FORENSIC BOARD WILL HOLD SPRING DANCE TOMORROW

Lathrop Affair Takes Place of Jamboree and Charity Ball

Informality will prevail at the all-university spring dance which will be held tomorrow night in Lathrop gymnasium under the auspices of the Forensic board, with the approval of the Union board.

The spring dance will take the place of the annual Jamboree and the Charity ball.

Since men and women will come to this dance, 24 students will act as a floor committee to make introductions. Each member of this committee will wear a red and white ribbon for identification.

"At all other universities and colleges, dances are held in which men and women attend separately to make new acquaintances," George J. Fielder '25, chairman of the committee on arrangements and vice-president of the Forensic board, said last night. "Students have requested that dances of this kind be held at Wisconsin. This will be the only opportunity this year for students to make new acquaintances at an all-university dance. The proceeds will go to the general Forensic board fund."

Music will be furnished by a special 8-piece Thompson orchestra. An attempt is being made to arrange for a number of special features. Refreshments will be served downstairs.

Prof. and Mrs. Robert West will chaperon the dance. To limit the dance to students, those who come will be required to present fee cards at the door. Each persons will be charged 25 cents.

METHODISTS DINE IN FAR EAST ATMOSPHERE

Japanese decorations and oriental songs will be features of the eleventh annual Methodist students' banquet to be held at the Wesley Foundation at 6 o'clock tonight.

Toasts will be given by Lawrence Denyes '25, retiring president of the student cabinet and Arthur Edwards '25, president-elect. Lucius Chase '25, will preside.

Included on the program are Japanese songs by Ryozo Matsumoto '25, selections on the Hawaiian guitar by Peter Lani '26, and songs by Chris Hendra, grad, of the Varsity quartet. The Forum orchestra will play during the dinner.

GARDNER COMES BACK FROM LECTURE TRIP

E. H. Gardner, professor of business administration and English, returned today from Charles City, Iowa, where he delivered a series of lectures on the commerce course before the students of the local high schools and public schools of the city. He conducted conferences for boys especially interested in the subject matter discussed, and helped many in selecting courses helpful in their particular line of work. Mr. Gardner was entertained at the Rotary club for luncheon the day that he spoke there.

CADETS HOLD SECOND PRACTICE FOR REVIEW

Marching around the lower campus twice yesterday afternoon, the cadet corps held its second practice review of the series of four before the final inspection on May 20. The infantry, artillery, and signal corps passed in review while the band played for the march.

Following the review, Lieut. Joseph H. Comstock of the instruction staff of the military department drilled the infantry in various squad movements and in the manual of arms.

Other reviews in preparation for the war department inspection will take place on Thursday, May 8 and Friday, May 16.

ARCHITECTS WORK ON SECOND PLANS

Memorial Union Building Operations Depend on Acceptance of Elevations

"If the architects' second study of the exterior elevation proves satisfactory, the way would seem to be clear for starting the first unit of the Memorial Union building in the very near future," J. D. Phillips, business manager of the university and chairman of the committee on plans said yesterday.

One study of the elevation for the building has already been made, and a second study is under way. The architect, Alexander Eschweiler, of Milwaukee, and State Architect Arthur Peabody, assisted by a program committee and representatives of student organizations, have been busy during the past year completing the plans for the building.

Five sets of plans have been presented and each has been discarded for a more complete and more efficient set. After numerous conferences preparatory to accepting the plans, the committee has finally accepted the last or fifth set. Together with submitting the plans, the architects have submitted elevations and a second study is now under way.

Each plan has been better than the previous one. The first, second, third and fourth plans had the long way of the building perpendicular to the lake. The fifth and accepted plan has the building horizontal to the lake. Various changes were made in the interior of the building, according to Mr. Phillips, the greatest change being in the size of the theatre. Not until the long side of the building was turned toward the lake were the plans accepted.

This building presents a difficult architectural problem, in as much as it must contain a memorial hall, as well as a convocation room, commons element, theatre, offices, etc. While changes in size of the smaller rooms remain to be made after exact studies of the requirements of student organizations, the plans as a whole are fixed, according to Mr. Phillips.

STUDENTS GIVE WHA PROGRAM NEXT WEEK

A radio program presented entirely by students will be broadcasted from WHA on Monday night from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. The program will include Robert Nethercut '24, piano; Katherine Reid '26, soprano, Edward Schager '26, Robert Hill '24, Edward Otis '24, and Oscar Christianson '25 Glee club quartet, and Jane Dudley '25, violin.

Capable Leader Needed to Fulfill Project, Frank Tells 1800 in Armory

That civilization now stands between an old world which is dead and a new world which is being born and that at the sight of the debris of all our ancient traditions we may do three things, beat a panicky retreat to the ancient shelters of the dark ages which are no longer standing, or go gayly on into a completely frivolous age, or turn to a new renaissance, was the essence of the annual Phi Beta Kappa initiation open address delivered by Glenn Frank last night in the armory.

Speaking before an audience of 1800, which crowded the gymnasium to the doors the editor of the Century magazine in a talk on "The Probable Outlook for Western Civilization", declared that he based his hopes for the world more on the third alternative than on either of the other two. He emphasized the necessity for that renaissance to take place within the next five or ten years if civilization is not to return to the dark ages.

