PROFESSOR BYRNE IS CLOSE FRIEND OF FAMOUS WIT

Donald Ogden Stewart to Speak Tuesday Night in Music Hall

Prof. Eugene H. Byrne of the history department and a personal friend of Donald Ogden Stewart, who will speak Tuesday evening in Music hall under the auspices of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, said yesterday, "Mr. Stewart is one of the most amusing men who are doing lighter things today."

"He is a very witty person, following much after the manner of C. K. Chesterton, English writer. Mr. Stewart's contributions to American humor during recent years have done much to liven up the general reading public."

Dekes Entertain.

The Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity of which he is a member, will entertain the humorist at dinner Tuesday night and he will stay with Professor Byrne while in Madison,

Mr. Stewart is one of the constant visitors at the University club of Detroit; he has come to feel the student pulse of the present college generation.

Likes Scotch.

Speaking of himself, Mr. Stewart has said, "I am near sighted and unmarried. I have a great liking for Scotch and Max Beerbohm."

Tickets for the lecture are on sale at Hook Bros. Music store and at the University pharmacy. They may also be obtained at the door of Music hall just before the lecture.

LESCOHER WILL TEACH AT U. OF CALIFORNIA

Prof. D. D. Lescohier of the economics department will go to the University of California on January 13, to give courses during the next semester and summer session. Upon the termination of his leave of absence in September, he will return to Wisconsin. A course in labor economics, a course in advanced labor economics, and a graduate seminar in labor, will comprise Professor Lescohier's program for the next semester.

RUSSELL SEES FORMER BADGER MEN IN HAWAII

While in Hawaii enroute to New Zealand, H. L. Russell, Dean of the College of Agriculture, conferred with William Blocher, a Shawano county native, who is working on the Honolulu Star Bulletin of which J. O. Farrington '20 is the managing editor. The governor general of Hawaii is Frank Farrington, a brother of E. H. Farrington of the dairy department of the university.

FISH SPEAKS AT Y. W. C. A. VESPER SERVICE SUNDAY

Prof. Carl Russell Fish will speak at Y. W. C. A. vespers at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow. Leila Ludden '25 will preside at the service.

Christmas Recess This Year to Last For Eighteen Days

Eighteen days of Christmas vacation! It begins at noon on December 19 and lasts until 8 o'clock on the morning of January 6, when the first class will begin. The no-cut rule is in effect. Such is the dictum given at Dean Sellery's office.

Charles A. Smith, secretary of the faculty, makes out the university schedule for each year, including the vacation dates. When Christmas falls on Sunday, Monday or Tuesday, the recess begins on the previous Wednesday and ends on the second succeeding Thursday. When it falls on one of the other days, the vacation begins on the preceding Friday and ends on the second succeeding Tuesday.

This year Christmas is on Thursday, so the vacation period extends to 18 days. The same length period will be held for the next two years.

Vodvil Open Ticket Sale Begins Today; Also Held Monday

Tickets for Union Vodvil will be on sale today from 9 until 3 o'clock at the University pharmacy, and will be sold also at the Haresfoot Follies tonight.

Open sale will continue Monday in Bascom hall. That will be the last chance to obtain tickets on the hill, for, beginning Tuesday the Parkway theater will handle the sales. Approximately 150 tickets were disposed of in the sale yesterday.

Plenty of the lower and middle priced seats are left for all three performances, ticket chairman Norton Smith '26 reported yesterday, while a few of the higher priced seats remain for the Saturday evening show.

BANQUET OPENED NIGHT FESTIVITIES

C. I. P. A. Delegates Feast, Attend Show, Dance and Make Merry

Amid the cheers for Michigan, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Illinois, and Wisconsin, the C. I. P. A. delegates swung their noisemakers, doffed their odd-shaped caps of various hues, and started their evening of merry-making at the annual banquet at 6 o'clock last night.

Immediately after the dinner, the delegates packed Music hall for the vaudeville show.

East met West, North met South, and all joined in hand at the dance in Lathrop gymnasium at 9 o'clock. Serpentine, balloons, and confetti helped make merriment. Thompson's eight-piece orchestra furnished the jazz.

Gordon Brine, '26, and his committee mixed the crowd and introduced the more bashful and shy. For those who did not dance, there was a big mixer to get acquainted. Punch was served to all during the evening's entertainment.

Because of the large number of delegates, the banquet was held in three different places, Luther Memorial church, Wesley foundation, and the Woman's building.

MORONY IS IMPROVING AT OAK PARK HOSPITAL

Thomas Morony '25, who was injured last Friday while driving to witness the Chicago-Wisconsin football game, is very slowly improving at the Oak Park hospital, Oak Park, Ill. He has been declared out of danger and is recovering consciousness gradually. No one but his mother and a few intimate friends have been permitted to see him. It is expected that next week he will be well enough to read his mail that has accumulated since his accident. Morony will not return to the university until after the Christmas vacation.

SECRETARY OF LABOR MAY BE EX-STUDENT

E. J. Henning, a former Wisconsin man, is being considered by President Coolidge for the position of Secretary of Labor to succeed James J. Davis who is to retire March 1. Mr. Henning's only rival for the position is John L. Lewis. Mr. Henning attended the university, graduating in 1894. He was captain of the Wisconsin battalion when he was in school.

DIRECTORY CHANGES.
Was your name misspelled in the student directory? Was your telephone number changed to that of the police station? Was your address changed from Chicago to East Silo?

