STRENGTH, RANGE SHOWN IN GLEE CLUB'S PROGRAM

Large Audience in Music Hall is Again Impressed by Singing

By F. M. S.

Singing before a large audience in Music hall last night the Men's Glee club again demonstrated the reason for its winning the Mid-West inter-collegiate sing.

The selections showed much strength and wide range. It is trite to say that the voices blended in one harmonious whole, and yet it is the only phrase which accurately describes a number such as "Lochinvar." Much depth of feeling and fine expression was displayed especially in "Lo, How A Rose E'er Blooming."

Invictus Well Liked

One of the best-liked numbers on the program was "Invictus," with its rich, full tone quality and strong spirit. Lochinvar, for its different part singing, "Allah's Holiday" with its lilting measured rhythm, and the group of Wisconsin songs were other favorites.

But again the audience paid tribute to the Glee club's rendering of "The Bells of St. Mary's," as its real favorite. Dave J. Roberts, baritone, sang the verse solo with feeling. Although his voice is not extremely powerful, it has a clear, pleasing quality.

Paul Jones, accompanist for the club, in his selections, Polonaise by Chopin, and Rondo Capriccioso by Mendelssohn, displayed surprising strength and firmness of touch. His technique certainly is to be admired.

MADAME ONEGIN SINGS ON MONDAY

Famous Swedish Contralto Has Chosen a Worthy Program for Audience

Sigrid Onegin, the famous Swedish contralto of the Metropolitan Opera House, who sings here at the university stock pavilion Monday night at 8:30 o'clock has selected a worthy program to be companion to the other artists' programs which have been given this year under the auspices of the Wisconsin Union such as Bauer and Casal's, Rachmaninoff's and Fritz Kreisler's.

"The atlas is my first guide in making a program," said Madame Onegin. "I try to discover as much as I can about the city in which I am to appear. If, for instance, there is a large French population, I include bergerettes and modern French songs. If it contains many Swedish inhabitants, I put on a group of some of my native songs."

Madame Onegin's program Monday follows:

1. Haendel Aria: Furibondo spira il vento
Chi vuol la zingarella.
2. Hayden My Mother Bids me Bind My Hair;
Now the Dancing Sunbeams Play Piercing Eyes.
3. Schubert (Goethe Texts)
..... Rastlose Liebe
der Musensohn;
der Erlking.
4. Sibelius Swarta rosor,
Tegener Vaggvisa
(Swedish Lullaby),
Brewer Fairy Pipers,
Clarke The Blind Ploughman
5. Donizetti "Aria from Lucretia Borghia,"
"Il Segreto per esser felice."

Day By Day With The News

By C. O. S.

Albert Frick, Chicago, dies after 105 hours of artificial respiration.

All is quiet along the Nicaraguan front. Apparently the protectorate intervention policy is gaining ground since Congress adjourned, silencing critic Borah.

China's representative to the League of Nations refuses to commit himself on possible League action. Great Britain now appears to favor arbitration.

The three-power disarmament plan of President Coolidge will be discussed in connection with the League Disarmament conference at Geneva, in June.

The president finds many suggestions awaiting him concerning the appropriate place for his summer vacation.

To Refund Liberty Bonds

Uncle Sam knows his interest. In order to save $23,000,000 a year interest, the Second Liberty loan converted 4 1-4 per cent bonds, originally issued at 4 per cent bonds, will be refunded, Secretary Mellon announces. They may be exchanged for five year 3 1-2 per cent gold Treasury certificates bearing interest from March 15, 1927.

Our Private Horoscope

After scanning the news more or less carefully during the past month we feel qualified to make the following predictions:

- 1—Nicaragua will become a protectorate of the United States before the next meeting of Congress.
- 2—The Lowden-for-president skyrocket reported loaded with T. N. T. will turn out to be a dud.
- 3—Coolidge will run for a third term. We might add that if nominated he will be elected.
- 4—The Chicago Tribune will report at least three more diplomatic breaks with Mexico before next September.
- 5—Coolidge will catch several prize fish this summer. (His publicity manager is positive about this.)
- 6—The Wisconsin legislature will not place a tax on cigarettes.

The Reds In China

Regarding the influence or supposed influence of "Red" Russia on the Cantonese party in China we think that the fairest interpretation is one offered by Fletcher S. Brockman. He is a representative of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A., an intimate friend of the late Sun Yat Sen, and for 30 years a resident in China. He repeats the words of Sun Fo, son of the great Cantonese leader:

"We are accused of being Communistic and we are called 'Red.' It is not true. We do stand, however for a program of emancipation of the poor. If this is Red, then we are Red. We stand for the abolition of the unequal treaties. If this is Red, then we are Red, and 399,000,000 of our people are Red. We stand for a policy whereby the masses of our people, bowed down in poverty, shall have enough to eat. If this is Red, then we are Red."