The literature which points to the return to the dark ages is the literature of gloom and is characterized by five fears—biological, psychological, administrative, industrial and moral. Unless these five forces are checked we will return to the dark ages, he feels.

Constructive Criticism

At the end of a long period of negative destructive criticism we have come to a period of constructive criticism in which new ideals have been thought out and are ready to be assimilated to be put into practice. The future which will be gay will be based on every one's doing what is fun and performing light-heartedly and unafraid the duties set out.

Mr. Frank's reserve for standing for the renaissance are that a new renaissance is possible—although not probable—and that we have the raw materials for it if we but take the spice out of each of the five divisions of life—divisions comparable to the five fears—and have some great leader—a combination Billy Sunday and Sir Francis Bacon, gather them together and administer them.

And the spice, the essential ideas which must be assimilated? One is that the idea of political nationalism and patriotism as we have known it must give way to cultural nationalism.

"Social, spiritual and intellectual competition must take the place of material competition," he asserted. "We must have economic internationalism instead of political nationalism."

Humanize Education
"Politics should be rationalized, based on scientific knowledge of social problems and statistical study of the results."

That education and science must be humanized, religion socialized and that we must have a well bred race—well bred from the point of view of eugenics, are four other ideas upon which renaissance should be based, according to Mr. Frank.

This renaissance, however, must have a rare leader and upon him will hope rest. But men who have approached the likeness of such a leader have already appeared in this country so that the hope of there being one is not altogether in vain.

The subject of the address was changed from the original, "The Educated Man and the New Politics". Prof. F. C. Sharp of the philosophy department and the recent president of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa introduced the speaker. Prof. C. E. Mendenhall of the physics department has been chosen the new president of the local chapter. So enthusiastic was the crowd to secure seats that some of the places reserved for Phi Beta Kappa members were over run and occupied by the public.

BUSINESS STAFF

All members of the business staff of The Cardinal will meet in the business office at the Union building at 12:50 o'clock this noon.

BADGER SPEAKS AT ANN ARBOR TONIGHT

Crane field Delivers Oration on "A Defense of France" at Contest

Harold A. Crane field '25, will represent Wisconsin in the thirty-fifth annual Northern Oratorical league contest which will be held at Ann Arbor tonight. He will deliver an oration entitled "A Defense of France."

The Northern Oratorical league is composed of the Universities of Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Northwestern, Iowa and Wisconsin. Each university will be represented by one speaker.

In his speech Crane field attempts to justify France's policy in the Ruhr. Germany is portrayed as a militaristic nation in which the old war lords are still clamoring for power. Von Tirpitz is cited as one of the many war leaders who has a large following among the German people.

France must be assured protection against another invasion, he declares. America is indebted to France for the sacrifices that the French people made during the world war.

Crane field won first place in the oratorical contest which was held here last month.

Prof. Andrew T. Weaver, of the Speech department, accompanied Crane field to Ann Arbor where, with five judges from the other Northern Oratorical league universities he will compose the judicial group which will decide the contest. Each judge casts a blank ballot for the speaker from his school.

The winner of the Northern Oratorical league contest will receive a prize of $100, while the speaker who places second will be awarded $50. These awards are made possible by a fund given by ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois in 1901.

Sterling Tracy '22, who represented Wisconsin in 1921 was the last Wisconsin man to win the Northern Oratorical league contest. Other Wisconsin winners are Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Charles Pearce, Max Loeb and Alvin C. Reis.

Wayne Morse '23, who is at present an instructor in the speech department, won second place at Minneapolis last year.

SEND GRIFFITHS' BODY TO ILLINOIS TODAY

Funeral services for Prof. Ira S. Griffith, who died in the Methodist hospital Wednesday afternoon, were held yesterday afternoon in the Frautschi undertaking parlors. This morning the body will be sent for burial to Eureka, Ill., home of Mrs. Griffith.

Prof. Griffith had been director of the courses in industrial education and applied arts since 1920. During his directorship here he broadened the scope of the course in industrial education.

Prof. Griffith enlarged the scope of the course to include personnel management, trade analysis, vocational education, and other courses of like nature.

WAR CONDITIONS START RUSSIAN REVOLT--PARES

Inhuman Treatment of Troops Arouses Nation, is Belief of Englishman

A movement of national indignation at the inhuman treatment of Russian troops who were needlessly slaughtered in the war was the immediate cause of the recent Russian revolution, said Sir Barnard Pares, noted British authority on Russian affairs, in his talk yesterday afternoon in Bascom hall.

"The Russian army fought under iniquitous and inhuman conditions," said Sir Pares, who spoke from personal experience, having spent two years with the Russian army at the front. "They had no guns and no ammunition. They were slaughtered by the Germans. Out of the original 4,000 composing the division I was with, only 120 were left at the end of two years. The Russian casualties were 3,800,000 after 10 months of fighting. Naturally the Russians were indignant and were aroused to revolution. The revolution, when it came, was much bigger to them than the war was."

Uplift Starts in 1861.

The communistic government of an intellectual minority which gave the proletariat what it ought to have and not what it wanted, made the mistake of applying an industrial program to an agricultural country, according to Sir Pares.