The Daily Cardinal will publish a supplement to the student directory making such changes as are handed in at the editorial office, correcting any mistakes.

No corrections will be received after 5 o'clock this afternoon. All notices should be brought before then to the editorial rooms on the second floor of the Union building.

FOLLIES FEATURE THREE HARESFOOT ACTS AND BANDS

Union Board Cancels Dance Tonight For Annual Func- tion in Lathrop

Three acts by Haresfoot club members and two orchestras playing continuous music will be the main attractions for the sixth annual Haresfoot Follies to be held tonight in Lathrop gymnasium and concert room. Union board has cancelled its regular Saturday night dance so as not to interfere with the Follies.

The dance will last from 9 until 12 o'clock with an intermission between 10 and 10:30 o'clock during which time the acts will be presented. Twelve men selected from the Haresfoot dancing class will appear in the first number, presenting several intricate dance steps.

The second act is a song and dance number by T. Faxon Hall '24, who wrote the book for "Twinkle Twinkle," last spring's Haresfoot production. A serenade by Porter F. Butts, grad, singing "Haresfoot Sweetheart" and accompanied by three saxophones and two banjos will complete the entertainment.

Benson-Emanuel and Talley's orchestra, each increased to ten pieces, will by playing alternately, furnish continuous music throughout the evening. The musicians will sit on specially decorated platforms one of which will have as a background the silver cyclorama used in the Haresfoot show last spring. Colored lights placed inside of crystal chandeliers which were a part of the 1925 prom decorations will feature the decorations for the occasion.

Tickets will be on sale today at Morgan's and the University pharmacy and may be obtained at the door tonight. The price per couple is $2.

WHITBECK IN HOSPITAL FROM SLIGHT ILLNESS

Professor R. H. Whitbeck of the geography department is ill at the Wisconsin General hospital, suffering from slight gastric disturbances. He was taken to the hospital last Saturday and will spend the remainder of the week there. His condition has steadily improved and he expects to be at his classes Monday morning.

SENIOR MEDICS ELECT OFFICERS AT MEETING

The senior medics organized last Wednesday and elected William Werrell '25, as president; John Packard '25, as vice president, and John Grab '25, for secretary. Kendall Elsom '25, is the sergeant at arms. An honor board has been created composed of Grab and Reginald Steer '25, who are to act in connection with three faculty members in cases of cribbing in the medical school. The junior medics will meet Monday and organize. A general meeting of all medical students will be held at 11:30 o'clock today.

Style Show in Lathrop Hall Given for C.I.P.A. Delegates

The trend of fashions in Paris, accompanied by a talk on Parisian fashions, "In Paris," by Beatrice Morgan, graduate of the university and advertising manager at Manchester's, will be depicted in the style show to be given at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in Lathrop concert room. Coranto has arranged the show for the entertainment of C. I. P. A. delegates and for university students and town people.

The program for the style show will include five promenades of the manikins, showing different types of clothes which the college girl wears. "On the Hill" will feature school dresses of flannel, sport hats, and coats of cloth and fur. "Around the Lake," the second

Christmas Octopus to Feature Cover By Sals Bostwick

The Christmas Octopus with an unusual cover by Sals Bostwick of "Florodora Love" fame and a number of unusual art and peetic features will be out Wednesday.

There will be a full page of illustrated current song hits by Dan Averton and R. B. Knox and a full inside page by Sals Bostwick.

At least one play will be featured as well as a number of new ideas in poetry and illustrated rhymes.

A new idea of a page of wise cracks and bright sayings, which is very unusual in a college humor magazine, will be introduced. The Octygravure section will also be part of the magazine.

MOLLUSC POSTERS TO GET AWARDS

Seven Prizes Offered For Best Signs of Players' Pro- duction

Seven prizes will be awarded for the best posters for the Wisconsin Players production of the "Mollusc," which will be given December 13, in Lathrop hall, according to Frederick A. Buerki '27, who has charge of the poster contest. A first prize of $5 will be given, second prize of $3, third and fourth prizes of $1 each, and the remaining three prizes will be tickets to the "Mollusc."

The posters should be approximately 20 by 30 inches in size, bold and simple. They should include the title, "The Mollusc," with the place, Lathrop hall, and the date, December 13.

Further information may be obtained from Buerki, by calling B. 2975. For reference, copies of the "Mollusc" will be placed on reserve at the university library.

The posters must be handed in before Saturday, December 6, to Prof. A. Colt, of the art department, or Prof. Gertrude E. Johnson, of the speech department. They will be judged by Prof. A. Colt, Professor Varnum, Mr. Stebbins, all of the art department, and William J. Tannowitz '23, of the speech department.

C. I. P. A. DELEGATES TO RECEIVE "FROSH BIBLE"

Visiting editors of the C. I. P. A. may have copies of the "Frosh Bible," annual publication telling of the university, by applying at the Y. M. C. A. office this morning or afternoon. These cardinal-bound books have the information regarding the organization and departments of the university in a compact form. They will be given out free to any visiting delegates.

HIRSHBERG TO SPEAK AT HILLEL FOUNDATION

The Rev. Samuel Hirshberg, rabbi of Temple Emanuel of Milwaukee, will speak on the "Religious Views of a Liberal Jew" Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Hillel Foundation.

1,200 DELEGATES HEAR BIRGE AT C. I. P. A. MEETING

High School Students Hear Speeches; Conduct Round Table Discussions

"Tenth from the top in its percentage of illiteracy the United States puts a deep responsibility on its four educational institutions embodied in the school, the pulpit, the platform and the press," was the opening address of welcome to the 1,200 C. I. P. A. delegates given by George P. Hambrecht at the stock pavilion yesterday morning.

