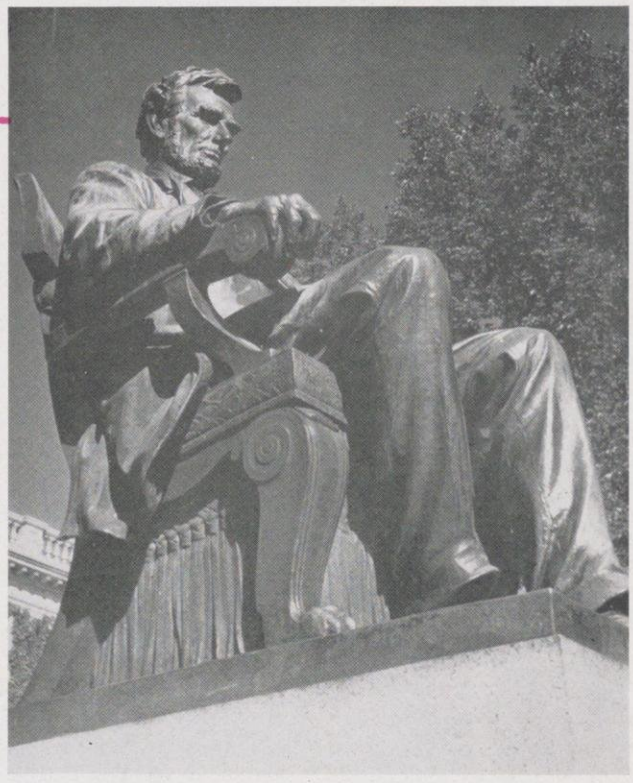
Dedication

To the men and women of Wisconsin who are dedicating their services to victory in the war and for peace in the future.

THEIRS must be the possession of great courage both physical and mental to carry on the liberal ideals which Wisconsin has given them. They shall use the Wisconsin "spirit" as a base for the unstopable impetus which will carry them to the final victory over the foes of their way of living; and as a stepping stone toward the development of a world more perfect than before in its concept of the ultimate truths which bring peace and understanding to all mankind.



WE have attempted to present in this, the fifty-eighth BADGER, a picture of Wisconsin as it is. Yet with a feeling of nostalgia for what we have known here for four years and what has become a part of ourselves, we still portray with picture and words part of the "old" Wisconsin.

The Navy and Waves are new. The stepped-up schedule is new. We are missing many familiar faces. But after all most of the traditions and scenes remain. Lincoln still overlooks the unforgettable Hill. The Lake is still a gem of rare blue beauty in the summer sun.

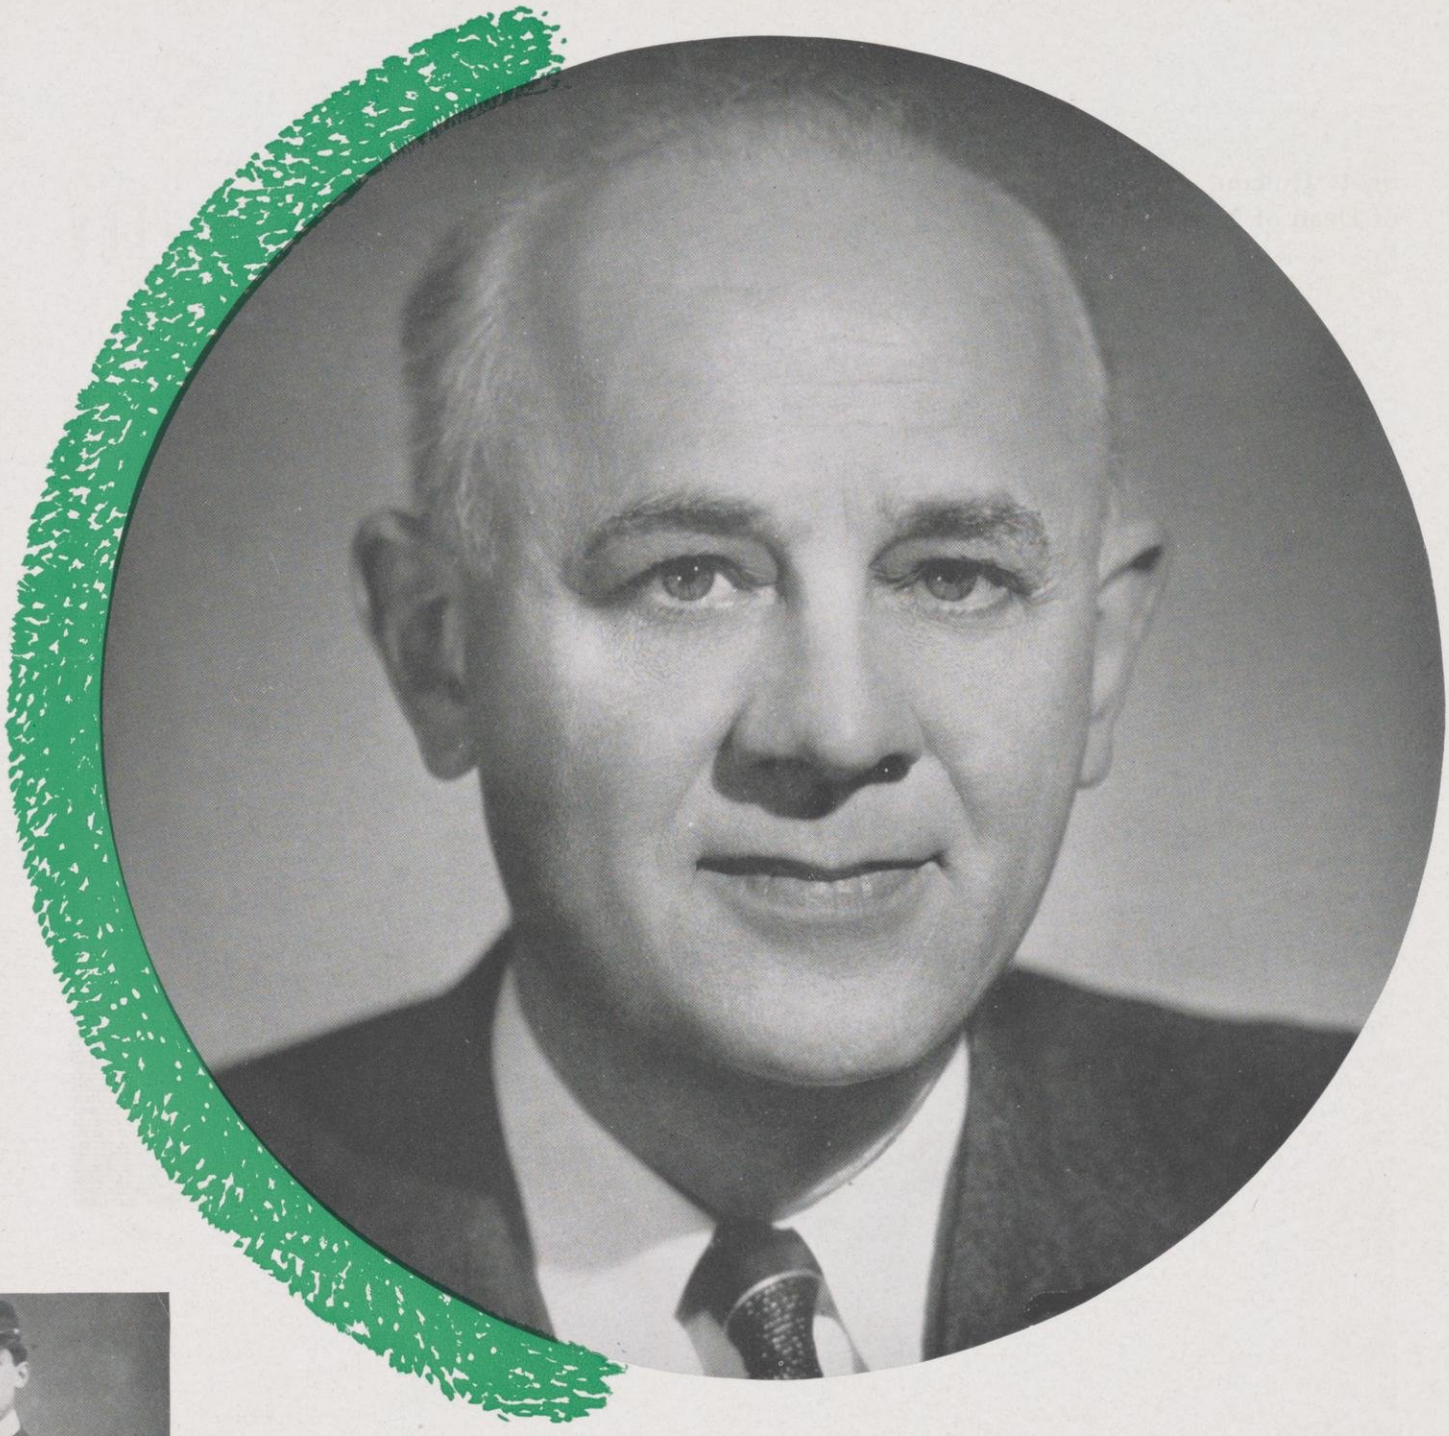
Thus our purpose is to send out in the BADGER those old memories mingled and blended with a University at war, that we who are leaving will carry with us forever and with its help recapture those moments we knew at Wisconsin.

Governor Walter S. Goodland—who is now in his first year as Governor of the State of Wisconsin—is devoting his energies to co-operating with the federal government in state war production activities and guiding affairs of state. Before entering a political career he was a practicing lawyer, and editor and publisher of a Racine newspaper. He was first elected to the Lieutenant-Governorship in 1938 and was re-elected in 1940.

Governor-elect Orland S. Loomis, leader of Wisconsin's Progressive Party, was born at Mauston on November 2, 1893. He attended Ripon College and the University of Wisconsin, graduating in 1917. A practising attorney for twenty-five years, he was an assemblyman and a state senator, and served as attorney-general in 1935-1936. He was elected Governor of Wisconsin in November, 1942, but passed away before taking over the office.

The mammoth task of guiding the University policy and deciding on all matters pertaining to the budget is no simple matter. The Board of Regents handles just such a demanding job during its regular meetings. Under the leadership of President A. J. Glover, the Board keeps a sane and experienced eye on the great Wisconsin idea.

Board of Regents: Holmes, Sensenbrenner, Kleczka, Hodgkins, Grady, Glover, Dykstra, Peterson, McCaffrey, Slightam, Weiner, Callahan, Ekern.
Not in Picture: Cleary.

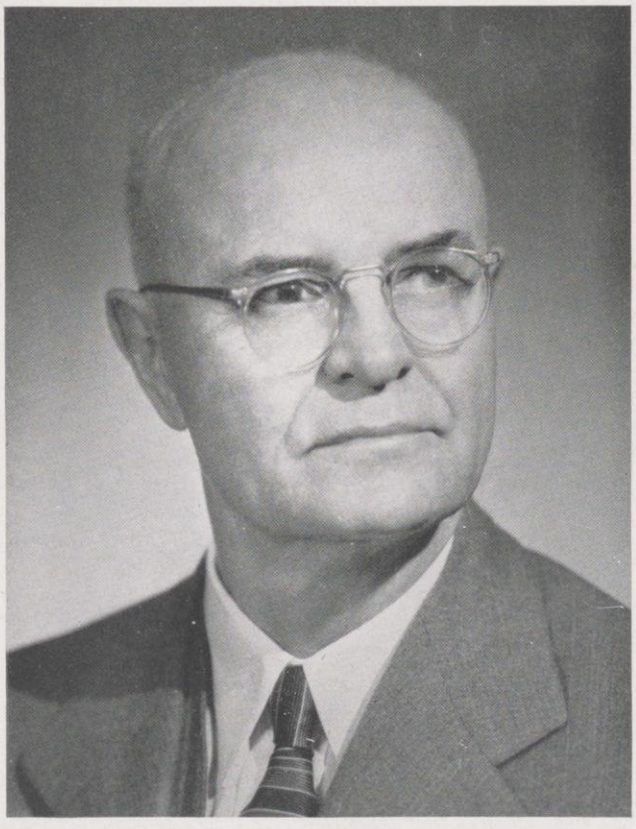


President CLARENCE A. DYKSTRA

In this year of war, President Clarence A. Dykstra has more than ever typified for us the Wisconsin spirit. As friend and counsellor of the students, he has succeeded in meeting many of them personally, and has inspired them all with his open expression of faith in youth and never-failing efforts to promote the interests of the University. Foremost among the nation's college presidents, he has put war-time Wisconsin on the map by his sponsorship of campus military projects to train the students for fighting now and wise peace later. His familiar smile and erect figure will be remembered long after this year's seniors have graduated and forgotten many of the lesser figures of the campus. For our beloved "Prexy" has made himself a part of the Wisconsin scene for all time.

"Dyke" was also in ROTC

FOR twenty-seven years, Scott Holland Goodnight has held the position of Dean of Men at Wisconsin. During this time his reputation has spread across the country, and today he is everywhere recognized as the best among deans of men at all America's colleges and universities. On the Wisconsin campus, he has managed to combine discipline with personal popularity among the student body—two qualities which are too seldom found in many administrators. Dean Goodnight spends much of his time during the winter months preparing and planning for the summer session of which he is director. Besides his task of directing the men students, he - chair man of the Student Life and Interests committee, and adviser to Phi Eta Sigma.

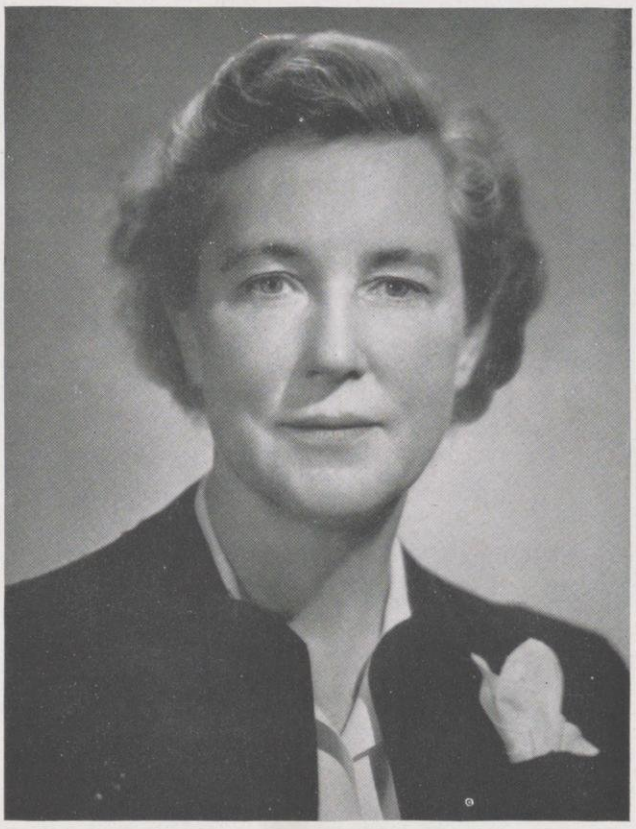


SCOTT H. GOODNIGHT

Dean of Men

LOUISE TROXELL GREELEY

Dean of Women



DEAN Louise Troxell Greeley typifies all that the ideal Dean of Women should be. Not only an able executive, she manages to inject into her task the warmth of personality that makes her an understanding adviser and confidant of students who come to her desk with their problems. Hers is the difficult task of overseeing Wisconsin's nearly 4,000 women, and with the help of an efficient staff she manages to solve all the problems and to overcome many obstacles that are part of such a job. In addition to her full-time position as guiding hand to Wisconsin's women, she has been made an honorary member of Mortar Board, Sigma Epsilon Sigma, and Phi Beta; and belongs to A.A.U.W., Phi Delta Gamma, Phi Kappa Phi, and Pi Beta Phi.

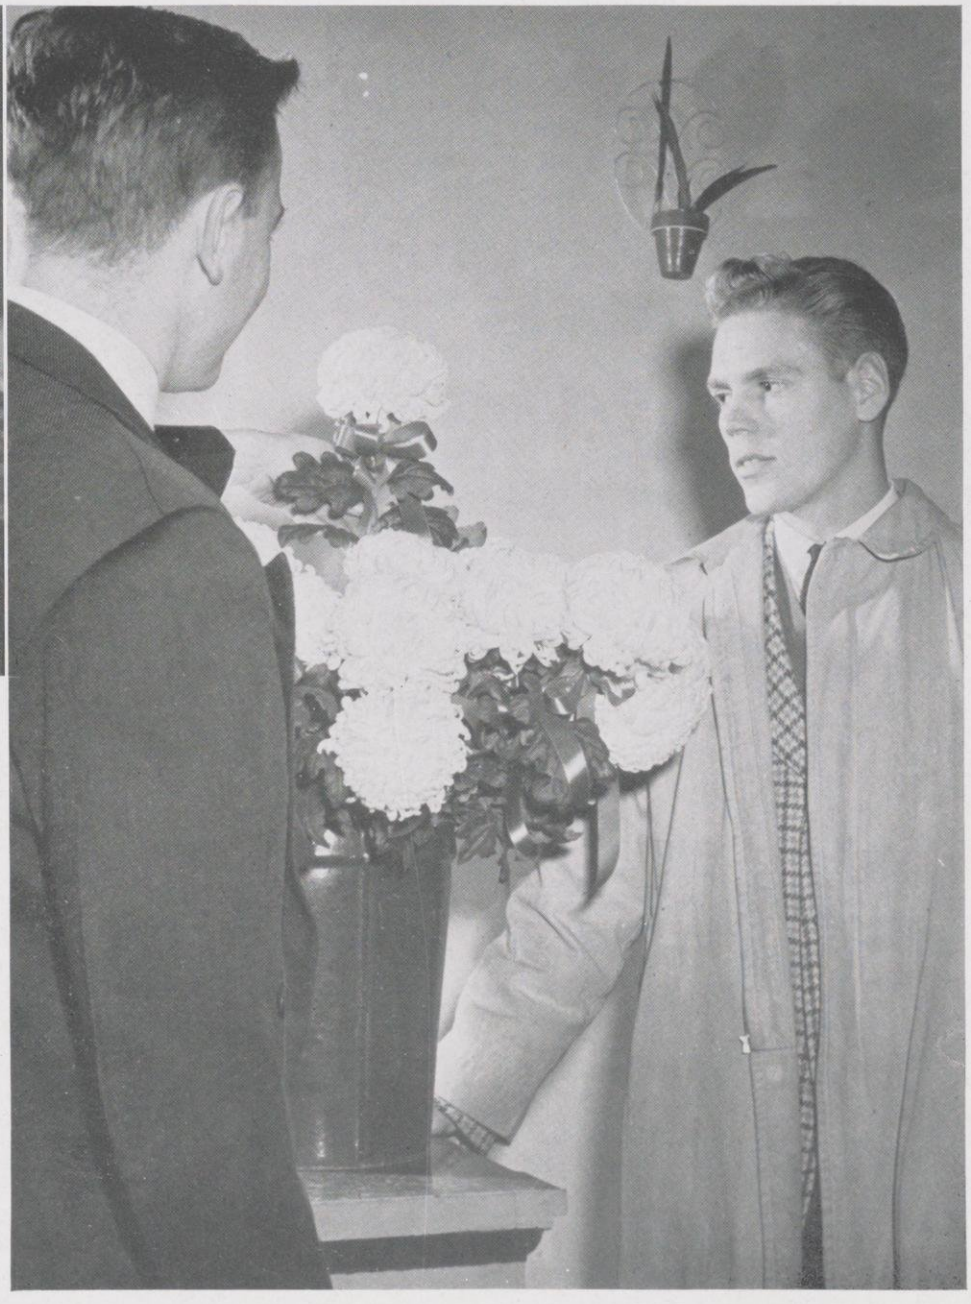
ATHLETICS

ATHLETICS

First came our coupon books . . . open sesame to every athletic event on campus. The first coupons were pulled out in the Fall when crowds streamed through the stadium gates and we sat through golden autumn afternoons cheering the players in Cardinal down the field. The air was cold and the plays came through fast . . . Stuhldreher talked into his dictaphone, while the cheerleaders turned somersaults . . . Varsity . . . and "We want a touchdown" . . . we usually got one too . . . the thrill of beating Minnesota and winning Homecoming when the town went wild . . . Wisconsin football was at the top of the nation's list and we sat in the stands and watched athletic history being made . . . The seasons kept spinning around . . . it was time to trek out to the old Field House for basketball . . . we sat tense on our benches and cheered for Bud Foster's boys slinging the ball around so fast that our eyes could hardly follow it . . . sometimes we won, and sometimes we lost, but it was always our team and always our great players . . . The track teams went from match to match and the boys kept 'em running . . . there was a special kind of thrill when a Wisconsin man broke the tape . . . Boxing matches were bloody but we went and cheered . . . we liked to see the good sportsmanship, the crowded field house, the glaring lights on the ring, and we gasped with the crowd when the punches sounded hard . . . The lake opened and out came the long skiffs . . . crew practice . . . every blade skimming the water in unison, the coach shouting directions from the motor launch, and spring in the air . . . We knew when it came by the sound of the crack of bat on ball . . . the baseball season had begun. We sat through every inning, yelling ourselves hoarse . . . for our athletics . . . our athletics.

All the magic and peace of spring at Wisconsin—a lazy afternoon, a stiff breeze, a skimming sailboat on Lake Mendota.

Fall at Wisconsin means football week-ends. These Autumn festivities bring cheering crowds, thrilling games, a crisp tang in the air, chrysanthemums, beer parties—everything that makes college life what it is. And here is a typical football week-end at Wisconsin . . . Tom McKern picks up the phone in the Alpha Delt house and calls Peggy Due, Alpha Phi, for the date.



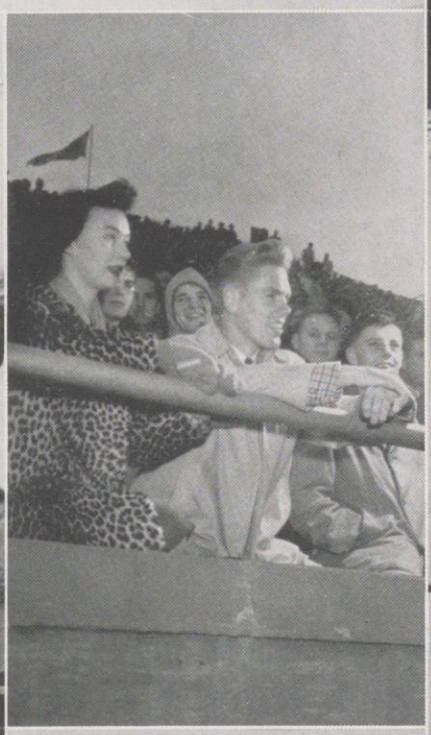
Does she accept? . . . of course, for here they are at the Friday night rally as Coach Stuhldreher tells the crowd what the boys will do out on the field tomorrow . . . Tomorrow is here, and Peggy's chrysanthemum is being carefully chosen on the way to the game. Those ribbons should bring us luck.

The Saturday afternoon begins, and its time to start the walk to the stadium. Peggy and Tom are just part of a crowd of thousands of Wisconsinites, all stepping out of their houses to spend a bright afternoon rooting for what they hope will be a victorious team . . . Show your ticket books, please.

Every gate is jammed, the pennant sellers are busy and from inside the stadium the band can already be heard. Things may get a bit rough, but who minds a little pushing on a football week-end? . . . Peggy and Tom climb to their seats and take their places with the other spectators. The benches are jammed and everyone is excited. The candy sellers appear, programs are purchased, someone yells to someone three rows down, someone else yells to someone six rows across. Nobody expects to be heard, it's just good to be making noise and letting off excess energy until the game begins at last . . .

The first thrill comes when the band steps off down the field in their colorful uniforms for the traditional flag raising. Peggy and Tom and the thousands of others watch the stars and stripes rise to the top of the pole. Then a moment's quiet, and the players rush out on the field in their cardinal and gold . . . Their throats will be hoarse for days, but who cares—when those tense moments come, the ball is on the five-yard line, there's nothing to do but yell—and yell just as loud as you can—and maybe pray a little too . . . And the yelling worked, because it's a touchdown! The players kept the ball moving down the field, closer and closer to the goal line, and now its over and Wisconsin is in the lead—Stuhldreher beams, the Wisconsin team is proud, and Peggy and Tom go wild along with everyone else, because there is no sight equal to that of the pigskin lying on a coveted spot beneath the posts.

Certainly nobody in the stadium works harder than the cheerleaders. They contort in unison, flinging themselves around careless of life or limb, urging the crowd to scream a little louder, making the spectator spirit resound throughout the afternoon . . . the game goes on and the touchdowns mount up, as Peggy and Tom watch the team go on to sure victory. It gets colder in the stands as the sun sinks lower, but who notices the temperature? Cheer after cheer keeps coming out, people huddle deeper into their coats, the drum beats out the score, and the clock is pointing to the final minute of play.



A gun sounds, Varsity is sung, and it's time to start an evening fit to celebrate a victory . . . But football week-ends must end, and after the last toast is drunk and last song sung, Peggy and Tom say the traditional good-night under a harvest moon—Wisconsin has won another victory and Peggy and Tom have wrapped up another memory of Wisconsin.

HARRY A. STUHLDREHER

With the football fields of the Middlewest as his proving grounds, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Harry A. Stuhldreher again last season displayed the keen gridiron generalship for which he, as one of the most astute students of the game, has been credited—an ability second only to his capable leadership in midwestern athletics in these times as Wisconsin's athletic director. Equally impressive is his famous smile which carries good will for the state and its university in his wide travels as a guest speaker. Under his able direction, Wisconsin's already sound athletic policy can move in only one direction.

COACHING STAFF

Sund, Fox Rippe Stuhldreher

A revised and revitalized coaching staff again were the "unsung heroes" in the background of Wisconsin's successful 1942 football picture. To them invariably are the team's failures attributed, while the credit is spotlighted upon players.

With no satisfactory replacement to fill the backfield coaching position vacated by Howard Odell, genial Guy Sundt, assistant athletic director and Cardinal gridiron immortal of two decades ago, wiped seven years' dust from his coaching cleats. Sundt again proved himself a man of unquestioned coaching abilities and vast athletic experience.

So capably did George Fox handle the duties incumbent upon him as end coach in the previous season, that he was assigned the tackle-tutoring chores last fall and made the transition with a facility and unassuming ease that characterizes him in all his activities.

Regular freshman football coach since 1935, affable Russ Rippe's advancement to the varsity staff was a happy instance for the guards and centers under his tutelage. Much of Wisconsin's success was attributed to the improvement of the center of the line.

A friendship generated when they attended grammar school together in Lancaster and played football on the Hoskins' back lot culminated in nomination of the "Touchdown Twins", Dave Schreiner, All American end, and Mark Hoskins, sterling defensive halfback, as honorary co-captains of the Badger football team. Teammates on the Lancaster high school team and roommates through the three years of college as well as fraternity brothers, the Hoskins - Schreiner combination has been a formula for friendship and a boon to Wisconsin football fortunes. Schreiner acted as team captain in three games and Hoskins led the Badgers in two contests.

Starting an "if and but" season with optimism reigning high on the Camp Randall practice field for a successful season, Coach Harry Stuhldreher's Badgers ran into unexpectedly stiff opposition from Camp Grant's well-conditioned veteran eleven in the opening game of the season, a game which was played on Sept. 19, one week before the opening of the fall semester. Led by Acting Captain Paul Hirsbrunner, the Badgers initial thrust was halted on the Camp Grant 7-yard line after a 40-yard march which began after Mark Hoskins had intercepted Stan Stasica's pass. But Seelinger's pass was intercepted in the end zone to stop the drive. The Badgers threatened again in the second quarter and reached the 8-yard stripe before Stasica intercepted Quarterback Jack Winks pass. Hal Schumaker intercepted Halfback Elroy Hirsch's attempted pass on the 10 to end a third Badger drive. Wisconsin finally got its first break in the last seconds of the third quarter after Fullback Pat Harder's attempted kick from the 36-yard line fell short when Stasica fumbled and Bob Hanzlik, Badger end, recovered on the Camp Grant 12-yard stripe. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Fullback Bob Ray raced around his own right end to score and then converted the extra point. The Badgers muffed another big scoring opportunity in the middle of the last period when Ashley Anderson, quarterback, intercepted Stasica's pass on Wisconsin's 25-yard line and raced to the Camp Grant 6 where he had the ball knocked out of his hands and Center Fred Negus recovered but the Soldiers held.

Keyed to face what had been touted as the strongest Notre Dame team since the immortal days of Knute Rockne, the Badgers countered an unfavorable group of statistics with a wealth of spirit to tie the Irish 7-7 at Camp Randall in the Ramblers' opening game. Sparked by Game Captain Dave Schreiner, the Badgers staved off three Irish thrusts in the first half. The Badgers started with a rush the first time they got their hands on the ball in the third period. Pat Harder ran back Angelo Bertelli's punt to the Notre Dame 35 from Wisconsin's own 47-yard line and on the next play Elroy Hirsch, brilliant Badger left halfback, raced around right end with Harder, who was hampered all afternoon with a leg injury, contributing a smashing block to clear the way. Harder then made the crucial extra point with Quarterback Ashley Anderson holding. Lacking their outstanding back, Owen "Dippy" Evans, who missed the entire season with a knee injury, along with Jerry Cowhig, bruising sophomore fullback, the Irish later came back to score their lone tally on a 43-yard march sparked by sophomore fullback Jim Mello. Mello finally tallied over right guard from the three yard line. Bertelli, rated as the best passer in the country, was able to complete only four tries all afternoon, but converted the extra point to tie the score.

Revealing power which had only been hinted at in their two first games, Wisconsin swept Marquette's contentions for the Dairy Bowl Football Championship out of existence 35-7 at Camp Randall. Spearheaded by unerring air attack which found end Dave Schreiner at the reception point of three touchdown passes and left end Bob Hanzlik garnering another with Elroy Hirsch fighting for 23 yards and the final touchdown, Wisconsin completely annihilated a strong Hilltop eleven. Held even in the opening quarter, the Badger pass attack exploded in the second period as Quarterback Jack Wink faded back from Wisconsin's own 30-yard line and aimed a 19-yard pass at Schreiner who galloped the remaining 51 yards. Two minutes later the Cardinal eleven tallied again on a 12-yard shot from Fullback Pat Harder to Schreiner on the goal line. Late in the period, Elroy Hirsch fought his way across the M U goal line for the fourth tally after Wink had dropped another touchdown pass into Schreiner's arms. Marquette finally tallied in the third period with their sophomore star, Johnny Stryzkalski, passing and plunging his way over virtually alone. But Wisconsin netted its last score in the fourth quarter on Hirsch's pass to Hanzlik. Harder converted two extra points and Fullback Bob Ray split the bars with three perfect tries.

