PICK PROGRAMS AND FAVORS FOR 1925 PROMENADE

Committee Selects Designs and Places Order For 750

A telescopic cigarette case and a combination pocketbook and card case, both in black leather, have been selected as favors for Promgoers by the program committee working under Gordon Lewis '25, chairman.

Both favors have the university seal embossed on them and programs are attached to each.

A number of companies submitted designs for programs and favors and after a careful consideration the committee selected the favors designed by the Charles H. Elliott Co., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The committee has already placed orders for 750 pairs of favors. Promgoers, if they expect favors, should have their tickets ordered by January 25, as this is the latest possible date for the program committee to reorder favors.

As the committee has a limited fund to use on favors no more favors will be ordered than there are tickets sold by this date.

The favors are thought to be the best that have been had at any Prom in the past considering the amount paid for them.

"Orders for Prom tickets which include orders for programs and favors will be taken by mail sometime after the vacation," Lewis said. "The date for placing the orders will be announced later."

LAW PROFESSORS TO GO TO CHICAGO CONVO

All professors of the Law School will attend the convention of the Association of American Law Schools in Chicago on December 27, 28 and 29 with the exception of Howard L. Smith. Those attending are: Harry S. Richards, Dean of the Law School, Frank T. Boesel, William H. Paige, William G. Rice, R. A. Brown, Oliver S. Rundell, John B. Sanborn and John D. Wickham. Professors Richards and Paige will give talks concerning the Wisconsin Law school.

GRIDIRON HEROES TO RECEIVE GIFTS

All Sorts of Toys Will Please Hearts of Gridders and Youngsters

To the victors belong the spoils, and they will receive them Saturday night when the Christmas tree at the Co-Op will be undecorated and the gifts hanging on it will be given to the football men for whom they are marked.

Dolls, drums, horses, street cars, stick candy and all sorts of toys to delight childish hearts will fall to the lot of the manly eleven. One of the most prominent gifts is that to go to "Gus" Tebell and students are wondering if it is his "hobby" or a coincidence.

Among those who are to be the lucky recipients of Saint Nick's favors are Irish, Teckmeyer, Bieberstein, Holmes, Nichols, Eagleburger, Taft, Below, Harris, Nelson, Benton and Williams.

Of course, owing to the desire of numerous youngsters in this city to participate in the affair before Saturday night and their eagerness to play with the toys belonging to "our heroes" it may be that some of the gifts will be missing, but the members of the team will have the consolation of knowing that they were thought of, at any rate.

Engineers' Chorus To Sing At Christmas Gathering Tonight

All Members of the Engineering School Invited to Attend

The engineers chorus and orchestra which have been practicing under the direction of Professor Gordon of the Extension Division will lead the singing in the annual engineer's Christmas gathering which will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in Music hall.

Dean A. V. Millar, who has arranged the program, announces that everything is set for this annual event.

Besides the singing of Christmas songs several individual numbers have also been included.

The program will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock. Dean Turneure will preside and President Birge will give a short Christmas talk. The sing will be over at 8:30 o'clock.

All engineers, members of the engineering faculty, employees in the College of Engineering, and their wives have been invited. The gathering is an annual one and is becoming one of the traditions of the college.

CHORAL UNION TO SING "MESSIAH"

Handel's Oratorio to Be Given in Music Hall This Afternoon

More than 100 singers will present solos and choruses from "The Messiah" in the Choral union's first semester concert at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in Music hall. The concert is open to the public.

Eleven choruses and eight solos will be given under the direction of Prof. P. W. Dykema, with Miss Frances Landon, instructor of piano in the School of Music, as accompanist. The solo parts will be taken by Katherine Reid '26, soprano, Mrs. John A. James, contralto, William E. Ross, tenor, and David F. MacPherson '27, bass.

The choruses from the oratorio to be sung are the "Hallelujah" chorus, "And the Glory of the Lord," "For Unto Us a Child is Born," "Glory to God," "His Yoke is Easy," "Behold, the Lamb of God," "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs," "And With His Stripes We Are Healed," "All We Like Sheep Have Gone Astray," "Since by Man Came Death," and "Worthy Is the Lamb."

