CARNIVAL OF BEAUTY

1902 JUNIOR PROM A MEMORABLE EVENT.

Gymnasium a Veritable Fairyland—Over 500 Merrymakers Dance to Superb Music.

The Junior Promenade of the class of 1902, held last night in the University gymnasium, proved to be an event long to be cherished in the memory of each of the five hundred people who attended. The 1902 prom committee set out, as all prom committees do, to make their function a record breaker. They succeeded. Last night's event was the largest, most elaborate and best conducted prom ever held at Wisconsin. This is the opinion of the multitude that through the great gymnasium—dancing, chatting and partaking of dainty refreshments—from eight o'clock in the evening until the "wee sma' hours" of this morning were well advanced.

Not once during the entire program of twenty-five numbers did the spirit of gayety lag. From the time the orchestra struck up the first waltz, "Bells and Beaux," until the final strains of "Love's Dream" announced to the wearied but joyful dancers that the 1902 prom was over, a continual round of pleasure revailed.

The diligent committee of decorators during the past week, supplemented by a considerable number of workmen and electricians had transformed the great hall of the gymnasium with its bare brick walls and unsightly iron girders into a great tent of purple, white and cardinal bunting illuminated by innumerable bulbs of incandescent light.

Thousands of yards of white bunting had been used to canopy the roof of the hall, and bunting of either cardinal or white covered the walls so that not a single brick or an iron girder was visible to the eye. From the center of the overspreading canopy of white hung a large chandelier effect of cardinal and white trimmed with southern smilax.

Along the sides of the hall were arranged the boxes, the sides of which were draped with purple and white and festooned with southern smilax. Each fraternity box was labelled in gilt with the Greek letters of the society occupying it.

The most elaborate attempt of the decorators was the grand reception box at the north end of the hall where the reception committee welcomed the guests. The class numerals, 1902, the "W" of Wisconsin and other designs were wrought in electric lights upon a background of white and cardinal trimmed with quantities of green smilax.

The orchestra box was suspended from the ceiling on the east side of the hall and entirely covered with bunting and festoons of green.

The decorations and lighting arrangements were throughout elaborate as well as tasty. Added to this the many colored and exquisitely designed party gowns of the beautiful women and the uniform black evening dress of the men, the prom was a carnival of beauty.

The music which supplied the inspiration for the dancing was "par excellence." Goldsmith's orchestra of thirty pieces, each one an artist, played the well selected program in an ideal manner—perfect in harmony and time,—fast where fast should be, and slow where slow was to be desired. The fourth number, "The 1902 Prom," written by Professor Goldsmith especially for this occasion, made a decided hit and was welcomed repeatedly as encores.

During the tenth, twelfth, fourteenth and sixteenth numbers, the guests repaired to the base ball cage above which had been tastefully decorated and set with tables for refreshments. The following menu was daintily served by Mr. Keeley of the Palace of Sweets:

Chicken salad.
Bread and butter sandwiches.
Pickles. Olives.
Ice cream with assorted cakes.
Coffee.

The patrons and patronesses were Gov. and Mrs. R. M. La Follette, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Pabst of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Murphy of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien S. Hanks, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Stevens, Judge and Mrs. C. V. Bardeen, Dr. and Mrs. George Keenan, Prof. and Mrs. Wm. A. Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. W. Jennings.

UNIVERSITY MUSEUMS

PLACES OF EXCEEDING INTEREST TO VISITORS.

State Historical Collection One of the Finest of its Kind—Fine Biological and Geological Collections.

To the University visitor of a day or two, the museums are perhaps of the most general interest. The museum in the new Library building surpasses all the others. While a student's work may not require him to visit the museums he can certainly gain much useful knowledge by an occasional visit. This museum, on the third floor of the Library building, contains a very extensive collection of historical pictures, and old relics. One very interesting thing is a coach said to have been used by Daniel Webster. There is also an interesting collection of Indian ware distributed throughout the various rooms.

Pictures of the most noted statesmen of the United States, the state of Wisconsin, and of the University are also of interest.