Missouri's Tigers, boasting a veteran team, a high-scoring offensive, and the T-Formation, tallied first and last against the Badgers in the fourth consecutive game at Camp Randall, but Wisconsin took advantage of every break to outplay and outscore Coach Don Faurot's eleven. The Tigers scored on the second play of the game after the kick-off by Bob Steuber, the nation's leading scorer in 1942 and 1941, had bounded over Fullback Pat Harder's head and was tackled on the Wisconsin 2-yard line. Bob Baumann, senior tackle, dropped back to kick from the Cardinal's end zone and was tackled in the end zone after falling on a bad pass from center to give Missouri a safety and two points. Paul Hirsbrunner set up the Badgers first points later in the same quarter by blocking Bouldin's punt on the Missouri 27 and after two line plunges and a pass had failed to gain, Harder's third attempt for a field goal cleaved the posts to put the Badgers ahead. Led by Hirsch, Hoskins, and Harder the Badgers drove from their own 30, where Hirsbrunner had blocked Steuber's try for a field goal to the Missouri 21 where Elroy Hirsch twisted away from three men to score and Harder converted. In the third period, Hirsch and Hoskins again combined to drive to the Missouri 7-yard stripe where the irrepressible sophomore again dashed inside his own right tackle for another touchdown and Acting Captain and Fullback Bob Ray converted. Sparked by Jim Darr, substitute left halfback, the Tigers took to the air to march down to Wisconsin's one-yard stripe where Darr stepped across. Morton converted with but two minutes left in the game.

Facing a Great Lakes Bluejacket team with one of the strongest football personnels in the country, the Badgers capitalized on every break to inundate the Sailor eleven 13-7 at Soldier Field, Chicago, Ill., in Wisconsin's last non-conference game of the season. Manned by former All-Americans and ex-professional stars, Coach Paul D. Hinkle's team loosed an aerial torpedo on the Badgers as Bruce Smith passed to End Fred Preston who in turn wiggled away from three Badger backs to scamper over on the 11th play of the game. Center Bob Nelson converted. Great Lakes then concentrated on holding its own and stopped Wisconsin cold in the first half, but the Badgers roared back in the third period as Elroy Hirsch broke off tackle, shook loose three men, and dashed 62 yards for the score. Pat Harder converted. Sparked by Smith, Great Lakes marched deep into Wisconsin territory via the airways, when the Bluejacket's passing EXPLODED over their own lines. Quarterback Jack Wink earned his hero medal for the longest pass-interception runback of the football season as he intercepted Smith's pass intended for End Carl Mulleneaux, former Packer star, in his own end zone and carefully picked his way 101 yards for the score aided by some superb down-field blocking. Harder's attempted conversion was wide, but the Badger defense held.

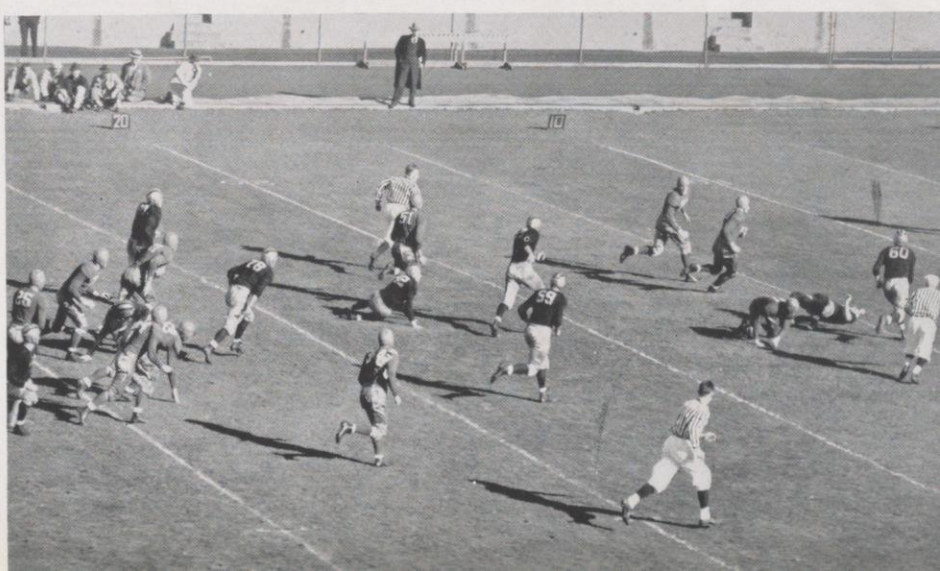
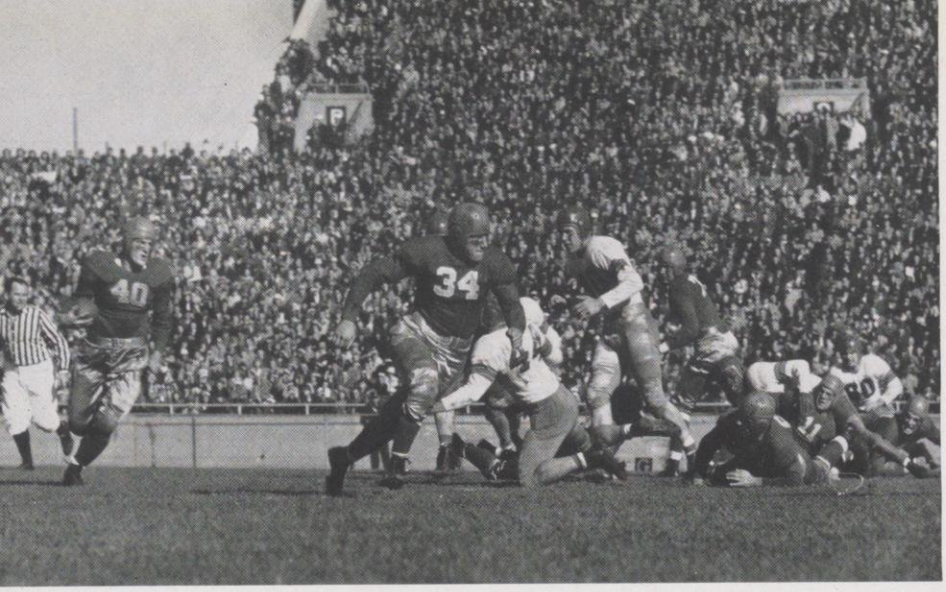
With five consecutive non-league games safely hurdled, Wisconsin made its opening bid for the conference title in an inauspicious start against Purdue's Boilermakers at Lafayette to win 13-0 in a game in which the Badgers failed to take advantage of innumerable other scoring opportunities. Wisconsin missed two scoring opportunities in the first quarter against the hapless Riveters under their new coach, Elmer Burnham. The Badgers drove once to the Old Gold and Black 23-yard stripe and Harder stepped back to attempt a field goal. But the pass from center was dropped by Wink and Purdue took the ball. Shortly after, the Cardinals again marched to the Purdue 26 where Bob Hazjyk stole the ball from the arms of Mark Hoskins. Then they finally clicked as Harder, Hoskins, and Hirsch led a 54-yard march to the Purdue 4 from where Harder went over right tackle and then converted. Wisconsin marched back to Purdue's 1-yard stripe but were halted again by a valiant Purdue linestand. The second tally came in the final quarter on an 87-yard drive, that was continued from the third quarter. Bob Ray, Purdue nemesis of 1940, finally went over from the 2. The Boilermakers made one concerted attempt to score as Tony Berto, ace left-handed passer, completed five consecutive attempts which carried Purdue from their own 25 to the Wisconsin 19 where Bob Chester fumbled the ball and Wisconsin recovered. Fumbles stymied several last minute Boilermaker thrusts.





JOHNSON

Amid the aura of Homecoming, national and international radio and newspaper interest, and a record attendance, Wisconsin played an inspired game to hand Ohio State, the nation's top team, its only defeat of the season 17-7. After a negative first quarter in which the Buckeyes, led by their two outstanding backs, Gene Fekete, sophomore fullback, and Paul Sarringhaus, senior halfback, rolled up five first downs, Elroy Hirsch skirted his own right end for 59 yards to the OSU 21-yard line after Sarringhaus's kick had bounced into the Badgers' end zone. Pat Harder and Hirsch alternated for five plays to bring the ball down to the 2 from where Harder took two tries to carry the ball over. With three minutes left in the half, Harder planted a field goal between the uprights for an additional three points. Notoriously a fourth quarter team, Coach Paul Brown's Buckeyes drove 96 yards to score early in the last period with Sarringhaus smashing over his own right tackle from the 3-yard line to score. But Wisconsin came right back to submerge the Bucks' surging hopes and marched from its own 34 to the Ohio 14-yard stripe. A deceptive pass play found Acting Captain Dave Schreiner, around whose end the Bucks gained 4 yards all afternoon, all alone on the goal line and Hirsch dropped the ball into his arms. Harder again made the extra point good.

CENSORED

Time and fortune combine to direct the Badgers off of the undefeated football road as Coach Eddie Anderson's black-clad Hawkeyes rose to meet the spirit of the Iowa Homecoming and to hold Wisconsin scoreless for the only time in the 1942 season and administer to Wisconsin its only defeat, 6-0 at Iowa City. An inspired Hawk defense frustrated Badger offensive sallies for most of the first half. Primed for this game, the Hawk linemen met the Badger backs, Elroy Hirsch and Pat Harder in the Cardinal backfield and stopped them for negative yardage with a pair of slashing ends, Bill Parker and Bill Burkett, showing the way. The Hawks finally scored halfway through the second quarter on a pass from Tom Farmer, senior halfback marksman, to End Bill Burkett which netted 25 yards and a touchdown. A previous pass from Farmer to End Bill Barbour, failed to net any points when Barbour, who had slipped behind the last safety man, Jack Wink, let the ball slip through his arms. Wisconsin, aided by an offside penalty which netted a crucial first down, marched back to the Iowa 2-yard stripe with a screen pass Hirsch to Harder carrying Wisconsin to only six inches from the goal line. With less than 20 seconds left in the half, Harder was stopped short of the goal line on his initial surge by the entire center of the Iowa line and time ran out before the next play could be consumated even though Harder failed to gain the required inches. Two more Wisconsin sallies were halted by pass interceptions and the game developed into a kicking duel while each team waited for a break which never came.

With the most spectacular play of the entire gridiron season, Wisconsin eked out a one-point victory over a Northwestern eleven at Evanston against a team which did not win a conference game all season. Still smouldering over the loss at Iowa a week previously, the Badgers showed a spirited offense which rolled up two touchdowns in the first half while the defense all but stymied Northwestern's junior halfback star, Otto Graham, the leagues' leading passer. Led by Elroy Hirsch, left halfback, and Fullback Pat Harder, the Badgers marched down to the 2-yard line from where Hirsch took the ball over only to fumble it. Harder recovered in the end zone for the score and converted the extra point. An 83-yard drive was climaxed by a short screen pass from Hirsch to Harder for the second score early in the second period and Harder again converted. The Wildcats suddenly became aroused and marched 69 yards with husky Ed Hirsch, fullback, doing most of the damage, to score with a pass, Graham to End Bob Motl; culminating the touchdown drive. Al Pick failed to convert. The powerful plunging of Hirsch mixed in with strategic passes by Graham netted the Wildcats two more scores and Pick made only one extra point attempt good. The miracle finish came when Len Seelinger faded back to pass with but 23 seconds left in the game and sailed the ball into the waiting arms of Mark Hoskins for the score that spelled victory even though Harder failed to convert.

Fifteen seniors culminated their football experiences in a Cardinal jersey by soundly trouncing a powerful Minnesota eleven 20-6 before a capacity crowd of 46,000. Early indications of the final outcome were shown as the Badgers marched to their first score in six plays for 69 yards with a pass from Elroy Hirsch to Acting Captain Dave Schreiner good for 29 yards setting up the touchdown. Harder finally tallied from the 4-yard line and added the extra point. Again in the second period Wisconsin tallied as Hirsch whipped a 32-yard pass to Schreiner and Harder again converted. They added their final touchdown early in the fourth quarter on another sustained drive. A screen pass from Harder to Schreiner carried the Badgers to the Gopher 3-yard stripe where the rangy end was dragged by Bill Daley and Dick Kelley, Minnesota safety men. Two plays later Ashley Anderson, reserve quarterback replacing the injured Jack Wink, went over on a quarterback sneak, but Harder failed to convert with Wink holding. Coach George Hauser's Gophers, victims of some spotty playing, finally added six points to the scoring column in the final period on a 59-yard march sparked by the hard plunging of Daley. Daley took the ball across from the one and the try for the extra point failed. The Badger defense, which proved itself time and again, brought to a conclusion the most successful Wisconsin football season since 1912.

FOOTBALL "B" TEAM

Somewhat lost amid the furor over a great football season, an All-American end, and four all-conference men, is the really fine record posted by the Wisconsin B-team in their initial season of play.

Well coached by Arthur (Dynie) Mansfield of baseball fame, the Bees swept through a five-game schedule with only one defeat and a heart-breaking tie. They rolled up 71 points, while holding their opponents to 31, an average of 14-6. A squad of less than 20 men set up this fine record.

Wisconsin started off the season with a bang, rolling to a 33-0 victory over a hapless Milwaukee Extension eleven. John Gallagher and Bob Omelina each scored twice in the parade, and Otto Breitenbach once.

The Beavers split even in a home-and-home series with the Camp Grant second team, taking the first in the mud of Bell Field, 7-0, on a short plunge by Earl Maves. They lost their only game here to the Warriors, 13-7. Omelina scored for the Badgers on a short dash around end.

Another two game series saw the Cards winning and tieing one with the Iowa Beahawks. A beautiful pass, Breitenbach to Don Pfotenhauer, was good for 23 yards and the 6-0 margin of victory in the first game.

Earl Maves played the hero role in leading the Bees to an 18-18 tie with Beahawks in their return game. He averaged over 10 yards a try, scoring twice, with Bill Schroeder counting the other time to make up a three-touchdown deficit. A last-second field goal attempt by George Hekkers swung inches wide of the goal posts.

1942 CREW

Coach Allan Walz

A Great Crew in '42

Wisconsin's big powerful crew under the direction of Coach Allan Walz was recognized by its followers to be one of the strongest if not the strongest crew ever to wear the Cardinal. With high hopes in the fall and spring of 1941-42 the Badgers groomed themselves for the highest goal of any crewman, a victory at Poughkeepsie. But fate intervened and Poughkeepsie was called off leaving Walz's sophomore giants with but one race, the "Adams Cup" race at Boston against Harvard, Navy, Pennsylvania, and M.I.T. Here the untried and inexperienced crew showed their worth by forcing Harvard to the limit to beat the Badgers who were coming up fast at the finish. Their showing in this race led many to make them favorites for Poughkeepsie over the long distance favored by the Wisconsin team.

Opening the season against the Milwaukee Y.M.C.A, the Badger harriers won 20 to 41. The first five Wisconsin men, Toabe, Lohr, Bauer, Rudersdorf, Baird finished in a dead heat for first place.

Chicago fell to the Wisconsin cross country men the next week-end over a 3½ mile course 17-41. The Badgers gained the first three places with Webster, Bauer and Rudersdorf finishing in that order.

The Buckeye Greyhounds won some consolation for a gridiron defeat by nosing out Wisconsin 24 to 31 over the Lake Mendota course. Minnesota's Floyd Foslun took first place in the good time of 17 min. 46 sec. The Gophers, not having a full team, did not count for final points. Knight Webster, the Badger sophomore took second in 17:54.

In the conference meet the green Badger team placed fifth, while Indiana won its eighth Big Ten Cross Country meet.

WISCONSIN BASKETBALL SEASON, 1942-43

Badgers Blow Hot and Cold to Finish in a Fourth Place Tie

Every hope was held that this year the Badgers could again gain the enviable position attained by the national championship team of 1941. The team had the potentialities needed for this aspiration being able to put on the court a quintet having size, speed, ability, and experience. Returning veterans who were expected to contribute much to the Badger success were John Kotz, and Bob Sullivan, forwards; Fred Rehm and Walt Lautenbach, guards; and Ray Patterson, center. Other members of the squad who could be counted upon to bolster this group of more veteran players were Robert Krueger and Robert Clarke, guards; Ed Downs, George Affeldt and Exner Menzel, forwards; and Gil Hertz, center. Sophomores who moved up from Coach Fred Wagner's freshman squad of last year to the varsity were Dick Falls, Bud Cook and Des Smith, forwards; Bill Johnson, Bob Farrell, and Nels Christensen, guards; and Ed Mills, center. Paul Bronson at guard and Harry Stoll, a center, joined the squad also.

In the pre-season games the Badgers gave every indication that they would have a much better than average squad. Notre Dame was the only five able to down the Wisconsin team and were forced to go into overtime to accomplish this feat in a game at South Bend. The Whiz Kids from Illinois were the first squad to outclass the Badgers when they thoroughly trounced the Foster men at Madison. This defeat seemed to push the Wisconsin team into a hot and cold season. Rising to the heights of great basketball against Indiana in one game, Chicago and Purdue, the Badgers blew cold against Illinois, Michigan, and Minnesota. In dropping contests to Michigan and Minnesota, Wisconsin lost to teams which it could on an average night overcome with ease.

On November 28th, the Varsity cagers made easy work of a willing frosh team to take the season's opener 44-23 in a freely substituted game.

The likely looking Badgers considered one of the top contenders for the conference crown met and downed their old rivals the Hilltoppers from Marquette in a fighting game 45-36. All-American John Kotz led both teams in scoring by racking up 19 points.

Camp Grant's soldiers came to town with a star-studded team but were taken by Wisconsin in the season's roughest game by the score of 38-36. A wild melee at the end found both Kotz and his old rival Don Blanken, formerly of Purdue, chased from the court. Kotz's 11 points led the Badgers.

Basketball history was made in South Bend in a game featured by the sharp shooting of both teams. The score was tied eleven times before the Irish won an overtime victory 61-59. Again Johnny Kotz was leading point-getter with 21 to his credit. Bob Sullivan tossed in 14 points.

play proved to be the margin of victory. Ray Patterson was high scorer for the Badgers with 19 points to his credit. Sullivan and Lautenbach also showed scoring power.

Demonstrating their vaunted power and finesse to great advantage, the Illinois Whiz Kids were too classy for a disorganized Wisconsin team when they beat the Badgers 52-40. This win definitely showed the Illini to be the team to beat for the title. Andy Phillips led Illinois with 24 points as against Johnny Kotz's 11 counters for Wisconsin. The manner in which Illinois caught the Badgers off-guard was shown by the 11-0 lead which they secured early in the game.

Michigan upset the Badgers in the first game of their series to the tune of 38-34. A late Wolverine rally and the unexplainable collapse of Wisconsin were contributing factors in the defeat. High scoring Kotz was held to 7 points by Dave Strack. Sullivan was high man with 11 points. The Badgers couldn't get going, and the Wolves got rebounds off both baskets.

The red hot Badgers came back to the win column again at the expense of Marquette in the Milwaukee Auditorium by a score of 50-38. Continuing his scoring ways, Kotz again gathered 21 points for himself on 10 field goals and one free throw.

Oklahoma's Sooners, a highly touted five from the Southwest, came to Madison only to be sent back home smarting under a 48-37 defeat. The first half ended with Oklahoma leading 19-17, and Kotz was held scoreless during that period. But Johnny poured in 14 points after the intermission, and Bob Sullivan got 13.

During the Christmas vacation the Badgers taught Harvard a lesson in Milwaukee by defeating the Eastern boys 58-41. Foster's Badgers made the game look easy and controlled the contest throughout. Kotz, Sullivan, and Patterson led the Wisconsin scoring attack.

A fighting gang of Pipers from Hamline University in St. Paul gave the Wisconsin fans many anxious moments before the Cardinal five managed to eke out a 41-37 decision. For thirty-two minutes the Pipers set the pace, but a late Badger rally carried the decision.

In their first conference tilt of the campaign the Badgers and Wildcats clashed at the Chicago Stadium to produce a record breaking score of 132 points, 67 for Wisconsin and 65 for their opponents. Kotz's shot in the last thirty seconds of Sweet revenge was gained by the Badgers the next evening when a furious Wisconsin attack swept the Wolves off the floor and won a 54-34 victory. The two guards, Walter Lautenbach and Fred Rehm, sparked the Wisconsin attack by scoring 14 and 13 points respectively. Coach Foster substituted freely in this game, using the entire travelling squad of eleven men. The Badgers seemed back in the stride.

A precision team of former college stars was too much for Wisconsin when the Great Lakes tars sunk the Badgers 61-43. Blonde Bob Davis from last year's great Seton Hall team led the Bluejacket squad with 17 points from his guard position. No Badger could hit the hoop with any accuracy, and while Kotz played a good floor game, he could only sink three baskets and missed many heartbreakers.

Minnesota was routed by a hot Wisconsin team who had height, drive, and finesse advantage over the Gophers. Kotz, with his old shooting eye regained, scored 18 points, and Patterson counted 13 to pace the 54-33 win. Much improvement over previous games and a Gopher squad with a physical disadvantage accounted for the Badger superiority. Again reserves saw much action for Wisconsin.

Two straight wins over the Badgers was Great Lakes's record when they down the Foster men 55-48 in their second meeting, this time in the fieldhouse. Kotz was held to 12 points, six of them free throws and was effectively guarded all evening. Ray Patterson's leaving the game on fouls when the Badgers trailed by 3 points in the closing minutes hurt the Wisconsin chances of a win.

By trouncing the Chicago Maroons 74-30, the Badgers set a new Western conference scoring record. Before leaving the game on fouls, John Kotz scored 25 points. An alert defense and a fast breaking offense led to the Badger's overwhelming victory. Ellman, the mainstay in the Chicago offense, kept the Maroons in the ballgame until the middle of the first half. The Badger's defense was remarkable; the Maroons scored only one long shot from beyond the free throw circle.

In their first meeting with the Hoosiers, Indiana jumped to a 15-1 lead over Wisconsin in the first ten minutes, and the Badgers couldn't overcome that terrific disadvantage, finally losing 51-44. Indiana had too much speed, ball-handling, and rebound-getting ability for the hapless Badgers who had looked so good against Chicago the week before. The 13 points of Kotz and Rehm's 10 led our attack. Williams was the Hoosier ace, scoring 17 points. Poor shooting and a lax defense hurt the Badgers.

If Indiana was the better team Saturday, the Badgers definitely showed their superiority the following Monday with a 57-53 victory. The Badgers gave the fans a view of the team that was dreamed of earlier in the season by moving and driving with a sparkle. Sullivan and Kotz paced the attack with 19 points each. After this victory Wisconsin moved to third place in the Conference standing.

John Kotz failed to score and Andy Phillips dropped in 22 counters when the Illini beat Wisconsin at Champaign 50-26. The Badgers met the Whiz Kids on the greatest night of their careers and couldn't stop their hot opponents. Kotz was held to two shots by Smiley, and Sullivan led the Badgers with 11 markers.

In a see-saw battle before 11,500 fans the Northwestern Wildcats came forth with a 56-54 win in an overtime tussle in the fieldhouse. The Badgers were quite ordinary in a game tied nine times a game in which 6 points was the greatest margin at any time. In his last game on the home floor John Kotz netted 18 points to lead the Badgers. Bob Jake sank the winning tip-in to give the Cats the victory.

A first division berth was cinched for Wisconsin when a late game rally gave the Badgers a 53-45 win over Purdue at Lafayette. Five straight baskets comprised the rally which gave Wisconsin a 53-42 lead. Johnny Kotz scored 17 points while Sullivan had 13 tallies and Lautenbach and Patterson 11 and 10.

A sad finish to the season's story of Wisconsin basketball was written at Minneapolis where the Minnesota Gophers whipped the Badgers 48-34 in a surprising victory. This defeat left the Badgers in fourth place in the Conference play. Bill Lind, the Minnesota center who started school at Wisconsin, led the Gopher attack with 22 points. Sullivan's 8 points was high for the Badgers.

WISCONSIN BOXING 1943

Boxers Win National Championship

Although two National Champions, Warren Jollymore at 145 pounds (chosen as the most representative college boxer in the country) and Gene Rankin, the only three time National Champion in one class in college history, were graduated, Coach John Walsh expected another good season. His reasons were in the personnel of the 1943 squad. It was a team of veterans from one end to the other. The members were: Jackie Gibson, 120 pounds; Ray Crandall, 120 or 127 pounds; John Collentine, 135 pounds; Cliff Lutz, 145 pounds; Don Miller and Charles Kidd, 155 pounds; Bob Ellis, 165 pounds; George Makris and George Lee, 175 pounds; and Captain Verdayne John, heavyweight. Makris and Lutz were champions in their divisions.

The armed services early took Ray Crandall and George Lee from the team which weakened the Fighting Badgers. However, at 127 pounds, John Herren gave yeoman service replacing Crandall. To bolster the 135 pound division Len Robuck was a capable fighter to give Collentine competition in that weight. And Myron Miller, a freshman, looked good at 165 pounds.

This was the picture as the Badgers prepared to defend their record as the best college boxing team in the country. And defend it they did, winning five dual meets against some of the most outstanding college boxers and a team from Kirtland Field, "The Flying Kelleys", composed of service men. At 120 pounds the very clever Jackie Gibson gave a boxing lesson to all of his opponents and won all four of his contests before being called into service. John Werren won three bouts at 127 and one at 120 while dropping one at 127. "Red" Collentine at 135 gained an even break with two wins and the same number of defeats. Len Robuck won his only full match at this weight. Savage Cliff Lutz, a clever boxer with dynamite in his fists, won four fights, two by TKO, and drew with Warren Jollymore in the other. Don Miller at 155 lost two very close decisions as did Chuck Kidd, but Kidd had two TKO's to his credit. Before entering the service, Bob Ellis gained a pair of victories for Wisconsin at 165 pounds, and Myron Miller won a TKO in that division. National Champion George Makris had another fine season winning three bouts, one by TKO, with his usual aggressive style. In the heavyweight position big Verdayne John won four matches with his devastating punches, including in this number two by the knockout route.

So the Badgers approached the NCAA tourney, which was to be held in Madison, with an undefeated season. Wisconsin's hopes for duplicating last year's four-winners seemed weaker due to the loss to the team of Jackie Gibson, Ray Crandall, Bob Ellis, and George Lee. Cliff Lutz too was called into the army but was given a furlough to compete in the tournament. But courageous replacements were found for the missing fighters and the Wisconsin team entered men in every event.

N. C. A. A. CHAMPIONS

Five National Champions! That was the enviable record of the Badger boxers in the N.C.A.A. boxing tournament held in Madison, March 25, 26, and 27. Seven Wisconsin fighters reached the finals and Cliff Lutz, Don Miller, Myron Miller, George Makris, and Verdayne John won the coveted titles. John Werren and John Collentine were the two Badgers who were runners-up. Clearly showing the excellent coaching of Johnny Walsh the Wisconsin team stood out from the beginning as the team to beat and after the semi-finals there was little doubt that the Cardinal punchers would garner the majority of the titles. Two Badgers repeated their performance of last year when Cliff Lutz and George Makris again were able to add the title of National Champion to their awards for this year. Don Miller, selected at the last minute over Chuck Kidd at 155 pounds, did a very creditable job in winning that division while his freshman brother showed great promise by winning the 165 pound division. It was feared that Myron would be unable to compete in the finals due to a cut received over his eye in the first bout but good medical care brought him into top shape. Not only did heavyweight Verdayne John continue his winning ways to take the trophy for his weight class, but he also was awarded the La Roe trophy for his sportsmanship and character, as well as for his boxing ability. The National Tourney was a fitting climax for the Badger boxers who continued to prove that the best in college boxing is at Wisconsin. And now the great Wisconsin fighters can say in the words of Captain Omar Crocker to Captain Woody Swancutt, "No more can I swap you slap for slap, but from here on in I'll match you Jap for Jap."

Badgers get Second Place in Conference Meet

1943 was another excellent year for Coach Tom Jones' thinlies. The Badgers won every dual and triangular meet in which they entered this year as well as garnering first in the "Little Big Ten" meet at Chicago between five of the conference teams.

In its first meet at Iowa City the Badgers amassed more points than its two opponents Iowa and Iowa pre-flight combined. Wisconsin took first place in 10 of the 12 events.

Coach Tom Jones

At Chicago in the "Little Big Ten" meet the Jones boys grabbed six of 12 first places to overcome its nearest rival Northwestern by 20½ points. Wisconsin won first and second in the 60-yard dash and pole vault, first in the 60-yard high hurdles, high jump, and low hurdles.

Wisconsin's varsity track team downed Gophers and Wildcats at the University Armory Annex by winning 9 out of 12 events by aggregating 79½ points. Bob Hodgell tied the meet record in the high jump at 6′5″.

Bob Hodgell's great high jumping in which the Kansas Kangaroo leaped 6′6⅛″ to set a new annex and meet record formerly held by Wisconsin's Chuck McGinnis in 1926, lead the Badgers to an 83½ to 20½ trouncing of the Hilltops. Johnny Towle set a new record in the low hurdles and Roger Foster in the pole vault.

At the Conference meet in Chicago the Wisconsin thin clads were obliged to place second to a Michigan team which amassed 53½ points for a new record. Bob Beierle, Big Ten champ last year, was beaten on his heave of 46′2½″ by a toss of 48′11½″. Beierle had been pushing 50′ and better all season. Hodgell also met a jinx at Chicago, jumping only 6′2″ after a 6′6⅛″ jump the week before.

Outstanding for the Badgers this year were Bob Beierle, shot put; Bob Hodgell, high jump; Johnny Towle, dashes and hurdles; Roger Foster, pole vault and broad jumps; and Lambert, hurdles; McFadgean, Moreau, Crabb, and Stafford were the other consistent point getters.