The solos to be presented will be "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" and "There Were Shepherds Abiding in the Fields" by the soprano; "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" and "He Was Despised" by the alto; "Comfort Ye My People," "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart," and "Behold and See If There Be Any Sorrow" by the tenor; and "Thus Saith the Lord" by the bass.

"The Messiah" Handel's most successful and best known oratorio, is also one of the most popular of all oratorios given at the present time. Handel, during his own life, brought out "The Messiah" every year in London. It has remained in public favor ever since. Beginning with the later eighteenth century, arrangements were made from "The Messiah" and took the place of the original to a great extent. At the present time, however, musicians have gone back to the original form of Handel. This original form is used by the Choral union in their concert numbers.

WOLF HOME IS OPEN TO FOREIGN STUDENTS

Observing his annual custom, Frederick E. Wolf, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will entertain all students from foreign countries who remain in Madison over the holidays, at his home, 2154 Keyes avenue, on Christmas Eve. A Christmas tree will be one of the several entertaining features and a program will be given. Students from Belgium and India will talk on conditions existing in those countries.

"In past years" Mr. Wolf said. "We have had from forty to sixty at our Christmas party. I hope as many may attend this year."

Some time during vacation, an Indian dinner will be held by students from India, at the Wolf home. A typical Indian meal, composed entirely of native dishes, will be prepared and served by the students themselves. The date has not yet been announced.

She's Late, Loved And Hated—Have You Noticed Her?

Have you seen her? She's the funniest thing!

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without her. She's as much a part of the season as holes are of doughnuts.

All Madisonians know her and hate her while they like her. Although they send special invitations to her night and day, they almost dread her coming. And at that, she's as slow as salt when it rains; but no one ever seems to get impatient. They all wait amused because she comes as regularly every Christmas as dear old Santa himself.

She's world-famous, by the way. Czechoslovakia knows her as well as Hongkong, although they give her different names. And old! Why, she's older than Midas' wife, if he had one.

Oh, she's funny! Have you seen her, Miss Last Minute Christmas Shopper?

FOUNDER'S DAY MEETINGS ASKED FOR BY GARDNER

Calls on Students to Encourage Alumni Gatherings February 5

"Carry the Wisconsin spirit to Wisconsin alumni" Prof. E. H. Gardner said to a representative group of fifty students who met Sunday night at the A. T. O. house on the call of the Union Board.

The meeting was composed of students from towns in Wisconsin and other states where there are or will be alumni clubs. The students were asked by Professor Gardner to talk to the officers of local alumni clubs and prominent alumni during the Christmas holidays, and ask them to have meetings of the local clubs on Founder's Day, February fifth.

"Older men are interested in you young men and so no one can interest them in the university as can a young and enthusiastic student. That is why you men can do more good talking to your local alumni than can any of the rest of us," Professor Gardner said.

That the university is not asking anything, but is offering the alumni a chance to once more become a living part of the university was also brought out by the speaker.

"The plan is to have the Wisconsin alumni all over the country celebrate the university's birthday during the same week," the speaker in closing said.

VETO FAVOR GIVING AT INDIANA PARTIES

The Indiana university men's panhellenic council has passed a resolution abolishing the giving of favors at all parties and social functions. The keen competition among fraternities as to which one could present the best souvenirs made such action advisable.

CROWDS OVER-FLOW VARSITY CONCERT

University Orchestra Gives Exceptional Program in Music Hall

The university orchestra, assisted by Edward N. Otis '24, baritone, gave a program of selections from the best orchestral works, in a concert in Music hall auditorium Sunday afternoon.

The orchestra played to a crowd that filled the hall and even the stairways of the auditorium. Many people were unable to get into the building.

The program opened with presentation of the overture to the opera "Rosamunde" by Schubert, followed by the prelude to the opera "Lohengrin" by Wagner. "Last Spring" by Grieg, the "Allegro Con Grazia" from the symphony "Pathetique" by Tchaikowsky, and Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance", followed the Wagnerian prelude.

Mr. Otis sang "Pleading", by Elgar, and Chadwick's "Bedouin Love Song," giving as encore a dialect song.

The second half of the program consisted of the suite from "Sigurd Jorsalfar", by Grieg, and Lachner's "Marche Celebre".

The orchestra displayed talent and ability in presentation of the difficult works included in the program. About 60 players took part in the concert. Preparations for the next concert will be started immediately after the holidays.