Another museum which is not inferior to the one in the library, is the biological museum situated on the third floor of Science Hall, which contains a valuable collection of Mollusks, Protozoa, Vertebræ, including skeletons and stuffed models, birds, etc. There are several large skeletons of different animals which always attract special attention. Those of the chimpanzee, crocodile, sea turtle, kangaroo and deer are the largest and best while there are a great number of smaller ones representing animals from many parts of the world. Special mention should be made of the collection of models of sea animals made of water glass. These are very expensive as they can be obtained only from one man, Blaschka, in Germany. The last order was not entirely filled, as he has recently been engaged by Harvard and has made models for that institution exclusively.

The geological museum was newly established last year and now presents a very neat appearance. The mastodon which was found last year near Anderson's Mills, Wis., has been mounted. A small sum was contributed last year for the remounting and rearranging of the specimens, which work has been completed. The museum is acknowledged the best collection of mineralogical and geological specimens northwest of Chicago.

Dr. Buckley, of the State Geological and Natural History Survey which has its offices in the museum, has made a collection of the clays of Wisconsin which adds materially to the collection. Another feature is a collection of specimens by Dr. Clements to illustrate his course in economic geology.

Yale will give a football souvenir consisting of photographs of the Yale, Harvard, and Princeton teams, with cabinet photographs of the individual players, framed together, to all men who played in the Harvard and Princeton games the past season.

Walter Christee the crack trainer at Princeton has been engaged for two years by the University of California to handle the athletic teams. He will begin his work in the near future.

Short Course Notes.

Arrangements have been made by the Short Course Literary Society for a special program on the 22, the birthday of Washington.

Services of the Short Course students are being eagerly sought after by breeders, horticulturists, general farmers and dairymen. Over a hundred calls have been received within the last three weeks. It is expected that during the succeeding equal period from two to three times as many more will be received.

The attendance of Short Course men promises to be very large next year. The coming term does not open till about December 1, yet already 160 applications have been received.

Franklin H. Bunker, '04, returned from his home at Menominee this morning.

Brilliant Reception.

The annual reception of the Psi U. fraternity, given at their lodge on State street yesterday, was an unusually brilliant affair.

Some seven hundred invitations had been issued and there were responses from nearly half that many ladies and gentlemen during the hours from 3 to 6. The house was very elaborate in its decorations of red and yellow, the fraternity colors, and in the profusion of palms and the delicate drapings and garlands of southern smilax. There were red and yellow tulips and rich meteor roses in many places, and the doorways were curtained with smilax. Behind a bank of palms Golssmith's orchestra from Chicago played throughout the afternoon. The reception party embraced Mrs. John Johnston of Milwaukee, Mrs. W. F. Vilas, Miss Gregory, Mrs. W. S. Marshall and Mrs. O. D. Brandenburg.

Post-Prom Functions.

The Alpha Phi gave a luncheon at noon today at Keeley's. The Kappa Sigmas give a dancing party at Kehl's hall tonight. The Phi Gamma Deltas give a house party and lodge dance tonight. The Phi Delta Thetas and their friends will cross the lake and dance at the asylum tonight. The Beta Theta Pi the Chi Psi and the Sigma Chi give house parties tonight. The Delta Gamma sorority gives a tea this afternoon and a dancing party at Kehl's Monday evening. The Gamma Phi sorority gives a matinee dance at Kehl's this afternoon. This afternoon the Kappa Alpha Thetas hold an informal reception at their chapter house.

Address by Judge Winslow.

Hon. J. B. Winslow of the Supreme Court has been secured to address the Y. M. C. A. Meeting next Sunday afternoon. His address is intended not for members of the Association alone but for University men generally. The subject has not been announced, but will be of interest to all.

The meeting will be held in the Law Building at 4:30 p. m.

The "Kodak" of the Eau Claire High School for January contains a very creditable article on the University. George Cassels '00, is professor of Physics in that High School.