The Baumes Law In New York

New York has found a way to sharpen the dulled teeth of the law through the Baumes act. Hardened criminals begged to be sentenced before the law went into effect. Second offense criminals find it difficult under the law to leave prison before their terms expire even with good behavior. Criminals who have committed three felonies are imprisoned for life upon fourth offense. It is this last clause that has put the fear of the law into the New York yegg's heart.

Numerous state legislatures are proposing bills which would abolish the primary elections and restore the old convention system. The primary has its defects we admit, but it lacks the odium of the old convention system that was reeking with graft. Wisconsin knew its evils before La Follette brought the primary election to this state.

BASCOM READING ROOM WILL OPEN MONDAY MORNING

New Study Hall in Auditorium to Alleviate Crowded Library Conditions

The new "Reserved Book Room," which will act as a reading room and library for students, will be opened Monday morning in the sub-basement of the new wing of Bascom hall. This announcement was made yesterday by L. A. Wolf, university library assistant.

This room is intended to relieve greatly the now crowded conditions in the library, according to Mr. Wolf. It will serve not only as a study hall, but will also contain reserved reference books for a considerable number of the more advanced university courses.

Two Hour Period

These books will be issued from the desk by attendants on the presentation of a special card bearing the author's name, the title of the book, call number, signature of the borrower, and his Madison address. In an effort to serve a maximum number of readers, books will be loaned for a two hour period only, subjects to renewal at the desk if the books are not in demand by some other reader.

As the name "Reserved Book Room" implies, the volumes housed there will not be subject to withdrawal for home use except over night and over week ends, under

Candidates for Heads of St. Pat's Parade Announced

With the announcement last night of the candidates for the position as king of festivities over the engineers' St. Pat's Parade to be held April 23, the plans for that big event in the life of the school of engineering are well under way toward completion.

In the election which is to take place next week Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, each of the branches of engineering has entered one candidate according to custom. These men are R. R. Smith, mechanical engineer; Michael O. Loughlin, electrical engineer; William Taylor, civil engineer, and Harold Weiss, who has been chosen to represent both the mining and the chemical engineers.

General chairman Beck also said last night that St. Pat has changed his plans and is sending over a special delegation of six men with the Blarney stone. This group will arrive on St. Pat's Day instead of on the day of the parade as originally planned, and a special ceremony of welcome will be given them on the upper campus.

CORNERSTONE OF MEMORIAL UNION WILL BE LAID MAY 30

Laying of the cornerstone of the Memorial Union this year will be the center of the tenth observance of Memorial day since the United States entered the World war, under the present plans of the executive group of the university committee on the Union.

Following assurances from the contractor that the Union building will be far enough along to permit laying of the corner-stone on Memorial day, May 30, the committee this week requested President Glenn Frank to authorize the public functions committee of the faculty to work out a program for the cornerstone laying, with the Union committee and with representatives of patriotic organizations.

It is planned to invite parents of the 150 university men and women who gave their lives in armed service of the United States during the World war to attend the cornerstone ceremony.

They will witness the sealing in the cornerstone box of the honor roll bearing the names of their children and of 12,000 other university

"Soph Shuffle" is Characterized by Vivid Features

More than 200 pleasure-bent couples last night crowded the Crystal ballroom of the Lorraine hotel at the annual Sophomore Shuffle.

The dance, which was characterized by vividness and color, began at 9:30 o'clock, when Joe Shoer's orchestra arrived at the ballroom from their Parkway engagement.

Special entertainment for the dancers was staged by Genaro Florez '29 and Betty Hollnagel, and Elroy Schumacher '30. Schumacher and Florez, with true Parisian zest, put on an Apache dance. As an encore number Florez and his partner for the affair danced a Spanish tango. Further novelties were furnished by the fun-makers of Shoer's orchestra.

Decorations consisted mainly of palms arranged to supplement the ornate qualities of the ballroom. No effort was made to carry out a motif because of the elaborate features of the ballroom itself.

GILLIN APPOINTS ELECTION LEADERS

Notices Sent to "Y" Members; Voting Takes Place March 31

Announcement was made yesterday by John P. Gillin '27, president of the university Y. M. C. A., of the appointment of Robert Schwenger, Harry Parrish, Ellis Chellman, Lowell Frautchi, and Ewart Merica of the class of 1927, as members of the election committee for the annual elections of the association which will take place at the membership dinner Thursday night, on March 31, at the Association hall.

According to constitutional provision, which requires that candidates must be appointed by a nominating committee, President Gillin has selected the entire membership of the association as a committee of the whole to name candidates for officers.

Candidates or their friends wishing to put their names in nomination must take out a petition which may be secured from the Y. M. C. A. office, and which must be signed by 25 members of the Y. M. C. A. These petitions must be placed on file in the association office by Saturday noon, March 26.