The season's end saw the Badgers winning four meets and placing second in the conference meet.

Johnny Robert's boys lost six regulars and a match to Chicago by the score of 23-11. Oberly, Witt, and Dzirbik winning for the Badgers. On the way to a match with Iowa the Wisconsin wrestlers stopped off at Dubuque long enough to down the University of Dubuque 21-11. But against Iowa the Badgers were only able to win two matches, those by Bob Wirt and Ed Dzirbik. Wisconsin took the winning road again topping the Wildcats of Northwestern at Evanston 18-16 in a close match. In the Conference meet a weakened Badger team was unable to advance any men beyond the semi-finals. Sam Muir and Ed Dzirbik led the Cards in number of victories, while Lowell Oberly advanced to the semi-finals in the Conference meet for the best record there.

Fine Badger team garners a tie for third in the conference

In the pre-Big Ten season the Badgers downed Illinois Normal in their first game 8-4, then split with Bradley Tech by the scores of 5-3 and 2-3. Journeying to Kalamazoo the Wisconsin nine played a twin bill with the very tough Western Michigan team in which they split the series. Michigan State was the next opponent for Dynie Mansfield's men. Eight runs in the first four innings gave Michigan State a 8-4 decision over the Badgers in the first game and then the Spartans nosed out Wisconsin in a close tussle 8-7 to win the second game.

Illinois' strong team was the first opponent for the Badgers in the Big Ten conference play. Scheiwe's hurling and Schneider's homer aided in gaining a victory in the first contest, 6-3. Another round tripper by Schneider in the night cap with Lautenbach pitching tight ball gave Wisconsin the second decision, 3-2.

Breaking Bob Faber's, the undefeated Iowa pitcher, spell in the seventh to bunch hits and errors for two unearned runs the Badgers downed Iowa 7-4. Lautenbach starred by driving in three runs. The first damper on the aspiring title hopes of the Badgers came in the second game of this series, for in this game the Hawkeyes defeated the cardinal nine by the narrow margin of 4-3.

The Maroons of Chicago forced a split series on Wisconsin the next week-end which spoiled the title hopes of the Badgers. By a convincing margin of 10-1 the Wisconsin team handily won the first game.

Chicago came back to garner the second contest 10-6. Walt Lautenbach attempted an "iron man" performance for the Badgers but was forced from the mound in the second game and Wisconsin went down by a score of 10-6.

Camp Grant's soldiers journeyed to Madison with a team of semi-professionals from civilian life now in the army and taught the Badgers a lesson 14-2. Resuming conference play Lautenbach won his fifth game of the season when the Wisconsin team downed Northwestern in a night tilt 10-3.

The title chances of the Cardinal were completely gone due to a double loss to Minnesota the following weekend. Injuries and hard luck were now plaguing the Badgers. Sweet revenge came to the Wisconsin team when they overcame the potent Camp Grant outfit by the score of 6-4.

A 5-2 loss to Ohio State was followed by Schneider pitching the Badgers to a 5-4 victory and a third place tie in the conference.

1942 OUTDOOR TRACK

Badger's place fifth in conference for second straight year

When Coach Tom Jones remembers the 1942 outdoor track season, the names, Bill Williams and Bob Beierle, stand out among all the others.

Williams, 1942 captain, who won or tied for the conference pole vault championship five out of six times in his collegiate career, and Beierle, Big Ten shot put king, who was elected 1943 captain, were the team's outstanding performers and highest scorers.

That Williams and Beierle were all set for a red hot season was evident early in the spring when Wisconsin emigrated to Lawrence, Kansas for its first meet, the Kansas relays. Williams captured first place in the pole vault and Beierle took second in the discus and third in the shot put against some of the Midwest's top track talent.

In Wisconsin's second meet, the famous Drake relay carnival, both men again broke on to the score board, Williams taking first in the pole vault, and Beierle winning third in the discus and fourth in the shot put against some of the nation's best weight men.

The Badgers then defeated Marquette, 75 to 56, in a dual encounter, and outscored Minnesota 74½ to 63¾ in a triangular meet which also included Northwestern. The Wildcats picked up 13¾ points.

Only twice in Big Ten track history has a Wisconsin track squad fallen out of the first division, and the 1942 squad barely kept this record intact by crowding in for fifth place, just a point ahead of Michigan. Ohio State was an easy victor with 66 points.

In this meet Beierle accounted for eight of the Badgers 20 markers by winning the shot put at 48 feet 7¾ inches and snatching third in the discus.

Williams soared to a tie with his rival, Jack Defield of Minnesota, at 13 feet 6½ inches.

Bob Hodgell, dark horse high jumper, took another first for Wisconsin in the high jump, he along getting over the bar at 6 feet, 4 inches. Dick Moreau tied for fourth in this event, and James McFadzean placed fifth in the broad jump to round out the Badger scoring.

Other trackmen on the 1942 varsity were Byron Zolin, one of the best quarter milers Jones has developed; Gil Hertz, ace high jumper, Johnny Towle and Dave Soergel, sprint twins; Wally Lambert, fast-stepping hurdler; Jerry Bauer, Frank Stafford, Roland "Rip" Perusse, Don Hay, and Bill Schafer, middle distance quintet; Bob Ray, Cyril Kabat, and Ed Shaw, weight men; Fred Kubal, broad jumper; Ashley Anderson, pole vaulter; Lawrence Hadley, Javelin thrower, and Merle Knox, strong little two-miler.

.500 record for Badgers

Finishing the season with a .500 record has been the fate of the Badger tennis team who have found the 50-50 jinx impossible to break for the past three years. The team was lead by Captain Sherwood Gorenstein the No. 1 player for the past two years. Warren Marlow had the admirable record of six victories and only one loss last season. Other members of the 1942 team who saw service for Wisconsin were John Beamish, Bob Bruce, Armand Schudson, John Davis, Tom Stephens, Dick Brodhead, and Ed. Ettner. In the Conference meet won by Chicago, the Badgers finished eighth.

Golfers Have Fair Season

Led by Captain Burleigh Jacobs, who won the Western conference medal for proficiency in athletics and scholarship, the Wisconsin 1942 golf team finished the season with four victories over Chicago, Lawrence, and Marquette twice, and three defeats to strong Michigan, Notre Dame, and Northwestern outfits. The Badgers finished sixth in the conference and Jacobs placed sixth in the individual scoring. Besides Jacobs, team members were Bob Alwin, Stewart Koch, Willard Vea, Jack Peters, Johnny Kotz, and Doug Oldenberg.

UNIVERSITY INTRAMURALS

University intramurals were marked this year by the closeness of the competition so that by April 1st no definite winners could be picked. The depleted numbers in most of the Greek houses seemed to point to a victory for Alpha Chi Sigma, most of whose members are chemistry students, and the moving of the army into some of men's residence halls obscured the situation there.

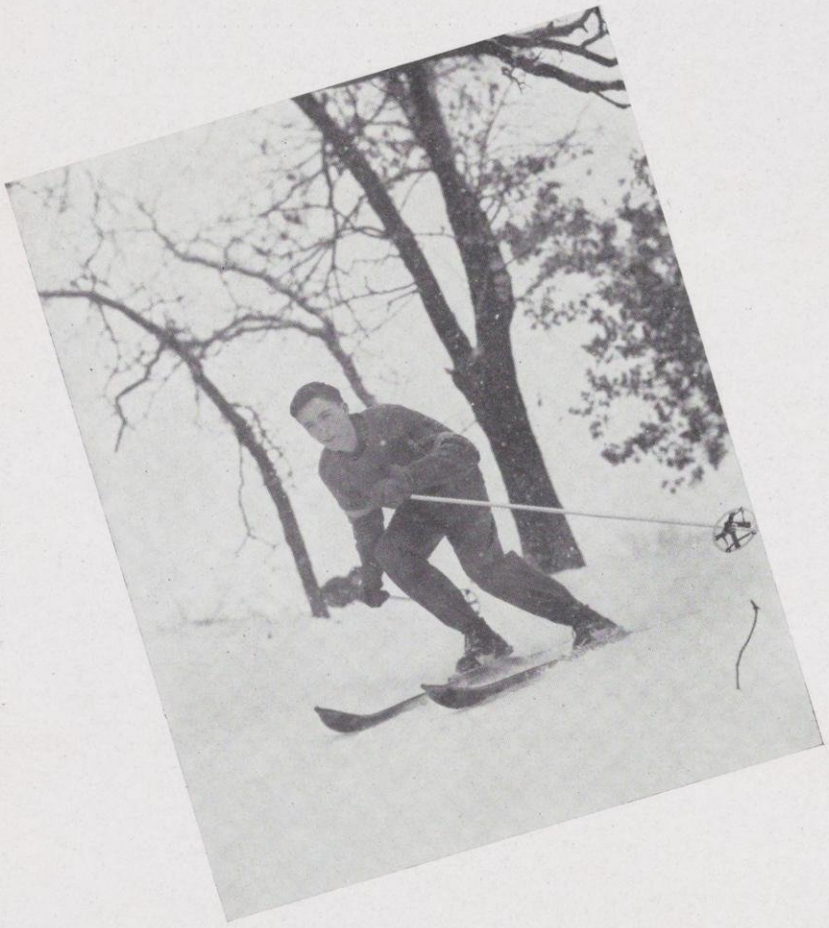
WISCONSIN SKI TEAM



Under Pete Thomsen, the new captain of the Ski Team, an extensive war-time ski program was carried out this year. Hoofer skiers again instructed the ROTC Ski Patrol and students, and when the WAVES arrived special classes were arranged for them.

The first exhibition meet was held January 10, and the proceeds were turned over to the Service Fund of the Army and Navy who also had skiers participating. This meet included stunt skiing such as jumping through fire and double-jumps.

The Winter Carnival Ski Meet of February 14, the biggest of the season, matched Hoofer Skiers with the best skiers of the United States, when a team of Uncle Sam's Mountain Troopers accepted a special invitation and competed in the meet. The traditional dual Minnesota-Wisconsin meet was again won this year by Wisconsin, so that the Traveling Trophy remains with the Badgers for another year.

Hoofer skiers of previous years are today fighting in the United States Armed Forces, the majority having entered the Mountain Troops. Lost from last year's team were: Charles Sedivec, 1941-42 Captain; Fred Lonsdorf, 1942 Central United States inter-collegiate Down-hill champion; missed perhaps most of all, was Walt Bietela, former Olympic ski jumper and star athlete.

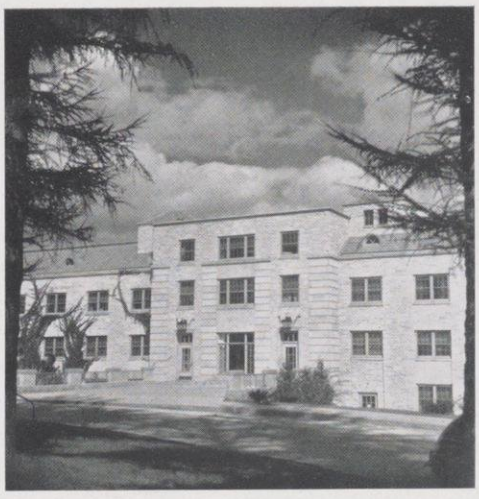
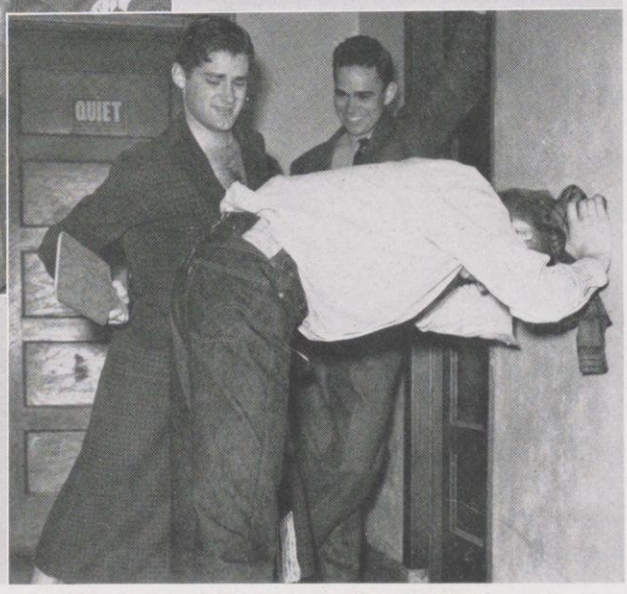
ORGANIZATIONS



ORGANIZATIONS

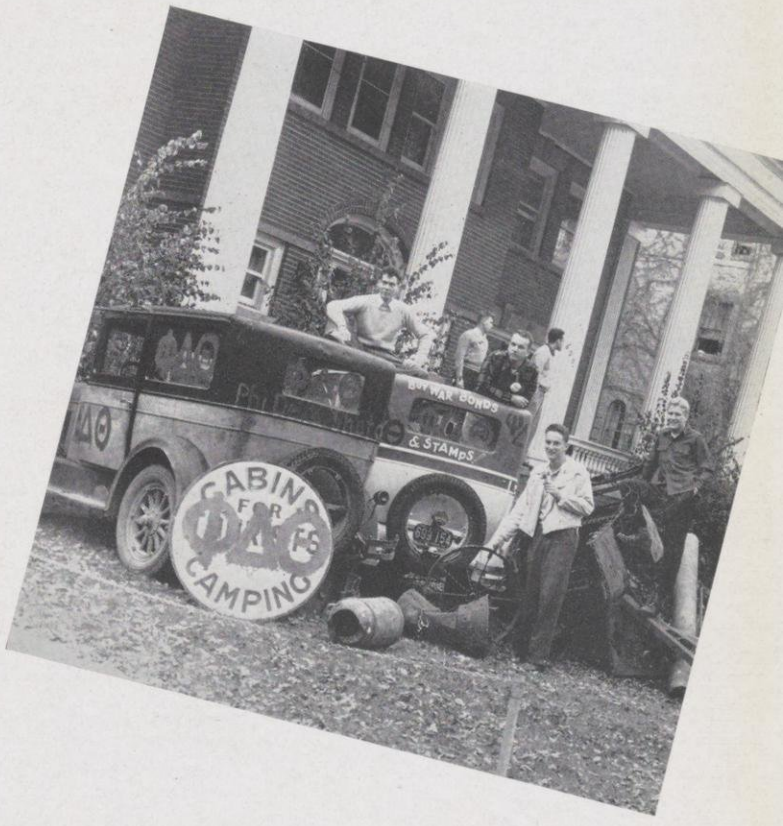
From the end of Langdon street, for five blocks west, and out along the beautiful Lake road are situated the houses and halls which we make our homes for four years. Here is where we find our friends and call for our dates—here are the places where we learn to work and live together—our organizations. The stately dignity of the sorority houses, where we attended countless rushing teas and got to know our future sisters. Endless bull sessions in the upstairs rooms and studying at desks which distracted our attention by overlooking Langdon street and the streams of students constantly passing to and fro. The fraternity halls, with doorways bearing mysterious Greek letters and rows of cherished trophy cups on the shelves. Pledges sweeping the snow covered walks and brothers tossing footballs on the lawn through long Spring afternoons. Smokers and exchange dinners and beer parties and the easy-going cameraderie of the Greek world. The women's residence halls—Ann Emery and Langdon and magnificent Elizabeth Waters, clinging to the shore of Mendota. Busy lobbies and harried housemothers and "You have a caller." Long corridors filled with busy girls running to and fro; house meetings and organized athletics—all disproving the old saying that all who are not Greeks are barbarians. At the end of the Lake road the men's dormitories—stately quadrangles and picturesque strong buildings, within whose walls political parties were formed and reformed and a great portion of students of student government first saw the light of day. Reading rooms and meals and laughter and pipe smoke drifting through the hallways. All our organizations—here at Wisconsin more than an address on an envelope or a line in the Student Directory—the pulse and heart of our campus life.

Elizabeth Waters hall for women, latest and most imposing addition to the residence halls, looks peacefully across the lake.



Fraternities, timeless tradition of college campuses, provide a colorful portion of life at Wisconsin. They are bound together by Inter-Fraternity council, composed of representatives from every Greek house on campus. IF council meets, discusses problems, plans policy for the fraternity world . . . This year apparently marked the end of hell week, informal initiation period designed to give pledges a sincere appreciation of the joys of active Greek life. Scarred paddles are brought out and angles are assumed for the last time, as the Dean's decree that the long-cherished tradition of hazing the pledges shall be no more. Fraternity row will no longer resound with the yelps of anguished neophytes climbing the last mile toward active membership . . . Students may come and students may go, but Langdon street stays forever . . . stately trees lining the approach to the hill, dignified houses, throngs of students strolling back and forth to classes—a street unlike any other; one we will remember always as symbolizing college days.

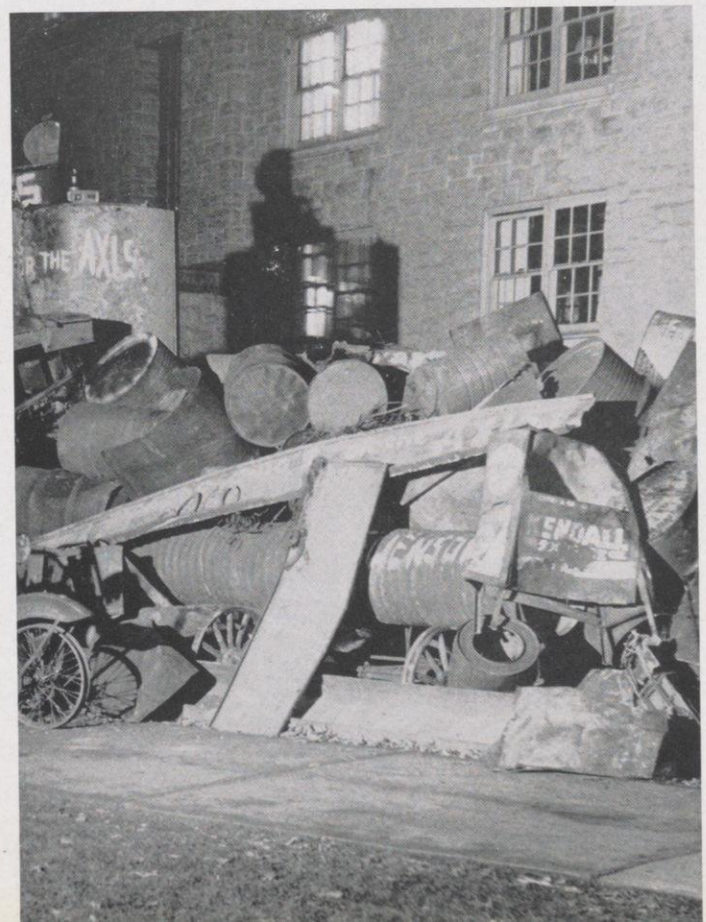
Sorority parties are gay social affairs, when the girls doff their baggy sweaters and drape themselves in their sleekest formals to give their dates a taste of Greek night life. But like Cinderella, the sisters must hear the music stop at mid-night and prepare once more to become unglamorous co-eds . . . Fraternity beer parties, on the other hand, are occasions when it is entirely correct to come in old clothes and enter uninhibited into the spirit of celebration. A successful beer party is marked by much off-key singing, a great deal of hilarity, as much noise as possible, and a dull headache the next morning. The usual highlights are several thrilling crew races and an oft-repeated dirge for illustrious old Paddy Murphy . . . War on the campus marked the end of the Homecoming decorations and the bonfire at Friday night's rally. As a substitute, fraternities and sororities cleared off their trophy shelves and dropped the cherished cups on scrap heaps. Along with orthodox trophies went old automobiles, bed springs, hot water pipes.



While informal initiation is ruled out for fraternities, freshman hazing still goes on unstifled at the men's halls. Upperclassmen demonstrate how a few years of college can make one into a monster created especially to torture poor, green freshmen—but it's all in fun, and part of the life in Dormsylvania . . . Dances are an important part of the social calendar out the men's dormitories way, and it's well worth the trek out on the lake road to dance to their smooth orchestras, take part in the gay promenade spirit that goes with dorm parties.

. . . What every Wisconsin man has nightmares about—how the girls look on the way to bed. Frankly, they don't look bad, only hungry. And at Elizabeth Waters they take care of this after-hours emptiness at the Store. Co-eds pin up their hair, don house-coats, and trip down to purchase some welcome refreshments to lighten the burden of night-long bull sessions. Somehow or other there's no hunger like the one that sets in after an evening spent nursing a coke and a Union hamburger.

The dormitories are noted for their food, and a glimpse into the dining room at Ann Emery Hall shows the girls making away with a goodly portion of precious ration points. Never fear — they'll take off those pounds climbing the hill. And there's no place like over a table for swapping campus gossip about the doings of the BMOC'S . . . Ice Carnival this year was marked by a miraculous descent of snow and cold weather, thereby making the event a decided success. Many houses entered the sculpture contest and students were busy all week chipping away with ice picks. Langdon's huge fish became a prize winner—an example of pure piscatorial aesthetic creation . . .



Dormitory scrap piles towered high on Homecoming eve, and provided a wealth of material for curious onlookers. As frightened citizens watched anxiously, the dormites scoured the city of Madison for overlooked pieces of metal to contribute to the war effort. Everything that could be moved went in, including old sewer pipes, ancient jaloppies, and many other weird objects.

Langdon street, lined with fraternity and sorority houses, is the home of Wisconsin's Greeks—the men and women who display the same leadership abilities in extra-curricular activities as they do in working together in their Greek-lettered houses.

Panhellenic Council is made up of one representative from each of the social sororities on campus and functions as a regulating body for all inter-sorority matters.

The representative body of Pan-Hel is under the guidance of Dean Helen Kayser and meets once a month to plan for such affairs as initiation, rushing, and the Panhellenic Ball. This year it was particularly concerned with cutting down sorority social life in order to cooperate with the war effort. The council voted that each sorority should present a budget to the Social Judiciary Committee showing a reduction of almost half of the expenses of last year.

INTER-FRATERNITY BOARD

TIMELY were the problems that faced Inter-Fraternity Board, the administrative branch of the Inter-Fraternity system, which is elected by the Inter-Fraternity Council. In the main, the questions of the year were precipitated by the war which was estimated to have called four hundred fraternity men from the campus to service between September and the end of the school year. Among the problems for which the five-man Board found a solution was the organization of Inter-Fraternity Ball with the ranks of fraternity men so greatly depleted. The Board worked closely with the Dean's office in the solving of fraternity problems throughout the year. Outstanding among these in which the Dean's office and the Board co-operated was the housing situation which was satisfactorily taken care of at the beginning of the year by the houses furnishing rooms for non-members who had not found rooms in the men's dorms. As the year advanced, fraternities were closed, combined, or run with reduced membership.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

THE Council opened its war-time program of the year by voting to cut out "frills" including corsages, decorations and dinners outside the houses, for their social events. As another war measure the Council voted to allow initiation of men regardless of grade-point for those men who were entering the service immediately. Under discussion as the year advanced was the abolishing of informal initiation. As the legislative branch of the Inter-Fraternity system, the Council passes on legislation introduced from within the Council and by the Board. The general policies to be followed by the fraternities are established by the Council which is a closely organized body for managing fraternity affairs, and is well aware of the problems that face the fraternity system. The composition of the Council consists of the house president or an elected representative from each fraternity on campus. It meets every two weeks at some house.

PAN-HEL BALL

Pan-Hellenic Ball, on the night of November 7, 1942, gave sorority women on campus a chance to show how a super-smooth formal should be run. Led by Joan McAdams, Alpha Xi Delta, who was chairman of the ball, the Greek gals trotted out their best gowns and their most prized escorts and headed for the Memorial Union. Almost six hundred couples danced to the sweet music of Bob Rapp and his orchestra in Great Hall. They waltzed before a sparkling backdrop of glittering Greek letters.

INTERFRATERNITY BALL

Without frills or formals this year Interfraternity Ball was held in the Union on April 2. I-F Board president, Robert Taylor and his date, Caroline Wagley, were King and Queen for the evening. Dancing was to Don Voegeli and a 13-piece campus band. This was the last organized all-fraternity dance for the duration and the fraternity "swan song" for the war at Wisconsin.

MEN'S RESIDENCE HALLS

Chet Klunicks Julian Berman Tom Linton

MEN'S HALLS ADMINISTRATION

Three floor chairmen and a house president from each of the eight houses in the Kronshage unit represent the residents in the self-government organization of the Men's Residence Halls.

The house presidents are organized into the Men's Halls Cabinet, which directs and promotes the various activities offered to the residents that will be shown on the following pages.

The House Chairmen's Council unites the 640 students of the halls in their orientation program for the new residents and sponsors Dormsylvania, the early Spring dance for the Hall's men.

Business Manager Tom Linton is the accountant for the funds of the committees and the clubs, and treasurer and purchaser for the Association.

Activities in the individual houses are under the guidance of the Fellow advisors, the house president and the social, floor and athletic chairmen elected by the members of each house.

Men's Halls Cabinet

House Chairmen's Council

MEN'S HALLS GOVERNMENT

Directors of the Men's Halls and its activities are elected as house presidents from each of the houses to form the Men's Halls Cabinet. The Association provides the facilities for the athletic and social programs of the residents.

To operate the clubs in the Halls and to equip the gymnasium, the camera club darkroom, the library, canoes, the pier, and to provide magazines and radios in the dens, the Association assesses a yearly residence fee.

The Cabinet maintains the co-operative store, barber shop, student committees, the library, and determines the budgets for the Halls' organizations. Coordination of all Halls' activities centers in the decision of the Cabinet.

House floor chairmen representing each floor in their respective houses are associated in the House Chairmen's Council to discuss mutual problems in their various houses and to stimulate scholastic achievement by suggesting improvements in study conditions. In addition the Council carries out the orientation program in the Halls, and directs Dormsylvania.

HALLS COMMITTEES

Seven standing committees offer membership to residents in the Men's Halls who wish to apply and take their part in direction of the Halls program.

The Awards committee judges the winner of the traveling scholarship trophy which is awarded to the house that has attained the highest grade point average among its residents and issues a twenty-five dollar war bond to the championship team in each sport.

Publicity is handled by the Promotions committee in connection with the Daily Cardinal branch office located in Jones house.

Review sections in the courses voted by the students are arranged by the Scholarship committee.

War has created the Emergency Planning committee to provide for the property of the houses that have been designated as residences for the armed forces.

The store is operated on a co-operative basis by the Store committee and serves an important role of supply for the residents.

Expenditures of the Association treasury are checked by the Finance committee, while the Coordinating committee handles the joint plans of the Association and the Division administration, and the Policy committee determines the stand of the Halls.

CHAMBERLIN HOUSE

Cold November days saw the men of Chamberlin pile into large trucks and comb Madison's west side for scrap metals to aid the war effort.

By February 15, no fewer than 27 of Chamberlin's original 78 residents gave up their books for the duration and marched off to war.

Social activities were highlighted by several beer parties and tow sleigh rides along Willow road.

Midway in the second semester, Chamberlin men gave their last full measure of devotion to their brothers in arms, and relinquished their house to the army meteorology forces.

CONOVER HOUSE

Conover house put emphasis on the social side along with a complete program of athletic participation. Highlight of the season was the election of Bob Jones as Dorm Duke after active backing by the house. Conover initiated the Sunday afternoon "open den" parties, to which residents brought dates for informal entertainment. Also on the social calendar were sleigh rides with refreshments and entertainment at Blackhawk Lodge and parties at Kronshage, one of which turned the place into a gambling casino and another which transformed it into a sports paladium. Bob Jones served as house president first semester and Pres Lustig took over the duties for the second term.

GILMAN HOUSE

What was anticipated to be a record year for Gilman house, surely proved no exception. The 78 residents and house fellow, Ira Goldberg, started the year's activities with a frosh initiation, which included a "no smile" day and paddles, now grim reminders decorating the den walls. House officers were Lorne Markham, president; Robert Preston, social chairman; Dick Wasserburger, athletic chairman; and Bob Antisdel, halls cabinet representative. Among the outstanding men living in the house during the year have been Frank Remington, member of the student board; Bob Rapp, campus band leader; and Zelotes Rice, general chairman of Snow Ball.

JONES HOUSE

The "Jones boys" counted for more this year than mere competent consumers of hamburgers. It meant to us, not just a living unit, but a unit of living to which all gave richly and generously, and reaped in return, and equal reward in maturing, in friendship, and in experience. Jones submits Larsen, Orientation head; Christoph, fellow, Saddle and Sirloin Award winner; and Calligaro of P.R. fame, and one of the highest scholastic averages on the campus. To the broader community of Wisconsin and the war effort, her contribution in men and support was rich indeed.

MACK HOUSE

Under the thoughtful guidance of house fellow Dan Schuster, Mack house has turned its energies into more serious, more intellectual channels this year. Round table discussions of current topics, practice in intelligent news interpretation, and preparation for war occupations both in and out of the service, have been integral parts of Mack's activity. Many who began the semester as Mackites are now in Navy Blue or Khaki, and many are yet to follow. Dale Bender and Dan Schuster already hold ensign's commissions in the Navy and have only to graduate to receive their gold braid. Others are in Meteorology, flight training, and infantry. The "Mighty Men of Mack" are seriously in tune with the great "preparation".

SHOWERMAN HOUSE

"Action, not words", characterizes war-conscious Showerman of 1942-43. For "Hitler Relief" 20,000 pounds of scrap won Homecoming's scrap drive. The American Red Cross is using the winner's prize. Eager blood donors gave 30 pints. Stamp sales soared with Dudley Etter, coordinator. Total: $749.90—average: $1.07 a man weekly in the first semester. Alvin "Budd" Loeffler was an assistant 1943 Prom chairman. Community chest and Homecoming received 100% support. "Gamma Delta Iota" and "Showerman Short Course" parties were fun, socially. Coach "Bud" Foster spoke to Christmas banqueteers.

SWENSON HOUSE

Swenson started off the new year with the top spots in their respective football leagues for the court and back sides, after court had won the Halls' softball title in '42. Then both sides took first place in basketball, and the court annexed volleyball honors. Aside from sports, Swenson collected ten tons of scrap, won second place in the campus drive; ranked high on the war stamp honor roll; and contributed at least 10 men to active service. Included in the Swenson roster were such luminaries as the Georges Goss and Hanson of the Student and Cardinal boards, and varsity basketball manager Tony Prasil.