The constitution of the national Y. M. C. A. which was drawn up at the recent convention of the delegates at Cleveland, O., will be discussed at the meeting of all university men who are members of the association in the Y. M. C. A. parlors this noon.

"This meeting is for all the association members regardless of their religious creeds. Each man has a right to express his opinions and to cast his vote in the meeting tomorrow noon. We do not want any man to stay away because of sectarianism," Frederick E. Wolf, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., said yesterday.

All the class organizations of the association will hold this week's meetings today. A Christmas luncheon will be served, after which the discussion will take place. Prof. A. B. Hall, chairman of board of directors, will present the constitution at the meeting. Following the discussion, a vote will be taken to decide whether the new document will be adopted or not.

Feel Sentimental? Go to The Madison

"MOTHERS-IN-LAW"
Presented at the Madison.
Produced by Schulberg.
Featuring Ruth Clifford, Gaston Glass and Edith York.
By SAPPY

Sweet thrills of sentimentality. It's laid on thick, just as thick as we always wanted the jam on our bread and never got it. And when we left the show we swore up and down never to marry a girl with a mother-in-law coming along.

Of course, if sweet mom had left them alone, all could have been fixed nicely, there never would have been the situations described. But she did not leave them alone, and it took the scenario writer an awful lot of time and brainmatter to figure out what he could do with the mother-in-law after she had things mixed up pretty badly. So he made her fix everything sweetly, and there was some more sentimentality and slop and gush.

Aunt Sophie will love the show, but Uncle Henry will poke his neighbor in the ribs when he sees all the naughty girls do the ever-scintillating shimmy act. The plot is old stuff, and poorly worked out.

The actors, Ruth Clifford as Vi Wingate, the bad daughter-in-law, Gaston Glass as David, the son, and Edith York as the mother-in-law did fairly well, but too much sentimentality gets on one's nerves, and after it's all over, one feels happy that one isn't in such a mess as yet.

VARSITY TURNERS DROP FIRST MEET TO MILWAUKEE 'Y'

Koch Injured in Back Somersault From Flying Rings

Varsity gymnasts, badly hampered by an injury to Koch, one of the mainstays of the team, which eliminated him from the latter half of the competition, lost their opening meet with the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. team Saturday night 620½ to 593.

The Badgers had piled up a thirty point lead by winning the horizontal bars, 127 to 121, and the side horse, 157 to 125, when Koch misjudged his distance in doing a back somersault from the rings and fell fifteen feet, hurting himself so severely that he had to withdraw from the remaining events.

As a result the Y. won the rings, parallel bars, and tumbling, which gave them a margin of twenty-seven points. The Wisconsin team made a game fight, though, and Coach Fred Schlatter expressed himself as being well pleased with the spirit his men showed, as well as with the sportsmanship showed by the Y team and officials.

A return match with the Y is scheduled for Jan. 19 and the men are going out for revenge. Koch will be recovered from his injury by then and the coach is confident that he should have little difficulty in winning first in the parallel bars and tumbling events.

Capt. Stevens made an almost perfect score in the side horse and gives every indication of being a consistent point getter this season, while Schmidt is running him a close second.

The varsity team is small this year and only six men, Capt. Stevens, Koch, Schmidt, Kress, Thompson, and Reinhold, made the trip. Coach Schlatter has several other men whom he expects will develop into varsity material and hopes to round out a well balanced team for the conference meets.

Some of the most promising of these are Wingender, Hicks and Baker, and by hard work the coach thinks they will win a place on the team.

MANAWA—Miss Elizabeth Calkins, high school commercial instructor, was injured when she was struck by an automobile driven by Carl Volz, a freshman in the school.

Greek Pin Men May Compete in Conference Play

George Berg, newly appointed director of intramural athletics, is considering the idea of the interfraternity conference bowling, following the receipt of the following letter from Grant P. Ward, director of intramural athletics at Ohio State:

Director of Intramural Athletics, Gymnasium, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

Last year, Western Conference Intrafraternity intramural bowling was held from January 15 to February 2 inclusive with approximately six teams bowling on each day except Saturday. It is my belief that this year's competition should be held about the same time as last year and under somewhat different conditions.