Hotchkiss Stars for Badgers by Making 13 Points; Defense Cracks

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 11—(Special) — Wisconsin's powerful defense cracked under the strain of McConnell's long baskets and Wilcox's close-in shots last night in the new Hawkeye athletic plant and the Cardinal bowed to the old gold of Iowa 26-17.

Hotchkiss, spectacular Wisconsin guard, scored 13 of the total 17 points and was easily the outstanding performer before the 5,000 fans. He scored everyone of the Cardinal's six points during the second half.

Defense Battles Defense

Badger defense and Hawkeye defense fought stubbornly throughout the game and rebuffed dazzling plays that seemed almost certain of additional tallies. Captain Rollie Barnum, one of the greatest guards in the Western conference, repeatedly stemmed the old gold wave that swept into Cardinal territory.

"Inability to get tip-offs and backboard rebounds was the contributing factor in the Badger defeat," said Doc Meanwell, shortly after the game.

Hawk's Lead Simmers

Iowa's 7 to 11 lead at the intermission slowly wasted away during the opening minutes of the second frame before a rejuvenated Badger assault led by the romping Hotchkiss. The Cardinal guard sank two goals in rapid succession and cut the lead to 17 to 15. A Hawkeye free throw bolstered the lead to 3 points but Hotchkiss whisked in another basket and the Badgers trailed by only a single point.

A frenzy of hysterical anxiety swept through the field house as the

1928 PROM MAKES PROFIT OF $600

Junior Class Votes to Pay Deficit of Pre-Prom Play in Full

Jack Wilson, chairman of the 1928 Prom, reported at the junior class meeting, Thursday, that the profits of this year's Prom amounted to $600. The class then voted to pay in full the $150 deficit sustained by the Wisconsin Players in presenting the pre-Prom play, "Captain Applejack."

Heretofore, the junior class has only paid half of the deficit usually occurring in the presentation of the pre-Prom affair. This generous action of the class of '28 sets a worthy precedent. The rest of the money will be turned over to the Memorial Union.

Harry Thoma, editor of the 1928 Badger, discussed the plans and policies of this year's book. The theme will be historical, the glory of the past, and the romance of Indian lore will be presented with historical accuracy. Art headings will be rich in color and sentiment.

William Clark, junior class president, announced the appointment of the following class committee chairmen:

General advisory committee, Beverly Murphy; interclass relations committee, Donald Jones; athletic committee, Allen Peterson; committee to cooperate with the Memorial Union, Richard McKee.

Committee to cooperate with the Badger, Mary L. Campbell; committee on class finance, Pete Dunn.

EDITORIAL BOARD MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the Daily Cardinal editorial board members at 10 o'clock this morning in the managing editor's office.

EDGERTON CHOSEN GUIDANCE LEADER

Heads Organization Interested in Finding Suitable Posi- tions for Men

Prof. A. H. Edgerton, chairman of the department of industrial education and applied arts, was elected president of the National Vocational Guidance association at a meeting held in Dallas, Texas, recently.

This is an organization interested in the study and analysis of individuals and occupations in an effort to find suitable positions for men. Prof. Edgerton had been first vice-president of the association for two years previous to his election as president.

Since Prof. Edgerton became chairman of the department of industrial education and applied arts here in 1924, a major in vocational guidance has been offered. Before coming to the university, he was head of the department of industrial education at the Lincoln Experimental school of Columbia university, and was head of the department at the Eastern Illinois State Normal school.

For two years, he was supervisor of industrial education and apprentices in the Canal Zone, Panama.

Prof. Edgerton is now working on several books on industrial guidance. He has recently had published "Vocational Guidance and Counseling," and "Industrial Arts and Pre-Vocational Training in Junior high schools." He has also compiled year books for several organizations.

Last year, he was in charge of a the same regulations that are in force at the general library.

Adequate Staff
During the day, the reading room may be reached by descending the stairs of the Bascom addition or by means of the doorway located beneath the new steps on the south side of the building. After 6 p. m. the reading room can be entered only by this outside entrance.

The hours of the Reserved Book Room will be the same as those of the regular library, from 7:45 a. m. to 10 p. m. On Saturday, however, it will close at 6 p. m.

An adequate staff will be on duty at all times to give rapid and efficient service, and it is hoped that the new system will alleviate the conditions which have often brought forth just criticism in the Daily Cardinal during the past few years.

UNIVERSITY MEN SPEAK AT MEDICAL MEETING

Dr. Ralph M. Watters and Dr. C. D. Leake, of the University, and Dr. Joseph F. Smith of Wausau, will be the speakers at the regular meeting of the university medical society to be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, March 15, in room 119 Science hall.

Health Bulletin Shows Decrease in Typhoid Deaths

Only 42 persons died of typhoid fever in Wisconsin in the year 1926 according to the report issued by the survey of practical arts and vocational education in Racine.

state health bulletin in an article by Surgeon-general H. S. Cummings, of the United State Public Health service. This is a striking improvement over past years when, for example, in 1910 the state board recorded 558 deaths from typhoid fever.