TURNER HUOSE

Getting acquainted through their fifth annual initiation and under the guidance of house fellow Robert Ramlow, Turner men threw down their cards and books to don costumes and levity for an October Halloween party, a November Gay Nineties spree, and a February Rodeo Roundup, keeping the house tradition for bang-up parties. Turner men charged to the football and bowling championships of the Men's Halls Association, besides making a sizable contribution to the homecoming scrap drive. Officers included "Satch" Meinhardt, Phil Glusker, Emery Eatough, Laury Post, Marv Dundore, Ed Casciaro, Tim McDonell, Bob Koenig, Jerry Fallon, and Dick Dundore.

Back Row: Soit, Herziger, Opitz, Moskowitz, Green, Schmalz, McDonell, Gladstone, Pecotte, Weichman, Adashek, Schmidt, Schuyler, Wendt (W), Anderegg.

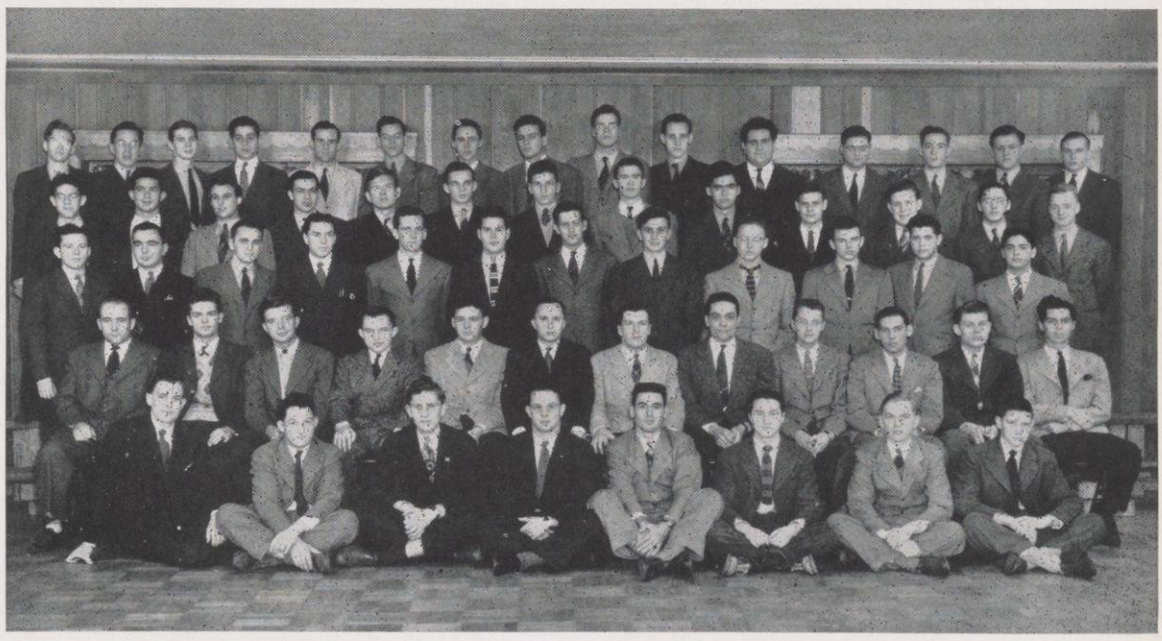
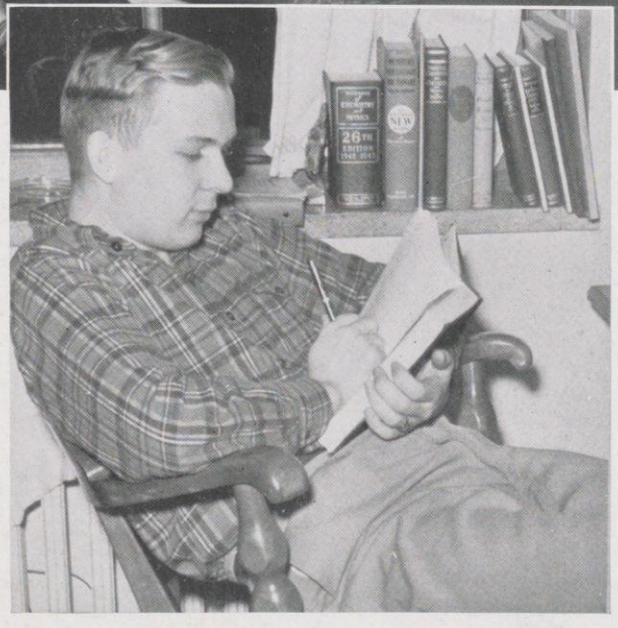
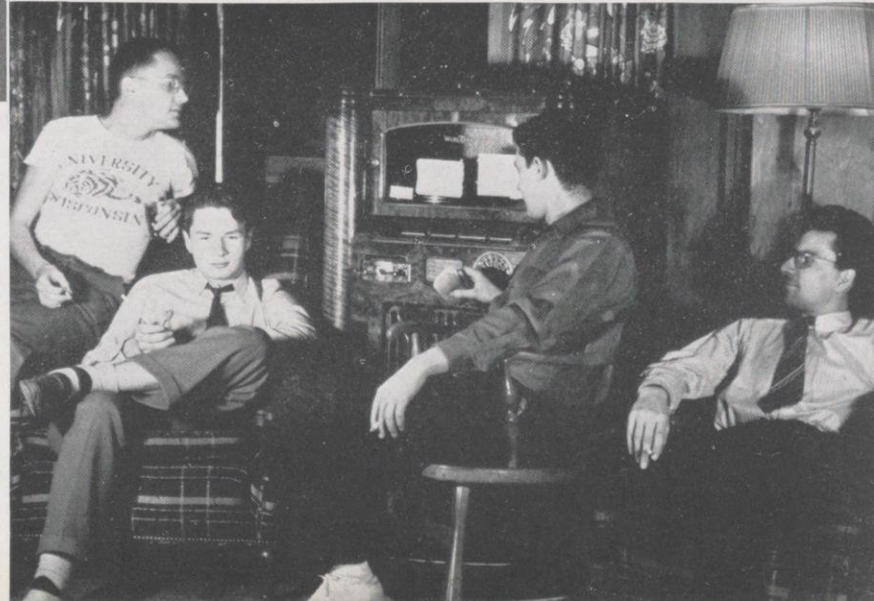
First Row: Arkena, Herwitz, Leistikow, Sullivan, Grieshaber, Droegkamp, Davidson, Kelley.



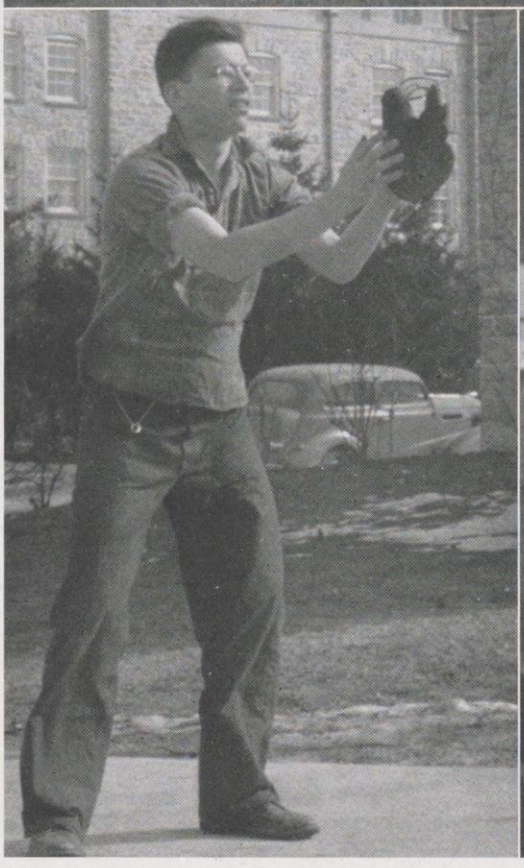


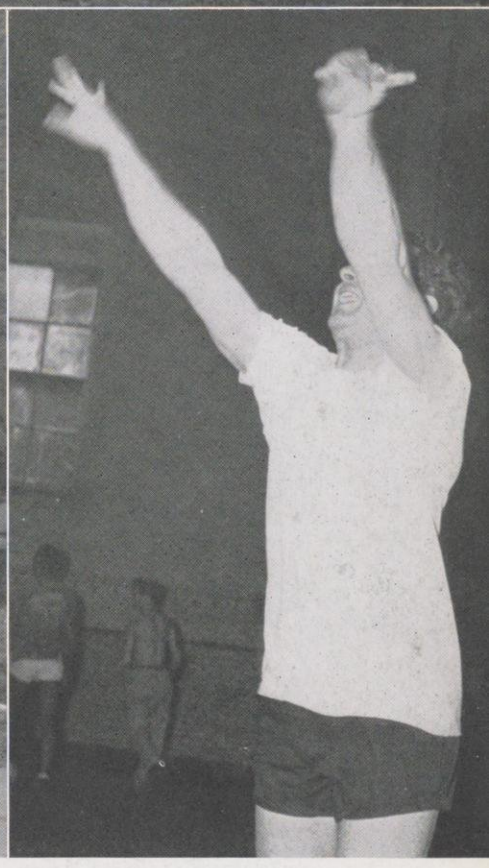


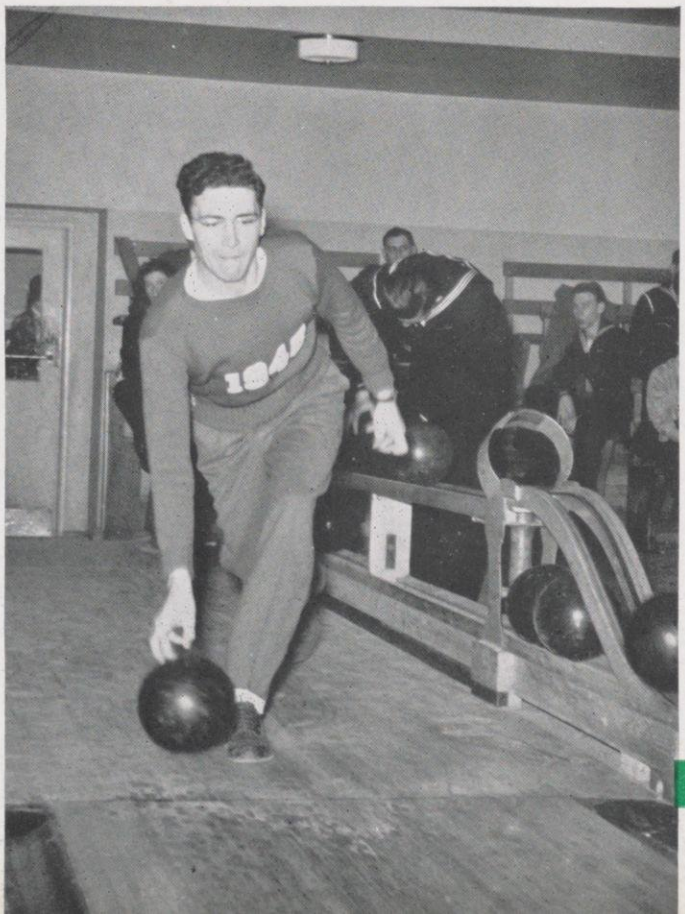
HALLS' ATHLETICS

On the intramural fields in Fall and Spring and in the Armory when snow is on the ground the residents of the Men's Halls pursue their athletic avocations.

Last spring the softball competition was especially keen and ended with Swenson court clinching the title with a final play-off victory over Botkin house.







Brisk autumn winds found many a football sailing about, both in league competition and wildcat playing. Turner took the championship after defeating Conover in the playoff final.

Great interest was shown in the volley ball tournament, which was run on a double elimination basis. In this sports branch Swenson court managed to remain undefeated throughout and were crowned champions.

On the hardwood court basketballs flew thick and fast until Swenson court and Swenson back came out on top in their respective leagues. Then in the final play-off game the two teams met and court took the title.

All these sports are carried on in conjunction with the University Intramural schedule and the Athletic Department.

HALLS' SOCIAL

Social chairman of each house serve as hosts in promoting parties for the fellows in their respective residences. Celebrations have included costume parties, sleigh rides, exchange dinners, and beer parties. In addition to these house parties the social chairman meet in joint session to plan the Men's Halls Harvest Hop, the Winter and Spring formals for all of the residents.

A Duke, whose date is Duchess, to reign over the Winter formal is elected from candidates that have been nominated to represent nearly each of the houses. In the elections this Winter, Bob Jones of Conover house won out in an active campaign.

The Association declared that members of the Halls Association would be given free tickets to the Winter formal as a dividend on the annual fees.

HALLS' CLUBS

Ample opportunities are provided for Halls' residents through various clubs and their facilities. The Camera Club has come up with a new dark-room and its members take full advantage of its equipment in developing and enlarging their photos.

For men interested in body development Bar bell launched a program of wrestling, boxing, and weight-lifting. The ever popular workshop with its power tools also attracted a number of men interested in applying their hands to wood-working and metal, for which the shop is well equipped.

HALLS' ACTIVITIES

A number of activities exist in the Halls to which residents give some of their extra-curricular time.

The Halls' branch of the Cardinal office serves as a base for the reporters bringing Halls' life before the entire student body. The Political Association is the spearhead of one of the most potent political factions on the campus.

The Men's Halls' Association is responsible for the splendid recreation facilities for residents. The discussion groups and community sings offer opportunity for get-togethers. To the students rendering outstanding service to the Halls, the Delta Epsilon key is awarded.

Secretary.....PATRICIA A. VAUGHN
Treasurer.....ROBERT L. SCHUMPERT

The University Religious Council is composed of professional church workers, faculty members, and students for the purpose of discussing and taking action on the problems common to the various student centers. Since its organization four years ago, the Council has accomplished a great deal in the furtherance of the spiritual, educational, and social life of students on the campus by sponsoring convocations, assemblies, discussion groups, and social affairs.

Representative of the Council's activities are the World Student Service Fund drive, the Embassy Committee, a group of faculty forums, and a series of radio programs which it has sponsored for the interest of Wisconsin students this year.

CALVARY LUTHERAN UNIVERSITY CHURCH

Calvary Lutheran University Church, at 713 State Street, has been ministering to the spiritual needs of students since September, 1920. It is sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri and by the Joint Synod of Wisconsin for the benefit of students belonging to any of the synods comprising the Evangelical Lutheran Synodical Conference of North America, and for any other students who may desire to avail themselves of its facilities. Both religious and social functions of the church, such as discussion hours, regular services, cost suppers, and social programs are under the direction of the student council and the Reverend William C. Burhop.

CONGREGATIONAL STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

For 37 years the Congregation Conference has maintained a Student House at 422 North Murray Street as a weekly headquarters for Congregational Students and their friends. At 10:45 on Sunday mornings, service is held at the First Congregational Church at University Avenue and Breeze Terrace. On Sunday evenings before the meeting of Bradford Club, which is led by Bob Swan, there is an informal "Friendship Hour". After supper, the students gather for a program of singing, worship, and informal entertainment.

To further the spiritual, recreational, social and educational life of the students, the work of the Congregational Students' Association is closely allied with the First Congregational Church of Madison.

The organization of the 1942-1943 activities has been under the administration of Mr. Jack Telfer, Student Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN STUDENT CENTER

University Presbyterian Church. the only all-student church in the United States, is the scene of many activities for all Presbyterian students on the campus. The church and Student Center seek to maintain an outgoing Christian ministry by serving students in the five district areas of worship, Christian education, recreation, leadership training, and personal counseling.

"Pres House" activities this year included participation in the Presbyterian Wartime Service Fund drive in which students raised nearly three times their quota; a series of Fireside Chats where good bull sessions took place; presentation of a first annual Christmas festival, and participation with other religious groups in such things as the World Student Service Fund, the campus-chapel-of-the-air programs and Religious Emphasis Convocations. Besides these activities Pres-houseites have enjoyed the regular program of recreation, coffee-hours, book reviews, Allison supper hours, varsity vesper services, dances and parties which are included in a typical Pres House week.

ST. PAUL'S CATHOLIC CHAPEL

When it was founded in 1906, St. Paul's Catholic Chapel had the distinction of being the first chapel on the state university campus. At present the chapel has expanded its activities to include religious, social, and cultural functions for the benefit and enjoyment of the Catholic men and women of the University. The Newman Club stresses the importance of the social and cultural growth of the students and, by sponsoring lectures, dances, and socials, provides informal gatherings. The Holy Name Society and the Catholic Daughters of the University were formed for the purpose of maintaining and promoting the spiritual well-being of its members by stressing reverence for the Holy Name and for national loyalty. The St. Vincent De Paul Society provides needy students with clothing and food and is maintained by contributions from students.

ST. FRANCIS HOUSE

St. Francis house, the center for Episcopal Church students in Madison, was established "to maintain an altar on the University campus" and to provide a church home for students while they are in the University. It contains two chapels, offices, rooms for recreation, dining, dramatics and study as well as living quarters for the resident woman assistant and nine men students.

The program of St. Francis house provides for a well-rounded spiritual and social life for the students. The major activities of the house include daily services of worship and teas, Friday Informal Nights, Sunday night suppers and programs, a house publication and social service wherever the need exists. The house also sponsors a student refugee project for which funds were raised this year by means of the St. Francis Refugee Ball.

WESLEY FOUNDATION STUDENT ASSOCIATION

An organization of and for Methodist students on the campus, the Wesley Foundation Student Association provides a "church and home away from home" and, pledged to present the Christian way of life in all Association activities, promotes an active seven-day-a-week program designed to meet student needs and interests. The student program is planned, carried out, and financed by the students themselves under the leadership of elected officers and cabinet members for each semester, assisted by Reverend Oscar M. Adam, Pastor-Director of the Foundation, and his assistant, Virginia Fitzgerald.

The organization not only aims to meet the spiritual and social needs of students, but supplements their university work by providing opportunities for leadership training in worship, dramatics, music, journalism, and social activities. The University Methodist Church, which is housed in the same building, gives students the opportunity to work and worship with local church people, both faculty and others.

The student program has been extended this year in order that it might do as much as possible for service men and women on the campus and maintain contact with former Association members who are in the service.

Y. W. C. A.

In co-ordinating their activities this year, the advisory board and the student cabinet have been co-operating splendidly in working toward making the YWCA a democratic, active, Christian organization.

The "X" Committee and the Public Relations Council have been active in reaching the girls who have no other contact with campus life. Also, various committees of the YWCA have devoted their energies toward making a friendly contact with the service groups on the campus. In the fall there was a reception held for the WAVES and three large dances were held for service men during the year. Curtains and records were given to the USO center and hostessing units there and at the city YWCA were organized.

A Christmas Festival, co-sponsored with the YMCA, community social work at the Neighborhood House, campus social work at the Orthopedic Hospital and the Infirmary were among other activities for this year.

Daily Cardinal subscriptions were sent to Wisconsin men in camps and the YWCA co-sponsored the WSSF Drive which provides relief for students and professors who are victims of war.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET, 1943

"Sighted student—served same" might be the objective characteristic of the University YMCA for this year.

Faced with the impact of a campus hit by draft, enlistment, and a steady drain of personnel into all phases of the war effort, the "Y" has shifted its emphasis without losing sight of its purposes. Depending more upon the sacrificial service of a relative few rather than the non-commital effort of a larger number, this organization has engaged in new enterprise in the fields of leadership development, service relations, coordinating effort, discussion and forum stimulation through its very active Student Town Hall and Post-War groups, in cooperation with other organizations, as well as its traditional function as a major agency of personal counseling and character development through democratic participation in worthwhile activity.

Men have left, but the YMCA will continue to serve the campus community through the friendship in action it provides in its student and faculty fellowship in constructive, interdenominational Christian activity.

STAFF

Due to the action of the legislature in making two years of basic ROTC required, the Corps of Cadets reached an all-time high in membership in the fall of 1942. This gave the cadet officers and NCO's better opportunity to gain command experience with large units. However, as the year progressed, the regiment decreased in numbers, as many of its basic members were called into the service. In the spring it was decided that for the duration the advanced class of study was to be disbanded after the second semester of the year 1942-43 and just the first two years of basic training were to be offered.

In order to give the future officers the best possible background, the officers of the staff under the direction of Col. H. H. Lewis this year stressed a program that would give the most practicable training to the juniors and seniors. A new and stepped up leadership school for the advanced students in the fall gave them practice in teaching and leading close order drill to develop command presence and precision. Special refresher courses were held on Thursday nights for the upper classmen. These courses offered review and the opportunity for more familiarity with weapons and other equipment. The Browning Automatic Rifle, the 30 cal. Heavy Machine Gun, the M1 Rifle, pack rolling, and aircraft identification were among those courses offered. Later in the second semester junior and senior drill teams were formed to again give these men a chance to command drill and to develop their knowledge and ability in this form of training.

THE COMMANDO

The Commando, which began informally a year ago and was formally organized last fall, is a unit similar in size and organization to a battalion, consisting of a demolition section, a signal section, a medical section and three troops. Its volunteer members are taught Commando and Ranger tactics. Troop "C" of the Commando is the Ski Troop.

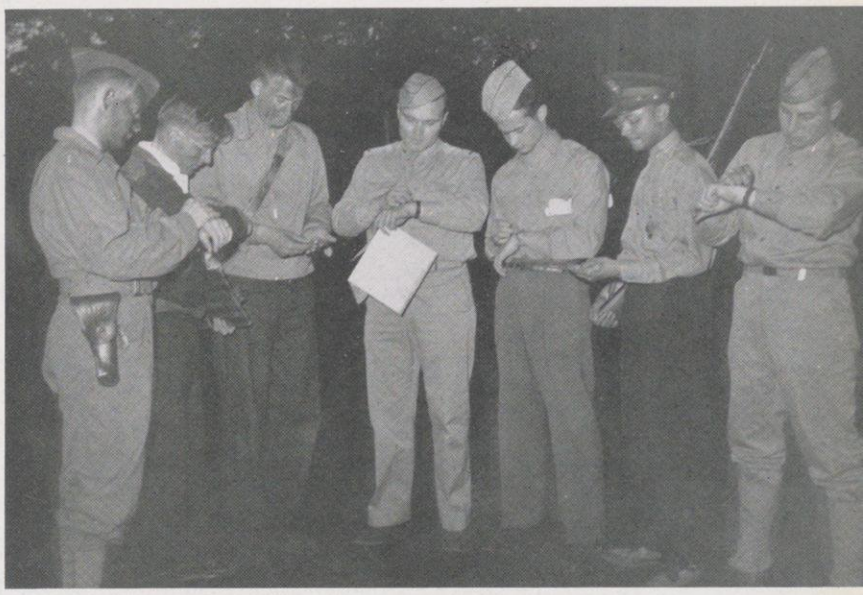
Ski troops move out on a wintry problem

A heavy machine gun position is set up by the white clad troops

A motor squad goes into action protected by riflemen

RANGERS

One of the most ambitious problems undertaken by the Commando was the attack on Axis positions on the lower campus, whereby the leaders of the enemies were captured. Moving by boat across Lake Mendota under the cover of darkness the Rangers were able to gain their objective by a well coordinated surprise attack.



"Set your watches with mine"

Moving by Launch across the Lake

Leaping ashore to assemble for the attack

The Axis leaders at a conference protected by Nazi guards

The final assault and victory

PERSHING RIFLES

Company C, Second Regiment, of the National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles was instituted on the Wisconsin campus in 1936. Since that time it has grown and developed from just another society to "the backbone of the corps"—Col. Lewis. C-2 has also come to occupy a position of respect and excellence in the 2nd Regiment and of the National Society, known not only for its excellent drill units but also for its efficiency and the wide scope of its activities.

The first business of this year was the annual National Assembly, to which C-2 was host company. Later in the fall, the largest class in history was initiated. During the year, as the company expanded its training program. many of the members entered the service of our country, to do their part in the job ahead.

CONSTITUTION OF THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF SCABBARD AND BLADE

PREAMBLE

Believing that military service is an obligation of citizenship, and that the greater opportunities afforded college men for the study of military science place upon them certain responsibilities as citizens, We, Cadet Officers in various Universities and Colleges conferring baccalaureate degrees, do form this Society and adopt this Constitution in order to unite in closer relationship the military departments of American Universities and Colleges; to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers; to prepare ourselves as educated men to take a more active part and to have a greater influence in the military affairs of the communities in which we may reside and above all to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country.

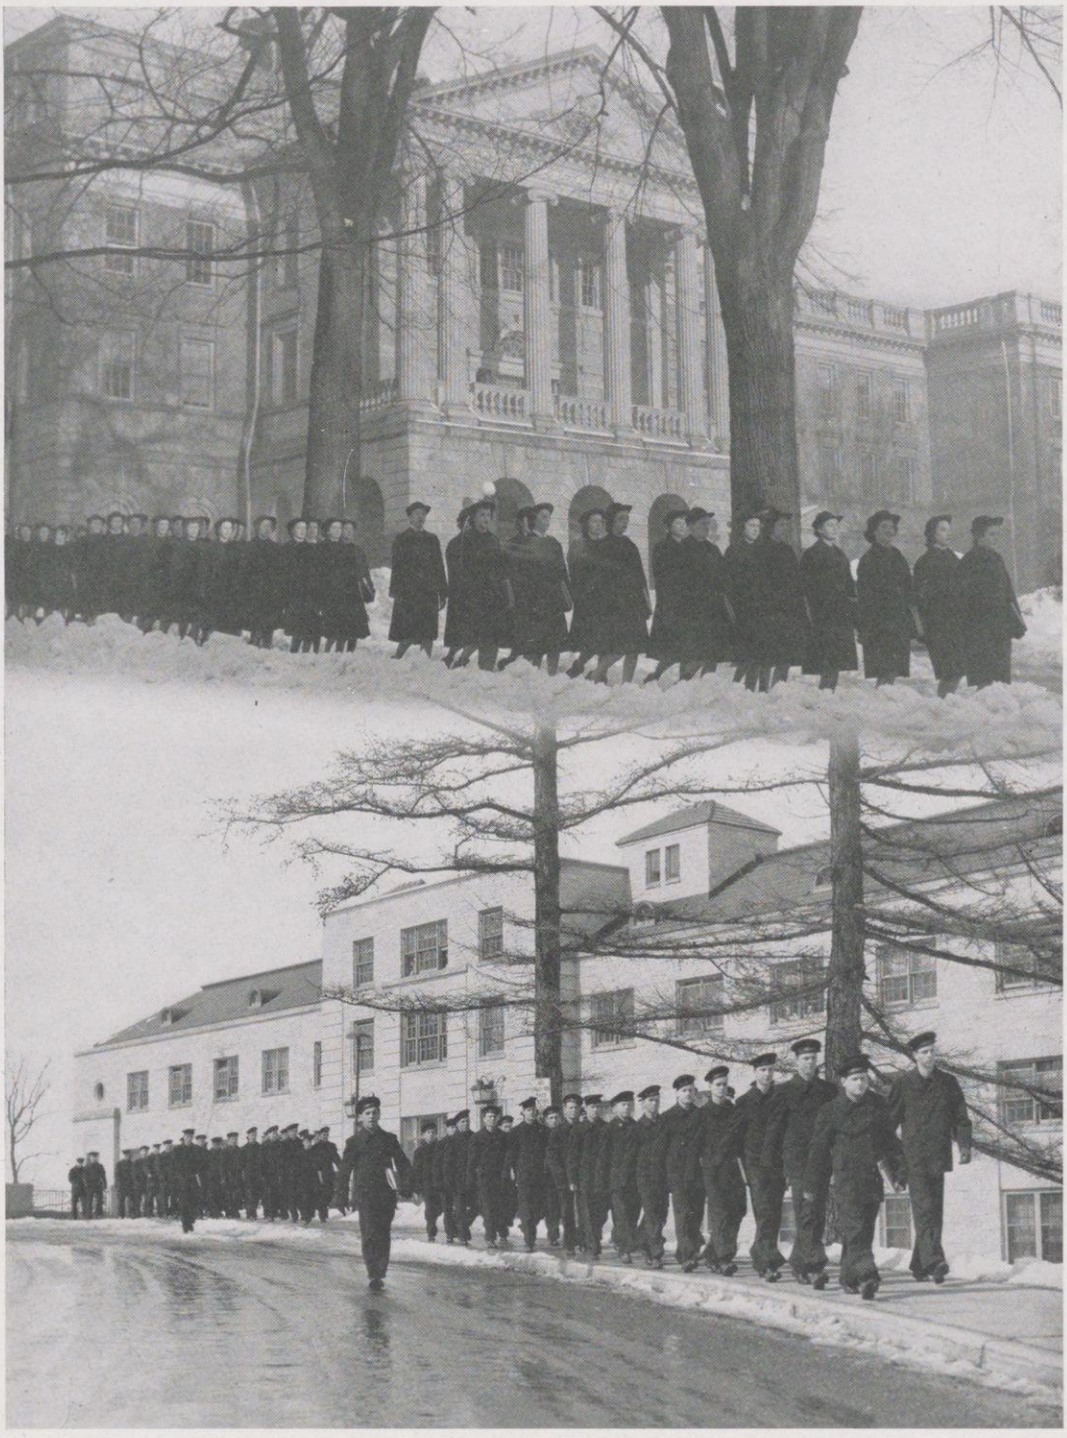
SOCIETY OF MILITARY ENGINEERS

OFFICERS

President.....CHARLES E. NORTHRUP
Vice President.....GARFIELD E. PETERSON
Secretary.....WILLIAM W. O'BRIEN
Treasurer.....ROMAN J. PITZEN

Responding to the vastly increasing tempo of military life on the campus of the University of Wisconsin, the Society of Military Engineers took upon themselves a program to promote their knowledge of military affairs. This was in line with the purpose of the group which is to acquaint the cadet engineers with their future duties, and to discuss current military engineering accomplishments.

Meetings during the year were supplemented with lectures by those versed in military engineering, movies which were appropriate to the situation, and members set up various demonstrations to increase their knowledge. Not only in the meeting room were demonstrations put on but members set up and showed engineering tactics to the public on the lower campus. A trip was made to Milwaukee to present a military engineering display to the State Guard. Demolitions, booby traps, wire entanglements, Molotov cocktails, and engineering equipment were used and explained.