Ohio State is again willing to act as a clearing house on scores, but this matter should be taken up with your teams before the holiday recess in order that arrangements may be made for the use of alleys at the time mentioned.

In 1923, Ohio State contributed 43 quintets, Michigan entered 25, Minnesota gave 11, and Illinois put nine aggregations into play. The ten high teams in the second tournament ranked as follows: Alpha Sigma Phi, Minnesota, 2674; Phi Gamma Delta, Michigan, and Delta Kappa Epsilon, Minnesota, 2598; Phi Delta Theta, Michigan, 2585; Phi Rho Sigma, Minnesota, 2521; Phi Gamma Delta, Ohio State, 2483; Phi Sigma Kappa, Michigan, 2445; Alpha Chi Sigma, Minnesota, 2444; Alpha Rho Chi, Minnesota, 2443; Phi Gamma Delta, Illinois, 2422.

Scores are mailed in at the end of each night's play by the respective intramural departments competing; and we have not only competition between the same fraternities at different schools but also a race among all fraternities at all schools, both local and national, for the best bowlers in the Conference. A handsome cup is awarded the fraternity with the highest score.

Will you not take this matter up at once with fraternities at your University regarding entering the 1924 tournament. Appreciating your cooperation in the past and trusting that conditions will be favorable for your entering this year, I am,

Sincerely yours,
GRANT P. WARD,
Director of Intramural Athletics.

CAGERS TO MEET MARQUETTE FIVE IN FAST BATTLE

Badgers, Showing Unusual Speed, Hope to Retaliate For Last Year's Defeat

The Badger basketball quintet will draw the curtain on activities before the holidays tomorrow night when they play the Marquette university five in Milwaukee.

Marquette won from Meanwell's team in a preliminary game here last year, and the Badgers are out for retaliation. A hot game is certain to result.

Marquette is confident of repeating the performance, for their last year's team is virtually intact. The mighty Red Dunn is still playing at the center position, and Dick Quinn, forward and captain is going great guns again this year.

The Milwaukee team took the Badgers by surprise last year, upsetting all the dope when they won in a close game. The long shots coupled with the speedy floor work of the Hill toppers proved too much for the Wisconsin team.

Wisconsin with one game and a tie with De Pauw under its belt is not going to Milwaukee with the idea of allowing Marquette to win again this year. Realizing the strength of their opponents, they have worked for the past two weeks with their eyes on the battle and are prepared.

Many Badger fans will see the game in the Auditorium tomorrow night. Besides the students living in Milwaukee who will see the game are others, who have planned to stop over long enough to view the two teams in action.

Matmen Study Science From Moving Picture

In order that he might better teach his matmen the science of the game Barker has arranged with a moving picture concern to make a reel that will demonstrate how a wrestler should perform.

GRAPPLERS FACE WINNING SEASON

Hitchcock Hopes For Winning Team, if Men Stay Eligible

With brilliant prospects of putting out a winning team this year, Coach Hitchcock's main worry seems to be that his grapplers remain eligible. Stressing this point at a meeting of matmen held in the gym yesterday evening, he affirmed that only by staying so, and by strictly observing training rules through their vacation period could they hope to attain their objective.

Coach Hitchcock has been building up interest in wrestling throughout the last three years and the proof that his efforts were well rewarded lay in the enthusiastic turnout of thirty-five men who are aspirants for mat honors. Each man was required to fill out a blank regarding his eligibility, and was given a pamphlet of conference rules to study.

Wrestling is at last coming into its own," said the coach. "Great interest is aroused this year, and the freshman team is better than it have ever been in the history of Badger mat-squads.

THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The state has spoken, through its representatives, and the greatest all-university social function is to be held in the capitol building. It is no slight matter, for at this time a junior prom held in any other place would be almost inconceivable, almost impossible.

Those students who are connected in any way with the affair, those who are expecting to attend it, any one who is interested in its success owe a profound thanks to the representatives of the people of the State for offering the capitol. For what other institution of this kind or any kind has such a site for its annual dance?

It has been said that deep thanks are due, and it can be said also that actions speak louder than words. Much complaint has been brought against the student body in years gone by for the way in which the capitol has been used at these functions. Perhaps the complaint is warranted, perhaps it is not, but that is not the question. It is this: will there be any cause for complaint this year? If Prom-goers feel fully the gratitude which they should to the State, there will be no cause; if they express their gratitude in actions, by using the building as they would their home, in the words of superintendent of public property Meeks.