"It is doubtful whether any state in the union has reached lower typhoid fever death rate consecutively for the past few years than Wisconsin," the article in the bulletin stated.

Deaths from the disease are now one-fifth of the percentages recorded 40 years ago. According to Dr. Cummings typhoid is nearly twice as prevalent in the rural districts as in urban areas.

Betas, 11-8; Win TitleChi Psis Place Third in Standing by Beating Sigma Pi,
9 to 3

Alpha Chi Rho fraternity is the 1927 intramural champion in basketball. That was decided last night in the armory, when Beta Theta Pi, making a last desperate grab for the title, fell short by three points and bowed before the Alpha Chi Rhos, 11-8.

Chi Psi, last year's champion, took third place by holding Sigma Pi to a record low score of 9-3. Both of the final battles placed great emphasis on the defense, and few close-in shots were permitted.

Alkirs Accurate

The Alpha Chi Rhos, forced into a long shot game by stiff Beta guarding, proved a little more accurate than their opponents from the floor. Lemmer, center, and Black and Shaw, forwards, rang up four baskets among them, not any great number, but still twice as many as the Betas could make.

Curtis, Welch, and Stupecky, carrying the heft of the Beta attack found their efforts considerably ruined by the excellent guarding of big Anderson, Alpha Chi Rho defensive star. Anderson and his back-court mate, Bodden, refused to be fooled by any of their opponents' tricks, and were a big factor in the Alkir victory.

Slow Game

The Chi Psi-Sig Pi conflict was pretty much of a ball-holding session. Both teams again were afraid of being lured away from their baskets, and neither revealed anything startling in the way of scoring procedure.

"Dymie" Mansfield, Sigma Pi star, was muzzled by the elaborate Chi Psi defense, and got through the evening without scoring a point or committing a foul.

AT CHICAGO

THE SECOND AND THIRDS

WE LOST

Today's the big day for the track, wrestling, gymnastics and fencing teams. They're all in Chicago or environs waiting the call to final conflict.

Only one Badger wrestler, Fortney, has much chance to get ahead in the conference meet. If he can by hook or crook, and it will take a lot of them, beat Shively, Illinois, and Yegge, Iowa, he needn't worry at all. Shively won from him on a decision during the season, but he defeated Yegge when he met him at Iowa City.

Capt. Freytag of the fencers is one Wisconsin man who should finish near the top of the rating in his special event, the epee. So far as we remember, Capt. Freytag has not lost a match this year, and unless some eastern division star rises to thwart him, he has a good chance to win the championship.

Both Neller and Hinderliter, gymnastics stars, are meeting tough opposition today in the conference meet. The team lost to Iowa and Chicago, largely through weakness in one or two events. Needless to say, these events were not those in which Neller and Hinderliter were entered. If the Badgers are in their usual good form, even their best opponents will have a difficult job beating them.

At the time of racing to press we had not heard how the conference indoor track preliminaries had finished, but we still venture a guess that Badgers will be among the prominent point-winners in today's games. The matter of whether McGinnis, Erickson and Zola will come through bothers us little. But the matter of whether men like Stowe, Dougan, and Buchanan, can pick a few spare points is of tremendous importance. Firsts count a lot, but there's nothing like a number of thirds and fourths to fill the batting average, don't you know.

Wisconsin lost to Iowa last night. Nice disagreeable little finale for the season but it couldn't be helped. We're going back next year and show 'em how.

slipping Hawkeyes motioned for a temporary adjournment. Captain Hogan, brilliant Iowa guard, flashed in his final appearance with the old gold by hoisting in a long basket that swung the victors into the twenty column, and pandemonium broke over the stands.

"Chuck" McConnell, all conference guard and the other half of the feared Hogan, McConnell combine, stepped in one from the center and the tenseness of the struggle was lifted.

Barnum in Last Game

Another long basket over the defensive bulwarks of the Badgers by Wilcox, Hawkeye center, and a pair of contributory counts raised the Iowa margin which they held until the final pistol. Captain Hogan and McConnell, guards, and Van Deusen, forwards, made their final appearance before old gold fans here tonight. Captain Barnum of the vanquished also retired from conference basketball circles with the close of the game.

By virtue of her defeat at the hands of Iowa tonight, Wisconsin went into a three cornered tie for fourth place in the Big Ten standing with Iowa and Illinois. The Summary:

Swimmers Finish Season;

HOCKEY SEXTETGoal-tenders Chosen to Captain Team; Men Entertained at Detroit

Don Mitchell, Duluth, Minn., goal tender was elected captain of next year's hockey team at a dinner held in Prince Edward hotel, Windsor, Ontario, immediately after the last game with Michigan Tuesday night.

Mitchell, who is considered one of the strongest members of the team is the second man from Duluth to captain a Wisconsin six. Ted Gross, last year's captain was also from Duluth. It is somewhat of a coincidence that Steve Jones, captain and goal-tender of Michigan's team, is from Duluth too.