Anchors Aweigh, but the Navy is here for the duration, and the Bluejackets and WAVES have become loyal Badgers, through and through. We like to see them marching up the hill, singing on their way to classes. Their spirit has given strength to the Wisconsin idea.

NAVAL TRAINING SCHOOLS

NAVAL TRAINING SCHOOL

Commanding Officer
L. K. POLLARD
Commander, USN (RET)

The Naval Training School, University of Wisconsin, became an essential part of the nation's war effort in April, 1942, when three hundred Bluejackets arrived on the campus for training in radio communications.

A year later, under the command of Commander L. K. Pollard, the Naval Training Schools were engaged in training a continuous enrollment of approximately eighteen hundred Bluejackets and WAVES. In addition to training radio operators, the Navy has trained three classes of naval officers in its Diesel School, which completed its activity in February, 1943, and has established a school for Cooks and Bakers.

In accordance with a contract between the Navy Department and the University, men and women in training on the campus are housed and fed by the department of Dormitories and Commons, and the University Extension Division.

From the Naval Training Schools (Radio), which are represented in the pages following, large numbers of men and women trained for service as radio operators have already been graduated and assigned duty at ship and shore stations all over the world. Their service, essential to success in modern warfare, is the true index to the importance of the successful cooperation of the Navy and the University in the training program established here.

THE WAVES

Officer in Charge
Seamen (WR)

ELINOR D. RICH
Lt. (jg), W-V (S), USNR

On July 30, 1942, a new page was written in the annals of history for on that day women for the first time were admitted by legislation to the ranks of the United States Navy. Large numbers are now enrolled in the vast naval training program. To the campus of the University of Wisconsin from all parts of the country and from all walks of life came young women intent upon the greatest individual contribution to the war effort—service. From the campus they have gone out and will continue to go out as trained radio operators fully prepared to take their place as essential cogs in the great machine driving toward world peace.

The students have come to know the WAVES at Wisconsin as the navy blue columns singing a feminine version of "Anchors Aweigh." The WAVES have come to know the students for their hospitality and friendliness. They have mingled with the students at the Union, on the campus, and at social functions. The WAVES, known as the "for the Duration" Chadbourne and Barnard girls, are warmly appreciative of the spirit of hospitality which has shown itself daily in their behalf.

Wisconsin's

ACTIVITIES

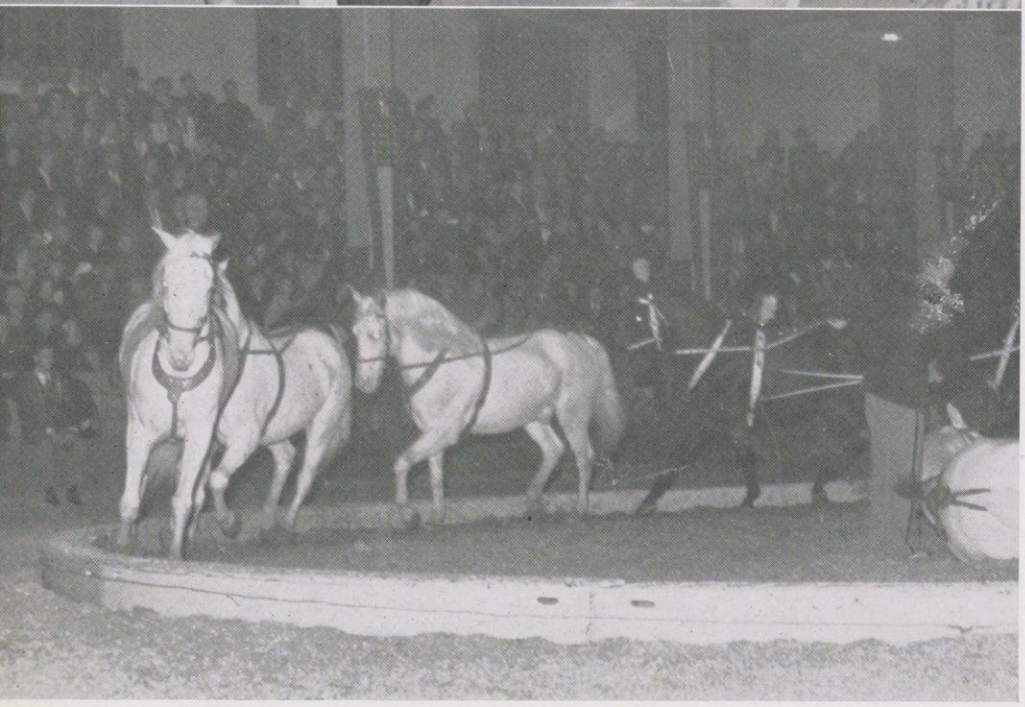
ACTIVITIES

College memories can be funny things. What sticks in our minds most out of all the various happenings and incidents of four long years at Wisconsin? Our activities, of course. All the things we did when we put down our books and forgot about our studies for a while. Our initiation into the glamorous world of Union committees. The fall and spring elections, with their politics and pseudo-politicians—whatever happened to them after the campaigning was over? Which of us will forget the football season—week-end nights when Langdon street and the Dormitories were noisy with bowery parties and victory celebrations. Badger Beauties and Haresfoot ladies and formal dances in Great Hall. Cokes in the Rathskeller and meetings in the board rooms, when the air was thick with big deals and our BMOC's stopped for their mail at the Union desk. Working long hours on publications, grinding out copy and racing with deadlines, but always loving every minute of it. Feeling civilized at Wisconsin Player's productions in the Union theater, and cloaked with culture at the Sunday afternoon concerts. A fire-cider on Friday afternoons, where professors and students impartially ate doughnuts and swapped conversations. Snow at last for Winter Carnival, and Saturday afternoon picnics in the spring. The expectant bustle in the Union lobby, every three-thirty p.m. when classes were over and extra-curricular work could begin. Committee members adjourning for a few minutes of refreshment in the Paul Bunyan room, and the thrill of seeing familiar names on the lists of the honorary societies. Of course Plato and biology and the fall of the Roman empire are important—but there are other things, away from the classrooms and books—our activities—long may they wave.

The Rathskeller is the true board room of Wisconsin politics. Here the BMOCs gather to discuss campaigns and plan big deals.

The women have a chance to do their thespian stuff once a year and Wiskits is the result. The theater is always packed to capacity on the night of this traditional production, and as skit after skit is presented, the applause gets louder. Some are funny, some are pretty, some are clever—but they're all good, if just because the girls have the stage and show us the campus as seen through the eyes of a woman . . . the University has chalked up another merit mark in a year round series of concerts. This world-renowned musical organization is a by-word among the students, for besides Sunday and special performances they are presented as regular credit classes by the music school. And we can't think of a nicer way to get three credits . . . The concert series presents great artists and orchestras all through the season for concert goers, brings the world's finest musical talent to the Union theater. One highlight of this year's program was Yehudi Menuhin, noted violinist.

Our University band doesn't go into hibernation when the football season closes. Band concerts are presented at intervals as part of the Union music program, and if you like martial music you've attended them, tapping your feet to keep time to the drum beats . . . After a two-thirty class, on a date, or during any free hour—naturally the Rathskeller is the place to go. But after you tire of nursing a coke and listening to the juke box, the bowling alleys are waiting. There's usually a waiting list for the alleys, but it's fun to sit behind the line and watch the balls go rolling down. And it's just as great a thrill to hear the pins fall whether you're just a novice, or used to a score way up in the high hundreds . . . Every dance has its chairman, and every chairman has his date. We watch the Co-op windows and the Cardinal columns for her picture and try to guess who it will be. Chuck Neumann, shorty Prom king, kept the identity of his queen well hidden, and danced at pre-Prom oblivious to the whispered speculations about his choice.

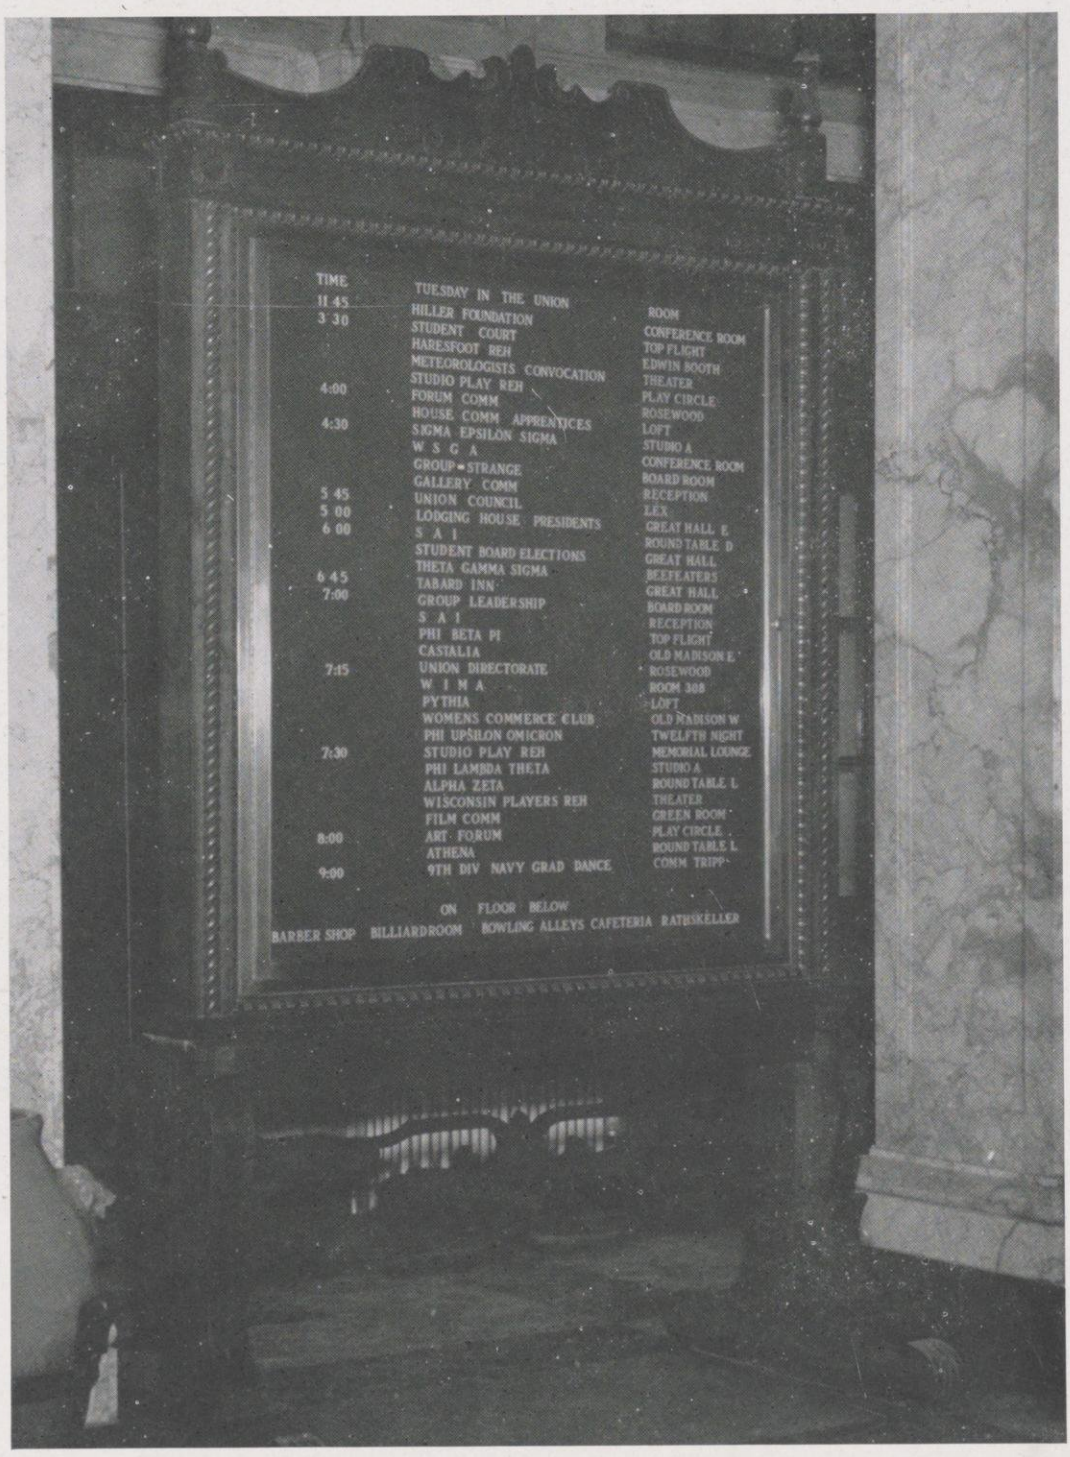


Election campaigns at the University are replete with all the trimmings of national politics. We have parties and platforms and speeches and often much confusion, among both voters and candidates. But somehow or other the right people usually get elected and student government keeps rolling along as long as the usual serious looking lines form before the ballot boxes to mark an x next to the people's choice . . . Everyone is welcome at the Little International even if you don't know a cow from a chicken, for this is the occasion when the agricultural school shows its stuff. This year's event was marked by a steer riding contest in which several prominent Big Men On Campus gave a better account of their bravery than their skill . . .

There is practically no occasion too vague to have a dance given in honor of it, and here is Mid-Winter ball also sponsored by the Ag school but attended by the whole campus. It was a colorful affair and was successful in brightening an otherwise dull mid-winter social slump, caused by exams.

We who are ticket holders seldom give thought to the days and days of work and numerous details that lie behind a Wisconsin Player's presentation. But it isn't just footlights and glamour —it takes a lot of work by a lot of unknown people to put the production on the boards. The make-up squad is one of the little-sung group of heroes, shown here making a few students look authentically medieval for St. Joan . . .

Sure, an' St. Patrick was an engineer, an' a fine broth of a boy too. Comes March and a few picked engineers start the beard growing contest to determine who shall be chosen to represent the Saint of Erin. It's a frightening sight to see the be-whiskered boys, but underneath the foliage they are still gentlemen, so don't be scared, children—it's not the bogey man—it's only an engineer . . . Primary function of the ski jump is for hardy souls to ski off it, and there is nothing more beautiful than a perfect take-off from the long curving slide out over the ice-covered lake. Us, we'll just look at it, thank you.



"Today in the Union" offers a daily cross-section of the campus extra-curricular pastimes from political brew-sessions in Top Flight to Haresfoot rehearsals in Edwin Booth.

UNION

The Wisconsin Union is campus community center for thousands of students who wander daily in and out its dozen entrances, to dine, dance, attend "Movie Time" or the theater productions, bowl, read hometown papers, snooze in the Trophy room, relax in the Rathskeller, ski with the Hoofers, or buy chewing gum at the main desk. As the student population dwindled this year, sailors, WAVES, soldiers, marines come increasingly to the Union in their "at ease" time.

Seventeen Committees and clubs, made up of 150 students, plan the programs for the Union, with their chairmen sitting as the Union directorate. This year, as a war measure, the whole personnel was shifted in February, with many more women than usual taking over. Emphasis was placed on week-end activities, too, as service-men and students alike found Saturdays and Sundays their only free time.

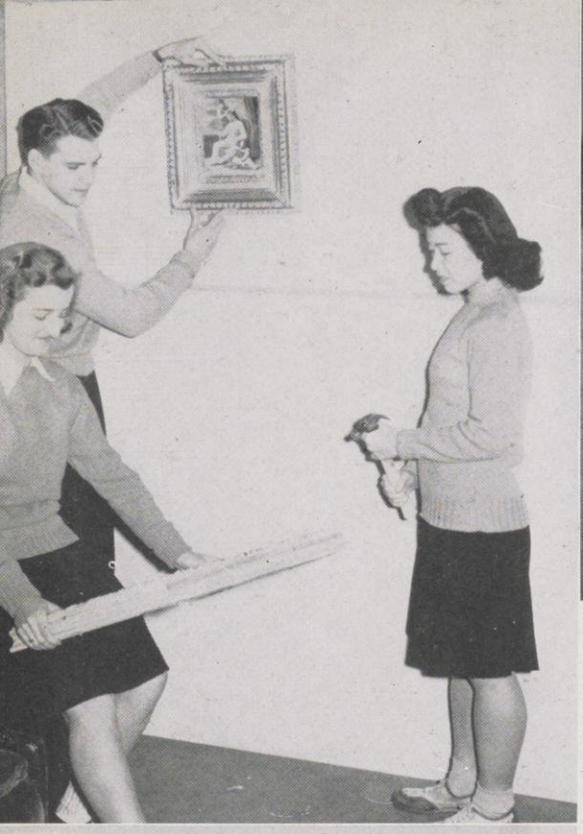
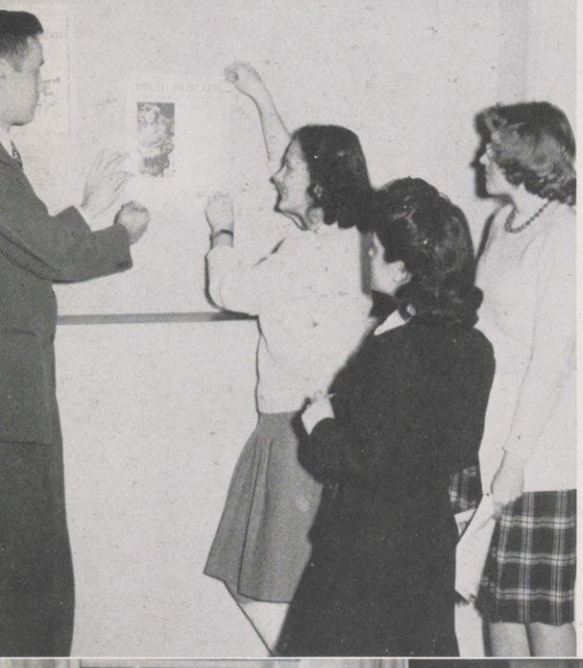
The job of the Union committee is to reflect the wishes of the general student body as regards the Union, to plan programs appealing to as many students as possible, and to offer a proving ground for leadership training . . . How was it done? Through the "At Ease" programs Sunday afternoons (remember Bob Hodgell sketching sailors and WAVES?)—and popcorn to pop at the Rathskeller fireplaces—and the Danskeller going full blast every Friday and Saturday evenings—the Sunday Sings—the Margaret Bourke-White forum—Charley Peterson, the old billiard maestro, teaching the WAVES how to shoot—premiering the Broadway show "The Pirate" with the Lunts as stars—bringing the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra to the theater—The Activities Bureau put most of its bubbling energies on a campus-wide recruiting drive for personnel to man Union committees and other campus organizations. The committee also sponsored a student leadership training program, and edited a booklet for the bemused extra-curriculate, called "Campus Activities—A Guide". Tom Brown was chairman during the first semester, succeeded by Virginia Wicks.





The Gallery committee, steered by Marion Fredrichs and Joyce Grothe, kept a continuous flow of exhibitions on view in the main and theater galleries of the Union—stressing new exhibition techniques and a host of new shows. Among them were the history of watercolor and the development of puppets. As usual the annual fall Salon of Wisconsin art and the spring student show called forth the majority of cheers and jeers.

With an expanded program, geared to keeping alive public discussion in wartime. the Forum committee with Virginia Wicks and Mary Jane Purcell as chairmen. brought Jimmy Young, Louis Adamic and Margaret Bourke-White to the lecture platform, and sponsored many other smaller panels and talks, including a series in cooperation with the university religious council. The Games committee again brought cue champion, Charley Peterson, to Madison—this time to teach WAVES and sailors as well as students, and sponsored the inter-collegiate billiards, pocket billiard, and three-cushion tourneys held at Wisconsin. Chairmen were Sandy Levy and Harry Surheide.

In spite of the drop-off among graduate students at the university, Grad club kept up its enrollment and had a booming year, socially, with dances, bridges, coffee hours, and a super-successful New Year's eve party held at the Union. Presidents Truman Hunter and Roland Hodgson were ex-officio members of the Union Council, too.

The Library committee continued its popular browsing hours with well-known men and women on the campus participating in readings or discussion, co-sponsored a Victory book drive, and selected the volume for the Living Issues library. Bill Whiting and Lenore Sipes were the chairmen.

The House committee, sponsoring the mat dances, the Danskeller, and "coffee" hours which became Fire-Ciders when the coffee ran out, and the Fire-siders when the cider ran out, had a busy and often hectic winter. Chairmen were Pat Bissell Jordan and Ginna Miller.

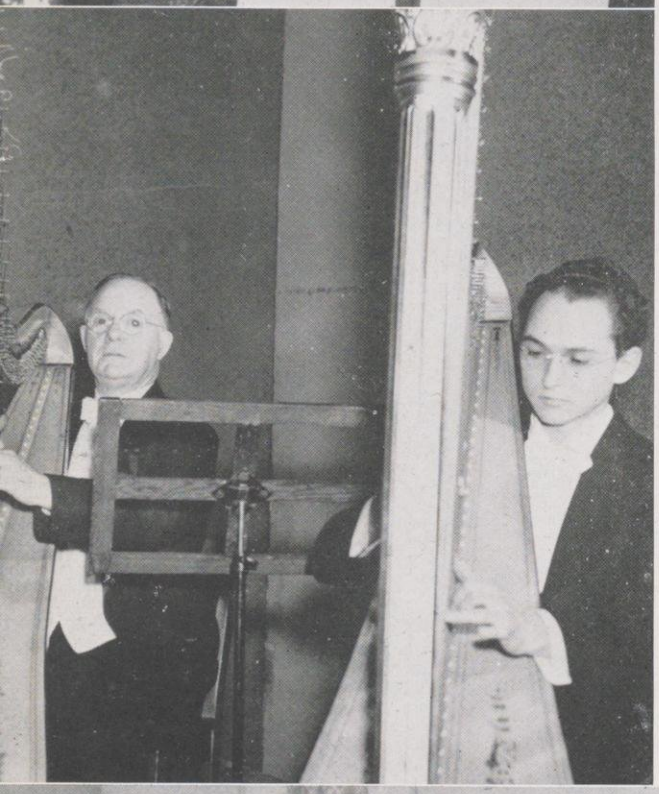
International Club, like Grad club, is a social group, meeting at dances, picnics, and popular Sunday suppers with specially selected menus, planned and cooked by foreign students in the group as typical of their homeland cuisines. Nick Grancharoff was the president.

The Music committee, with Jean Woolf and Bob Swan as chairmen, expanded many of its functions and added the Sunday Sings and record programs to an already full list of Sunday Music hours, Friday Musicales, selection and care of the record library, swing music sessions led by Perry Woolf, and incidental music programs.

The Union News Bureau, with a "morgue" and a cutfile of its own, also expanded—adding state coverage to campus publicizing of events. Martha Frey and Helen Dudar were the chairmen, and kept the copydesk at the Cardinal busy heading up releases marked "front must" for committee-sponsored events.

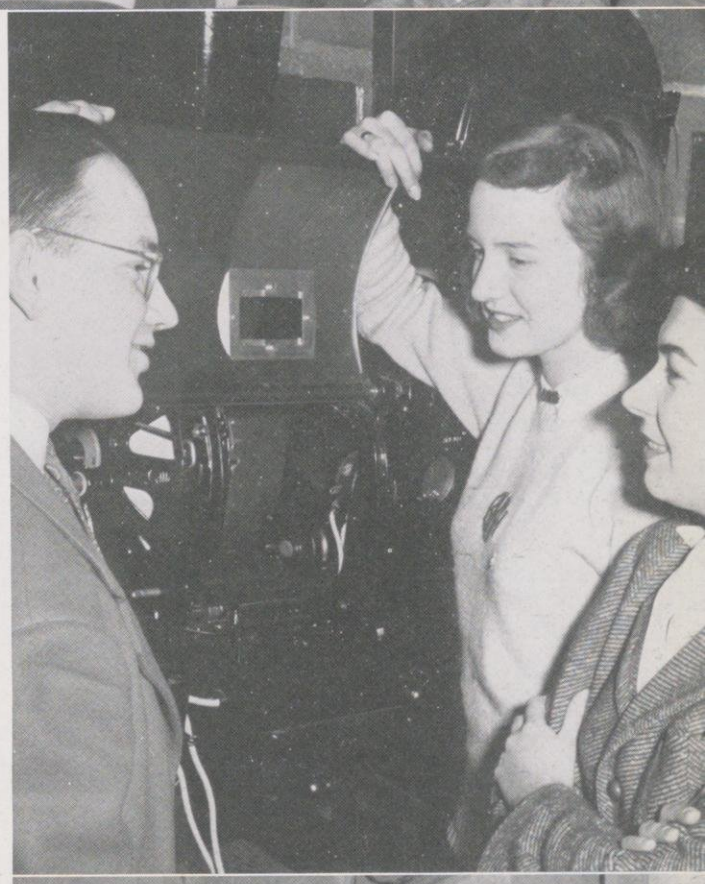
The Service committee, newly organized to look after programs and entertainment for the servicemen and women who began to come to the Union in increasing throngs of blue and khaki, had Kayo Hall as its first chairman. The Sunday "At Ease" program, with milk and cookies, dancing, games, floorshow, and co-ed hostesses, the Saturday Swing-About, the hostess units, the talent file, and special graduation balls for the Navy were all included in its manifold irons-in-the-fire.

The Workshop committee, with Barbara Lonam as the year-long chairman, turned its interest towards servicemen's entertainment and set up "servicecraft nights" to make games and other useful articles for the bluejackets and soldiers, placed easels at the "At Ease" and sketched men and women in uniform, and held its usual evening classes in life drawing and other techniques.



Jim Blumenfeld and Ken Richland guided the destinies of the concert committee this year, and turned up with a success on their hands when the season was finished. Opening in October with Igor Gorin, the young Russian-American baritone, the series included Yehudi Menuhin, violinist, who played three concerts in two days—one for the concert series patrons, one for the bluejackets and WAVES, and another at Truax field for the soldiers. The diminutive Bali-Java dancers transplanted the centuries-old dances of the war-torn east to the campus stage in January, followed by the brilliant duo-piano team, Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin, in February. In March the series concluded with two concerts by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, led as always by bald-pated Dimitri Mitropoulos, who whipped his 90-odd musicians into a frenzy of musical energy twice in one day.

Wartime brought new concert-giving worries this season with travel troubles for the chairmen to fret over. First the Bali-Java dancers, who traveled by trailer, had just enough gas to make it into town for the performance, and next it looked for awhile as if the Minneapolis Symphony men were to go without hotel or other accomodations—because of the crowds in Madison.



The Theater committee, with Inge Jollos and Mary Boyle as chairmen, had a unique send-off for the year, with a chance to sponsor the world premiere of the new play which Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne had chosen for themselves—the lush extravaganza, "The Pirate," which went on from sold-out houses at Wisconsin to become the darling of Broadway for many sold-out months. And it might not have, had not the theater committee come to the rescue with a midnight lunch just before the opening when stars, cast, and author, S. N. Behrman, were about to give it all up and say, "The show can't go on!" The opening night was a huge success, with photographers and critics from all over the country, and excited accolades from the entire audience.

Later in the season the Theater committee brought Paul Draper, the tap-dancer, and Larry Adler, the harmonica virtuoso, for the best piece of entertainment of the year.

The Film committee, not content with sponsoring "Movie Time" every week, undertook two new projects this season. One was a special "Morning Movie Time" session designed for service men on Saturday mornings, and another was the popular "Movie Time Jamboree," a free whoop-and-holler feature once a month, to which students flocked to hiss the villain and cheer the hero. Merk Hobson and Betty Kletsien were chairmen.

"If you want to be a Badger—join the Hoofers," sing the 250 members of this all-campus sports organization. Hoofers has gained country-wide fame in ski circles through its championship ski team, many members of which are now serving the U. S. Army Ski Troops.

An all-year-round program includes sailing, archery, outings, hunting and fishing, and riding, and social activities. Winter Carnival, with its inter-collegiate ski meet, hockey matches, Ice Cabaret, climaxed with Snow Ball, is annually sponsored by Hoofers.

Hoofers offers to the students of the University, a large assortment of equipment including skiis, toboggans, bicycles, sailboats, and camping utensils.

Skiers can practice slalom and downhill skiing at the Hoofer Ski Bowl, near Cross Plains, which boasts of trails comparable to the best in the Middle West.

A Hoofer tradition is the Sunday Hoofer Hearth in which everyone is invited to Hoofer Quarter for an evening of singing, dancing, and a jolly good time. Occasionally there is square dancing to the accompaniment of an accordianist. Grubstake is open week-ends.

About 4 miles from the Campus is Blackhawk Lodge, Hoofer clubhouse available to hiking, canoeing, biking, and riding groups.

HOMECOMING

"Keep 'em Scoring" was an inspiring slogan, and it provided the tempo for a spectacular victory over Ohio State.

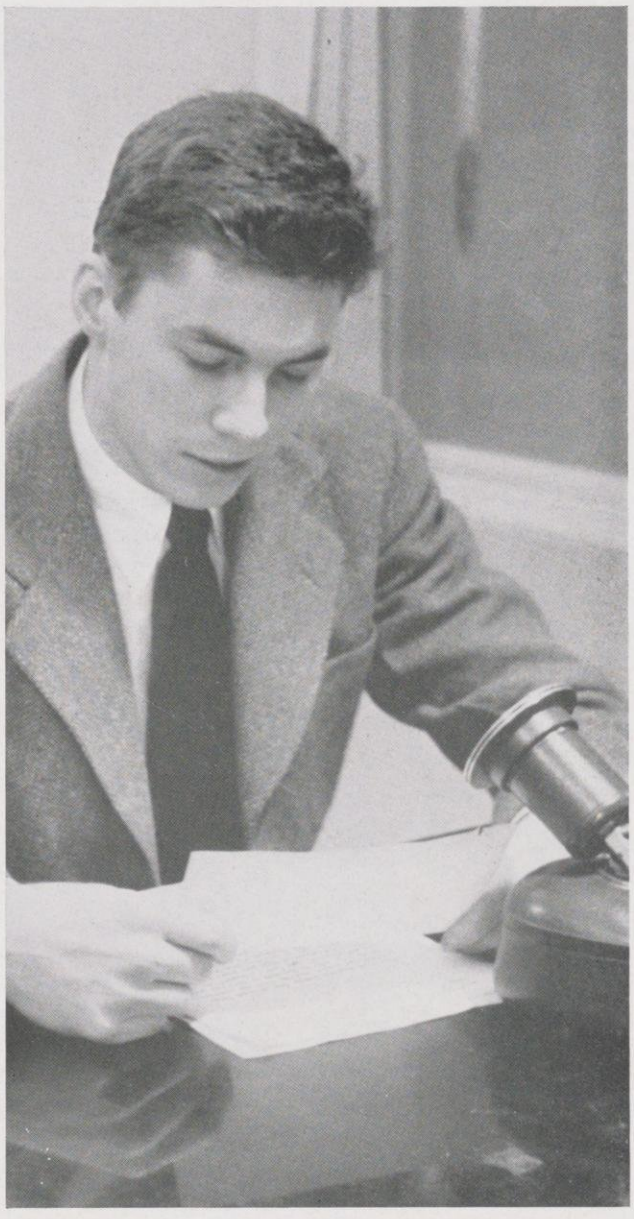
The spirit was high after the victory on Saturday, and also on Friday night at the Pep Rally. Chairman Fred Rehm introduced the guest speakers, Bill Stern, and Roundy Coughlin, Harry Stuhldreher and Dave Schreiner, who lived up to his great record on Saturday of never being a losing captain.

