped the conference indoor pole vaulting record last week, is doubtless unbeatable in the vault. "Babs" Cuhel, Iowa hurdler, will be Chek's most potent opposition over the high sticks.

The conference basketball race is nearing the point where defeats and victories are particularly important. Not that they haven't been in the past, but every team is bracing for

INDIANA GAME TO BE CRUCIAL POINT IN BIG TEN RACE

Victory by Indiana Will Eliminate Badgers From Conference Race

The game with Indiana tomorrow is believed to be the crucial point in the present basketball season and with the realization that they must win tomorrow night to remain in the conference race, the squad, under the careful drilling of Coach Meanwell, underwent a terrific drill at the gymnasium all this week.

Wisconsin, Purdue, and Michigan are now in a triple tie for the leadership though that standing might be changed by the time the Badgers take the floor against Indiana tomorrow night as Michigan is scheduled to meet Illinois at Urbana tonight and the results may be a defeat for the Michigan quintet.

Big Game of Week
The Wisconsin-Indiana clash at Bloomington is the big attraction on the conference program for this week, for on the outcome of the tilt hinges the destiny of both fives for season laurels. Indiana was forced to take a humiliating defeat from Ohio State last Tuesday night and it is believed that the Hoosiers are planning to focus their revenge on the Badgers for such a defeat.

Indiana won their first game with the Badgers on the local floor in the first conference game here this year. It was at a time when the Hoosier five was playing in their full strength and long before the Badgers had maintained their regular season form. Even at that the game was closely fought and at one time Wisconsin was way in the lead, 8 to 0.

Team is Keyed
It is believed that Coach Meanwell will have his men keyed to as high a pitch as possible for the contest tomorrow night. In years past it has been brought forth that toward the close of the season when the race in the conference leadership was being closely fought that the famous Badger coach was able to bring forth the best efforts of every man on his team, and practically every time this was the case, Meanwell pulled the team through for a conference championship.

However, such an achievement looks gloomy at the present time with three of the four games away from the home court and every game with three of the strongest teams in the whole conference.

a mad rush down the fairway, and it is reasonably certain that one or two of the five or six championship possibilities are going to come through unscathed. If Wisconsin trims Indiana tomorrow night and Illinois Monday night, and you can't find anything in the dope book that says she will do that, we'll feel much like celebrating. As Mr. Coughlin might say in his more serious moments, "Huh?"

Badger Swimmers Meet Illini Fish at Urbana Today

The Wisconsin swimming team, smarting under a severe defeat administered to them by the strong Michigan team last week, will seek revenge in a weekend of aquatic activity when it meets Illinois at Urbana today, at 4 o'clock, and Purdue at home Saturday, Feb. 26, at 2:30.

According to Coach Steinauer, the Badger squad is now in excellent condition and should more than make a good showing in both meets. The team that will represent the Badgers in both meets will be:

200 yard relay—Ratcliffe, Pederson, Clark, Herschberger.

200 yard breast stroke—Kratz, Kinkaid, Bardeen.

40 yard dash—Clark, Herschberger.

440 yard dash—Holmes, Post, Back Stroke—Ratcliffe, Bailey.

100 yard dash—Clark, Vinson, Herschberger.

Dives—Attleberg, Ratcliffe.

Medley Relay—Pederson, Kratz, Herschberger.

GYM TEAM MEETS CHICAGO SATURDAY

Badgers Will Meet Strongest
Rivals in Chicago Tilt
Saturday

Wisconsin will send two teams against its conference rival Chicago, when the Gymnastic and Fencing teams go down to meet the Maroons Saturday, Feb. 26, at Chicago.

In the Chicago gymnastic team, the Badgers will meet their strongest rivals for conference honors, and a win over the Chicago team, will practically insure a high standing in final conference ratings. To meet the strong Hofer-coached Maroon team, Coach Masely will send the following men:

Horizontal Bars—Neller, Hinderliter, Kuhe.

Horse—Schwoerke, Brill, Felton.

Rings—Neller, Hinderliter, Kuhe.

Parallel Bars—Neller, Vornholt, Hinderliter.

Tumbling—Hinderliter, Kuhe, Schwoerke or Bartell.