President Birge welcomed the delegates in the name of the university. He spoke from his experience as editor of a college magazine in his undergraduate days and especially warned the amateur journalists about the dangers of commercializing their ideals. "Those things or educational value lose that value when they become commercialized," he said.

Bleyer Speaks.

Professor W. G. Bleyer did the honors for the course in Journalism and in his talk pointed out the need of young people trained to present news so they would be real food for thought.

The convention resumed its meetings at 1 o'clock when Prof. M. V. O'Shea spoke on "The Significance of Scholastic Journalism." He stressed the importance of the high school paper in creating community sentiment among pupils which will solve many difficult problems facing the high school in regard to American ideals today.

Round Table Talks.

Following Professor O'Shea's speech the delegates broke up into a number of round table discussion groups that talked over various problems connected with high school journalism such as annuals, advertising managers, circulation managers, faculty advisors, and printing supervisors.

The Advertising club incorporated its regular meeting with the discussions on advertising managers, each of the leaders of the club taking over one of the various sections. Other of the groups were taken over by members of the Course in Journalism and of students specializing in certain subjects. The round table discussion groups lasted until 5:30 o'clock when the convention broke up to have the banquet, the Vodvil and the convention ball.

PROFESSOR DITTMER WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

Prof. Clarence G. Dittmer, instructor in sociology, will speak before the students at the Congregational church tomorrow afternoon. Professor Dittmer will discuss Christianity from a very different viewpoint than is common to most of us and from one which is growing in importance in the modern world every day. The title of his address will be "Christianity, a Factor in Economics."

Initial Freshman Meeting at Y. M. is Peppy Banquet

Changing their banquet at the last moment to the Y. M. C. A. in order to give the Woman's building over to the C. I. P. A. dinner, the first meeting of the new freshman organization, which will be known as the frosh Y. M. C. A., was held last night.

Speaking in place of Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, who was incapacitated because of illness, C. V. Hibbard, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., appealed to the freshmen to develop and carry the freshman spirit out on the campus and to exhibit some constructive thinking and action in their program.

Truman Marsh '23, was elected president for this year. Plans for the rest of the year as outlined by Marsh and the program committee include several social functions, and the holding of a special freshman meeting in the spring which will be addressed by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLDMERRY TUSSLE FOR PLACE ON
OHIO QUINTETCaptain Jake Cameron and Other Football Players Report For Basketball

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 29.—With Captain "Jake" Cameron and half a dozen other recruits from the football squad expected to turn out Monday, the merriest battle in years for places on Ohio State's 1925 basketball quintet is booked to start next week. Coach H. G. Olsen, beginning his third season here, has been working with a group of other candidates for several weeks.

After a respite of 10 days from the football season, Cameron and his cohorts from the gridiron forces ought to be in good shape to get away to a flying start in basketball. The other athletes who have been members of the Buckeye football squad and who are available for basketball duty include Ralph "Red" Seiffer, back guard, and "Cookie" Cunningham, center, both regulars last winter, and Keith DeVoe and Johnay Wilson, substitutes of a year ago.

Available Material Good

From last winter's freshman team Bill Hunt and Marty Karow can turn their attention from football to basketball. Arlie Tarbert, of Cleveland, fresh captain, has been working out with the early squad.

In all, the Buckeyes have available the entire 1924 team plus a number of last winter's substitutes, and half a dozen outstanding members of last year's fresh outfit. Johnny Miner, last season's captain, and Mel Shaw, his running mate at forward, have been toiling with the early squad. Miner and Cunningham were among the leading indi-

Turkey Day Winner Will Give
Banquet for Harrier Squad

An appropriate ending to a most successful cross country season will be the banquet given in the Y. M. C. A. dining room this evening by the winners of the prizes in the annual turkey race held last Tuesday. The feed is given for all the members and coaches of the fresh and varsity squads and the team managers.

McKee, Paine, Klevay, Bullimore and Clark will contribute their fowls for the occasion, while Bill Jackman, varsity manager, winner of the coveted egg, a symbol of last place, will donate his hen fruit to the good of the cause.

Following the feast a speech of welcome will be given by Richard McKee, winner of the turkey. The four senior members of the championship team, Captain Piper, Perry, Berbstresser and Link, will each give a short talk. Varsity Manager Jackman will expostulate on the various phases of managing a championship team, and Coach Mead Burke will close the program with a discussion of this year's work and of the prospects for another winning team next fall.

This will be the second annual banquet of this kind to be given for the cross country team. The one last year was the first ever to be given by the winners of the turkey day contest.

STRAND PASSES TO GO

"CUB" BUCK, FORMER STAR, WINS
TITLE OF BEST BADGER TACKLE

Back to the gridiron again for the next Bader hero of times gone by. Howard "Cub" Buck looms up as one if not the best tackle ever to play on a Wisconsin line, and Wisconsin has had some of the best tackles in the country.

Buck played on the Wisconsin teams of 1913, '14 and '15. By the end of his third year he was the most feared lineman in the middle west. His last year he was playing on a team that had a rather weak line and the big roving tackle had to stop plays on both sides of the line. Especially was this true of the Chicago game of 1914. Chicago emerged the victor by one point but the score would have been much larger had not Buck assumed the responsibilities of the whole line. The big Badger literally threw himself into every play and time after time broke up the Maroon interference. After the game the Chicago papers came out with headlines of the game, Chicago 14, Cub Buck 13.