The industrial program, which came from Germany, was developed for a factory class, and the factory class in Russia amounted to only one-thirteenth of the entire population. When the communists allowed the peasants to retain a small portion of their wages and required them to give the rest to the state, the peasants refused to raise more products than would meet their own requirements. As a result of this practice, the terrible famines occurred.

"The upward movement in Russian history began in 1861 with the freeing of the serfs," said Sir Pares, "and culminated in the Russian constitution of 1915. A second serfdom began with the village commune, but this disappeared about 1906. The Russian parliament, or дума, was formed in 1905 on the basis of representation from the entire Russian Empire. The Russians had had only about 10 years of experience in governing when the autocracy fell in 1917."

Rasputin Influences Czar.

Sir Pares cleared the memory of Empress Alexandra of any scandals. He stated that he had edited her letters to her husband and found that she was not a pro-German.

"Rasputin was the real leader of Russia," declared Sir Pares. "The empress believed him to be the 'man of God' ordained to save Russia. Through his influence the empress forced the czar to get rid of the Liberal leaders, take over the army from the control of the Grand Duke, who was a popular man in Russia, and overthrow the constitutional movement."

"Since 1921 Russia has been in what I call the 'hide and seek' period," stated Sir Pares. "It is now engaged in the work of reconstruction and is eagerly seeking for experts and specialists to help restore the ruined country."

KASPER ELECTED HEAD OF JUNIOR "Y" COUNCIL

Officers for the Junior council of the Y. M. C. A. were elected at the last meeting of the Sophomore commission yesterday noon.

Carl Kasper '26, was elected president, Edwin C. Morganroth '26, was chosen vice-president, and Roland Willey '26, was elected to be the secretary for the coming year.

Morganroth was appointed chairman of the decorations committee for the Kenneth Sterling Day award convocation to be held in Music hall at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening.

GUARD PROPERTY OF H. S. ATHLETES

Men Will Watch Special Locker Rooms Assigned to 19 Teams

Everything possible will be done to watch the valuables and the equipment of the high schools athletes at the First Annual Inter-scholastic Relay carnival to be held at Camp Randall tomorrow afternoon. David Taub '25, is in charge of the field arrangements.

Taub '25.

Special sections of the locker rooms will be set aside for each of the 28 high schools that are entered in the carnival. The names of the high school will be placed over the section of lockers.

"Each athlete will have his own locker. We are having university men watch the locker rooms when the men are competing on the field. This is to insure that the valuables will be safe in the lockers. David Taub '25, chairman of the field arrangements, said yesterday.

This committee had charge of the selection of the field judges and other officials for the events. Faculty members and "W" men were elected to officiate. To bring the faculty and the university athletes closer together is one of the reasons for the choice of men.

The other members of the committee assisting Taub are Mark C. Porter '25, Willmarth L. Jackman '25, Howard J. Lee '27, Stanley E. Kalish '27, and Sidney McGuthenstein '27.

Juniors Nominate For Blue Dragon at Spring Banquet

Nominations for Blue Dragon, senior women's class organization, will be made at the annual spring banquet of Yellow Tassel on Tuesday, in Lathrop parlors. Helen J. Baldauf '25, will act as general chairman of arrangements, assisted by Dorothy Marshall '25, chairman of tickets; Mary Devine '25, chairman of speakers; Dorothy John '25, chairman of class songs, and Margaret Knauf '25, in charge of food.

A representative committee of junior women will make one recommendation for each of the offices of president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer of Blue Dragon. Open nominations will be received from the floor.

Tickets for the banquet may be obtained for 75 cents each from Dorothy Marshall. They will be on sale at the S. G. A. office until Monday. All reservations must be made by Monday noon in order that necessary arrangements can be made. Several short speeches will be given during the dinner, and the joint class song for senior swingout will be presented and practiced.

Library Students Furnish Copy For Home Institutions

Newspapers in 23 Wisconsin cities were furnished with news material on their local public libraries by the student librarians from the Wisconsin Library school, who were engaged in field practice work in those libraries, during the months of February and March. A bulletin board covered with clippings, now on display in the library school shows the work the students did in "putting over the libraries."

Feature articles, lists of new books, selected books on certain subjects, items on certain book exhibits, lists of books on gardening, books for Lenten reading, books for children, books of interest to men, books that appeal to women, were among the special stories prepared and published in the newspapers. Some 37 library students from the library school were assigned to libraries in 24 different Badger communities for eight weeks. Each student had appointments in two libraries.

Where do they take all the dirt they get when they dig these deep holes along State street? It's all going out to Camp Randall on the south end of the stadium where a new field is being made.

Almost two dozen new tennis balls were used in the meet with Marquette yesterday.

Luke Says: There ain't nothing more interesting than to watch a certain member of the tennis team (no names mentioned) play a match while he is chewing gum. Every time he hits the ball hard that poor gum gets another dirty dig from his molars.

TENNIS MEN WIN
5 OF 7 MATCHES,
BEST MARQUETTEMoulding and Sah Outstanding
Players; Horshak Good
For Hilltoppers

By winning five of the seven matches the Wisconsin net men handily defeated the racqueteers from Marquette university. This match was to have been played last Saturday, but was postponed until yesterday on account of the rain of the last week end.