Club Swinging—Snavely.

The fencing team will be represented by the same men who won a close victory over Purdue last week.

TRACK TEAM OFF FOR URBANA FOR ILLINOIS RELAYS

Coach Jones Enters Several
Stars in Illinois Classic
Tomorrow Night

Wisconsin's track team will enter the Illinois Relays, at Urbana tomorrow night, with a brilliant chance to make a showing in the special events.

The whole squad is centered about Capt. Charles McGinnis, versatile Badger track and field man, and Erickson and Zola, half-miler and two-miler respectively. All of these men appear certain to finish within the first three places of the events which they have entered in.

In the relay events, the two-mile is the only race in which Wisconsin has a chance to win. Iowa, breeding-place of great quarter-milers, has another great mile quartet this year and appears almost certain to win the short relay. Since the breaking up of Michigan's great four-mile relay team, which won the event two years straight, the Illini have the best chance to cop this race.

Because of his remarkable performance in the high hurdles, pole vault and high jump, McGinnis should come through as one of the individual stars of the meet. He is meeting a stiff assortment of opponents in the vault, for here are arrayed Droege-muller, Northwestern, Northrup, Michigan State, White, Illinois; and Boyles, Iowa. McGinnis has already beaten Boyles and has lost to Droege-muller, who set an unofficial conference record to win last Saturday. Cuhel, Iowa, who runs his best race in the 75-yard high hurdles will probably inch out a victory here, though McGinnis should push him right to the tape. In the high jump, Chuck has a clear claim to second and a chance for first if Burg, Chicago, falters.

If Erickson is picked to run in the 1000-yard race instead of the two-mile relay, he should give other middle distance runners a great battle. His entry, however, is still doubtful. The same is true of Zola, star two-miler, who may gear himself to the shorter 1,500 meter run and show the spectators some action. Vic Chapman won this event in the relays last year.

Today's Prayer

O God, we thank Thee for this universe, our great home; for its vastness and its riches, and for the manifoldness of the life which teems upon it and of which we are part. We praise Thee for the arching sky and the blessed winds, for the driving clouds and the constellations on high. We praise Thee for the salt sea and the running water, for the everlasting hills, for the trees, and for the grass under our feet. We thank Thee for our senses by which we can see the splendor of the morning, and hear the jubilant songs of love, and smell the breath of the springtime. Grant us, we pray Thee, a heart wide open to all this joy and beauty, and save our souls from being so steeped in care or so darkened by passion that we pass heedless and unseeing when even the thornbush by the wayside is afame with the glory of God.

Grab 'Em Off Quick

Regulations are being formulated for that grand old game of Grab 'Em Off Quick.

Grab 'Em Off Quick is played every fall by about 50 teams which have approximately 25 players apiece. Each team is equipped with a chapter house, a rushing fund, and several parent-owned, student-controlled motor cars. The game itself is a combination of the bag rush and "Button, Button—Who's Got the Button?" The various teams are assembled about a week before the beginning of classes, and the trophies, some 1000 male freshmen, take positions in the middle of the field. As soon as they reach the posts players rush out in ostentatious automobiles, lure them into the vehicles with bait of free meals and entertainment, and triumphantly bear them to headquarters. After two or three days of exciting manœuvres there appear on the campus an ever-increasing number of chesty yearlings who proudly exhibit mystic little buttons on their coat lapels.

At a meeting of the Interfraternity council held last week, a "committee on deferred rushing" proposed a set of rules whereby this annual competition might be governed. As reported in the Daily Cardinal, they are as follows:

- No fraternity shall compete or ask the voluntary return of any of its members to the chapter house until one week before the opening day of the fall term of classes.
- All dates with freshmen shall be registered with the secretary of the supervising body.

3. Any freshman who may come before the committee within 48 hours after being pledged, and, upon due hearing by the committee, shall be adjudged as having been "hotboxed," shall be automatically released from such pledge and be permitted to re-pledge immediately thereafter.