We may be wearied of hearing about the annual drunk, but just a word on it in this connection. Last year's Prom committees were responsible for what was one of the cleanest Proms that has been held here in many years. It is up to this year's committees, and to the student body in general cooperating with them, to repeat last year's success or go it some better. Then, and then only, will the gratitude which we feel be shown to its fullest extent.

GOOD LUCK TO THE CLUB

Last year the glee club started out to conquer worlds. In a way it succeeded. For almost the first time the club made a reputation for itself that made alumni feel towards it as they feel towards the football team. The glee club won the conference championship, conquered the world of the Big Ten and then set out again.

Going east to compete with other clubs which are founded on tradition older than the Declaration of Independence, the club took sixth place at the contest held in Carnegie hall in New York.

This year the club has planned an extensive tour of the state to be followed by the annual competitive singing at Chicago where the winner of the Central Inter-scholastic glee club contest is picked. Naturally enough the club is out to repeat its achievement of last year by winning this contest and being chosen for the eastern competition.

In order to do this, however, the club, like any athletic team, must have the support of the student body, it must have candidates from which to pick material. The regular home concert will be given in March, but if it feels that the student body is behind it, it may give an earlier concert.

Let us give them our full support and if there are any singers on the campus who have not tried out for the organization already, let them turn out. Wisconsin wants them.

THE PETTY THIEF BECOMES BOLD

The petty thief has branched out, enlarged his business and gone into dispoiling on a large scale. A week ago he slipped into the Lathrop concert room some time during the day or night, slashed one of the velvet stage curtains close to the top and walked off with it. The loss is estimated at approximately $300.

Such an act of vandalism has hardly been heard of before on the campus. It makes one realize that the thief will not stop at anything, and one begins to feel that he will keep his own belongings close to him. In the library he is loathe to leave his coat in the coat room and takes it with him while he works on his topic. And in the library the coat hooks have locks.

What is the situation where there are no hooks on the locks? It seems almost miraculous that with the experiences which have been had on the campus in connection with thieves that more belongings are not stolen from the buildings.

In Agricultural hall and in most of the other buildings on the campus there are sufficient coat hooks but they are without locks. It is impracticable for a student to take his winter overcoat with him into a class or lecture room when there is barely room for the students themselves. So he is forced to leave them unprotected in the halls.

The university officials do not take measures to protect the property of the university and as a result a $300 velvet curtain is stolen. But they have a duty toward the students and would do well to set up coat hangers with locks in every building on the campus.

Other Editors Say—

YOUTH AND THE SCIENTIFIC ATTITUDE

The behavior of the younger generation has caused more than one well-meaning grandmother to throw up her hands in horror and to inquire in a voice suggesting hopelessness, "What's the world coming to?" Because the woman no longer wishes to spend her whole life at home, because the young girl does not wish to sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam, because the youth does not accept without question the dictation of parents and because young people wish to doubt many of the statements made by their elders—all these things have caused those of a previous generation to feel that the young men and women of today are violating customs, becoming irreverent to age and experience, and are altogether too independent. In short, the world is going to the bow-wow.

There is, however, another side to the question. During many decades there has slowly filtered up into the field of knowledge and education an attitude of questioning, of desire to experiment—in fine, an attitude in which the individual wishes to be convinced of the truth of a statement before believing it. This attitude has permitted the minds of educators, of scientists, and of all those individuals who are truly educated. It is not a rebellion against convention and authority simply because they are such, but rather a questioning of their validity and a testing of it.

The scientific attitude has not stopped by invading the educational fields; it has come down and is now invading the younger generation. The yardsticks of skepticism, of openmindedness, and of experiment before acceptance are very evident in the behavior of the young people. It is these characteristics in them which bring so much grief to the elders. The exhibition of some degree of doubt in young men and women is a healthy revelation, for after a young has questioned a fact, has experimented with it himself, and is finally convinced as to its truth or untruth, he is the possessor of a much better thinking apparatus, a much better power of judgment, and a more well-balanced perspective.—The Daily Iowan.