That year he won a unanimous berth on all-Western teams and although he was put on several first string all-American teams, Walter Camp, dean of football, only gave the Wisconsin star a place on his second team.

While not engaged in impersonating the whole Wisconsin line, Buck worked out with the wrestling squad and attained no little fame as a grappler.

His last year in school Buck was ineligible to play on the team so he assisted Coach Withington in developing the Badger team of 1916. The following year he went to Northfield, Minnesota, to coach the Carleton college gridiron team for two years. His teams were fairly successful. His coaching position was at Lawrence college where he was active coach for a number of years and now assists with the coaching and runs a garage in Appleton.

This last homecoming, Buck returned to his alma mater and delivered a fiery speech on the present athletic situation. He is a loyal Badger through and through and anything that threatens the welfare of his university always gets a rise from him.

COACH PREDICTS FIFTH PLACE FOR BADGER CAGERS

Varney to Play Center in First Game of Hard Schedule

That the Badger cagers will place fifth in the conference, is the highest possible hope of Wisconsin followers, according to Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, the "little giant" of basketball, who during his 12 years spent in coaching Mid-western teams, has won nine conference titles and has never placed lower than third.

"Although I hear from all sides that I have five regulars back this year," he said, "by looking into the situation anyone will see that I have only two, Diebold and Wackman. Of the five men who were winning games for Wisconsin last year, Gibson, Farwell and Elson are gone, and their vacancies will be hard to fill."

Varney at Center.
"Spooner was injured after playing but a game and a half, while Varney was eliminated after five contests. I can't use a green man at center, which means that I will have to play Varney, but he probably won't get the jump on anyone once a week which is a great handicap," asserted the Badger coach.

Spooner will doubtless play one forward, with Merkle, Harget and Martell, all inexperienced, fighting for the other forward position. Better satisfaction in the guards is evidenced in the return of Diebold, Wackman and Barwig.

Ohio Looks Best.

When questioned as to his opinion on the season's outlook, Dr. Meanwell declared, "Ohio State has the best chance of any conference team to cop the title, with Iowa, Illinois and Indiana following in close order. That leaves us nothing better than fifth place. I figure Minnesota and Northwestern the weakest teams, but in the Big Ten there aren't any very weak ones."

Dr. Meanwell has arranged one of the toughest preliminary schedules of any team in the country, to prepare the cagers before the Big Ten season begins. "The opening scrap with Wabash December 12, will be just about as stiff as we will run into all season, but my reason for taking such games is that I believe a game team will learn by getting beaten," he explained.

COMMERCE GRID BANQUET DEC. 11

Association Will Dine Wisconsin Team and Coaches Next Month

The annual banquet to be given by the Association of Commerce for the Wisconsin football team and coaching staff will take place Thursday night, December 11, at 6:30 o'clock in the Park hotel, it was announced yesterday.

The banquet committee, consisting of William Hommel, E. J. Grady, I. U. Sears, B. R. L. Hommedieu, R. L. Hopkins and Harry Caird, met at the Madison club yesterday noon to launch preparations for the program which will include several features and which will be followed by a theater party at the Orpheum.

A wire received from Coach Jack Ryan in Milwaukee yesterday announced that the date selected is satisfactory to him and that he will be present.

CARDINAL SPORTS

ATHLETICS IN THE COLLEGIATE WORLD

Mere Handful of Fans Watch Cage Games in Days of Old

In a few weeks the gymnasium will be packed with madly cheering basketball fans and hundreds will bewail the fact that the seating capacity is limited, but this was not true when the first basketball game was played in Madison.

Then a mere handful of fans watched a team of university players lose to Milwaukee Normal who had challenged Dr. J. C. Elson's team to a game under a guarantee of $50 for expenses. Dr. Elson had tickets printed to sell at 25 cents each with result that $30 was realized from the sale and the deficit to be paid by the promoter.

Basketball had been introduced a few years before, about 1890, by a gymnasium instructor, Dr. Nasmith, in the east who wished some gymnasium game which could afford good exercise for many players at once. This basketball pioneer hung a peach basket at each end of his gymnasium for hoops and the game began with a soccer football. At the onset, difficulties arose and rules had to be formulated. The first ruling defined fouling as the boys had a tendency to tackle as in football, and the second prohibited running with the ball to guard against line plunges. Even the number of players was unlimited at

PHI KAP ACTIVES TIE PLEDGES, 6-6

Phi Pi Phi Eleven Wins From Acacia; "Grange" Proves Star

A closely contested football game was staged at Camp Randall Thursday morning, when the Phi Kappa actives held the pledges to a tie game, the score resulting 6 to 6.

During the first few minutes of play, Edward Wernitzing '27, of the pledges recovered the ball after a fumble back of the active goal line, and scored a touchdown. In the second quarter, the actives carried the ball down the field, and Pat O'Connel dashed around the end for a touchdown, tying the score.

John Yonyo '28, and Francis McGinnis '28, were consistent ground gainers for the pledges, but Robert Sullivan '28, Francis Raff '28, and Rudolph Va Salle '28, all members of the frosh football squad, were unable to gain against the strong defense of Captain McCormick and his team of actives.