4. Each fraternity shall not be allowed more than two dates with each freshman during early registration.

5. All pledges shall be reported to the secretary of the supervising body immediately after pledging.

To us it seems that such of these proposed regulations as are not obviously useless are either impossible of enforcement or are dependent for their enforcement upon the character of men placed upon "the supervising body." Furthermore, this plan very clearly would not initiate deferred rushing at Wisconsin. In an earlier report Mr. Bundy, chairman of the committee, made a comprehensive survey of the success of that system as is evidenced at other universities and colleges, and declared that it would not be practicable here. And yet he calls his committee's proposition one which would be a stepping stone to deferred rushing at Wisconsin. We know, of course, that these five rules are merely suggestions.

The first regulation, that concerning the return of members to their chapter houses, is practically useless, for freshmen do not arrive, and consequently competition cannot begin little more than a week before the opening of classes. Outside of that fact, point four, forbidding more than two dates to each fraternity with each rushee during early registration, would make premature rushing at once futile and undesirable.

Rules two and five, in our opinion, merely add to the mass of red tape without offering any essential advantages. The registering of dates, it is true, would provide a check upon the number each fraternity has, but could not the Greeks indulge in convenient lapses of memory on occasion. And who would handle the immense amount of work connected with such registration?

Rule three is seemingly the most useless of the five. How many freshmen who had been "hotboxed" would know to whom they should report. If a fraternity had employed "hotbox" tactics could it not connive to keep the freshman within its chapter house until the "48 hours after pledging" had safely passed? Would not an ambitious freshman claim he was "hotboxed" if he had a chance to pledge a larger fraternity after pledging a smaller? Would the fraternity have no right to self defense? Would the members of the committee be unbiased in every case, even if their own fraternity were involved?

The provision specifying that each freshman shall not have more than two dates with each fraternity during early registration is undesirable in that neither the fraternity nor the man would have as ample opportunities for judging each other as they have under the present system. It would, of course, prevent one group from monopolizing the time of an especially desirable rushee.

In lieu of this plan why does not the Interfraternity council consider a system similar to the one used at present by sororities on the campus? It has proved successful, and is probably as good as can be devised for local rushing conditions.

On Student Unions THE IDEA OF THE UNION

It has become clearer that the Union is the result of a desire and a movement that is world-wide,—essentially a desire to enrich the barren hours outside the classroom, to bring human relations in education into their proper place of importance and usefulness, to restore personality to the university.

Community buildings are envisioned as an integral part of the modern mass education scheme. Every university of size is realizing the need. Unions are as experiment, in the sense that all education is an experiment, and should be treated distinctly on the trial basis. Nobody knows yet just what the exact objectives and functions of the Unions should be or can be. It is up to the men who bring them into being and who develop them to go as carefully and as far-sightedly about their business as they can.

The idea of a Union building in the beginning was mainly that it should be a place where students could come together outside the classroom, a club house, a convenience.

The meeting place function is still basic to all that is done in or by a Union but a speaker at the Cornell convention suggested further that "the Union is the recognition of the importance of the leisure hour." That is something more. It suggests that the Union can make leisure hours worth a lot more than they're worth now, recreationally and culturally.

It suggests that the Union has an opportunity to be a definite cultural influence, to be, perhaps, an intellectual Union as well as a social Union, to be an important instrument in working toward the ideal of "A community of learning."

It is a good sign that the Wisconsin Union has already gone some distance toward being a cultural influence,—and without a building. Perhaps Wisconsin is better prepared than anyone else to make the Union something really useful and important in education.

PETER RABBIT AND THE WIDGET FACTORY

Part II

What Has Gone Before

Down in the wilds of the Ooobjoo Islands lives a white haired old missionary, M'TAVISH, who is vainly striving to bring light into the souls of the heathen cannibals. Assisting him is BLAKE, supposedly an upright man, but underneath his lily surface are a couple of rag weeds. MARJORIE, the missionary's beautiful daughter suspects Blake, who is jealous of ELBERT, the hero, of having done wrong by her poppa. She warns Elbert who immediately writes home to his father.

This, however, has nothing to do with the story, but even if we do say it, it's pretty god stuff. Any way, Peter Rabbit has just found the patents in his widget factory stolen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"F'evven's sake," said Peter again. "This is awful!"

So Peter called in the cops who came in a hurry. The hurry had red wheels and balloon tires.

"Well," said Crief Wally Woodchuck, "it looks like sumpin's been stolen."