Although some of the old traditional Homecoming frills were cut out, there was no lack of gaiety. Decorations of former days gave way to a campus-wide trophy and scrap drive, which culminated in a huge scrap pile on the lower campus—taking the place of the traditional bonfire. Amid mud and scrap, students, alums and townspeople cheered the team on.

Between halves at the game on Saturday, Pres. Dykstra introduced the special military guests for the week-end, Colonel Fordney, representing the U. S. Marines; Commander Green, U. S. Navy; and Colonel Otjen the U. S. Army.

CAMPUS JAMBOREE

Bob Dick—working the CJ, with records and turntables in the background



Troubleshooter R. Presley Howington at work on the air on his regular Monday spot

"The Campus Jamboree goes to Prom"—a familiar slogan at Prom time; one that served to indicate that the "CJ" was keeping up its full radio coverage of the big campus social events, along with its weekly five hours record hits.

Every weekday afternoon beginning at four o'clock listeners to WIBA, Madison's NBC affiliate, hear the music of Harry James introducing the Campus Jamboree. Then follows sixty minutes of select records by the nation's finest dance bands, plus news of university goings-on and interviews with campus personalities.

Background: The idea behind the Jamboree is to give the university community an opportunity to hear its favorite bands and join in jam, jest, and just good fun. Bill Lazar and Bob Dick collaborated on the job until Bill left in February to become a staff member of WWJ, Detroit. Since that time Bob has carried on with a host of regular features and numerous special guests. Among the current regulars are Troubleshooter R. Presley Howington, Cardinal Society Editor Betty Kaiser, and Sports Editor Bob Wolf. The "special" classification includes anyone from the fellow in the next seat in Econ 1a to Gene Krupa, Ada Leonard, Bill Stern, Captain Wayne King, and many others.

Reflections: Most popular band, Harry James. Most requested tune, "I Had the Craziest Dream" by Harry James. Most difficult records to get, Harry James.

Biggest Headeache: Interview with ex-burlesque queen Ada Leonard.

Hopes and aspirations: With nearly a dozen alumni now in the armed forces the Jamboree will earnestly attempt to continue serving not only the campus listeners but the even greater number of service men and women in and near Madison with pleasant platter patter and interesting interviews.

Pre-Prom, informal dance designed to provide a forerunner to Junior Prom, was held on January 9 in the Memorial Union. Besides the music of Bob Strong and Bob Rapp, extra added attractions were the presentation of the Prom Queen and the long awaited Badger Beauties. There was a slight hitch in the schedule when King Jim Moore succumbed to an attack of the measles, but his date, Mary Babcock, appeared at the dance escorted by arrangements chairman, Jim Garner, both bewildered but measle-less.

JUNIOR PROM

The glamour and magic of Junior Prom, always the most beautiful formal at Wisconsin, was this year heightened by the knowledge of Prom goers that they were attending their last for the duration. Everything combined to make it a lasting memory of the gay, light-hearted spirit of the dances at pre-war Wisconsin. King Chuck Neumann and Queen Mary Lou Buck reigned in the Union, which was transformed into a wonderland of light and color. Great Hall was packed with couples dancing to the music of Gene Krupa and his orchestra, and downstairs in Tripp Commons and the Council room overflow couples danced to more music. Defense stamp corsages were the rule, the stamps being contributed later to the War Memorial fund. The fact that Junior Prom was held during the regular school period rather than between semesters only served to add more to its glamour and formality. Formals, Tuxedoes, reception line and grand march, hundreds of dancers, bright colors and gay flowers—and our last Prom until after the war became another memory of days at Wisconsin.

THE 1943 SENIOR COUNCIL

Senior ball, traditional dance given by and in honor of the Senor class, also bowed to wartime sentiments this year. Re-labelled Senior Send-off, it was for many of the men students their last dance at Wisconsin. John Winner, president of the fourth-year class, was king, escorting pretty Mary Brauer as his 'non-political' queen. Although a send-off for the Seniors in name, the dance actually served to bid farewell to men students from freshmen on up, for it was held in March, the month that saw the exodus of the great majority of the reservists for the armed forces. The 'last dance' idea even for those who would stay the semester, was paramount for this year saw no military ball as its spring festivity.

UNIVERSITY BAND

RAYMOND F. DVORAK, Director

HILMER F. LUCKHARDT, Assistant Director

The University of Wisconsin Bands are organized for the purpose of studying and performing the best in band music. Besides this the bands act as service organizations to the University and the student body. Membership is limited to 200 qualified musicians. The bands are divided into a Concert Band, A First Regimental Band and a Freshman Band. Those bandsmen who have completed three years of service in the band and are members of the Concert Band are awarded a gold key. The Key is awarded for faithful and continuous service.

By March 15th this year 92 men were either called or voluntarily inducted into our Armed Forces. Some are now playing in Army Bands, others are officers or enlisted personnel of the various services, and several are band leaders.

The band calendar has been a very busy one this year. The Band furnished music for 33 athletic events, played four regularly scheduled concerts and broadcast 15 one-half hour programs over the Wisconsin Network on a program known as the Wisconsin Music Hall Hour.

In addition to these regularly scheduled appearances the bands furnish music for several special convocations and 13 Graduation Exercises for the graduates of the U. S. Naval Training School and the Army Air Forces Technical School located on the University Campus. Several Programs were also played for the entertainment of the men at Truax Field, Madison.

COMBINED REGIMENTAL AND FRESHMAN BANDS

UNIVERSITY CHORUS

Director William Pfeiffer

The University Chorus, the only group in its field on the campus, was organized in its present form four years ago. The activities of the chorus are now a recognized part of the School of Music and students receive credit for participating. Every Sunday the Vesper Singers, a group of about fifty chorus members, broadcast over WHA. Other activities this year have included programs at the USO and Truax Field, a Christmas Program at the Play Circle, a Negro Culture Week program at the Union Theatre, broadcasting over WHA, and a concert at the Union Theatre on March 28.

Once again this year, the orchestra has succeeded in giving the music lovers of Wisconsin many enjoyable moments of the greatest musical literature of the world.

Conducted by Mr. Carl Bricken, the Symphony Orchestra presents four Sunday concerts yearly in the Union Theater, the last of which was the 163rd. At each program, the orchestra features a member of the Pro Arte Quartet as soloist.

Of many college and university orchestras throughout the country, the Wisconsin Symphony Orchestra, one of the finest musical organizations on the campus, is one of few which may claim the distinction of retaining only students in its membership. It is truly of and for the students.

WISCONSIN UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Wisconsin Players had their biggest season in many years with sell-out houses for every show of the six produced in the Wisconsin Union theater from October to April. Special stress was placed on experimental productions in the Play Circle of the Union, in co-operation with the Union Theater committee; the two other Play Circle productions, "Camille", and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" were also staged for the benefit of Wisconsin Players season patrons. The fourth annual playwriting contest was held for the benefit of student authors in the spring, with production of the prize-winning plays in the Play Circle.

WISCONSIN PLAYERS

"What Every Woman Knows'

Wisconsin Players opened their season of stage shows with J. M. Barrie's ever delightful "What Every Woman Knows", produced in late October at the Wisconsin Union theater, Ronald E. Mitchell directed. "Dracula", favorite fiend of mystery fans and small boys, took up residence in the theater wings in mid-November, appearing before the public long enough to scare the wits out of everyone across the footlights. Fredrick Buerki directed.

Noel Coward's theater-wise "Private Lives" demonstrated to the hilt his inimitable stage sense, irridescent dialogue and uncanny timing, when Players staged it in December. John Dietrick directed.

"Private Lives"

"The Man Who Came to Dinner"

"Saint Joan", George Bernard Shaw's ironic tragedy of the Maid of Orleans, was staged in late February with costumes designed especially through the Home Economics department. The Shavian wit was never sharper, the irony more biting than in this great play, directed again by Professor Mitchell.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" was staged with all its colossal shenanigans in March. A product of the Gold Dust twins of the theater, Kaufman and Hart, the play rolled 'em in the aisles in the campus theater as it had in other stage and film productions. Mary Harvey directed.

Since no season seemed complete without a Saroyan show, "My Heart's in the Highlands", directed by Fred Buerki, joined forces with Orchesis' annual dance drama for a double-billing in April. Professor Margaret H'Doubler directed the Orchesis dancers.

HARESFOOT CLUB

The Haresfoot Club is a brain child abandoned on the campus back in 1899. Weaned on nonsense and laughter, it grew into rapid adolesence and its regular tours throughout the mid-west, the Rockies, and the West Coast carried the University of Wisconsin name to more fame than a cool million in pay checks did for Pitts' football team a few years ago.

Haresfoot alumni range from movie stars to diplomats and include Frederick March and Don Ameche now in Hollywood, Irv. Tressler of "How To Lose Friends and Alienate People," Phillip D. Reed, head of General Electric and Joseph E. Davies of Washington, D. C. (just to mention a few). It's no surprise to have two or three alums drop into the Haresfoot office every day still proudly wearing their key, and frank to admit that the best days of their life were spent with Haresfoot.

THE WOMEN

Clare Boothe Luce wrote "The Women" just a little over six years ago for a cast of 47 women. You can imagine her surprise when she learned that Haresfoot produced it with 47 men!

The author, Congressional representative from Connecticut, has drawn her "Women" in all of their caustic acidity. The play is built around a group of as unpleasant females as ever were gathered in one life-time. "The Women" really let their back hair down and talk as men seldom hear them—clothes, nail polish, money, sex, hair-do's, babies, and the extra-marital affairs of their friends.

The biggest production problems Haresfoot Director John P. Leland ran into included (besides casting), locating a bathtub, finding a permanent wave machine, getting ration coupons No. 17 to buy oversizes ladies' shoes for his "Women".

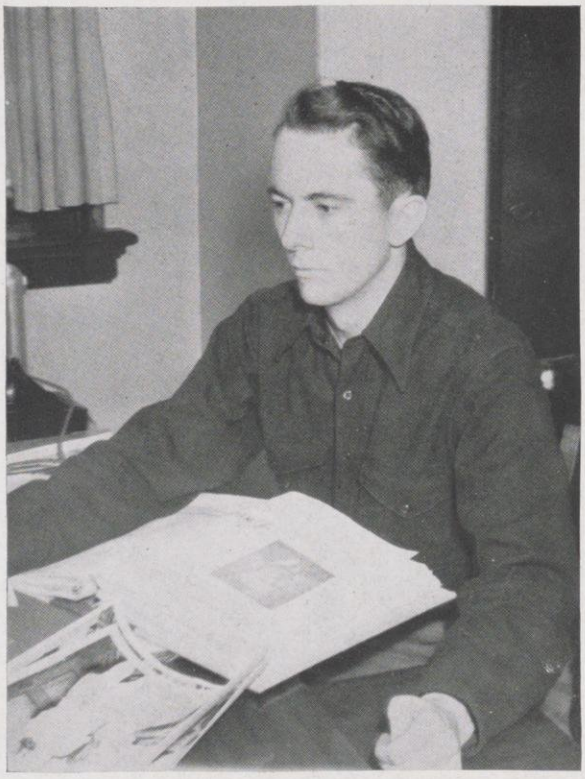
PUBLICATIONS

BADGER EDITORIAL STAFF



BENJAMIN E. JONES, Jr.
Editor-in-Chief

Since the war has caused many limitations with priorities, there have been unusual complications in editing the Badger this year. Many of the staff editors have joined the armed forces and their positions have been hard to fill. Naturally we have had difficulties with priorities on film, flash bulbs, copper, and other materials essential to the production of this book.

In order that our servicemen can have their Badgers as soon as possible we have made every effort to get them out by May. We hope in this way to bring their school life and friends closer to them.

In its fifty-eighth year of publication the Badger hopes to show the change that has occurred on our campus. Army and Navy men now make up the larger part of the student body, consequently there have been necessary changes in the courses offered and in the policies of the college.

The editors, chairmen, and apprentices have turned their best efforts toward publishing a book worthy of representing our school. They have all cooperated and given up many hours each week to work on the Badger.

BADGER BUSINESS STAFF

HAROLD STEINKE
Business Manager

The 1943 Wisconsin Badger Business Staff probably did more to further the advancement of the University's yearbook than any other group in its 58-year history as "Wisconsin's oldest tradition." Even the most inspired Editorial Staff would be helpless without a good Business Staff to place this book in the interests of the students and to manage finances, sales, advertising, publicity, and the organization of the publication. It is interesting to note that this BADGER, the 58th volume, is for the first time in its history "America's largest selling college yearbook." Because of the Business Staff's foresight in including military organizations in the book and spirited sales and advertising campaigns, along with efficient promotion methods; the editors were given more money upon which to build their book than ever before. Only the Federal Government's War Production orders prevented this publication from being even larger and more elaborate than it is today. All in all, the business staff did a swell job, and the greater share of the yearbook's "morale building" effect can justly be attributed to it.

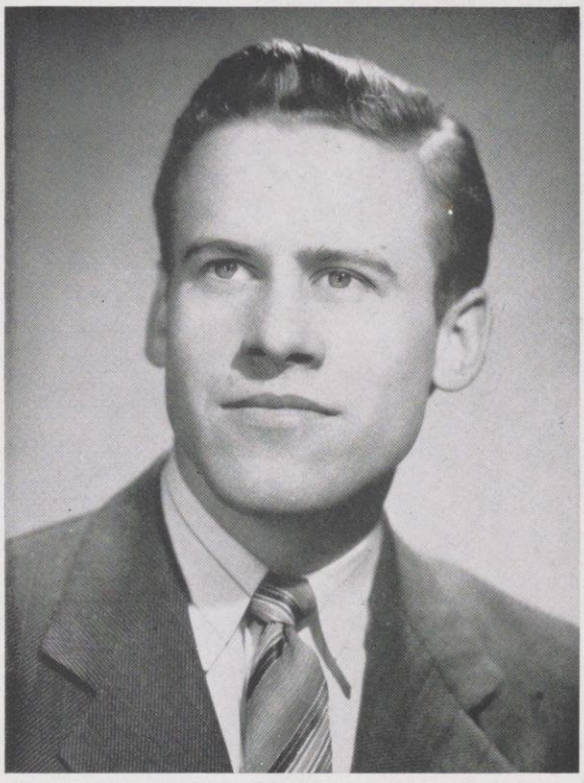
DAILY CARDINAL



STAN GLOWACKI
Executive Editor

Like the rest of the campus, the Daily Cardinal during the past year was affected by and went "all out" for the war. In contrast to other years when the big news for the Cardinal had been a junior prom band or a student election, the transcendent "scoops" of 1942-43 were the calling up of the ERC and army air corps, and other military information which streamed continually from Dean Blaesser's personnel office. Expecting the loss of most male members of the staff to the armed services, the Cardinal in September inaugurated an intensive program to train women for staff positions. The shift to feminine journalists proved a life-saver when all but a half dozen men were called into service. Stan Glowacki resigned during the second semester when his call came, and Dorothy Browne, the first woman editor in the Cardinal's 50-year history, was appointed to finish out the year.

Editorially the Cardinal urged greater student participation in the home-front war, and stressed the importance of laying sound plans now for a peaceful post-war world. Approximately 25 per cent of the total news space was devoted to covering general war activities on the campus—stamp sales, Red Cross blood bank, the WENTS, and special editions for the Homecoming scrap drive and the anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

Although war-time conditions and decreased enrollment had tragic effects on many college newspapers, the Cardinal was able not only to continue on a five-day publishing week but remained the only Big Ten daily not forced down to four page papers during the first semester.

Loss of men to service seriously impaired the efficiency of the delivery system but redoubled efforts on the part of those remaining, plus a switch from carrier delivery to mail delivery of off-campus Madison subscribers helped the Cardinal live up to its motto of getting "all the campus news at your doorstep every morning."

Also hard hit by service calls was the advertising staff which lost several key men. Don Colby assumed the position of Business Manager in February when Williams was called up to active duty by the Army Air Corps.

The Wisconsin Engineer magazine is the official publication of the College of Engineering. It started in 1896 as a quarterly under the auspices of the engineering faculty, and later, the management was turned over to the students. It is now published monthly for 8 months of the school year, but due to the required attendance of engineering students at the summer session, the magazine will probably be published the year round. The Engineer has not missed an issue since its inauguration.

Rushing Chairman.....GWEN CLARK

Castalia was founded in 1864 and is the oldest woman's literary society on the campus. When founded, it concentrated largely on debating. Now it functions more as a cultural organization and caters mostly to those who recognize the need for combining extra-curricular and scholastic activities.

This year, Castalia has broadened its scope even more and included programs in direct line with the war.

Though largely educational and cultural, the society has aimed at fostering friendships within the group. Thereby, the members are provided with the opportunity of knowing girls from various schools on the campus.

The Pythia Literary Society which is in its thirty-third year at Wisconsin was organized to attract interest in and further the knowledge of the creative arts.

Included in its strictly literary activities are speeches, plays, and forums in which the members themselves participate. Among the guest speakers this year, Pythia members enjoyed hearing one of the WAVES. To broaden its activities, Pythia has held joint meetings with the men's forensic societies and Castalia, the other literary society for women. Also included in this year's activities were a variety of musical programs and instruction in defense work.

PROFESSIONAL PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Professional Panhellenic Council serves as coordinating and governing body for the professional sororities on campus. Inaugurated as a part of its program this year were a series of "worknights" at which members of the groups represented rolled bandages, made swabs, and in other ways worked to further the war effort. Under the guidance of Dean Helen Kayser, the group promotes a feeling of unity among women in professional fields. The council is composed of two representatives from each professional sorority.

CURRICULAR

CURRICULA

We are students first . . . courses and majors and pre-requisites . . . schools and colleges and departments . . . our curricula. As freshmen we took the freshman courses . . . spent afternoons in labs and struggled through history . . . English themes and a foreign language. We listened to our advisors and spent most of the time in Bascom Hall . . . But finally we were sophomores and knew about snap courses and who were the good professors. We decided on a major and worried about electives . . . the years resolved into a kaleidoscope of different courses . . . we sat in Bascom reading room and made out cards in the University library. Term papers hanging over our heads, and the wonderful feeling of relief when they were done . . . research and getting to know the professors and trying to take a little of everything . . . Comp Lit and Art History and Economics . . . good courses and bad ones, but all somehow adding up to a college education . . . all somehow making us Wisconsinites. We toiled up and down the hill . . . Science Hall and the Law school with its newly built library . . . Music Hall where Music and Economics mixed, and North and South Halls . . . Journalists and Political Scientists and Mathematicians and Engineers. Lincoln guarding Bascom and the long slope of green leading to the Ag campus . . . the Armory and Kiekhofer's wall always rising like a Phoenix from its own mutilation. Honorary societies and professional fraternities and the magic name of Phi Beta Kappa . . . our Deans and our President . . . little things and big things, a chaos of activity, but all Wisconsin . . . our University . . . where we added our own bit to the process of continual sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth may be found . . . we were students at Wisconsin.

Students from all schools on campus come to the Law Library to study the magnificent mural by artist-in-residence Curry.

The opening scene of each new semester of Freshman Orientation, when groups of incoming students get their first new glimpse of the campus. Led by conscientious upper-classmen, they climb up and down the hill, gaze dutifully at buildings, and begin to make college friends. Next step in becoming a student is registration. This is at the field house, and here are the cards, so all you have to do is sign your name fifty-three times, and you're enrolled in the University of Wisconsin . . . very simple.

Before you were at the University more than a few days you knew about the Lake Road, its history veiled in glamorous legend, path to the dormitories or lover's lane—depending on your mood.

Football in the fall at Camp Randall stadium covers the transition from autumn to winter. The final gun of the game only marks the beginning of the excitement, as crowds of students and alumnae crowd out through the gates to march with the band through crowded streets back to the campus . . . Real center of campus activity is the Union desk, where you can buy stamps or Prom tickets, chat with Oscar and rub elbows with the B.M.O.C's, pick up your mail, or hear yourself paged . . . or just watch the world go by . . . You're going to college so of course you need books. The beginning of each semester finds the college bookstores crammed to the roofs with texts, old, new, and revised. Students crowd around the counters to buy everything from Shakespeare to Thermodynamics. Used copies are always in highest demand, in spite of the underlining, but the familiar "Sorry, only new texts" is too often heard.

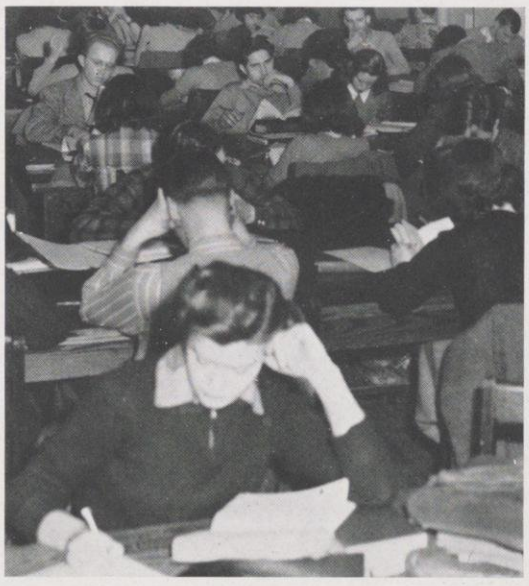
The day of judgment always comes, and before we have fairly gotten started on our courses final exams are upon us. Then the lights stay on all night, outlines are feverishly purchased, and cries of anguish heard from the libraries. There's no alternative—study is the only solution, so we study. . . . the laundry case is a common denominator at Wisconsin and there are always one or two students standing in line at the post office waiting to mail home the laundry. It's a link with the folks back home, and a good opportunity for mother to slip some cookies in between the towels and the sheets . . . President Dykstra is not just a name in the catalogue. He's a familiar sight on the campus, a friend to the students and genial host at the Dykstra teas, to which all students are invited. Here in the beautiful Dykstra home we can eat sandwiches, meet the President and his wife, and pat Terry.



"It's dark on Observatory hill"—and here is the inspiration for the famous song. Rising in back of Bascom, topped by the dome-shaped observatory, it lures astronomers, meteorologists, and strolling couples impartially . . . Friday afternoon usually means a Coffee Hour at the Union. Students stop off on their way down the hill to sip coffee or cider, eat doughnuts, chat with each other and members of the faculty. Here Joe College meets his professor on the common ground of food, and comradeship is the result . . . The chimes from the Carillon tower beckon to hill-climbers, and the music which comes from the slim shaft on Muir Knoll has often coaxed a recalcitrant student up to a class he would otherwise have cut, for music hath charms . . . Lake Mendota, guarding the edge of the campus, is a major part of the beautiful Wisconsin scene and serves as an extra athletic field. Iceboating in the winter, canoeing and sailing in Spring, and swimming in the Summer—there is never a time when the lake doesn't offer some recreation to the students. And even if you aren't athletic, Mendota will have a place in your memories. It is the border of the beautiful University campus.

Student government is a natural counterpart of the liberal Wisconsin spirit. Political training gives the students a better understanding of how—and why—the wheels tick.

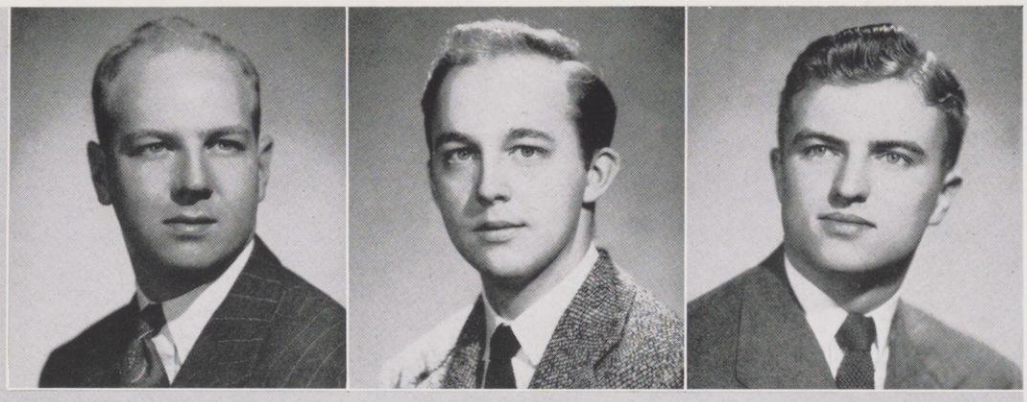
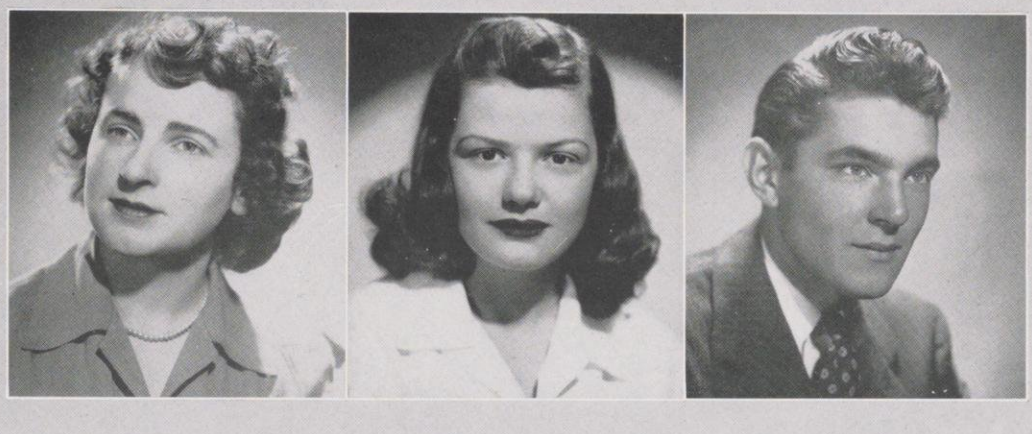
STUDENT BOARD

Student government administration is not a job for a "Mr. Milquetoast", or a "gravy seeker", for it requires the deft manipulation of student problems. This was ably done by the Student Board of the Wisconsin Student Association.

Only three members of the total sixteen were carry-overs from last year, but the disproportional influx of new members did not affect the Board's efficiency in handling campus problems. To prove this we need only recall a few of their notable achievements: Discard of the use of the time-consuming and confusing Hare ballots in elections; setting up of proportional distribution of Student Board positions according to the male-female enrollment ratio; establishment of a student sounding board to be known as the Wisconsin Institute of Student Opinion; promotion of a successful War Chest Drive; supervision of all major dances in addition to the Board's own low-cost dance program; formation of a committee to handle student housing problems; establishment of a committee to study and promote the student body's academic relations; and lastly the development of a new tentative plan for the financing of the Board's annual program.





STUDENT BOARD SENIORS

HERB STONE—"Big Swen", Dance chairman, by offering a very successful dance series, deserves credit for executing the goliathan job of providing the Board with funds to maintain the rest of its program. February graduation robbed the Board of its political engineer.

JIM WHITING—Until the Army Air Corps summoned "Jim" in February, he served his time as chairman of the newly organized Wisconsin Institute of Student Opinion, and staunchly supported the conservative viewpoint on controversial issues.

BILL BRUNSELL—With his inevitable bow tie and cap, Bill was the Board's social representative. He contributed to the Board's activities by aiding in the revision of both the Student Court regulations, and of the homecoming pep rally policy.

ELISE HUNT—Daughter of Wyoming's governor, softspoken and industrious, Elise, as WSGA President, represented Wisconsin women on Student Board. A strong supporter of women's rights, she fostered the new women's co-operative housing group.

MARTHA LEWIS—Last of the Wells representatives, and wife of last year's Daily Cardinal editor, "Marty" championed liberalness. Serving ably for a year and a half, she was lured by offers of "Big Money" and left in February to work as a statistician in Detroit.

JOHN VERGERONT—Gentleman and Phi Beta Kappa scholar of Student Board, John applied his legal training to the revision of Student Court. Second of the Vergeront family to serve on Student Board, he maintained their thorough and consistent attitude on student affairs.

HELEN HALL—"Heddy", sincere, hard-working Madison representative, served as Personnel Director and as the Board member on the War Council. Ever ready to give credit where credit was due, and to offer suggestions, she deserves credit herself for her 2 year term of office.

JIM RUCHTI—"Big Jim" immortalized his work through the designing of a new elections system of voting, known throughout campusdom as the "Ruchti" system. Vice-president of the Board and House Presidents' Council's chairman, Jim accomplished many dynamic changes in one year.

JANE BENNETT—Representing the sorority faction, "Jane" served ably as Publicity Director of the Board and contributed much to the Board's discussions on campus problems. Her classification before graduation might have been Naval Reserve, for she joins the ranks of Navy wives in June.

BOARD COMMITTEES

War Chest

Following a conversion from a peace-time agency into a war-time necessity, the University War Chest had its most successful drive. Under Joe Medalie's guidance the Chest solicited substantial contributions from students and campus groups alike. Through the sale of tags, and from the proceeds of Blackout Ball and the Swing Concert the drive netted $3,000, which has been distributed to over 20 organizations, including campus and world-wide charities.