Dr. Dean, who is president of the Dane County Medical society and chief surgeon at St. Mary's hospital, was called Sunday to the Wisconsin Psychiatric institute at Mendota where shell shocked war veterans are being treated. Arthur Volrath, Sheboygan, had jammed a needle into his ribs and pierced the heart. The needle was extracted and the soldier is recovering rapidly.

CINEMAHOLIDAY SHOWS ARE FIRST-RATE
IN WINDY CITY

By CHATTY

Those who are going to spend the Christmas vacation in Chicago or who are going to be in the Windy City even just a few days are going to have enviable opportunities to see theatrical attractions which have been making sensations, one can say literally, the world over. Even those performances which have not made sensations out of the United States which are playing in Chicago are entirely worth seeing.

To begin with, there will be the great Duse. What more need be said? Eleanora Duse should mean just one thing to theater-goers; that is, an evening of extraordinary acting. Only it won't be an evening for all of Duse's performances—all three—are being given in the afternoon.

It is fortunate that they are being presented at the Auditorium, that theater may be able to accommodate the throngs who, out of curiosity or out of pure admiration for great acting, will want to see this Italian tragedian. Duse's first public appearance in the Windy City will be December 31 in "Spectri" (Ghosts) by Ibsen. This play is one of her oldest and finest vehicles. Thursday, January 3, she will appear in "La Citta Morta" (The Dead City) of D'Annunzio, that warrior poet who has written so many things for and to Duse. Marco Praga's "La Porta Chiusa" (The Closed Door) will be the actresses third and last play January 7. She will return to Italy, it is announced, January 12 on the Majestic.

The other attraction of international reputation which will be showing in Chicago during the holidays is Baliff's Chauve-Souris. Anybody who knows anything about popular music knows the "March of the Wooden Soldiers" from one of the Chauve-Souris of last year and any one who knows anything about vaudeville has heard that this Russian production is about the highest class vaudeville that has been seen in this country in many a moon. It's one of the things for which we have Morris Gest to thank.

London and Paris were pleased tremendously with this company from the Bat theater of Moscow and New Yorkers and Chicagoans seem to be in the same way of thinking. We had planned not to visit Chicago during the vacation, but it is tempting, this piece, along with —. But let us go on.

Now let's see, The Sistine Choir came over from Rome along with Duse and it is now in Chicago too. It's one of the great choirs of the world, if not the greatest and if care anything about good music—if there are any students here who can stand anything heavier than "Mama Love Papa"—you will do well to hear it.

Of our own American making, there are some fine plays in Chicago for the vacationer. Glenn Hunter, as we have said before, is unbeatable in his line of light comedy. His "Merton of The Movies" has become the "Lightnin'" of 1922-3-4. It's playing at the Blackstone and its engagement ends December 27. Sorry we can't tell you what's going to take its place.

Along this line "In Love with

Spanish Heroine
Is Not SpanishIN THE PALACE OF THE KING
"In The Palace of the King"

Featuring Edmund Lowe and Blanche Sweet.

Presented at the Parkway.

By W. M. E.

The photography and acting are good and many scenes have an effective imaginative appeal. However, the Spanish settings and costume had remarkably little Spanish in them and worse yet the heroine would not pass as a Spaniard even on a dark night.

Don John—the gallant hero does very well and is obviously of the big, strong, noble type. He arouses admiration when hailed as the idol of the galloping armor clad troops, and keen sympathy when his unworthy brother, who happens to be King of Spain, intrigues against him.

The plot is based on personality complexes rather than action and progresses as a conflict of wits and ideals.

The story drags in several places, especially after the apparent death of the hero who, after every one has long since given up hope, comes to life, in time to triumph over the villain and to make it plain to all that the conventional happy-ever-after scene will surely follow.

"Love" is a pleasant light comedy and Lynn Fontanne, that excellent actress who did as much as any one even Franklin P. Adams, to make "Dulcy" the play that it was, is featuring in it. It is not the play, but Miss Fontaine that would recommend "In Love with Love" to us.

Then we must not forget that splendid production of America, David Warfield. He and Shakespeare are collaborating in "The Merchant of Venice" and even those who were sorry to see Warfield leave the type of play in which he has appeared for so many years say that his new field suits him well.