"Of course it has," said Peter Rabbit, "thass why I called you up."

"Of course," smiled Wally Woodchuck. "I was only kidding."

"Well, don't make no goat outta me," threatened Peter, "I wanna get some satisfaction."

"Yes indeed," murmured Wally knitting his brow (click, click—noise like knitting) as he took careful measurements of the room.

"Whatcha doing that for?" Peter wanted to know.

"Ssh, don't disturb me," said Wally peevishly, "I'm thinking!"

"Well, I'll be darned," said Peter sarcastically.

Dinner and Program to be Held at Wisconsin Club for Officers

Colonel N. F. McClure, Cavalry U. S. A., Chicago, will give an address on "Installations in the Zone of the Interior" before the Madison Reserve Officers' association at the University club, Tuesday evening, March 1. Members of the R. O. T. C. have been invited to attend.

Colonel McClure is one of the six senior colonels of the United States Army, and served with a rank of Brigadier General during the war. He is now in charge of all Reserve officers in the Sixth Corps Area and is one of the ranking regular army officers with the reserve corps. Besides his announced topic, it is expected he will also speak briefly on the new War department policies governing the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Besides the speaking program, three War department pictures illustrating the rifle grenade, the trench mortar and the principles of bomb dropping will be projected. The association will dine before the program. The dinner begins at six, and those who cannot come for the meal can come in before the program. Unusually Good Scenic Glimpses in Strand Movie

By L. B.

"The Blonde Saint," now playing at the Strand, with Doris Kenyon and Lewis Stone co-starred, is not an unusual picture, except in scenic effects. Most of the action takes place in a Sicilian fishing village, old looking, rich in detail, and on the hillside above the town is a ruined Greek temple of extraordinary beauty, which is overgrown with vegetation and appears to be crumbling after two thousand years of storms and earthquakes.

Lewis Stone of the salesman gesture and the English face has the hero role, but starts out being the villain and tells Miss Doris Kenyon, as Anne Bellamy, whose Puritan ideas on life have given her the nickname of "The Blonde Saint," "You may refuse me now, but I shall never let another man love you." He adds a little caveman stuff to his regular seduction method and the two find themselves in the Sicilian village, with Miss Doris "intended" still on the way to England.

Don't expect too much of Doris in the "saint" part. Several nasty looks cross her face while she is in the midst of a chastity declaration, and her fear is based on selfishness, rather than on the intuitive and angelic defensiveness of a child or saint.

If you enjoy watching for the little incongruities of a motion-picture, you will be amply rewarded here. The way that Miss Doris gets completely all mussed up and wild looking after Mr. Stone has given her two fleeting, fervent kisses is beyond our comprehension. We have decided that the "mussed up" effects is to indicate unwillingness on the part of Doris.

Although Stone had nothing but his clothes and a bill-fold about him when he came to the island he distributes neat bottles of miraculous medicine to the natives when they are stricken with the plague. We could forget about the bottles if it could be explained how a dissipated author could suddenly become an efficient doctor during a strange epidemic.

Don't for one minute cease watching Anne Rourke, daughter of Sam Rourke, the producer, as Fannia, the Sicilian maid. This is only her second appearance in the pictures, but we think that we'll be seeing a lot more of this perceptive blonde and will like her.

Kreisler Inherited the Qualities of a Master

Fritz Kreisler, the great violinist, tickets for whose Madison performance, March 4 are now on sale at Hook Brothers music store, inherited many of the qualities which have gone far to make him the supreme master that he is.

By race he is a Czech, and as such he has inherited that interesting mixture of dreamy languor and fiery romanticism which are the peculiar artistic attributes of the Slavic race. By birth he is a Viennese, and having received his early training and education in that city, he has absorbed the almost gallic vivacity and sparkle characteristic of the Viennese.

Next Week's Films Have Much Variety

Clara Bow, Milton Sills, and Lon Chaney Star

Madison theatre goers will be plenty entertained next week, with an African love story, a bootlegging picture, a marines film, and a style show.

The Strand will start off its week with Milton Sills in "The Silent Lover." The story, which vividly portrays desert scenes, casts Sills as the young lieutenant who comes to the auction block and leaves with the added possession of Viola Dana, a desert slave girl. Another feature of the bill is Charlie Chaplin in "Shoulder Arms."