The outstanding men of the match were Captain Art Moulding and Peter Sah, the Chinese star. In his single match with Horshak, Marquette, Moulding had a little difficulty in getting under way and lost the first set, but he staged a beautiful comeback in the last two sets and won his match.

Sah played a brilliant singles game. By using his deadly chop strike to good advantage he kept his opponent running from one side of the court to the other continually. His placing of shots was excellent. Time after time he sent over fast ones that just placed inside the court.

Stebbins and Groenert also played a good singles game and were superior to the Hilltop men in every phase of the game. Crane, the other singles player, was not up his usual form and he lost the only singles match for Wisconsin.

In the doubles matches the Badgers and Hilltoppers split even. Manierre and Stebbins playing for Wisconsin gave a beautiful exhibition, coordinating their team work at all times. Capt. Moulding and Sah, paired together in the other doubles match, did not fare so well, losing to Marquette in the first two sets. Their playing was ragged at times and team work was missing.

The summary of the meet follows:

Singles.

Moulding (W) won from Horshak (M) 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Sah (W) won from Delaney (M) 6-2, 6-0.

Groenert (W) from Smith (M) 6-4, 1-6, 6-4.

Stebbins (W) won from Leichtfuss (M) 6-4, 6-3.

Frank (M) won from Crane (W) 6-3, 6-0.

Doubles.

Manierre and Stebbins (W) won from Frank and Smith (M) 7-5, 6-3.

Moulding and Sah (W) lost to Horshak and Leichtfuss (M) 9-7, 6-4.

Plans are under consideration for a match with Northwestern this Saturday. This will be Wisconsin's first baptism of fire in Big Ten competition.

RELAY RUNNERS
BEGIN TO ARRIVE

Contestants in the first annual University of Wisconsin interscholastic relay carnival will begin to arrive in Madison this afternoon, according to word given out at the gymnasium yesterday.

Hyde Park high school, Chicago, Ill., and North Division high school, Milwaukee, Wis., will motor to Madison early this afternoon, while Escanaba, Mich., Waukegan Township, Waukegan, Ill., and West Division, Milwaukee, Wis., will arrive on the evening trains.

"I trust that university students will welcome these athletes who are going to participate in the first middle west high school meet at Camp Randall tomorrow afternoon," said Arthur W. Trost '24, general chairman. "We want these track men to get a good impression of the university upon their first visit to Madison, and I hope that a large crowd will be in attendance when the first event takes place at 1:30 o'clock Saturday."

Tickets for the relay carnival will be placed on sale at the gymnasium this noon. The seats have been arranged in sections for university students, high school pupils, and grammar school children.

TENNIS FANS SIGN
FOR COURT PLAYRegistration Hours Listed;
Players Can Sign Three Days Ahead

Student registration at the gym for tennis courts is now on in full earnest, and the various net fans among the men are starting this year's work with a bang.

Many of the students, however, have come to sign up at the wrong time for their courts. For this reason the intramural department has asked that players remember registration hours. Courts may be signed for on any week day between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, 12 and 1:20 o'clock, 3:30 and 6:30 o'clock.

Arrangements have been made allowing fans to sign for three days ahead. One hour periods of play, however, is the limit set for each party.

The courts open to students are 12 in number. Three are located at University and Park streets, three at Breeze Terrace, and six at Warren street and Camp Randall. For the facility of the Intramural department these courts are numbered from 1 to 12 and assigned accordingly.

Courts will be open for play from 1 to 7 o'clock week days and from 7 to 7 o'clock Sundays.

GOLF TEAM OFF FOR FRAYS WITH
ILLINOIS, PURPLESuckers Doped to Win Match;
New Jackets For Badger
Players

The Badger golf team entrained at 4:10 o'clock this morning for Champaign where it will meet the Illinois aggregation in a dual match followed by a match with Northwestern at Evanston Monday. The men who will play for Wisconsin are Captain Bock, Shields, Stegeman and Spear.

The team will arrive on the Illinois campus at noon and practice on the course there during the afternoon in preparation for the match tomorrow, which will last throughout the day, each man playing 36 holes. The Nassau system of scoring will be used throughout the meet.

Have Week's Practice.

Illinois is given the edge on Wisconsin in view of the fact that they have been working as a team for five weeks while the Badgers have only worked one week. Rival Rolf, captain of the Illinois squad and champion of the conference last year, and Jack Humphrey, national left-handed golf champion, are the two men Illinois bases her hopes on. Captain Bock and the members of his team, however, have been working hard during the past week and have turned out some exceptionally good scores on the Maple bluff course.

Coach T. E. Jones has sent a surprise to Illinois ahead of the team. When the men arrive at the course for the match tomorrow, they each will be given a distinctive red jacket. Diminutive white "W"s and crossed golf clubs are sewed on both sides of the jacket.

The team will leave for Evanston Saturday night following the match at Illinois. They will practice at the Evanston country club Sunday and play Northwestern Monday. Singles will be played during the morning and doubles in the afternoon.

Even after all these fraternity initiations some people still think that a cemetery is a place where they bury people.