The work of Mitchell was evident in every game Wisconsin played. Against such powerful scoring teams as Minnesota and the University of Manitoba, he made innumerable stops, and though his team was beaten, he held the score very low. Though all three conference teams, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, had fine goal-tenders, Mitchell must be rated on a par with any of the others. He should make a strong leader for the team next year.

During the hockey team's stay in Windsor, members of it were entertained by Wisconsin alumni in Detroit who took the boys for sight-seeing trips around the city, and in addition, treated them to a banquet in the Book-Cadillac hotel, Detroit, on Tuesday.

Among the men who took part in entertaining the Badgers were Bob Hurtigan, Henry Boyce, W. A. Kuezli, H. C. Broadfoot, Wally Erdman, Taylor Seeber, Herb Mandell, Willard, Saunders, Charles Hibbard, Leslie Green and Louis Kreuz. Mr. Kreuz is a brother of Robert "Sol" Kreuz, varsity football and track star, and was himself prominent in athletics here several years ago.

Coach W. R. "Rube" Brandow, though admitting that the Wisconsin season has been rather disappointing, is extremely optimistic for the future.

All Events Closely Contested;
Herschberger Takes Two Firsts

Wisconsin won its last swimming meet of the season by downing Iowa in Joe Steinauer's tank last night, by the score of 38-31. Most of the events were closely contested, especially the 150 yard backstroke. Pattie of Iowa and Radcliffe of Wisconsin gave the judges a hard job deciding who came in first, but Pattie had a slight edge on Radcliffe and was given the choice. Pattie's time was 1:56:1.

Wisconsin started by winning the 160 yard relay. The team consisted of Vincent, Peterson, Clark and Herschberger. Peterson, Fairgraves, Joseph and Killedrew swam for Iowa. The time was 1:18:5.

Carter of Iowa took first in the 200 yard breast stroke, with 2:50:5 as his time. Borden, Wisconsin came in second, and Goldman, Iowa third.

In the 40 yard free style event Herschberger of Wisconsin came in first; McClintock, Iowa, second; Peterson, Wisconsin third. Time 1:19:1.

Iowa won the 440 yard free style King coming in first with a time of 5:52:9. Holmes Wisconsin was second and Post Wisconsin third.

The 150 yard backstroke was taken by Pattie of Iowa. His time was 1:56:1. Radcliffe, Wisconsin came in second, and Marble, of Iowa third. This vent was practically a dead-heat between Pattie and Radcliffe.

Herschberger took another first in the 100 yard free style, making the distance in 56:2. McClintock of Iowa came in second, and Vincent, Wisconsin, third.

Wisconsin won the diving contest, Radcliffe taking first; Heidelberg, Wisconsin and Keyes of Iowa tying for second position. Each man performed four required dives and four of his own choice. Radcliffe Heidelberg pulled several neat individual dives.

The medley race was won by Iowa with a time of 3:27:2. Wisconsin's team was composed of Peterson, Kinkaid and Clark, while King, Carter, and Killedrew swam for Iowa.

Wisconsin swamped Iowa in the water polo game, winning by the score of 9-3. Stewart, Lange and Post starred for Wisconsin.

Futile Enforcement

Not so very long ago we took a week end trip to another section of the state of Wisconsin and enjoyed a brief respite from the trials and tribulations of being an editor and a student. While we were away we had the opportunity to talk with judges, lawyers, and sheriffs concerning enforcement of the Prohibition law.

We came back with an even greater appreciation of the fact that this country can never enforce the present law which inflicts our statute books. We took actual experiences, following the example set by the eminent Prof. Fisher of Yale, and found that we still disagreed with the figures he used.

This particular community which we visited is a prosperous section of the state, and one of the biggest cities in Wisconsin. There is no reason to feel that it was exceptional in any manner, and we felt we had found a good example of how prohibition is working in the nation as a whole. The lawyer has acted as states' attorney in trying to clean up the bootleggers. He got conviction after conviction but it was the same old story of trying to keep the ocean tides back with a broom. The judge had sentenced men for operating stills and had given them fines and prison terms to no avail. The convicted men merely felt that they had had a tough break and would be able to get away with it next time. The sheriff had made raids throughout the county and had been able to wipe out about two dozen stills, and yet the time we spoke to him he said that there were about 14 stills in operation. He expected to clean them up within a few months time but would then have the nice job of starting all over again with the distillers who had resumed operation in other sections.

Throughout our discussion with these men we found a note of pessimism permeating their very sentence on attempts at prohibition enforcement. They had been fighting for the government for periods ranging from three to ten years and apparently to no avail. They were about ready to give up the ship, even though as public officials it was their duty to keep on the job. They are like captains on a sinking ship who know that the end is near but have to stick to their posts.