Starting Wednesday "There You Are," a romance of a timid soul, looking for love in a serious way, comes to the Strand screen. Despite his timidity, Conrad Nagel finally manages to elope with the boss's daughter. Not so bad to delight the feminine eye and to inform the masculine share of the audience just what girls will be wearing this spring, there will be the Manchester Style show.

Zane Grey's latest book, "The Mysterious Rider," will be the basis of the picture coming to the Madison Sunday. Jack Holt, David Torrence, and Betty Jewell make up the main cast. As the manager of the Madison puts it, "It is a typical Zane Grey picture." An interesting fact about the film is that part of the scenes are laid in the valley of fire in southern Nevada and Utah, a spot of picturesqueness and majestic beauty.

Thursday brings to the Madison that much-heralded Lon Chaney picture, "Tell It to the Marines," with Lon Chaney, William Haines, and Eleanore Boardman, and Carmel Myers. This picture was taken in cooperation with the government, and shows the entire Pacific fleet. Other scenes show battles with the Chinese in which 2000 people take part. The entire film is built on a decidedly large scale.

To the Parkway next Sunday comes Clara Bow in "It," an Elinor Glyn story now running in the Cosmopolitan. Antonio Moreno plays the leadig male role. With the Moreno-Bow-Glyn combination — well, better see it. 'Nuff said.

Bert Lytell, long absent from the Madison movie houses, comes to the Parkway Thursday in "Obey The Law," or in other words, "Don't Be a Bootlegger."

And at the Garrick next Sunday Al Jackson's players will present "White Cargo," a tale of love in the tropics of South Africa. In brief, the story tells how four Englishmen are vamped by the vampire, Pombefeyo. Sounds good, doesn't it. Tell you about it next week.

Till then.

An Indian named Naqui, who can write 400 letters on a grain of rice, is coming to America. We wonder where he'll park his car.

Female Impersonation at Parkway Wins Favor

By L. E.

Laugh provoking situations and female impersonation that would make Haresfoot leading women green with envy are the features of the comedy farce, "When the Wife's Away," now playing at the Parkway.

This farce, directed by Frank B. Strayer, and adapted from Douglas Bronston's story by Columbia pictures, is a good cure for the blues. It is slow to get started but once the males in the cast get to impersonating females, the fun starts.

The Winston's are a young married couple who try to put up a prosperous front to get an inheritance from uncle, who has a warlike wife. They rent a fine house, an affair with two crooks who have already rented the house. They finally get the money.

The plot is slipshod and flimsy, but ingenious enough to keep the farce moving. There is nothing of beauty in the show. The settings are simple, the plot is impossible, and the photography is none too good.

It is through the acting that the picture makes its only claim for popular approval. This man, Geo. K. Arthur, who takes the part of Young Winston, the struggling newlywed hopeful for an inheritance, could be the whole show himself, and he has a good supporting cast. He would be the ideal lead for a Haresfoot show. Shown in his own sex, with a cute black mustache, he doesn't look the part of virile aggressive manhood, but put a skirt on him, and he is a dashing, though stumbling young lady, full of vim, vigor, and vitality.

One More "Adventure in Faith"

The Wesley Foundation, 1127 University Avenue, held its first public service in February, 1913. It was a definite "adventure in faith" to attempt to form a University congregation. But the adventure has been justified by the fact that hundreds of people have been called to worship during the fourteen years following.

And now, in February of 1927, we are called to another "adventure in faith." The crowded condition at worship services causes the Wesley Foundation to announce two Sunday morning worship services during the Pre-Easter season. The faith which led the Wesley Foundation in the beginning to undertake its service to the University community now impels to this extension of its work.

Hours of services on February 27 and following:

10-11 A. M. The First Worship Service.

"Taxi, Taxi" is a Good Comedy

Edward Everett Horton is Funny as Usual

By C. G. S.

We are laughing yet—after having seen Edward Everett Horton in "Taxi, Taxi." No, he is not a taxi driver, but an architect, always late to the office, and always in fear of being "canned." One eventful day, he meets the boss's niece; and then unfortunately takes her to a night club—on the same night that the boss, and uncle, is at the same place.