Elections Committee

The elections committee is the body set up to supervise the mechanics of student elections and to see that the candidates during the course of their campaigns do not violate the election rules. Expenses were slashed in two this year. One way this was accomplished was by turning over the computation of the returns to the members of the elections committee, instead of paying the registrar's office to do it, as was the usual procedure.

Housing Committee

Faced with a serious shortage of available student housing, the fall semester opened with charges against many householders of the practice of racial discrimination. The student housing committee, established by Student Board to promote and maintain high standards for student living conditions, tackled this problem with full force. Great advances were made towards the understanding of the racial problem, and the drop in the university enrollment helped to alleviate the crowded conditions.

Wages and Hours Committee

This committee's main aim was to iron out the wage inequalities in cases where student's wages had not increased with the rising cost of living. A minimum wage of forty cents an hour was set as a standard for student employment and was met by most employers. Additional problems which the committee faced concerned (1) a relatively high labor turn-over, and (2) a general shortage of labor in establishments employing students.

Student Public Relations Committee

The committee is subdivided into five groups, each dealing with a specific phase of the program, and headed by its own chairman. Supervising the five groups is the SPRC chairman, who appoints the sub-chairmen, and meets with them regularly to check on their groups' progress and map out new plans. The five subdivisions consist of Alumni, High School and Legislative Relations committees, a Speakers Bureau and a press and radio committee.

Student Committees on Academic Problems

The Student Committee on Academic Problems was created in an attempt to bridge the gap between the student body and the faculty. Working with the various faculty committees as much as possible, it studied the most pressing problems, and from such studies planned a course of action. The student body's viewpoints and opinions were collected through individual research on the part of the committee members, and by open meetings at which student criticism was invited.

The Men's House Presidents' Council Executive Board, headed by chairman James Ruchti, functioned as a co-ordinating unit for the three campus housing groups: the Residence Halls, the Independent Lodging Houses, and the Fraternities.

During the year the HPC established, for the first time on the campus, an all-university exam file at the main library. Initial collection of the exams was effected by the HPC and machinery set up for the continuance of the file. Heavily used, the file was a marked success.

A meeting of all individual house presidents on the campus was another feature of the HPC program. With entertainment and refreshments as an attraction, the meeting served to introduce the presidents to each other and to acquaint them with the services offered them in carrying out their duties by the HPC.

Gathering of work gangs for war work, establishment of a social functions file for aid in planning parties, and the continuation of the Mailbag for the information of all houses completed the chief activities of the Executive Board.

STUDENT COURT

The Student Court was set up by joint action of the faculty and the Student Board in 1941. It was to be an experiment in the supervision of recalcitrant students by their peers. Now that the trial period of two years has been completed, it is the feeling of the faculty, the court itself, and those students who have appeared before the court, that it has functioned with great success.

The court is composed of two juniors, two seniors, and two graduate students. One member is always a law student and automatically becomes Chief Justice. Prosecuting attorney and the public defense counsel are likewise law students. The advisor of the court is a member of the law faculty whose duty it is to advise whether jurisdiction exists in a particular case and to advise defendants of any rights that they have before going to trial.

The nature of the cases handled by the Student Court during the past year consisted of election violations, class room dishonesty, disorderly conduct, and traffic violations. Approximately sixty per cent of the court's work is comprised of traffic cases. Students who park their cars or drive on the campus during restricted hours are apprehended by the university police officers and given a ticket and summons requiring their appearance before the court. The fines exacted for these violations defray the expenses of the court.

In cases other than traffic violations, it has been the aim of the court not merely to punish a student for an offense, but to ascertain the cause of it with a view towards alleviating his maladjustment—if one is found to exist. Reformation rather than retribution was the philosophy practiced in the sentences imposed.

The graduate members of the court this year were Chief Justice Dave Blanchard and Hugh Engelmann. The seniors were Marge Shearer and Guy Stoute. Harry Rogers and Judy Walton were the junior members. Professor Richard V. Campbell was the Law Faculty advisor. Howard Menzel was prosecuting attorney and James Connelly was Public Defense Council. Joe Hammersley was the university officer.

The Women's Self-Government Association this year continued its task of administering regulations for university women in addition to a greatly widened scope of activities in keeping with the increased importance of women on the campus. Under the Women's Administrative Committee, W.S.G.A. supervised and directed all phases of co-ed activity, ranging from the vastly important War Co-ordinating Board to arrangements for the annual freshman scholarship banquet. Early forecasting of the new feminine regime on campus enabled W.S.G.A. to plan their program to fit in with the changed war-time rules and regulations. Along with its regular schedule of housemother's teas, its annual fashion show (under the direction of the Women's Affairs Committee) and other events of interest to women, W.S.G.A. this year entered whole-heartedly into the campus war effort, supplementing and helping to direct the patriotic WENTS of Wisconsin. Besides these special activities, W.S.G.A. workers have the job of keeping all campus houses posted on student affairs by means of the House President's Weekly Mail Bag; deciding matters of policy; keeping the co-eds straight on regulations.

ORIENTATION

ROBERT LARSEN, Co-chairman

A week of fun—frivolity—foolishness—fact-finding—and friendliness—that's Orientation! During this week, freshmen are officially and unofficially welcomed to the traditions of Wisconsin—the glories, the honors, the festivities, and the learning that are to make their University career meaningful.

Orientation does not terminate with Freshman Week. The friendships, associations, and guidance initiated by the Orientation assistants continue throughout the year by means of a follow-up program.

Five hundred undergraduates commenced the preparation for the Orientation program last spring and returned to school a week early to be on hand to meet the freshmen. Their job was a big one, and they did it well—but they had fun too. The Registrar, Mr. Merriman, too, deserves no little amount of credit for his guidance throughout the program.

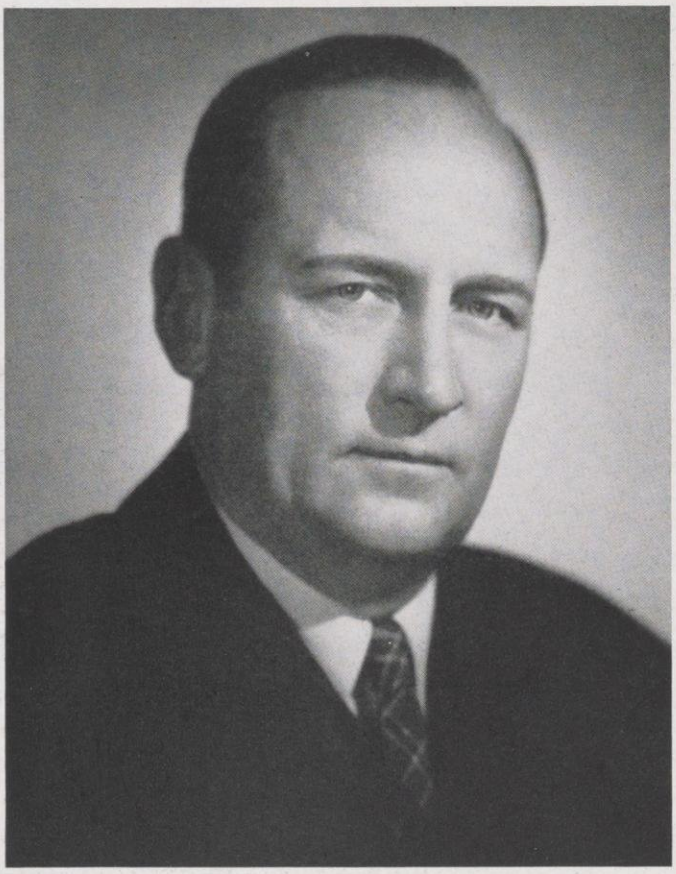
The University is made up of its various schools and colleges. Each of these is outstanding in its own way; each contributing a large share of the tradition that makes Wisconsin great.

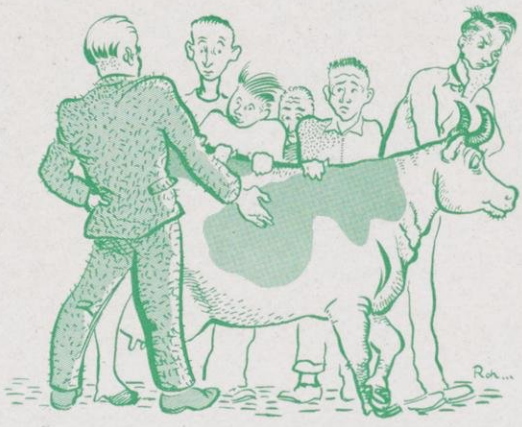
SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE



CHRIS L. CHRISTENSEN

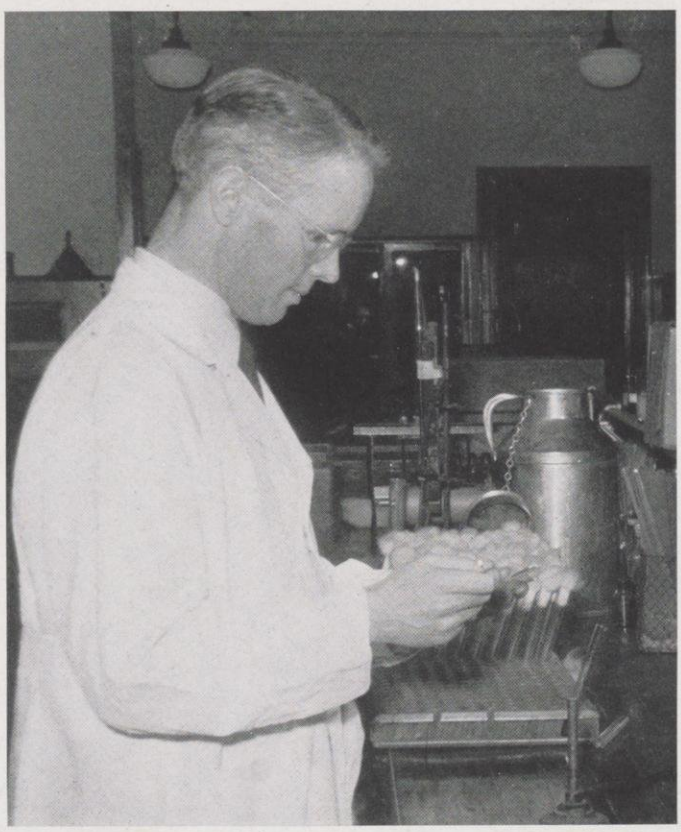
Dean



A BIG MAN with a big job, Chris L. Christensen is not only the administrator of the largest portion of the University campus, but in addition is the director of the state-wide program of agriculture. His unusual executive ability combined with his forceful personality explains his tremendous success and popularity. Dean Christensen, born and raised on a Nebraska farm, still clings to his western "ten gallon hat." Devotion to his job and determination of purpose have helped to bring the Wisconsin School of Agriculture up among the top ranking agricultural schools in the country.

AGRICULTURE HALL

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE



W. B. SARLES

THE Wisconsin College of Agriculture is organized into three separate branches, education, research, and extension.

In addition to the regular educational program of the College of Agriculture here on the western end of the Wisconsin campus, the College offers its Short Course in Agriculture. Wisconsin's Short Course, founded in the late 1800's, was the first and is now the leading short course in the country. The Short Course is divided into two nine week terms, running from November to March. Through this plan, farm youths may obtain their education and still be available on their farms for the fall harvests and spring plowing. While at the University, the Short Course student gets a taste of college life, the curricula including educational, cultural, and recreational projects.

Through its research division, the Agricultural Experimental Station is of service in reducing the hazard of farming by developing and testing practices which will safeguard the farmer as much as possible. The Department of Home Economics, a division of the College, aids the homemakers in a similar fashion.

The state-wide extension program directly contacts the Wisconsin farmer and homemaker through county agents and extension workers in nearly all of Wisconsin's 71 counties. Meetings and home visitations are planned through which the farmer may benefit by the work of the College.

One of the main problems facing the farmer today is the acute labor shortage. The drafting of man-power by army and industry has hindered the farmer in his attempt to increase production. The College of Agriculture is doing all it can to help the farmer solve this problem by developing more efficient and time-saving methods of production.

A. W. Hopkins

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE FACULTY

W. B. Sarles heads the work of distributing soil culture bacteria to inoculate legume seed on farms. Also interested in other phases of agriculture and livestock bacteriology, Professor Sarles is a popular favorite with both students and faculty.

Andrew W. Hopkins was born and raised on a farm within 30 miles of Madison. Now head of the department of Agricultural Journalism, he is credited with revision of text and layouts of farm bulletins in general, from examples he worked out here.

C. A. Elvehjem is most widely known for his research following that of Steenbock, Hart, and McCollum, all tending to clarify and strengthen the newer knowledge of nutrition and use of protective foods in the human diet. His work with pellagra preventive vitamins is of most recent note. A native of Wisconsin and a home-trained scientist who has attained a world wide reputation.

Professor Gustav Bohstedt, Professor of Animal and Dairy Husbandry, graduated from Wisconsin's School of Agriculture in 1915. Professor Bohstedt has done work in Animal Husbandry at the Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa, and at the Ohio Agricultural Experimental Station. He is a national authority on the subject of livestock nutrition.

Professor B. D. Leith is now manager of the College's experimental "Hill Farm". Here he supervises the cereal grain breeding plots. A native of Wisconsin, Professor Leith has been with the Agronomy department for over twenty-five years.

AGRICULTURAL STUDENT COUNCIL

Tying together the various clubs and organizations on the College of Agriculture campus is the Agricultural Student Council. By working through a central body, the extra-curricular activities are coordinated for best service and to prevent over-lapping of programs and activities.

The various organizations in agriculture and home economics are represented on the council by representatives elected in the clubs. Meetings of Ag Council integrate the activities and work out arrangements for the important social events of the school year and set up the activity fee card.

Events sponsored by the Council are the Harvest and Mid-Winter Balls and the Ag-Home Ec banquet held each Spring.

The Wisconsin chapter of Delta Theta Sigma, a professional agricultural fraternity, was organized in 1927. Being a national fraternity, there are also chapters at Ohio State and Pennsylvania.

Scholastic standing comes first with the men of Delta Theta Sigma, however, they have made social and athletic achievements that are a credit to themselves and to the fraternity. Many of the members are also active in other societies, such as Phi Kappa Phi (National Honorary Fraternity) and Phi Lambda Upsilon (Honorary Chemistry Fraternity), and two of the members were written up in the 1942 Who's Who.

EUTHENICS CLUB

Euthenics, a club open to all Home Economics girls, is organized to combine a recreation gathering with discussion and study of problems and interests relating to home economics.

The big project chosen this year included defense activities such as: USO hostessing; British War Relief sewing; preparation of a "Share the Meat for Victory" information sheet; and the presentation of three skits on "What's Happening on the Third Front".

The Christmas party was a favorite social meeting. Traditionally the year's activities close with a banquet for faculty members and students.

Organized in 1925, the 4H club is one of the largest student organizations on campus, boasting 368 members this year. Membership is restricted to former 4H members and leaders. Purposes of the club include development of leadership, service, friendliness, and interest in 4H club work and rural life.

Meetings are held monthly for all members of the club. Special groups such as service, extension, war groups meet at various times to do any work desired of them such as furnishing entertainment for rural clubs, service for certain welfare organizations, and organizing scrap drives on the agricultural campus. Several radio programs are presented by members of the club over WHA on the weekly Saturday broadcast to furnish vital and current information to members of the club throughout the state. The general monthly meetings are carefully planned by the officers to supply educational and social entertainment for the members. Recreation leadership is furnished and other direction guidance programs have been carried out in drama and music. The club has its own chorus that has appeared over the air and in person on several occasions. The club has tried to work hand and hand with the Union in all campus activities in an effort to promote better cooperation between ag and hill students. Social highlight of the year was the 4H Victory Ball built upon the theme of the 4H's part in the war.

As in the past, the chapter again this year has been conferring the Green Hand and Future Farmer degrees to high school F.F.A. members. The chapter is giving prospective agriculture teachers training and experience in Future Farmer work which will benefit them in the teaching field. The organization has had a number of outstanding men speak at their meetings to broaden the horizons of the prospective vocational agriculture teachers. Finally, the spirit of cooperation has been encouraged and laid down as one of the ideals of the organization.

CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

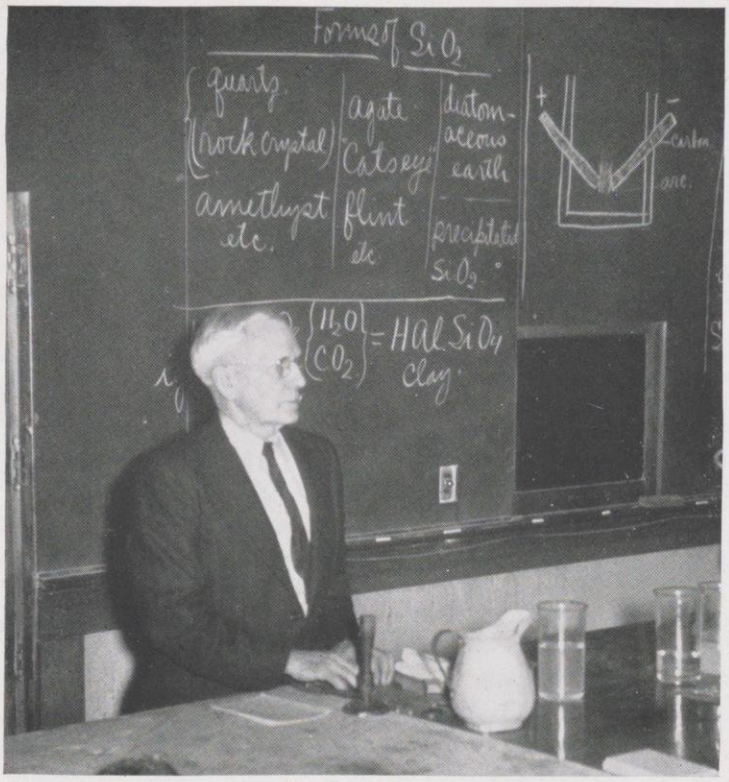
J. H. MATHEWS

Director

PROFESSOR J. H. MATHEWS, Director of the Chemistry Department is a man of diversified interests. A professor of physical chemistry, he also teaches a very popular course for the Sociology Department known as "The Use of Scientific Methods in the Identification of the Criminal." Long a student of criminology, Prof. Mathews has been responsible for the development of new scientific methods and instruments used in criminal investigation. In addition to this, it is of interest to know that he is the President of the Madison Police and Fire Commission.

Professor Mathews spends some time each summer in Vilas County photographing wild animal life in its natural northern Wisconsin environment. His color movies of deer are most interesting and unusual.

CHEMISTRY BUILDING



F. C. KRAUSKOPF

CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT FACULTY

Professor Krauskopf lectures and supervises the lab work for Chemistry 1. While at Wisconsin, he has done some noted research in physical chemistry. "Krausie," as he is known by his colleagues, is as much at home puttering in his garden as he is in his lab.

Dr. C. H. Sorum teaches a course in chemistry especially designed for freshmen in chemistry and in chemical engineering. He is very popular with his students. His work in colloid chemistry is of note. An excellent cabinet maker by hobby, Dr. Sorum planned and helped furnish his own home in Shorewood Hills.

The beginning course in analytical chemistry is handled by Professor N. F. Hall. He is also known to graduate students for his course in Inorganic Chemistry. Professor Hall spent some time in France during World War No. 1 with the Chemical Warfare Service. His English sheep dog "Faithful Jo" won a canine contest on this campus not long ago.

Professor Shuette teaches the courses in food chemistry. Through his research in this field he has become an authority on the chemistry of vegetable oils. When not at work in his laboratory, he may be found pushing the lawn mower on his Maple Bluff estate.

Alpha Chi Sigma was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1902 for the purpose of contributing to the advancement of the Chemical sciences by offering professional and social brotherhood to the members of these professions. The organization is active in the professional sphere in presenting speakers on interesting scientific subjects, and in participating in the annual Engineering Exposition. It offers several prizes for high scholarship each year and maintains various displays throughout the year in the Chemistry department. Monthly social functions and intramural athletics round out the activities of the fraternity.

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

FAYETTE H. ELWELL

Director

FAYETTE H. ELWELL, director of one of the state's largest accounting firms, is an efficient and businesslike administrator of the School of Commerce. His wide business acquaintances and contacts make it possible for him to place worthy students in responsible places. Due to his excellent leadership and his ability in placing students, Professor Elwell has helped to bring the Wisconsin School of Commerce into prominence. Author as well as teacher, Professor Elwell has collaborated in the writing of several nationally known books on accounting and bookkeeping.

STERLING HALL

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

H. R. Trumbower

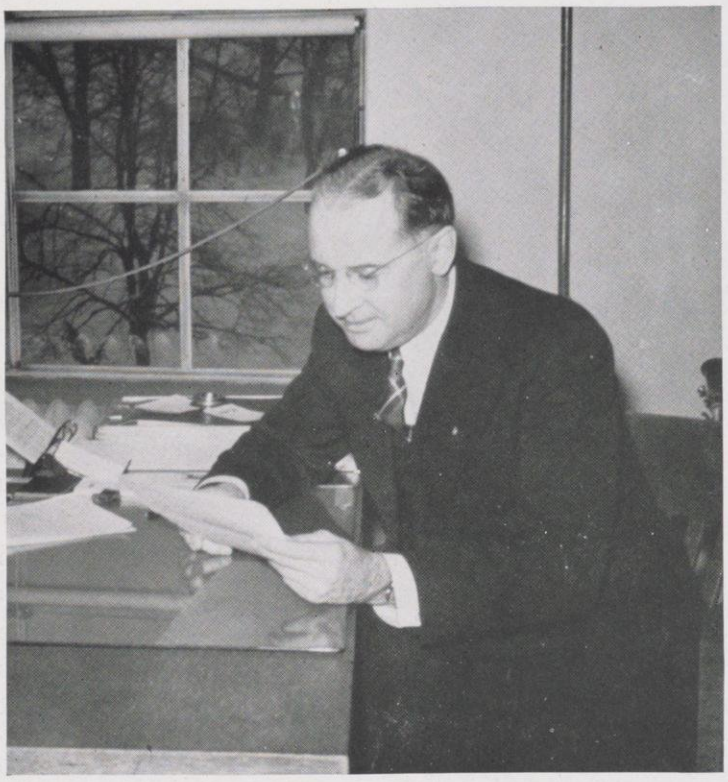
ON the third and fourth floors of Sterling Hall is found a maize of class and lecture rooms, labs filled with buzzing calculators, adding machines and harrassed students puzzling over problems in statistics. This is the School of Commerce, the training ground of future businessmen.

Starting the second semester of this year, the School of Commerce now offers a one-year course of three semesters to prepare men and women for manufacturing or government service. This war program is open to all persons over 21 without regard to previous academic training.

Students are trained under this new program as statisticians, cost accountants, financial accountants and personnel assistants. No university credit is given for the course except where the student has all the pre-requisites.

A typical three-semester program in the course would include such courses as accounting, industrial management, economics, personnel management, statistics, business communications, psychology, marketing methods, labor problems, commercial law, and corporate finance.

Professor F. H. Elwell, director of the School of Commerce and advisor to the "commerce specials," as the students in the special war group are called, has suggested that enrollees receive only two grades, pass or fail. Plans have also been made to give a statement or certificate to those who complete the year's work, and to give an appropriate letter to those who take only one or several of the courses.



R. R. Aurner

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE FACULTY

The handsome, white-haired gentleman who teaches Highway and Railway Transportation is Professor Henry Trumbower. He is a thorough and patient teacher, and a master at the art of untangling problems of our complicated, interwoven transportation system of today.

Emaculate in appearance and precise in his ways, Professor Robert Aurner sets a good example for his students in Business Communications. He graduated from the University of Iowa where he became a member of Phi Beta Kappa. An active alumnus of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Mr. Aurner now holds a national office in his fraternity.

J. C. Gibson is the little man of the commerce school. However, he has a big job on his hands in instructing students in consolidations and income tax accounting. His friends will tell you that he is quite a singer, having been known to sing the sextet from Lucia without assistance.

W. A. Morton, the wizard of money and banking, is a much quoted man amongst his students in discussing problems of inflation and the future of the credit system. His stimulating lectures on finance are peppered with his well known sarcastic humor.

The fascinating fields of Marketing and Advertising Principles are taught to commerce students by Professor Donald R. Fellows. Direct and clear cut in his ways, a long experience in the field of advertising enables him to transmit a practical understanding of the subject to his students. Quiet in appearance, he is not without a good sense of humor.

Juniors: Leroy Bruechert, Walter Huchthausen, Robert Larsen.

To accomplish the aims of Beta Gamma Sigma, an honorary Commerce society, the founders of the organization limited membership to those who demonstrated superiority in those traits which a college education in business should develop. New members are elected from the highest two percent of the junior class in Commerce and from the highest ten percent of the graduating class on the basis of scholarship, activities, and leadership.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Alpha Mu, the Wisconsin chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, is one of forty-eight collegiate chapters constituting the membership of this international Commerce fraternity. Founded in 1904 at New York University, Alpha Kappa Psi has since become an established member of the Professional Interfraternity Council. Each local chapter participates in the three general functions of fraternal, professional, and social activities with its heaviest stress laid on the fraternal and professional aspects.

At each weekly meeting a dinner program is arranged to include a guest speaker who has exhibited competence in some particular field and whose comments, therefore, add to the general background of knowledge of the chapter's members.

Alpha Delta Sigma is a national professional advertising fraternity whose value lies in the continued association, discussion and agency work with members, both professional and student, whose interest lies with advertising and its related fields. The principal activity in the second semester is the fraternity's service to the Haresfoot Club, acting as its advertising agency and producing the Haresfoot souvenir program.

BETA ALPHA PSI

Membership in this professional fraternity is offered to accounting majors who have maintained a two-point average in accounting subjects and comparable grades in other subjects. The purpose of the fraternity is to further the interests and the contacts of men in commerce school. Dinners are held in the Memorial Union on alternate Tuesdays. At each of these meetings, an outstanding man in the profession is presented. An informal talk by the guest speaker on some phase of his work acquaints the members of Beta Alpha Psi with the practical problems of accounting.

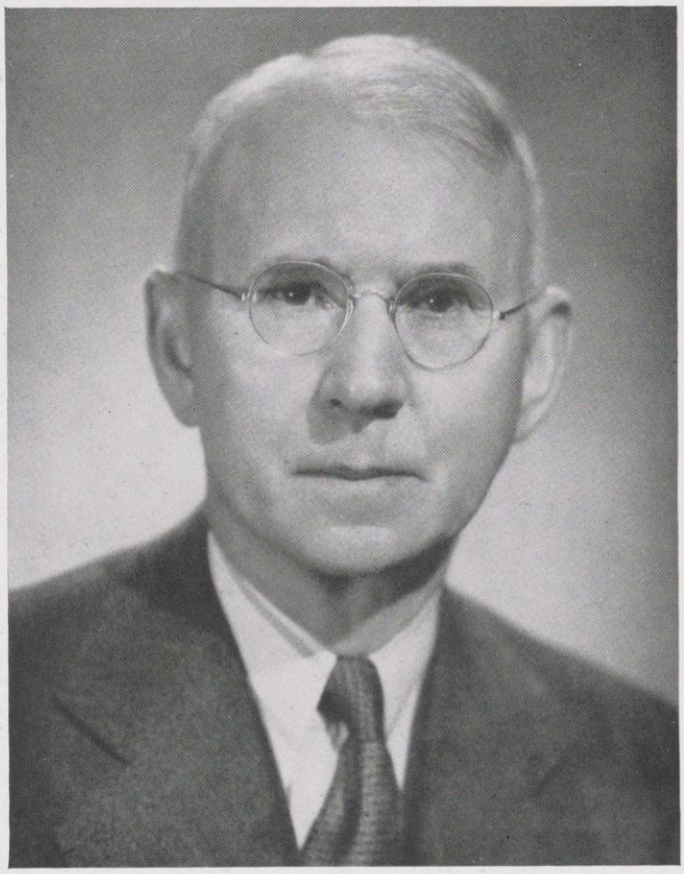
The promotion of higher business education and training for women in business careers is the purpose of Phi Chi Theta, women's professional commerce sorority. Each year a key is awarded at the Commerce School banquet to the outstanding woman senior in commerce. This year the members of Phi Chi Theta worked at the Red Cross work shop as part of their defense activities. Student-faculty relationships were promoted through its Founder's Day banquet, held in the spring.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION



CHARLES J. ANDERSON

Dean

DEAN CHARLES J. ANDERSON, builder and creator in educational lines, has been administrator of his school since its establishment 13 years ago. Formerly a superintendent of Stoughton Schools and one time assistant State Superintendent under John Callahan, Dean Anderson's wealth of experience as an administrator and educator account for his ability as an executive. Though he has little time for it, Dean Anderson is extremely interested in the problems of elementary school education. He is co-author of several reading and arithmetic books used in grade schools. Dean Anderson owns and operates a farm 25 miles from Madison which is to him a business rather than a hobby.

EDUCATION AND ENGINEERING BUILDING

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION FACULTY

A. H. Edgerton

A wealth of experience in vocation and occupational analyses lies behind the fact that Professor A. H. Edgerton is an expert as Director of Vocational Guidance here at the University. Dark, smiling, friendly Professor Edgerton takes a real interest in the problems presented to him by his students.

Well known and well liked by students of education is Professor John Guy Fowlkes, instructor of the principles of Educational Administration. His experiences as a school administrator include being headmaster of a boys' school in New York. He has written numerous books on school administration and has published several arithmetic work books and tests.

Professor T. L. Torgerson handles the work in Educational Research and teaches a course in evaluation in education. He is the author of various bulletins of the Bureau of Educational Research of the University.