The movement is already on foot and we doubt whether it will be very long before the state of the Union throw the whole enforcement burden onto the shoulders of the Federal government saying, "Here, we were doing our best up to the adoption of the Volstead act, and then you decided to take the matter into your hands. All right. It's your job, see what you can do with it. We give up."

And when that day comes there will be moaning and wailing and gnashing of teeth in Washington and a change will be made in the Volstead act. Until then, dear readers, the game will be interesting to watch.

Academic Freedom

We have just heard of an incident which happened in this university not so very long ago in which "academic freedom" played an important role. A certain sophomore handed in a theme giving his personal views on certain elements in our national life and at the next meeting of the class it was returned to him with the note attached that the ideas expressed therein were not exactly right and that they must be changed before a grade on the theme would be granted.

The sophomore, being a rather fearless individual, handed the theme in again with two pages of explanation to the end that the ideas therein expressed were his convictions and that he refused to change them for the sake of a grade. After class the student was informed that he would have to offer a satisfactory explanation or be dropped from the class. Taking the instructor at his word he refused to attend class and went to the powers that be to secure adjustment of the difficulty. He received it, was enrolled, and received a grade on the theme as written originally.

That gentleman who tried to bull-doze an underclassman is now professor in another Big Ten university and no longer graces the walls of this institution. May such men always find that their methods are not appreciated at Wisconsin, and that freedom of speech and expression is one of the cardinal principles of this university.

Haresfoot

In just two weeks the Haresfoot club starts on its 29th annual tour of the Middle West. At that time there will be much pomp and pageantry to thrill the men who make the trip and crowds will acclaim them as "the best Haresfoot show in history." The glare of the footlights, the receptions, the applause, will all go to repay the men for their efforts on the stage.

But today and tomorrow, and last week and last month there have been two hundred men working, striving, struggling to put the show across. If you go by the Union building one of these evenings and see the lights in the Haresfoot loft you can picture for yourself men working as fast as they can to get the publicity end of the show in readiness. You can imagine weary individuals plugging along, typing letters, stuffing envelopes and preparing contracts with the end in view that this Haresfoot trip will be a success.

If you go down to the old Co-op building any afternoon you will find approximately 50 men dancing, running, perspiring as much as any football player ever did; you will find them going through hard routines, getting bawled out, discovering their mistakes, and then repeating the dance over and over and over again. There is no audience for them such as the football players have when they go through their afternoon practice; there is little word of praise for the struggles they are going through.

Haresfoot is one of the biggest activities on the campus and the lucky individual who makes the trip gets much in the way of material reward. But two months before the trip, when the glory of the footlights is still far away, the 100 members of the show "Meet the Prince" go through a period of praiseless effort, climb into their beds at night weary of heart and foot and then find comfort in the thought that on April 1 they are to leave on that glory of glories, the Haresfoot trip.

So cheer up, you men who are working these afternoons when every sane individual should be enjoying this spring weather—your glory comes later and "it won't be long now."

A Truth Meeting

One week from tonight at the Hotel Loraine there will gather together approximately one hundred and seventy-five of the representative men of the university, faculty leaders and students leaders. The occasion will be the Third Annual Gridiron Banquet.

The Gridiron apparently has come to stay as one of the annual events of the university calendar. This is evidenced by the increasing popularity and desirability of the banquet. To our mind the Gridiron performs a very necessary good and, to our way of thinking, if it is managed discreetly can develop into one of the most worth-while occasions of the school year.

The Gridiron provides a place where the students and faculty can meet on common ground and explain their views on problems which concern both. Scarcely another equal opportunity is afforded. The discussion is frank, open, severe if need be, but always merited and for some purpose. Lightened with quips and skits of one sort or another, it is kept from turning into a mud-slinging party of petty personalities and useless sarcasm. We hope it can be kept this way.

My word, Oswald, it looks as though that breathing case in Evanston is propaganda for Heinz.

... 57 men worked on the poor guy till he died.

Before we forget, we would like to ask if Octy meant Mary-Lou on Page 30.

The little girl in red was eating heart-shaped cookies the other night, and got very crumby.

Norskies writes in this one:

Dainty little shoes,
Muddy as can be,
Just went by the Union
Stung again, te-he.

They tell the engineers that there is enough room on Mendota for the whole population of the United States to stand at one time. It's a lie; the Betas tried it and couldn't.

It is noted that clean speech societies have been established in a great many American universities and colleges. That's—damn fine news.

Going through college and not reading rockets is like washing your hands with your gloves on.

STAR
Twinkle, twinkle, lissle star,
How I wunnersh what you are?
Way up on that policeman's vest
Ohmigawd I'm under arrest!

"The horn on her car sounds like a fish peddler's."
"Well, she's looking for suckers."

THIS COLD WEATHER
"Better close the shutters, Mary."
"Why?"
"Two below outside."