WHEN WILL OUR SHIP COME IN?

With the constant reoccurring, but still indefinite discussion on the possibility of Wisconsin being represented at the Poughkeepsie regatta at the east, the thought persists in arising that somewhere, somehow, there is not only a great game of "pass the buck" going on, but also that an unfair discrimination against the crew sport is being perpetrated.

The situation seems to be that Wisconsin can go east "if it stands a good chance of winning." Aside from the fact that this attitude is in contradictory policy to the expressed one of "being in the game for the game's sake" rather than just for a championship, this statement obviously throws the entire question of whether the crew goes or not upon the statement of one man, the coach. The coach of course is loath to make any recommendations as to just in what position his men will place. The university requires no such guarantee from other coaches from their various sports. Indeed, criticism might correctly be hurled at the coach who assayed before a season to point out just where his team would place.

On Wisconsin's crew this year there are four men who have rowed the past three years without ever taking a trip. On the score of reward alone, in comparison with other sports, it would seem that these men merited a journey to the Hudson. In the face of the work of these men, and in cognizance of Coach Vail's legitimate hesitancy in making a recommendation, it would seem that some authoritative body ought to take this matter under immediate advisement and decide the question, publishing reasons if an adverse decision to the trip is given.

There is one point beyond this, however, and that is that granted that Wisconsin's crew men at the present time may be a bit inferior to what we have had in the past or what other universities have, how can there be development along this line of sport without incentive? An annual and established trip to the east every spring would attract crew athletes to Wisconsin and would speedily build up a personnel of high calibre.

A UNIQUE POSITION

Wisconsin will hold a unique position in the athletic world when the First Annual Interscholastic Relay carnival takes place here this weekend. Other universities have their annual relay carnivals in which institutions of higher learning compete. Other institutions have their carnivals in which secondary institutions and institutions of higher learning compete. But so far, Wisconsin is the only university in the country that has its all secondary school relay carnival.

It is not to be expected that the relay carnival this year will assume any great proportions as far as number of entries is concerned or will set up as being one of the great track events of the year.

It is in its infancy. From all indications, however, it will be one of the great track events of the year and will assume quite sizable proportions. At any rate, in a few years time it will be comparable to the Penn and Drake relays and even a more important affair as far as the high schools are concerned.

Upon the students and townspeople, however, depends the future of the relay carnival. For all expenses are being paid by the gate receipts and unless the students and townspeople give their whole-hearted support to those who are running in the meet, its repetition in years to come is doubtful.

Some of the outstanding high school athletes in the country and especially around these parts will be on hand to compete here this week end and will provide sufficient cause for interest among the students so that the matter of giving support can not be compared to charity in any manner whatsoever. There will be entertainment aplenty.

It has been said that Wisconsin would have many more students if high school youths could only be brought to Madison to find out what they miss by going elsewhere for their education. This statement is very true, and such events as the relays provide an excellent excuse for high school students to visit us.

It has also been said that Wisconsin does not need a greater quantity of students nor a greater quantity of athletes lest it become so intent on achieving athletic success that educational success is lost sight of. Such all high school events as the basketball tournament and the relays, however, bring to Wisconsin more than athletes. With them usually come staunch groups of supporters whom Wisconsin would do well to enroll. We pride ourselves on being cosmopolitan here. Then let us encourage more students from other states to come to Wisconsin. The support of the relays will be one form of encouraging them.

Student autoists have often been warned about speeding on Langdon street. Now a new warning to them must be issued about observing the arterial highway regulations. The police are on the war path and are especially on the lookout this week. But don't think that you can be careless after this week. They're apt to fool you and start the drive again at any moment.

The "Subscriber" who knows logic like a master brings wrinkles to the head of the editorial writer who is only a novice in the business, despite the fact that the "Subscriber" may be responsible for all the writer knows.

"Fore!" That's the war cry of the engineers and lawyers these days. It's effective too, for the knickers are rapidly disappearing. And the fact that they disappear shows that the wearers are mortally afraid of razzing.

Speaking of the knicker razzing, however, it might be observed that those people who call other people children very often prove themselves to be somewhat immature.

Other Editors Say—

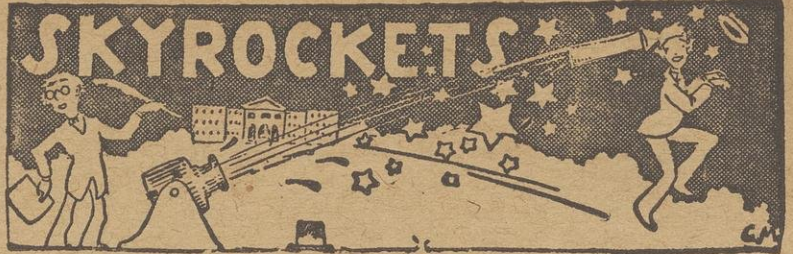

MODERN FAILURES.

It was just after the French revolution. England and France, as usual, were engaged in a war, with the French triumphant on the continent, but the English ruling the sea. A French army was gathered on the northwest coast of France, waiting for a chance to cross that small body of water that has saved England so often. A French fleet was blockaded in the harbor at Brest.