The Junior Hop at Michigan did not begin until 11:30 p. m. owing to the inability of the hack lines to handle the crowd. They should take a few lessons from the Madison liverymen.

The annual field meet of the Iowa Inter-collegiate Athletic Association will be held in Des Moines on May 24. Iowa, Grinnell, Ames, Cornell, Simpson, and State Normal will participate.

The Prom.

Another prom is over and a most successful one. With the next day naturally comes the usual train of reflections. There are several phases of it that seem to baffle all efforts to remedy. One is the necessity of cutting out dances towards the end. It would seem that the music could be so gauged as to avoid this unpleasant feature. The growing size of the function seems to indicate that before long some method will have to be devised to limit the number in attendance. To do this fairly will be difficult and however it is accomplished the excluded parties will be aggrieved but it seems almost necessary. The next prom committee will have something to think about along this line. For the success of the 1902 Prom the committees and class are to be heartily congratulated. Their efforts will be long remembered.

COMMUNICATION.

On Question of Publishing Joint Debates as University Bulletins.

The Cardinal has received the following communication in reply to the one which appeared sometime ago in these columns signed by Professor Hobbs.

To the Editor:—

The communication in a recent issue of the "Cardinal" from a member of the Faculty, being published in defense of an opinion with which so few of us were familiar, partook, for this reason, more of the nature of a conspicuous opposition to the plan of publishing the annual Joint Debate in the "Bulletin of the Department of Economics," than that of an opinion, for which it was meant. This fact makes it necessary to show, why the large number of students and Professors supporting this plan, including in their ranks such men as members of the Board of Regents and the Directors of the School of Economics, Political Science and History, are justified in their undertaking. It is obviously impossible to present in the limited compass of a communication such as this, the various reasons why the publication of the Joint Debate in a University Bulletin would revert to the advantage of the University, but it will at least permit of a short reply to the arguments brought forward by the communication in question.

The gist of the article is, that Joint Debates are "unsuited to publication as investigations of a scientific character" and should in consequence not appear as a bulletin. That Joint Debates are not purely scientific investigations no one will deny; but that the conclusion drawn from this premise is unwarranted, is likewise unquestionable; for who, with any degree of intelligence, would expect to find in a debate, even though published in the form of a bulletin, a scientific treatise? As the contributor to Thursday's Cardinal himself says, "the manner of presentation is argumentative rather than scientific" hence it would be ungenerous to assume that any other intelligent person would look upon it in a different light. The publication would be essentially a debate, and would not presume to be anything different. Those examining it would judge its merits by that criterion, and in case one debater were "to present an array of figures and diagrams to prove a point—and his opponent to follow with figures and diagrams to prove the contrary," it would indeed "occasion no surprise" to the reader. As long as figures and facts are authentic—and publication itself requires this,—the art of skillful presentation, and logical reasoning, would be the principal lesson a reader would expect, and would endeavor to learn from this publication.

There still remains, however, the question, whether it would be advantageous for the University to publish this acknowledged sample of argumentation which the splendid system at "Wisconsin" produces. This question is easily answered by our previous experience.

Wisconsin has developed a system peculiarly its own, results have been gratifying to say the least; and the joint debate has been regularly employed in advertising the debating opportunities here offered. The Board of Regents have uniformly purchased a sufficient number of copies to supply the High Schools of the state.

This still leaves quite unmentioned the intrinsic value of the Joint debates. That eight months of work by six active, intensely interested, college men will collect statistics, facts, opinions and other data, deserving more permanent preservation and wider distribution than publication by a private individual can obtain, is indisputable. The bibliography alone is perhaps one of the most complete that is collected on that particular subject. What is omitted on one side will be found in the other.

Finally there is the encouragement and stimulus which the knowledge of certain publication and wide distribution cannot fail to offer to the workers on the debates to come. It cannot fail to produce greater care in the selection of data, result in greater excellence of presentation, and be a constant inspiration to all the debaters concerned.

Such results cannot fail to make the annual publication of the Joint Debates as a University Bulletin, a profitable, salutary, and most desirable change.