WANTED—500 GOOD MEN
Editor, the Daily Cardinal:
Monday the interclass Boxing tournament starts. No irony. There aren't 500 good men. I wish there were that many or more who weren't afraid to have their handsome faces marred. This is an invitation and a challenge to men of this University. Enter this tournament. I want all the good men it is possible to get. Just phone me at B. 3326 and I'll be very glad to give any man the details.

EXPERIENCES IN ITALY RECOUNTED BY GUEST

Miss Fredika Blanker who was a guest of honor at the Wellesley club luncheon yesterday noon, gave an informal account of her experiences in Italy last year. Miss Blanker, a graduate of the University of Chicago, visited Italy as a result of being awarded the Alice Freeman Palmer scholarship of 1926 offered by Wellesley college. She spoke to the members of the American Association of University Women Thursday evening at the College club.

Extension Division Sends Professors Throughout State

Through the work of the university Extension Division, members of the Madison faculty have been sent to communities throughout the state during the past year to conduct classes.

This work is being done in addition to the work of the regular faculty employed at the Milwaukee Extension school. This school not only conducts classes in that town, but also sends men out to nearby communities where instruction is desired.

Madison men who have conducted classes out of town are as follows: Professors F. L. Clapp, A. S. Barr, C. Merriman, and C. J. An-

No, he just picks my pockets.

No doubt work will begin shortly on a new fence for the lower campus.

We need more room to hang the signs on.

Yes, it looks as though the roommate is going nutty. We saw him yesterday a telling a hair-raising story to a bald-headed man.

BOTANIST

I heard a coed last summer say she liked to canoe on Mendota and watch the wild life along the shore.

Rockets has discovered the difference between a coed and a chorus girl.

... one acts up on a stage.

The dogs used to bark at the coeds on the hill in fur coats, but now they don't do it because they know the canines are sadly in the minority—thy might get barked at, themselves.

ANDERSON SPEAKS HERE MARCH 29

Literary Interpreter to Lecture on Subject of "The Younger Generation"

Sherwood Anderson, who will lecture here on March 29, on "The Younger Generation" under the auspices of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority is one of the few men writing today whose literary output has been consistent in its merit.

Hailed a few years ago as "the Chekhov of American letters," Mr. Anderson has not let an empty phrase turn his head but has kept on with his purpose of interpreting people and their moods.

If he writes of negroes singing while working on a Louisiana levee, the strange, rhythmic cadences of a child-like race vibrate on the inanimate paper. If, again, of a man who finds himself in a trap, we are given an insight into his soul which makes us realize the tortures he is undergoing.

Tickets for the lecture will be on sale next week at the University Pharmacy, Brown's and Hook Bros. music store.

Hair dye and cosmetics may prove disastrous to users according to Dr. A. D. Hirschfelder, director of pharmacology at the University of Minnesota.

Anderson, classes in education; Prof. A. H. Edgerton, classes in industrial arts; Professors J. L. Gillin and Kimbal Young and Mr. A. S. Barry classes in sociology; Professors C. E. Ragsdale and N. Cameron, psychology; Professors B. G. Elliott and E. L. Consoliver, engineering; Professors H. R. English, J. B. Read, and R. R. Aurner, business; Prof. S. A. Leonard, English; Mrs. M. H. ALUMNI TO REUNE AT DORMITORIES

Change From Lower Campus Will Mean Increase in in Facilities

The center of alumni reunion activities during the university commencement week this year will shift from the lower campus to the new men's dormitories.

Many returning alumni will be housed in the dormitories, and the festivities of Alumni day, Saturday June 18, will be held in Russell grove near the dormitories. The new athletic field near the dormitories and the lake shore frontage provide better facilities than have ever before been available for the general Alumni picnic. With the increased amount of room available, university faculty members, Madison townspeople, and others who wish to attend the picnic this year are to be invited.

A new feature of Alumni day this year will be a crew race between a Milwaukee Boat club eight which includes five former Badger crewmen, and an eight from one of the Chicago boat clubs. The usual concert by the University concert band will be given during the afternoon, and the procession to the annual Senior-Alumni banquet will form at 6 o'clock in the evening.

The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock in the men's gymnasium, and will be followed at 9 o'clock by the president's reception and senior-alumni dance. The complete program of Commencement week, as it has tentatively been arranged by the Alumni day committee recently appointed by President G.enn Frank has already been announced.

Fifty Wellesley students saved botanical specimens and apparatus valued at $200,000 when they rushed into burning Stone Hall and carried out the valuables. The women

Octopus Sponsors Contest for Cover of Coming Number

A contest open to the entire student body is being sponsored by the Octopus to select a cover for its next issue, to be known as the Haresfoot number. had to be routed out by campus police when the danger of falling roofs and flames began too great.

The many humorous situations in connection with the Haresfoot show are suggested as a subject for the drawings. A committee of judges to be selected next week, will examine each piece of work submitted, and that which appears to be most original and most cleverly done will be used on the cover of the Haresfoot number.