The difficulty in getting a taxi furnishes some exciting scenes, in which the young man buys a stolen cab; and eventually loses his job, and runs off with the girl. The plot is not trite, and Edward Everett Horton does all in his power of natural facial contortions to furnish good comedy.

As comedy, "Taxi, Taxi," does not rely upon farcical situations or upon punning sub-titles to bring a laugh. Edward Everett Horton, with his ability to grin foolishly and to wrinkle up his nose like a school girl, makes the picture funny.

Marion Nixon is a sweet little girl, who reminds us of Norma Shearer, but without the latter's vividness and ability to act. However, she can smile sweetly, and look adoringly at the man with whom she is supposed to be in love, which is all the picture requires.

The rest of the characters were well cast. Lucien Littlefield, the inimitable "soak" of "Twinkletoes" was in the picture—as loveable as ever. Lately we have seen a number of comedies like "Taxi, Taxi"—that is, like it so far as clean and actually funny comedy is concerned. And we hope to see more of them—with comedians such as Edward Everett Horton, Raymond Griffith, Harold Lloyd, and Buster Keaton.

Let old Squire Pipe be the judge...

His HONOR, old Squire Pipe is unquestionably the world's ablest judge of pipe tobaccos. Who else is by nature, training and experience so well-qualified to try a tobacco and hand down a decision on it?... So, in the case of Granger Rough Cut, the plea is that Judge Pipe's verdict be accepted as FINAL!

To make a long brief brief: Character witnesses everywhere have sworn to Granger's sterling quality. Experts have vouched for the superiority of its rough cut. Chemists have testified that the new "glassine-sealed" foil-pouch keeps the tobacco in perfect condition.

Finally, it has been shown that by using this foil-pouch (instead of a costly tin) it is possible to sell Granger at just ten cents. On these arguments Granger rests its case! A couple of pipefuls will convince Squire Pipe that it is the world's greatest pipe tobacco... and any good judge of tobaccos will confirm the decision!

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the foil-pouch package, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

Made for pipes only!

Granger Rough Cut is made by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

PLAN TO PRESENT ORIGINAL PLAYS

Wisconsin Players Will Stage
Productions in New Bascom Theater

To present a program of original one act plays written on this campus is the plan of the Wisconsin Players if acceptable material can be secured from students and faculty members, according to an announcement made by Prof. W. C. Troutman, director of Players, yesterday.

The writing of plays for the purpose will be undertaken by the newly organized Playwright's club, but manuscripts will be accepted from any student or faculty member caring to submit one. A satisfactory manuscript turned in for this program will admit its author to membership in the club.

The plays will be staged in the theater in the new Bascom addition which will become the workshop of the Wisconsin Players. The theater

NATIONAL SECRETARY DIES, CANCEL DANCE

Word was received yesterday by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity of the death of William C. Levere, their national secretary, and widely known man in the Greek world. Mr. Levere had served for thirty years as secretary. A large delegation from the local chapter left for Evanston today to attend the funeral. Due to the death of Mr. Levere, the formal dance, which was to be held at the chapter house tonight, has been cancelled.

The farthest known start is about 1,293,572,675 miles from the earth.

will be ready for use early in April, and it is necessary to have the plays in form for rehearsal before that time.

Plays written by the members of the club are due at the next meeting which will be held on Wednesday, March 8. Mr. Troutman stated that persons outside the membership of the club desiring to submit manuscripts may turn them into him or put them in his mail box in Bascom hall by Tuesday, March 7.

Janet McKellar to Talk Saturday at Belmont Hotel

A field secretary of the Campfire Girls' organization, Janet McKellar, is spending a few days in Madison to address and personally meet women interested in Campfire work. From 2 to 3 o'clock Friday and from 3 to 4 o'clock Monday Miss McKellar will meet university women who wish information concerning the work, at the W. A. A. office in Lathrop hall.

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday Miss McKellar is addressing a special general meeting at the Belmont hotel on "Programs and Campfire Technique."

The class in Camp Leadership will hear Miss McKellar at 4:30 o'clock Monday, fifth floor, Lathrop. All university women who are interested may attend.