The Acacia football team lost by a score of 6 to 0 in favor of Phi Pi Phi, Thanksgiving morning. Evans and Bright starred for the Phi Pi's making enormous gains around the Acacia ends. Porter and Grange were the leading players for Acacia. Nelson, coach of the All-Americans, refereed the game. The score by no means indicates the stellar playing shown by the Phi Pi's and the Acacia's. The scoring touchdown was made by means of a spectacular new down the field by Evans. Another touchdown made by Freck was recalled because the play was offside.

158,000 PERSONS SEE BIG TEN GAMES HERE

The Badger eleven played before 158,000 persons in its 1924 campaign for Western conference honors. These figures given by the athletic association, include the 28,703 people who witnessed the Notre Dame game but do not include the attendance at the North Dakota, Ames, and Coe preliminary games. At Ann Arbor the team played before 50,000 people and at Chicago before about 33,000 spectators. The Minnesota game attracted 20,138 people to Camp Randall and at the Homecoming game with Iowa, there were 26,530 persons in attendance.

This announcement was made by George Huff, director of athletics at Illinois university. No statement was made as to the salary but it is known that the contract carries with it a comfortable increase.

first, but was finally cut to five on each side.

The new game was played at the Y. M. C. A.'s throughout the country and became popular with the girls as well as boys. Yale was the first college to adopt it in 1895 or 1896.

When Dr. Elson came from the Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. to take charge of the physical education classes in 1894, he was desirous of introducing basketball at Wisconsin. He had coached a basketball team in Minneapolis but the beginning here was fraught with many difficulties and much ridicule.

"It was called a girls' game—a tiddly winks game," said Dr. Elson yesterday. We were the laughing stock of the football and track men. In spite of all this adverse criticism, however, we finally developed a team and were invited to play a game with Milwaukee Normal at Milwaukee, in which we were badly beaten. Our next game was with Ripon college and again we lost because of lack of experience.

"The first intercollegiate game was with Minnesota, who had developed a strong team, and consequently we were at the small end of the score again. Dr. Meanwell can boast of his 100% winning team but I can also boast of my 100% losing team."

These first games were played independently because basketball had not yet been recognized as a minor sport at the university. It was only after Minnesota, Chicago, Northwestern and other universities had commenced playing that the recognition came at Wisconsin. Yale came out strong for the new game from the time it was first developed and played a game with Wisconsin in Milwaukee.

FORMER HARRIERS SEND IN PRAISES TO COACH BURKE

"Congratulations, congratulations" is the gist of scores of letters that have been flowing into Mead Burke's office from old Wisconsinites all over the country, complimenting him on his conference championship. However, perhaps, the ones that are most cherished are the ones that come from old Badger hill and dale men who have helped make cross country what it is at Wisconsin.

Baldy Merrill and Arlie Schardt, two members of the championship team of 1915, sent in their congratulations from Milwaukee. George Finkle, captain of last year's team, now an engineer at Berlin, Wisconsin, has been following the progress of the team all year and was as happy as though he had been captain of this fall's team when the Badgers raced into the championship.

Carl Rossmeissel and "King Tut" Tschundt, two hill and dale men of a few years back, wrote in their praises of the team. Harold Larriger, old time cowpath follower, now a lawyer at Baraboo, took time from the whirl of the business world to send a few words of congratulations to the harriers of today.

A letter was received from R. B. Powell, New York. For two years Powell was captain of the all-American cross country team, an organization similar to the all-American football team for ineligibles. Powell was an exceptionally fine runner, but studies prevented him from running on the varsity.

Many "W" track men also sent in their praises. Jimmy Peterson and Norman Scott, Chicago, and Ray Albright, Akron, Ohio, three old cinderpath artists, were among them.

VARSITY MERMEN IN INTRAMURAL DUAL SWIMMING

Fair Sized Crowd Cheers Competitors in Second Gym Pool Contest

Two teams of varsity swimmers took part in the second of Coach Steinauer's intramural dual swimming meets yesterday afternoon in the gymnasium pool.

A fair sized crowd was on hand to cheer the competitors. A few freshmen who have shown up well in practice were on the teams with the varsity men and gave ample proof of their ability.

Following are the results:

160-yard relay—Hodges, Briggs, Pederson, and Johnson made 1:21 2-5, against 1:22 1-5 for Fox, Comstock, Bach, and Holmes.

Dives—McGinnis, first, 70.5 points; Hall, second, 69; Gentile, third, 66.5; Briggs and Perisho.

40-yard swim—Ratcliff, first; Bach, second; Bardeen, third. Time—0:20 4-5.

100-yard swim—Holmes, first; Ratcliff, second; Frazier, third. Time, 1:03.

220-yard free style swim—Fox, first; Perisho, second; Ferris, third; Fulson, fourth. Time, 2:46.

150-yard back stroke—Libby, first; Pederson, second. Time, 2:6 1-5.

200-yard breast stroke—Wray, first; Cody, second; Collins, third; Abendroth, Flickinger, Powell and Schnecklein. Time, 2:56.

IN WHAT SENSE A UNION?

Modern methods of organization and activity are usually impetuous and headlong, with very little consideration of the object to be gained. There seems to be little effort made at analysis or definition of problems before steps are taken to launch some new activity or to promote some new cause or movement. The unavailing philosophies of the past have given way to the more or less blind enterprises that mark the present era, and probably there never will be in all things the proper mixture of venturesomeness and forethought.