There's Lenore Ulric in "Kiki" about which not to much can be said. She ran in this play for two solid years in New York and, like all Belasco productions, it's a winner. Miss Ulric will take the place of Mrs. Fiske, who is playing in "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" at Powers December 24. Mrs. Fiske is an actress it is foolish to pass up, you know.

Joseph Schildkraut, wasn't it he that made such a fine thing of "Liliom"? will start at the Playhouse December 25 in "The Highwayman" and "The Old Soak" is still at the Princess. Then there are the "Music Box Revue" but you've doubtless seen this second annual Harris production by now—and the Passing Show in the way of shows for the tired book-cracker.

All in all, it's a fine array scheduled for him who is going to be in Chicago during the holidays.

Temptation is Old
Tale With New Kick

"TEMPTATION"

Presented at the Majestic.

Featuring Bryant Washburn and Eva Novak.

By HITT and MISS

"Temptation" is the old, old story of what money will and will not do, with a new kick to it. As usual the young man and his wife are very happily trying to make ends meet, when along comes Santa Claus, in the masquerade of a financier, and gives the young husband a tip on the market.

The hero, Bryant Washburn, makes his first million with movie speed and every one is happy until wifey, Eva Novak, begins to let money and clothes go to her head.

And now you think you can guess the rest—but you can't, for here the little expected and much appreciated "kick" enters by the front door. Hubby tries to loose his money to save his wife but he seems to have lost the knack of loosing the American dollar and instead finds himself collecting another million. And so a new ending with a new climax is born on an old beginning—for which we were very thankful.

Bryant Washburn plays the "husband" part very well, but we almost wish we could see him in a new role for even too many "Husbands" parts are apt to put a good actor in a rut, although the wife may be as diverting as Eva Novak is in an extremely interesting gown.

The devil, who always chills the hearts of the audience at the beginning of temptation, and other wicked pictures is present altho he has appeared so often that his presence is apt to go unnoticed along with the scenario, photography, and art directions.

"THE MARK OF ZORRO"

Presented at the Strand.

Featuring Douglas Fairbanks.

By TED

We saw it first about three years ago, and you probably did too; so what can we say about it?

California a hundred or so years ago; an oppressed people; a mysterious hero; much galloping on horse back; more flashing sword-play—in fact—Doug Fairbanks.

Plenty of comedy—a few thrills—a little mystery. What more do you want, especially with Marguerite De La Motte as the heroine?

You are all acquainted with Robert McKim as the chief villain. You all know that Noah Beery can be a humorous villain when he has a chance to be. You all know that Douglas Fairbanks is active, agile, gymnastic, and audacious. In fact, you all know the picture; or if you don't you ought to.

FIFTEEN TURN OUT FOR HOCKEY MEET

Coach Blodgett Has Excellent Nucleus For New Puck Team

A large turnout at yesterday's hockey meeting, made those interested in hockey optimistic about the prospects for this season. Fifteen men were present, more than have been present at similar meetings held in previous years.

Among those present were several of the men who played last year, and the group should have a good nucleus about which Coach Bob Blodgett '23, should be able to build a formidable team.

Coach Jones talked to the men, and outlined some of the plans which are under way. The rink, to be built during the Christmas vacation, will be better than those of the previous years. It will be on the lower campus as before, and the size has been increased to 90x165 feet. The rink will be equipped with lights, to permit the men to play in the evening, a thing which has been impossible in past years.

Coach Jones emphasized the necessity of getting a large number of men out for the team, in order that the coach may have enough material from which to choose the team. It is his opinion that every man who has any idea of going out for the team, should skate as much as possible during the vacation period, in order that no time will be lost in beginning actual practice as soon as possible.

Capt. E. E. Johnson '24, also spoke to the men, and again spoke of the necessity for a larger number of men getting out for practice than in previous years. He stated that Coach Blodgett plans to reach Madison shortly before the close of the vacation, and that practice will begin as soon as weather permits.

Games scheduled at present are as follows:

Jan. 18 and 19—Mich. at Mich.

Jan. 25 and 26—Minn. at Madison.

Feb. 15 and 16—Mich. at Madison.

Feb. 29 and March 1—Minn. at Minn.

There are tentative games with Marquette, here on Jan. 11, and there on Feb. 22 and 23.