Then came an event that almost spelled ruin for England. Her fleet mutinied. For a full week England was defenseless, but France never knew until it was too late. A ship of the once all-powerful English fleet remained loyal, and for a week it sailed up and down before the harbor at Brest, signaling furiously and making all sorts of preparations. And the French, believing a whole English fleet was about to attack, remained secure in their harbor, while England quelled the mutiny and regained control of the channel.

One ship had saved England by a colossal bluff. But that was the time of the French revolution. Nowadays airships would tell that there was only one ship. Radio would broadcast the announcement of the mutiny. Big guns stationed on the shore would hell the one lone ship 20 miles away. Bluffs are impossible under the pressure of modern efficiency.

And so it goes. A bluffer may "get by" for a while, but when he runs up against a combine of efficiency and scientific knowledge, his cause is lost. In the new scheme of things, in twentieth century life, there is room only for those who are prepared, who are "there with the goods." Bluffs worked in the time of Napoleon, but not in the time of Edison, Marconi, and others of their type.—Michigan Daily.

The Reader's Say-So

DO Churches Fear Education?
Editor, The Cardinal:

In criticism of your editorial headed "Churches fear Education," allow me to say the heading is very obviously untrue. Your statement that "The churches teach that religion and education are incompatible" scarcely needs refuting, yet some unthinking or uninformed persons might be misled.

Most people know that the church has been mother of education and still is on the job. The churches maintain most of the greatest and thousands of the smaller institutions of learning in this and many other lands, and the graduates of Christian schools have filled most of the great and honorable places in state and nation for centuries.

The state is only a novice in the educational field. For many years state schools had to turn to the church entirely for leaders in tax supported schools. They could not get on today if all such were to be withdrawn.

Now really, is it good sportsmanship and clear thinking to say, because a few individuals are criticising certain theories that have been advanced in education, such as Evolution, that "the church fears education?"

"Evolution" is a kind of India rubber word that covers a multitude of loose conclusions and will need a great deal of work done before the "theory" can be made to stand as truth.

Personally, I am far from being a "Fundamentalist", but I believe they have been used in the restating of some poorly worked out theories, and that they are doing good by making a challenge of the right of men who claim to "know nothing" about religion, posing as authority in that which is purely a matter of religion.

Question: Are the fundamentalists any more afraid of evolution than universities of state control are of teaching religion? Would it not make a great commotion if all churches should unite in demanding that the University of Wisconsin require a complete course in the English Bible before graduation?

When is a university not a university? Answer, when for any reason it does not teach in a comprehensive way, that most universal branch of learning known under the general name of Religion.

Tekes and Tumas
Give Very Unusual
Parties Tonight

There will be several unusual parties given this evening, among the most unusual of these is the one being given by Tau Kappa Epsilon—a Bohemian costume party. Tumas is also giving a big feature party, the girls who are to attend do not, as is the custom for the spring Tumas party, know who has invited them, and for the first part of the evening all Tumas members go hooded. About the middle of the evening they unmask and the girls find out the identity of their partner.

Tau Kappa Epsilon.

The members of Tau Kappa Epsilon will present their annual costume ball this evening. It will be a Bohemian party, the costumes being furnished by Lester, of Chicago. They consist of artists' smocks and tam-o-shanters in a galaxy of Bohemian colors. The decorations will harmonize with the Bohemian spirit; one room will be transformed into an artist's studio. A buffet luncheon will be served during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mirich have been asked to chaperon.

Tumas.

Members of Tumas will entertain this evening at an informal dancing party at the Alpha Tau Omega house. The first part of the evening the members will be hooded, they will unmask later in the evening and reveal their identity to their partners. Mr. and Mrs. Daman Brown will chaperon the party.

Gamma Phi Beta.

Members of Gamma Phi Beta are to entertain this evening at a formal dancing party. Spring flowers and candles will be used in decorating the house. Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Sullivan and Mrs. Tallman will chaperon.

Delta Pi Delta.

An informal dancing party will be held at the Delta Pi Delta house this evening. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Miller have been invited to chaperon.

Gamma Eta Gamma.

An informal dinner dance is to be given by members of Gamma Eta Gamma at the Monona hotel this evening. Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Broothem and Dean and Mrs. H. S. Richards are to chaperon.

Members of Sigma Kappa are giving their spring formal at the Cameo room this evening. Miss Marian Calking and Mrs. C. D. Se Cheverell have been invited to chaperon.

Beta Sigma Pi.

A formal dinner dance will be given at the Beta Sigma Pi house tonight. Decorations will be in old rose and silver. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Baker will chaperon.

Coranto.

Coranto will entertain tonight at a formal dancing party at their chapter house. Mrs. M. C. Besley will chaperon the affair.

Campus Comment

The Haresfoot initiation stunts were unusually good last night, both because of the variety and novelty of them and of the special adaptability of the men to play the parts assigned to them. That's what comes of being in a dramatic society. Johnny Mac Causland was especially delightful as Firpo, and Bunny Lyons' interpretation of the role of cupid would be hard to duplicate.