"The Union of Wisconsin Men" is a very high-sounding phrase, but doubtless in the minds of the majority of those properly included under that term there are very vague and various ideas about what it means. There is not time for everyone to thoroughly analyse everything, so why expect all the male students in the university to understand just what their "Union" is? The officers and promoters have made a more comprehensive study of the possibilities and purposes of the Union, but a safe assumption is that bottom has not yet been struck; as long as the Union exists, which should be forever, there should be a constant development in the idea behind it, and there is nothing but good will behind the suggestion that every member of the Union, from the members of Union Board down to the lowliest frosh, spend a good deal of time in figuring out in just what sense the Union is a union.

One possibility is that the Union is a sort of glorified cheering section, rah-rahing at all athletic functions, boasting the university with every available argument or with none at all, and putting Wisconsin on the map in the collegiate world. This is the idea that prompts the student body to hold massmeetings and to pull the red wagon through the streets; it is the idea that speaks of loyalty in terms of yelling and hoarseness. A very worthy conception it is, but rather inadequate.

As the antithesis of this possibility is the suggestion that the Union is a Society for the Promotion of Learning. This sounds ludicrous, but after all everything connected with a university should somehow further the education of the students, and perhaps it isn't so far from the truth to say that the Union itself is educational. But learning in the scholastic sense has its proper place in the class room, while the Union is chiefly concerned with the students during their hours between classes, and this definition also seems lacking.

A more pessimistic view is that the Union is for the mutual betterment of companions in misery, a sort of league of youth against faculty oppression. Or again, perhaps it is merely a loose confederation of men accidentally thrown together—something like the population of a town or city. And a finer conception is that the Union is a brotherhood, a bond of fellowship between kindred minds and a family of friends. The first of these definitions is false on the face of it, the second is disappointing and inadequate, and the third is idealistic and exaggerated.

But certainly the Union has something of nearly all these ideas, and probably many others as well. The big thing is that the Union has a philosophy behind it, and the exact determination of what that philosophy should be is the problem of every student. It should be something so fundamental and so vital that it would be an influence in the lives of Wisconsin men, making them distinctive from students in all other colleges, so that it would be true to say "Once a Wisconsin man, always a Wisconsin man."

AMERICAN STUDENTS AS A TYPE

The observations of Conrad Hoffman '12, alumnus of the University of Wisconsin, and administrator of the Student Friendship fund in Europe, concerning the students of America are particularly interesting because he has been working among students in many European countries since 1915, and has plenty of background for making a mature comparison. He believes that American students are somewhat superficial and are largely missing the vital things in their education, but that they are the most generous and sympathetic students in the world. But to quote him directly, in speaking of colleges in America he says—

"A busy-ness apparent, not so much in the pursuit of knowledge in the halls of learning as in the extra-curricular activities and in innumerable organizations. An extreme if not exaggerated popularity of football . . . in newly built stadia (which vie in size and seating capacity with the Coliseum of Rome) . . .

"Abundant evidence here of superficiality, of shallowness, of mechanistic, goose-stepping education, with little real concentrated study actuated by love of knowledge as such, which is typical of so many European students today.

"Selfish, self-indulgent, provincial, some accuse. Yes! But with all the prosperous and carefree life,—always a temptation to selfishness and forgetfulness of one's neighbors,—there are no students in the world more responsive to appeals for help and to moral values. Their hearts still beat true to the best instincts in man, are still keenly sensitive to the cry of unfortunate fellowmen. But they insist on and demand reality, truth, not conventional artifices, and when reality is given, they respond unstintingly, unafraid of even the greatest sacrifice."

From the American point of view, at least, no tribute could be more noble.

Beyond Our Campus

By BERNARD A. GOODKIND

An Anglo-Egyptian row that threatened not only the peace of the two parties concerned, but of Europe as well, furnished the week's big news. The murder in Cairo of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army and governor-general of the Sudan, and dissatisfaction with Egyptian self-rule led England's new Conservative government to send to the Egyptian parliament an ultimatum with very drastic demands. Labor, recently defeated at the polls, naturally arraigned the "imperialistic" course of the administration.

Early in the week, the Egyptian parliament addressed notes of protest to all governments of Europe and to the league of nations. No action is expected from the league because Egypt is not a sovereign nation. Premier Herriot of France has decided upon a "hands off" policy for his country.

At this writing, a little band of Egyptian troops in Sudan are defying the British evacuation order but this is not expected to block the total aquiescence, which must come, to England's demands. The presence of British warships and soldiery precludes the possibility of ultimate refusal.

Egypt agrees to apologize for the murder and pay a $2,500,000 indemnity, but denies the assassination was the result of a political plot. Chief demands in the ultimatum, that Egypt has thus far refused to meet are English re-organization of the Egyptian foreign service, guarantees for protection of foreigners, and an increasing of the irrigation area in the Sudan. The last demand was refused on the grounds that a resulting deflection of Nile waters to the Sudan would be injurious to Egyptian crops. Scientific opinion, it seems, differs with the Egyptian contention on this point.

BETWEEN countless trips down the basement steps to curse the steam gauge we will try to get out today's fables—we have even tried going to the libe in a determined attempt to keep warm—any place in a storm, say we.

MAN THE BOATS!

Yesterday the flag was flying upside down on top the gym. Hank tells us that this is the accepted signal of distress at sea—the S. O. S., no doubt, came from the tank room when one little Miss C. I. P. A. walked in to ask "Oh, is this the stock pavilion?"

The promoters have been asking us to give the young delegates a taste of college life. Well, we saw a couple on Langdon and heartily agree with the idea. All we need now is the chairman on introductions to blonde delegates.

Oh, yes, we saw three of the lads heading up state, one had a Baird's Fraternity Directory and the other two a map of the Latin quarter—out after big stuff, these boys.