The next issue of the Octopus, featuring the annual student show, will be placed on sale just prior to the Madison engagement of the Haresfoot club.

Phi Alpha Delta to Hold Dinner and Initiation Meeting

The local chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity will initiate Senator Irvine L. Lenroot into the fraternity as an honorary member tomorrow afternoon. M. Lenroot completed his term as United States Senator from Wisconsin March 4 and left for the west soon after, arriving in Madison last night, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lenroot Black 21, who has been visiting in Milwaukee.

The formal initiation will take place at the chapter house at noon tomorrow in the presence of the active members of the fraternity and several alumni. A banquet will follow at the Loraine Hotel over which Maxwell Herriott '24 member of the law school faculty, will preside as toastmaster.

Leonard F. Schmitt L2 will make the address on behalf of the active chapter and Perry Sletteland will speak for the alumni. A. J. Vinje, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, an old friend of senator Lenroot, is scheduled to give a reminiscence of acquaintances with the former Badger senator. Mr. Lenroot will give a response.

Among the prominent alumni who will attend with their wives are Chief Justice and Mrs. A. J. Vinje, Justice and Mrs. Marvin Rosenberry, Justice and Mrs. Walter C. Owen, Justice and Mrs. Christian Doerfler, Justice and Mrs. E. Ray Stevens, Justice and Mrs. Franz Eschweiler, and Mr. and Mrs. William Gorham Rice.

The Mendenhall's Occupying Former Richard T. Ely Home

Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Mendenhall have purchased and are now occupying the residence at 205 Prospect avenue, University Heights, formerly the home of Dr. Richard T. Ely, who is now on the faculty of the Northwestern university.

The former home of the Mendenhall's at 510 North Carroll street has had an interesting history. About 66 years ago plans for the house were drawn by Major S. Shipman, an architect well known to Madison residents of that time because he planned and supervised construction of the dome and the first two wings of the old Wisconsin capitol.

An early owner of the house was N. B. Van Slyke, at one time president of the First National bank, Madison. It later came into the possession of L. M. Hanks, Sr., from whom Professor Mendenhall bought the residence 15 years ago.

Tea will be served at the Arden Club this Sunday from 5 to 7 o'clock. Professor Gene Burne of the History Department will read Irish plays of Synge and Modern authors. Esther Trachte will act as hostess.

NEW FICTION

Shadows Waiting, by Elenor Chilton.

The story of two ghost-ridden lovers—a chronicle of adventures of the mind.

The Magic Garden, by Gene Stratton-Porter.

As fine a book as "Freckles"—full of the magic of the out-of-doors, for which Mrs. Porter is so famous.

Song of Life, by Fannie Hurst.

Nine of the most permanent recent stories by Miss Hurst.

Store of Ladies, by Louis Golding.

A handsome young boxer's romance with a charming and aristocratic young widow.

The Red Pavillion, by John Gunther.

Very modern young folks against the background of Bohemian Chicago.

Tomorrow Morning, by Anne Parrish.

As great a novel of an American family as "The Perennial Bachelor."

Doomsday by Warwick Deeping.

The story of a girl's search for her destined life—embodying in it the truth that marriage or brilliant social success can mean nothing without love.

NEW NON-FICTION

War Birds, by an Unknown Aviator.

Revealing, witty, bold, breathless with drama and poignancy, it ranks as one of the most daring books of the war; for it reveals the army at its best and worst; youth loving, fighting, dying.

Wilhelm Hohenzollern, by Emil Ludwig.

This startling biography follows the ex-Kaiser from birth to exile, and in its pages we find that his motives and his actions are illumined as they have never been before.

A Liberal Education, by E. D. Martin.

Does knowledge really help us? What do people expect to become when they set out to improve their minds? What is education? All these you will find interpreted in a stimulating manner in the fine book.

Why We Behave Like Human Beings, by Dorsey.

A graphic and fascinating revelation of the amazing discoveries of modern science that so vitally concern our happiness and our destiny. A best seller for 3 years.

A Primer of Book Collecting, by Winterich.

This book aims to instruct the reader in the essentials of book collecting—a pleasant and not unprofitable pursuit that has attracted thousands of new devotees in the past ten years.

Herman Melville, by Raymond M. Weaver.

The first full and authorized biography of this most romantic figure in American literature, made possible by the release by the Melville family of hitherto unknown literary and biographical material.

POETRY

Edna St. Vincent Millay.

"The King's Henchman," Miss Millay's new poetic drama, which just recently had its premiere at The Metropolitan Opera House. "Second April," "Renaissance," "The Harp Weaver," "A Few Figs From Thistles." These four volumes now come in a charmingly attractive box, just the thing to make a perfect gift.

Louis Untemeyer.

Modern American Poetry," "Modern British Poetry." These fine anthologies of modern poetry are so complete and well-selected that no library is complete without them.

Ezra Pound