Recommendations for Mortar Board are being gone over by the present members. The night of senior swingout is the time for the naming of the new members, and with this time only a little way off one hears a great deal of comment as to who the lucky and deserving girls will be. It must be a great feeling to make Mortar Board or Phi Beta—wonder what it would feel like to make both. Ros Nolte is about the only one we know of who would be able to describe the feeling.

Speaking of Phi Beta reminds us that they held their initiation last night. There must have been an extra feeling of gratification to the new members to have a man like Glenn Frank present at their initiation.

We're glad we're not a cadet these days. It must be pretty ho and tiresome to be marched around for an hour or two on days when caning would be much more in order. It's doubtless all for a good cause, however—at least we've no reason for saying it won't be. Judging from yesterday's performance it ought to be a very imposing sight when the real regimental review is given later.

If there's anything you think of that maybe others would like to think of too, send it in to us, and we'll be glad to give them a chance through this column.

Castalia Plans
Alumnae Banquet
For Monday Night

In celebration of its sixtieth anniversary on the Wisconsin campus, Castalia Literary society has planned an alumnae banquet to be held on Monday night in Lathrop parlors.

Founded in 1864, Castalia is the first women's organization to be established at the university, having been formed a year after co-education was inaugurated at Wisconsin. Helen J. Baldauf '25, president, declared yesterday.

A large number of Madison alumnae are expected to attend the banquet, an annual affair held each spring to promote socialability in the club and acquaintance with local alumnae. Mrs. Lathrop Smith '64, first secretary of Castalia, is a Madison resident and will be the chief speaker on Monday evening. She will recount memoirs of the origin of the literary society and present some interesting sidelights on the birth and growth of co-education at Wisconsin.

Arrangements for the banquet are in charge of Alpha Roth, chairman of arrangements, Ethel Druse '25, and Mildred Rooney '25, alumnae, Marian Telford '25, tickets, Edna Walter '25, refreshments, Margaret Meyer '25, decorations. A formal anniversary dance will be held on May 9 at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house.

SPECIAL CASTS FEATURE COMING MADISON SHOWS

By H. E. R.

Features containing some of the best movie actors and actresses in the game who act in some of the best stories recently written will be shown in Madison theaters next week.

The Strand is ushering in a Cosmopolitan surprise picture labeled "The Great White Way". Anita Stewart, T. Roy Barnes, Arthur Brisbane, Tex Rickard, Irvin S. Cobb, H. C. Witwer and Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. and his entire Follies chorus are but a few of the large cast that attract everyone's attention. The last half of the week will bring Mabel Normand back to Madison in "The Extra Girl" a Mack Sennett comedy of many laughs.

"If Winter Comes" the dramatized story written by the author of Main Street will be shown at the Parkway the first five days of the week. Percy Marmont, Ann Forest and William Riley Hatch are the principals in this picture. On Friday the movie screen will be raised in order that Raymond Hitchcock can appear in his wonderfully successful comedy, "The Old Soak." Our advice is to see it.

Lenore Ulric in her latest picture will appear at the Madison all of next week in the "Tiger Rose". This is a story of the North-West Mounted police, and is good.

At the Majestic Charles "Buck" Jones will feature in "Hell's Hole" the first part of the week, and "Cause for Divorce" a social melodrama will appear the last half.

The Dorothy Lavern Players will continue with their presentation of past successes by enacting "Polly Preferred" a gay comedy of the movies written by Guy Bolton.

The inauguration of National Music week will be made by the Parkway orchestra, composed of eighteen pieces, which will give a concert from 12:30 to 1:30, Sunday noon, playing all classical numbers.

PLAYS OF HOME FOLKS SUCCEED ON BROADWAY

While the movies are turning to the spectacle drama in Fairbank's "Thief of Bagdad" and Griffith's "America", the predominating type of legitimate play on Broadway is about the simple people one meets in everyday life.

"Sun Up", a tale of the Kentucky mountaineers' reaction to the war, "Rain", realistic but dramatic dirt, and "The Nervous Wreck" have been playing for several months.

The new plays of common folk appear to be as successful as the others, "The Show Off", "The Pottery", "Cheaper to Marry," and "Meet the Wife."

CASTALIA

There will be a regular meeting of Castalia Literary society at 7 o'clock tonight in the lecture room, fifth floor Lathrop hall. Final arrangements for the banquet will be made.

Upstage Bits

By TORMENTOR

Now that all the noise about the Haresfoot show has blown over, we can laugh with unmitigated glee at the critic Robert T. —, for liking the Argentine dance the best of all when we know darn well that the dance was cut out of the show the second day out on the trip.

Bill Purnell tells us that the greatest come back in years is Eva Tanguay of vaudeville fame. Her clothes are made by the costumers of the Haresfoot show, Lester of Chicago.

Even the drama got a little heavy for Prof. Prye the other day and he took a vacation and cut class "just for fun."

Scene: U. W. Library

Critic's impression: Dumb show

Louis Mann is at the Parkway this week end. The Haresfoot club will attend in a body but they aren't saying whether Mann is a member of the club or not.

Something fatalistic, that Micky McGovern should play the leading part on Comedy Night in "The Constant Lover."

Way back in high school we said that some day Jack Harrington would make his mark in the world. And now he's president of Wisconsin players.

The Haresfoot club came right down in front, over the footlights, so to speak, last night in their initiation, so nothing apropos to an "Up Stage" column developed out of the incident.