IMAGINE THIS!

Leo Koretz is coming back to Chicago with a beard! And also his radiator—Yea—watch us! We are going to wash in the hair tonic for a couple of weeks. Nothing would appeal to us more than to parade into Lathrop Friday night with a yard or two of tanglewood all over our chin—and then to have a date with H. H. Hannah. We could leave whiskers on her in exchange for the white hair from her coat.

The Reader's Say-So

THE POWERS CASE.

Editor, the Daily Cardinal: It is possible to account for the writing of Thursday morning's editorial "Not Guilty" by assuming that the writer was either very young or stark crazy. But how account for its acceptance by the managing editor, who presumably awarded it the commanding position on the first page? Was no one with horse sense standing by when the Daily Cardinal was put to bed Wednesday night?

Yours, etc.,
JOHN TROXELL.

THE POWERS CASE.

Editor, the Daily Cardinal: I am one of the many students who feel that the editorial in yesterday's Cardinal, entitled "Not Guilty" fails to express the sentiment of the student body in regard to the verdict in Powers' case.

Place the average citizen in Powers' place on the night of the shooting. Let him be roused out of bed on a dark night, tired and frightened. Give him a gun and let him see or hear somebody on his back porch who, instead of answering to a command, suddenly moves. In this age of the daily occurrence of holdups—and murders, wouldn't the average citizen shoot? Undoubtedly he would. What more should we expect of a Madison policeman?

Unfortunately we can hear but one version of this shooting. Perhaps the affair would take on a much different aspect if Posepny could account for himself. But as this is impossible why should we doubt Powers' version. It has every element of truth in it; it coincides with all the evidence obtainable. Why not, in the true Wisconsin spirit of fair play, give Powers the benefit of the doubt?

This shooting has nothing in common with the one which took place here several years ago. In that case the policeman had no reason for shooting and only escaped punishment through the loopholes in court methods. In that case, the officer saw his victim. He knew that he was unarmed. He knew that he was a student of the University of Wisconsin, not a holdup man or what not. Compare this with Powers' case. Do they bear any resemblance? Why should we class them together just because both parties belonged to the Madison Police Force?

Let us accept the verdict in the same faith that it was given. Let's show the same spirit of fair play in this matter as we show on the football field and basketball floor. Let's make that the only spirit of its kind known at Wisconsin.

SPEAKING OF HANNAH.

We at last found out who Hannah is and are all ready to give the laugh to Elsie Evans, who has been wearing her white coat even to breakfast in the fond hope that someone would think she was Hannah. Well, Hannah isn't from Stevens Point at all. She's—but let Stew tell it.

She was known as quiet Hannah in La Porte, Indiana, Until she bought her fur coat in a store.

On a search for knowledge She has come to college And she isn't quiet Hannah Any more.

(Thanks for the note, Hannah—we liked it!)

PRETTY OLD.

Of course, only their best friends will tell about it—but then, old Haly has found another use—the Home Ec's are cooking the onions in Listerine.

CAN WE DEPEND ON IT?

HARESFOOT FOLLIES—"The lighting—subdued, but not too much! We want to know—not too much of what, the lighting or the subdued?"

Some of the little press delegates from Georgia coming way up north for the first time have been seen hiking into various clothing stores along State st.—and what do you think they bought there? Aha, "we wear 'em in the winter."

Alloy!

DRAMATIC PAPER ON SALE TUESDAY

Editorial, Comedy, and Review of Play Season Will Feature Magazine

The first publication of the Players magazine is ready for distribution. After the regular distribution has been completed the magazine will be placed on open sale Tuesday at Bascom hall, according to William J. Tannewitz '23, business manager of the magazine.

"The Players magazine is filling a decided need for an amateur dramatic magazine which will bring all theaters into closer harmony and mutual assistance," explained Mr. Tannewitz.

This magazine is edited by the National Collegiate Players, a national honorary dramatic fraternity. Wisconsin alumni edit and manage the magazine. Staff members are Donald M. Kastler '23, editor; Mr. Tannewitz, business manager, and Alfred D. Ludden '23, advertising manager.

"What We Are Told to Do," an editorial by Prof. Gertrude E. Johnson, of the speech department, and a one-act comedy, "A Matter of Choice," are features of contributions by Wisconsin dramatists. A review of the fall dramatic season in Chicago, by Mr. Kastler, and a review of books in the dramatic field, by Miss Johnson are also included in the magazine.

Professor Lobeck
Will Lead Forum
Discussion Sunday

Prof. A. K. Lobeck of the department of geology will lead the discussion of the forum of Wesley foundation at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. He will attempt to show the means of interpretation available through geology on the one hand and Bible study on the other.

"This is a theme over which all Christians stumble sooner or later as they make an honest effort to adjust childhood conceptions of God and the universe to the knowledge acquired as adults," the Rev. E. W. Blakeman, pastor of the Wesley Foundation church, said.

Last week Professor Guyer spoke on "The Bearing of Science upon Religion," at the forum discussion. He pointed out the distinct but inter-related fields of science and religion and encouraged the pursuit of religion as a training of feelings.

GET STAFF POSITIONS
Charles W. Lewin '23, sports editor of the Cardinal his last year at Wisconsin, has just resigned from the staff of the Rockford Morning Star to accept a position on the staff of the Evening Standard, New Bedford, Mass.

Robert T. Greibling, '23, has recently rejoined the staff of the Evening Standard after having been connected with a national fraternal magazine in New York for some time.

Miss Dorris Berning, '24, has taken up work with the Record, Wyandotte, Michigan.

JOURNALISM FEES PAY LAB EXPENSE

Students Pay Dollar For News-papers, Ink, and Copy Paper

The journalism laboratory formerly was limited but since all journalism students have gone to Miss Bauer, Prof. William G. Bleyer's secretary, for their long, pale, orange cards and then gone slowly down to the bursar's office to regretfully pay the required dollar fee, the laboratory will not be so limited.

Formerly the department subscribed by the month to eight papers, those used at a particular time in classes, the other papers being sent up from the library, after they were half a month old.

Part of this dollar is to pay for a year's subscription to different papers. This will enable the students to read fresh news as well as give a greater variety of papers to read and compare.

These same regretful students will be joyous when, typing furiously up in the laboratory they run out of copy paper or ink, they can easily replenish their supply, which will be paid for part of their dollar.

Loosen Your Purse Strings— Movies Claim Your Attention

By H. E. R.

Start your studying for next week now, for the theater owners of Madison are preparing a schedule of shows that will cause you to close your books and spend your shekels.

The greatest offering will be made at the Strand, where D. W. Griffith's "America" will be shown for the entire week. The cast of this picture numbers around 35 with a lot of names such as Lionel Barrymore, Carol Dempster, Neil Hamilton, and Louis Wolheim tucked in to show its worth.

Despite the chilly outlook, we guarantee that no one will get cold at the Parkway next week. Betty Compson will be the little heat generator in "The Enemy Sex," the tale of a little gold-digger in the gold-fields of Broadway. Percy Marmont, Sheldon Lewis, Huntley Gordon, and Kathryn Williams form a fine supporting cast in this new number. This picture will show for four days, and then the walls of the showhouse will echo and re-echo (getting poetic) with the music that charms, as rendered by Geraldine Farrar in "Carmen." We consider this by far the greatest opportunity that the student body will have to enjoy the work of a master, and encourage attendance. Only one performance will be given.

The next two evenings will be devoted to Union Vodvil, and for the benefit of the Memorial Union, and for your own personal enjoyment—Turn out in body! Our inside tip is that you will never see anything at the Orpheum that will equal it.

The Madison has booked two good shows for next week. "Babbitt," from the book by Sinclair Lewis, will be the opener of the week. Willard Lewis portrays the part of the man who gave up his home and his business for a gal, almost. "The Price She Paid" will be the concluding movie featuring the young lady that made us move restlessly in our seats when we saw "Cytherea," Alma Rubens. Frank Mayo is the male of the plot.

Over at the "Orph," Birdie Reeve, champion typist of the world, will open the performances in "The Fingerwit." On the same bill will be an excellent character comedian, Dave Ferguson, who has an act labeled "The Lucky Stiff." Lloyd Ibach's Entertainers will be the feature act on the last-of-the-week offering.

Melvyn Hesselberg and the Majestic players will offer their best work in "The Servant in the House," which has been, as we remember it, one of the greatest dramas of modern times. The successes of the company in the near past have proven that the results will be worth watching.

The Greatest Classic of the American Stage

A Play That Every Student Should See

To the Students:

Any student who fails to see "The Servant in the House," is neglecting a duty to himself and his education. As this play is recognized to be one of the literary masterpieces of the American stage.

MELVYN HESSELBERG

JUST BEFORE THE KICKOFF

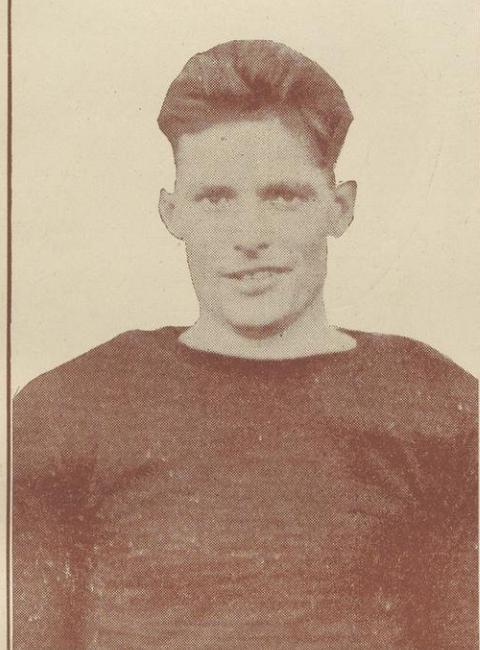

Thousands of loyal Badgers, alumni and students, watch their fighting team rush into action in the 1924 Homecoming game with Iowa.

WHEN THE EAST MEETS THE WEST, AND THE NORTH THE SOUTH

Approximately one thousand scribes from high schools and technical schools all over the United States, including delegates from Massachusetts, New Jersey, Tennessee, South Carolina, Washington state, and the Dakotas are in attendance here today at the fifth annual Central Inter-Scholastic Press Association convention sponsored by the department of Journalism.

DON'T WEAR A FROWN is a part of the playing philosophy of Steve Polaski, newly-elected captain of the football team who will pilot the Badgers in their 1925 bid for the title. Steve is being picked by many critics and writers on all-conference and all-Western honor teams. He stars at end and carries the sobriquet of "Fighting Steve."

There's a difference in the way these coats of ours "hang"; the lines are finer, the fit is better; that's because the overcoats were carefully tailored for us out of rich fine woolens by designers who had the real English touch.