PATROLMEN TEAR DOWN SIGNS ON HIGHWAYS

Seventy-five patrolmen of Dane county began removing signs along the highways of the county yesterday, carrying out the ultimatum issued by John R. Caldwell, county highway commissioner.

The patrolmen tore signs from trees and poles and fences, piling up metal and wooden signs to be removed and destroyed.

That the patrolmen would have all the signs removed by night was the prediction of Fred Sawtelle, county highway engineer. No effort was made to resist the work of the patrolmen.

Drama Course Succeeds As No One Ever Expected It To

By CHATTY

When members of the English department were discussing the program for this year's courses some mention was made of scheduling a course in dramatic technique. Prof. Louis A. Cooper had taught such a course at Ohio State University and it was thought that he would be able to carry it on here. Accordingly the course was scheduled — scheduled we say, because it was not believed that more than two or three students would sign up for it if that many.

At the final count 28 students were found to be enrolled in dramatic technique. Quite a surprise! Right!

And so throughout the year these students have been studying the drama, preparing to write their own plays and writing them just as Baker's famous Forty-Seven Workshop people have been doing for a number of years.

Now that the end of the year is drawing near Professor Cooper has in his hands a number of scenarios for plays, which he believes may be worked out by their authors into excellent presentable fashion and he hopes that they may be produced on the campus and perhaps some of the best published, if not in the Lit, at least some where.

During the first semester the students took up the longer plays, considering Ibsen's technique in particular since he is an ideal technician.

"Othello" as the norm in drama was especially considered.

"We have been finding how to select plots from newspaper items," Professor Cooper said yesterday. "Some of the members of the class have been dramatizing short stories. We take up dialogue writing, character sketching, the general theme of plays and the completing of certain set situations."

At Ohio Professor Cooper required that every student prepare a scenario for a play before being admitted to the course. But it did not seem practicable to institute this custom the first year of the course was given here.

A scenario requirement would seem the best plan for such a course. It is impossible for students to write more than a one act play while carrying his other work, but if they could have the play all planned with a scenario, they would be able to work it out under the guidance of an instructor and at the same time carry on their other school work.

Every student who is admitted to Professor Baker's course at Harvard is required to submit a completed one act play before he is allowed to enter the course at all.

Professor Cooper said that a number of the students in dramatic technique are planning to compete for the $200 prize for the best written student play offered by the Dorothy LaVerne stock company.

Clergy Finds Morcal In "Spring Cleaning"

BY J. V. M.

"Spring Cleaning," the comedy by Frederick Lonsdale that is now in its twenty-seventh week at the Eltinge theater, New York, is not the type of play one would expect a clergyman to endorse, yet two have found praise for it already.

They are said to be two of the most distinguished doctors of divinity in New York. (They want their names to be kept a secret, however). Each was asked his candid opinion.

"I believe it is a kind of play that helps. There is no doubt in my mind of its moral value," wrote one.

"It is unusually clean, though it deals with a difficult problem. I did not find in it uncalled for allusion or suggestive line," wrote another.

The play is peopled by a fast set in fashionable society. Whatever their morals may be, they are an interesting lot, even to the good young wife who is in danger of falling into their ways, the flapper of eighteen who is less dangerous than she seems, and the young wife's model husband.

Into this group a "street walker" is and makes it possible to point the ever-present moral before the last curtain.

"WILD ORANGES" ONE OF YEAR'S GREAT PICTURES

By J. F. W.

This picture is concrete evidence of what can be done with a few characters and a total abstinence from the well loved mob scenes. There are only six people and one dog in "Wild Oranges" the smallest cast in a picture shown here in a long time, we ween. The dog is mentioned only because he helps dispose of the villain.

All in all it's the best picture that has hit these parts in many a weary day. The plot, for once sensible and rational and yet enjoyable, the characters, the setting—everything is way above par. One hunts for flaws in vain, the picture is good, and that's all that can be said about it.

Much attention is paid to detail. The hundreds of feet of film usually wasted in lengthy introduction of characters and for mob scenes, needless captions, have been given to the reproduction of detail that simply makes the picture. The rocking of a chair is shown with great care, so is the flapping of a shingle on the roof.

VERNON OBTAINED FOR LIBRARY FETE

Professor of Biography at Carlton College Will Speak
Tomorrow

Prof. A. W. Vernon, chairman of the department of biography at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., will speak on "The New Interest in Biography" at the seventeenth annual May day fete of the Library school in the auditorium of the city library building tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The lecture is open to the public.

Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick, librarian of the public library of St. Louis, Missouri, will also be present to give a short talk. Prof. Carl Russell Fish, director of the course in humanities, will introduce the speakers.

The department of biography which Professor Vernon has established at Carleton college is the first to be organized in the academic world. As stated by the Carleton bulletin, the department was founded to acquaint the student with some of the noblest characters of the ages and to make clear to him, on the basis of historical evidence, what factors contribute to human greatness.

The department has ten courses. Some of them are "Great Americans", "The Personality of Jesus", "English Letter Writers", "Outstanding Modern Europeans", "Great Educators", and "Great Personalities of Antiquity."