William A. McCloy, instructor in art education, is known to his students in oil painting as a swell, all-around guy; quiet, but when he speaks, he has something to say. Small and wiry, he was an outstanding athlete in his college days. Many of his paintings have taken prizes in the Union Art Shows.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

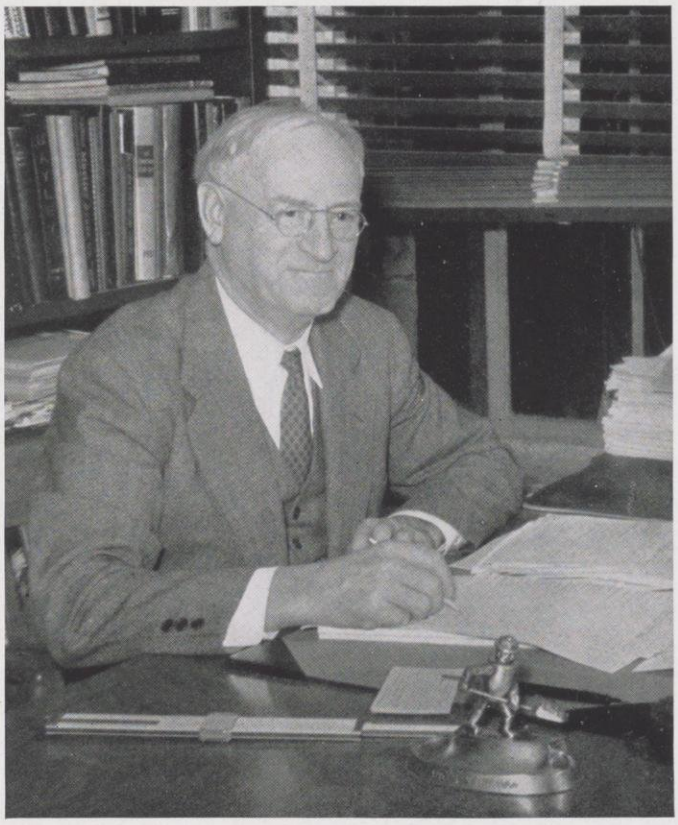
F. ELLIS JOHNSON

Dean

F. ELLIS JOHNSON, graduate of the University of Wisconsin is now dean of the same engineering school he once attended. Dean Johnson was very active as a student at Wisconsin, being President of the University YMCA, a member of the varsity crew and Iron Cross. An electrical engineer, he is now a consultant in acceptance tests on power plants, designs of transmission lines and valuation of municipal electric systems. Proud of his school and the members of the engineering faculty, it is largely through his efforts that the Wisconsin Engineering College has attained its prominence among engineering schools today.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING BUILDING

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING



G. L. Larson

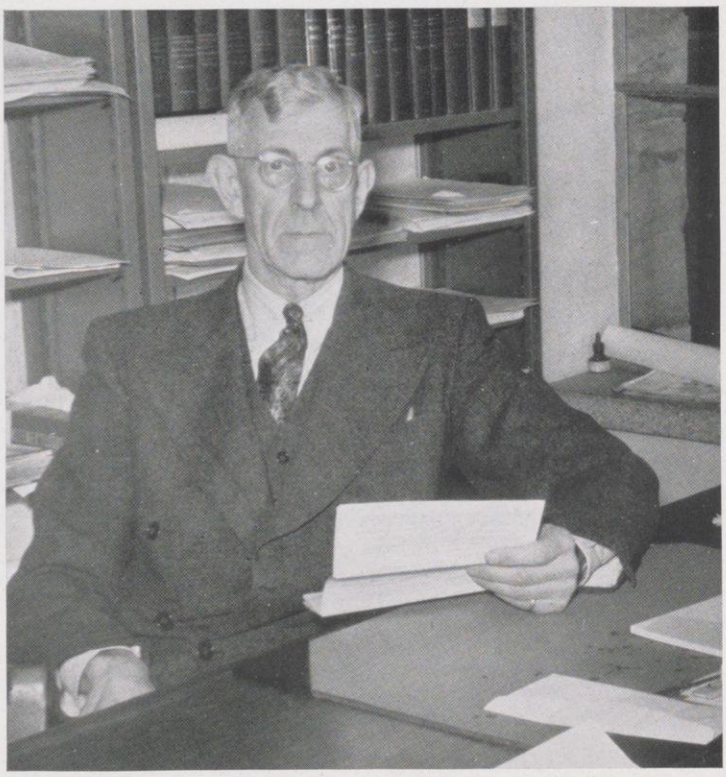
THIS year the Engineering School has joined hands with the United States Government and opened its doors and classrooms to members of our armed forces. This effort on the part of the college is highly commendable.

Waves, Sailors and Marines all are now being trained under the roof of the Mechanical Engineering building. Though the Navy and Marines have installed their own equipment, they have been given the use of the engineer's classrooms and lecture halls.

One hundred and fifty-six Air Force Mechanics from Chanute Field, Illinois, are being trained here, also. They have been given the use of the University equipment and the guidance of members of the faculty. This supplementary work of Chanute Field is under the supervision of Professor McNaul. Professor G. L. Larson handles the business administration of the plan along with Dean Johnson.

In addition to this, 30 Naval Officers are being trained here in the operation of diesel engines. The Navy has spent several thousand dollars to install additional equipment in the diesel laboratories This Naval Officer's training is under the supervision of Professors Nelson and Larson.

The College of Engineering has added a new member to its already outstanding faculty in the person of K. M. Watson. Professor Watson is working with Professor Hougen in the field of Chemical Engineering. Both men are considered "tops" in their field.



J. W. Watson

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING FACULTY

Professor Gustus L. Larson, long-time Chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, retired his chairmanship this year to Professor L. A. Wilson. Tall, gray-haired Professor Larson is known to be a good leader, and a straight thinker by his students of steam and gas, or "huff and puff" as it is known to students of the "engine" school. Full of fun, Professor Larson is a hunting and fishing enthusiast.

J. W. Watson, Professor of Electrical Engineering is soleful in expression but warm in spirit. He is well known to engineering students for length in stature and understanding; an expert on the subject of direct and alternating currents.

Professor R. S. Roark's work with the mechanics of thin shells has been beneficial to the war industry. He is well known for his books on mechanics now used in many universities. Classes in aerodynamics and design of airplane parts are taught by Professor Roark.

Leslie F. Van Hagen, Chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering has been head of his department since its origin. Prior to coming here he spent some time as a railway engineer in Mexico. His high sense of organization and logical ability have ranked him among the foremost in his field.

Respected and well liked by all, Professor Roland Ragatz has been very successful as Chairman of the Chemical Engineering Department. He is credited with greatly aiding the war effort by his development of steel cartridge cases. His papers on heat treatment of steel are well known to chemical engineers.

Pi Tau Sigma is a national honorary fraternity for students of Mechanical Engineering and others practicing that profession. The organization promotes high ideals in the engineering profession, stimulates interest in mechanical engineering departmental activities and promotes the mutual professional welfare of its members in college and in practice.

In 1914, simultaneously, and unknown to each other, local honorary mechanical engineering fraternities were organized at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Illinois. In 1916, at a joint meeting in Chicago of the active and honorary members of each group, the national organization of Pi Tau Sigma was formed and the two groups became brotherhood chapters and were appropriately called Wisconsin Alpha and Illinois Alpha.

Pi Tau Sigma now has twenty-five active chapters and a total membership of over 3,000.

TAU BETA PI

Tau Beta Pi, the national all-engineering honorary fraternity, was founded at Lehigh University in 1885, and the Alpha Chapter of Wisconsin was established in May, 1899. Its members are elected from all branches of engineering on a basis of outstanding character and high scholastic attainment.

Because of the accelerated program, the Chapter this year decided to elect officers each semester instead of each year. The officers resigning at the end of the first semester were: Bob Borchardt, President; Paul Hoffman, Vice-President; Don Livermore, Corresponding Secretary; Roger Lescohier, Recording Secretary; and Al Lokken, Cataloger.

Polygon Board represents the engineering organizations in all their collective activities. It is a coordinating body for the student professional societies, helping them with their problems and also sponsoring social functions for the engineers. During the past year, the major social events were a very successful all-engineering smoker at the start of the fall semester, the annual fall Polygon Ball and the traditional St. Pat's Dance along with a very spirited St. Pat's contest. The work of the board is carried on by two representatives from each of the professional engineering societies.

The present Wisconsin student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers began as the Chemical Engineer's Society shortly before the first World War; and it became affiliated with the National Organization in 1923.

Its purpose is to develop the principles and practice of chemical engineering; to encourage the application of chemistry, physics, and mathematics to the problems of industry; to promote industrial efficiency by substitution of scientific and engineering procedures for "rule of thumb"; and the establishment of high standards of personal ethics.

The society is one of the largest engineering societies at Wisconsin with a membership this past year of over a hundred and ten. The A.I.Ch.E. has always endeavored to serve its individual members, by such projects as the Alumni Service, started by the class of 1941, which keeps each member in touch with his classmates. A map is also posted showing the future locations of present seniors upon graduation.

The University of Wisconsin branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers is a society for students enrolled in the course of Electrical Engineering. Talks on the various phases and branches in this field of engineering are presented at the monthly meetings. These talks and subsequent discussions are to acquaint students with the practical aspects of the profession and to develop their abilities along professional lines which is the purpose of the organization.

Pi Mu Epsilon is a non-secret organization whose purpose is the promotion of mathematical scholarship among the students in academic institutions of university grade. It aims to do this by (1) electing members on an honorary basis according to their proficiency in mathematics; (2) by engaging in activities designed to promote the mathematical and scholarly development of its members; and (3) by taking any other measures which will further the purpose above stated.

Pi Mu Epsilon holds meetings every two weeks at which discussions concerning new or unusual applications of mathematics take place. These discussions are presented by student members as well as professors and noted authorities on the various subjects. A Christmas party is held each year and also a spring picnic. Each spring a methematical contest is sponsored with suitable prizes being awarded to the winners. The annual banquet is usually held in the early part of the second semester.

Graduate Students: R. Andree, B. Gamson, R. Good, A. Hogben, A. Jankowski, E. Scheibe, J. Carnahan, R. Krohn, T. LaChapelle, S. Lipton, H. Schultz, G. Thodos.

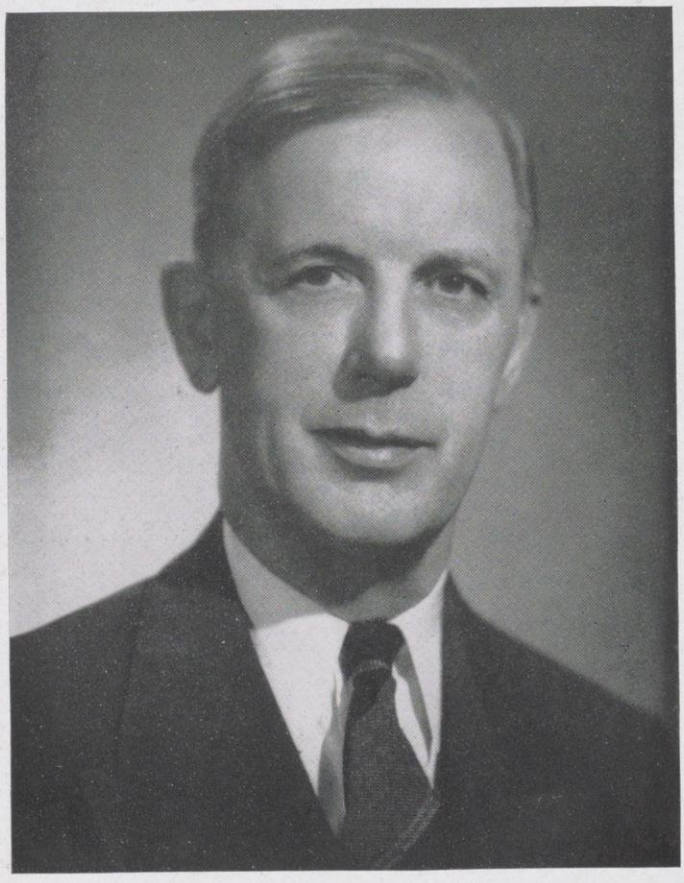
EXTENSION SCHOOL



FRANK O. HOLT

Dean

DEAN FRANK O. HOLT, director of the Extension School, has the responsibility of seeing that the courses offered by the school may be made available to students throughout the state. A capable manager, and an excellent contact man, Dean Holt creates many friends while touring the state lecturing to high school audiences and parent-teacher associations. Ambitious and alert, Dean Holt is constantly devising newer methods and courses to expand the University through its Extension School.

EXTENSION BUILDING

L. R. Brumm

THE Administrative offices of the Extension Division, located on the western end of the campus, represent only a small part of the extensive program offered by the University to people of Wisconsin. The "campus" of the extension division extends to every corner of the state. Over 35,000 students are contacted through the correspondence courses offered by the Extension Division.

In addition to correspondence study, the division maintains regional centers throughout the state, located in local high school buildings. Also a complete and extensive speaker service has been made available to interested groups.

Correspondence and evening classes in defense courses are now being offered. This new program of war courses is designed to improve industrial management and to speed up the production of materials in war industry.

Wisconsin men and women in the armed forces are also now applying for correspondence courses. The fees for the courses are taken care of by the state of Wisconsin under state law. Servicemen from other states whose courses are financed in part by the Army Institute, a War Department agency, are also applying for extension courses.

Alaska, Canal Zone, New Guinea, Hawaii, Iceland, Ireland, England, and North Africa are all represented by army students of the Extension Division. Though the future of these men is uncertain, many of them plan to return to college when the fighting is done, and in this way, they may keep in contact with their former school.

EXTENSION DIVISION FACULTY

Professor L. R. Brumm's wide experience in the business world makes him an able chairman of the Extension School's business department. Now Professor of accounting, he once served as accountant for one of the largest accounting firms in the country. One-time director of finance and statistics for the Wisconsin WPA, Professor Brumm now plans correspondence courses in business for high schools throughout the state.

Graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Professor J. E. Hanson is now chief of the Bureau of Visual Education. His special interest is, of course, the development of education through visual means. The Bureau of Visual Education serves as a central library for the distribution of visual aids, in the form of educational slides and films, throughout the schools of the state.

Professor R. J. Colbert's chief interest is in the field of adult education. He is the originator of the citizenship plan which involves the training of young people immediately prior to their induction as voting citizens. Chairman of the Sociology, Economic, and Political Science Department, Professor Colbert spends much of his time at the Racine and Sheboygan Extension Schools.

Professor H. R. English, associate professor of the business administration, has been on the staff of the extension school since 1924. He handles courses in personnel management and allied fields, and is also instructing in the new defense courses offered by the department designed to step up the production of materials in war industry.

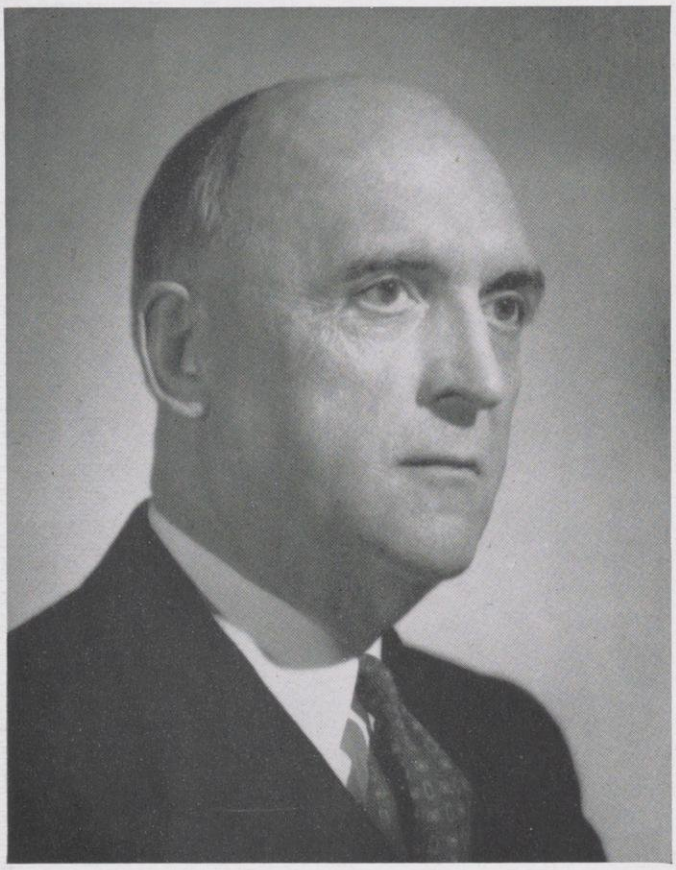
GRADUATE SCHOOL



EDWIN B. FRED

Dean

BORN, raised, and schooled in Virginia, Dean Edwin B. Fred came here in 1913 from Virginia Polytechnical Institute. He has come to be a symbol of tireless energy on the campus, famous for beginning his working day at 7 A.M. As administrator of the Graduate School and as a scientist in the field of bacteriology, he has two important roles to play. He took his Ph.D. at the University of Goettingen in Germany and in 1918 Dean Fred served as a first lieutenant in Chemical Warfare Service, in the U. S. Army.

BASCOM PORTICO

GRADUATE SCHOOL

SELIG PERLMAN

THE Wisconsin Graduate School, increasing in quality of work since its organization in January, 1904, has become an increasingly important part of the University. The program of studies is expanding and opportunity is offered to hundreds of young men and women to continue their education in a high ranking Graduate School, with students enrolled from all leading institutions in the United States and foreign countries.

Now more than ever, are these students discovering that they are greatly needed. They are finding important positions for themselves in the world, and are eager to give their services to the cause of freedom. The work they are doing now is extremely important, for where would we be in the war effort without the superior minds and skills that these people have developed?

There are many factors attracting these young men and women—the outstanding faculty, the prestige of the school, and the fact that many may obtain their advanced degrees on scholarships, fellowships, and research and teaching assistantships which serve as incentive and definite financial aid.

The research work in this school is becoming of a definitely more advanced nature and is increasing in quality. This research, conducted by members of the faculty has always been encouraged and promoted, grants being made each year for its support.

Many individuals who have done work at Wisconsin's Graduate School, are now outstanding figures in the fields of agricultural science, chemistry, languages, and the natural sciences, and we can be sure that the school will continue in its quality of work, even though the army is now claiming many who would have gone on into graduate work.

F. A. Ogg

GRADUATE SCHOOL FACULTY

Born in Bialystok, Poland, Professor Selig Perlman came to the United States in 1908 when he joined the staff of the University of Wisconsin as a research assistant in Economics. After obtaining his degree here, it was not long before he became a full fledged Professor of Economics. Author of several well-known books on labor problems, Professor Perlman is an authority on the history of labor and labor movements the world over.

Professor Frederic A. Ogg, graduate of DePauw University and also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, started out as a graduate assistant in history at Harvard. He is now acting chairman of the Political Science Department in the absence of J. M. Gaus. Professor Ogg has written many books on Economic and Political world developments.

Merritt Y. Hughes, Professor of English, teaches a graduate course in Milton in addition to directing a freshman course in Literary Masterpieces. His thorough knowledge of the classics was obtained at the Universities of Boston, Edinburgh, Paris and Harvard.

L. A. W. Kasten of the Spanish Department is in charge of the graduate seminars in both Spanish and Portuguese. The Spanish House, of which Mr. Kasten is in charge, has been very successful as a gathering place for graduate students in Spanish.

A Phi Beta Kappa at Washington and Lee, Professor W. B. Hesseltine came here from Chattanooga in 1928. An authority on American History, he is especially interested in the Civil War period. His Syllabus of United States History is well known.

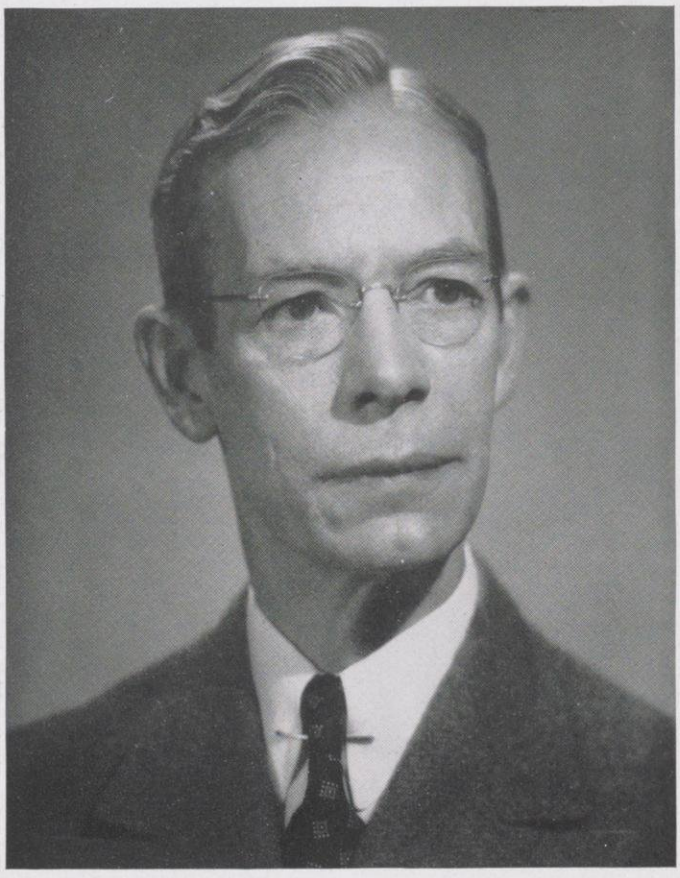
SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM



GRANT M. HYDE

Director

THE quiet conservative Director Grant M. Hyde of the School of Journalism is a man respected by students and faculty alike. Through his efforts and those of a well-trained personnel, the curriculum has been expanding and is gradually reaching a higher goal, though its facilities are still not as complete as Mr. Hyde hopes to have them some day. Mr. Hyde has kept up his wide contact in the newspaper field, spending much of his time attending newspaper conventions and editors' meetings, thus enabling him to place his seniors advantageously.

SOUTH HALL

FRANK THAYER

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM FACULTY

Professor Frank Thayer has done much to help in the development of the School of Journalism here on the campus. He directs the classes in community newspaper and Law of the Press. Once a lawyer, now a professor and on Badger Boards for many years, Professor Thayer is exceedingly popular with students, known to him by their first names.

In addition to being in charge of the copy desk at the Journalism School, Mr. E. N. Doan teaches radio news writing and interpretation of foreign news. His special interest is in the field of world communications. He has analyzed polls and poll techniques, compiling election statistics. He is very proud of his collection of European underground newspapers as well as his numerous maps from all over the world. His library of the latest books on politics, foreign news and the war is to be marveled at.

Professor Helen M. Patterson is famous among Journalism schools for her book on feature writing. A charming woman, with a winning personality, her fresh and vivacious manner is stimulating to her students.

W. M. Moore, instructor in news photography and reporting, is especially interested in the influence feature articles have on public opinion. He has selected and processed feature articles for the Milwaukee Journal Green Sheet. A follower and contributor of news photography, Mr. Moore's photographs have appeared in leading news magazines.

THETA SIGMA PHI

Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary and professional Journalism sorority, was founded in 1909 at the University of Washington for the purpose of uniting women in Journalism, conferring honor upon those women in the profession who distinguish themselves, achieving definite standards in Journalism and Letters, improving the working conditions for women in these fields, and inspiring members to greater individual effort.

Beta chapter, established at the University of Wisconsin in 1910, has as its principal function the sponsorship of the annual Matrix Table and the maintenance of a scholarship fund for needy students in Journalism and a speaker's fund to bring outstanding journalists to the School of Journalism. This year the chapter originated the project of sending monthly news letters about service men and service women graduates to former students of the School of Journalism.

Coranto was founded in 1920 at the University of Wisconsin as the first women's professional journalism sorority in the United States. It was organized by Irabel Bugbee, with the help and direction of Professor Willard G. Bleyer, director of the Wisconsin School of Journalism at that time.

It began as a group of fourteen girls in the school of journalism. They lived in a house at 15 West Gorham street, and it was the first of its kind in the U.S.A. On April 6, the journalism house filed its papers to incorporate under the name Coranto—a name coming from the title of the first English newspaper published in Holland in the 17th century.

The social program consists of two meetings a month: a business meeting and a dinner meeting with a speaker.

Coranto has begun a new function this year, by publishing a newspaper for the graduating seniors in journalism.

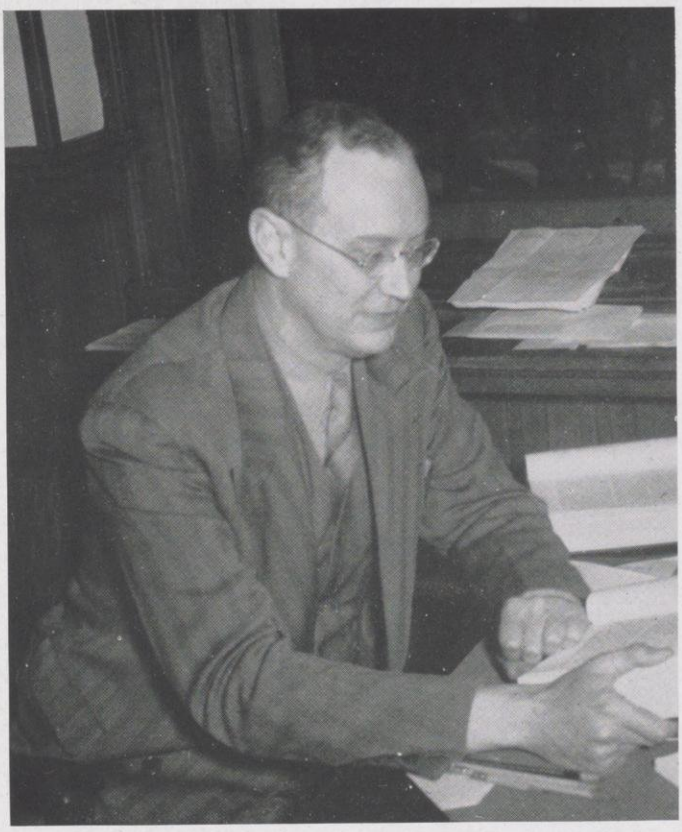
LLOYD K. GARRISON

Dean

AN EXPERT on the matter of labor problems, Dean Lloyd K. Garrison has often been called the University's most famous dean. Dean Garrison left his law practice in New York City in 1932 to come here as Dean of the Law School and Professor of Law. He has played an important role in labor relations for the federal government during the past several years, having served on the N.L.R.B. He is now acting as administrator and counsel for the War Labor Board in Washington.

LAW BUILDING

LAW SCHOOL



H. L. Hall

PERHAPS the hardest hit by the war of all the schools in the University is the Law School. Both its faculty and student body have been reduced to a minimum. The legal fraternities have been forced to cease their activities for the duration. The Law School has been reduced to four full-time professors. Dean Garrison is now acting as administrator and counsel for the War Labor Board in Washington.

In normal times, the red brick Law building with its impressive tower and new limestone wing houses a flourishing Law School. Its policies have been liberal, and its scholastic requirements have been constantly raised in order to keep up the caliber of lawyers produced by Wisconsin's Law School. Students in law take an intense pride in their school and its outstanding faculty. It is a school steeped in tradition of over 50 years.

Many prominent lawyers today owe much of their success to the practical as well as theoretical education which they obtained at Wisconsin. Providing guest lecturers consisting of prominent lawyers and justices has long been a policy of the Law School. In this way the "book education" of a lawyer is supplemented by a practical one.

Three years ago the Law School completed a new wing, which now houses the entire library. It has a beautiful and spacious reading room which is finer than any seen in any law school of its size.

O. S. Rundell

LAW SCHOOL FACULTY

Sales, Trusts, and Municipal Corporations are the special fields of Professor Howard L. Hall. A graduate of Oberlin and Harvard, Professor Hall came here in 1929 after several years of law practice in Ohio.

Acting as administrator of the Law School in Dean Garrison's absence is Professor Oliver S. Rundell. A graduate of the Wisconsin Law School, Professor Rundell practiced law in Monroe, Wisconsin before coming here in 1910 as an instructor. He handles all subjects under the general head of property.

The subjects of Torts and Frauds are fascinatingly dealt with by Professor Richard V. Campbell. He is the co-editor of a widely used book of Cases on Liability and Compensations for Automobile Accidents. A graduate of Minnesota, Professor Campbell practiced in Minneapolis before coming here in 1930.

Also a graduate of Minnesota, Professor William Page studied at Harvard before setting up a law practice in Minneapolis. A Professor of Law at South Dakota for two years, Professor Page came here in 1923. He is know n among law students for his "Page on Wills", and "Page on Contracts."

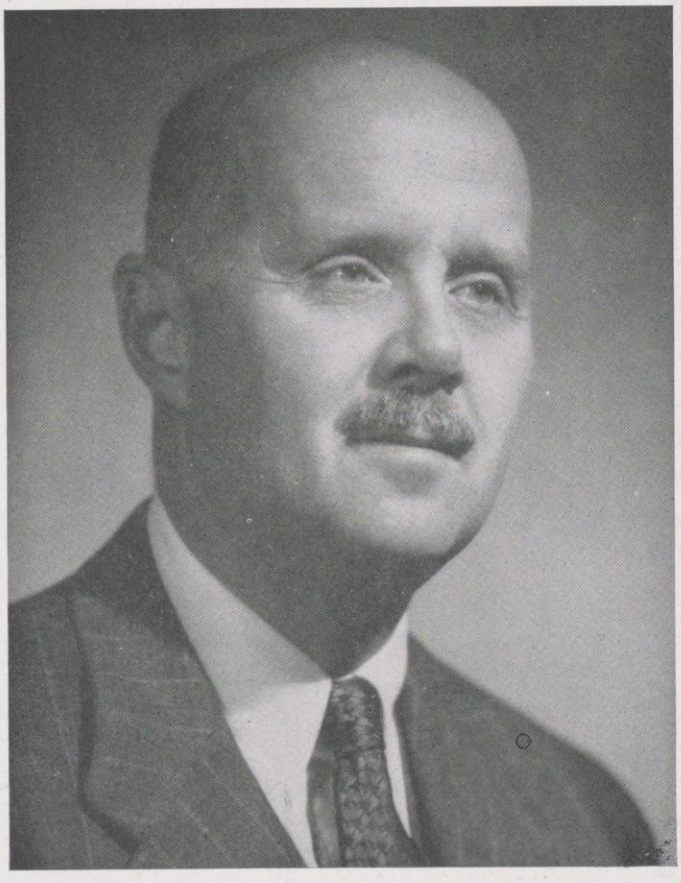
LETTERS AND SCIENCE



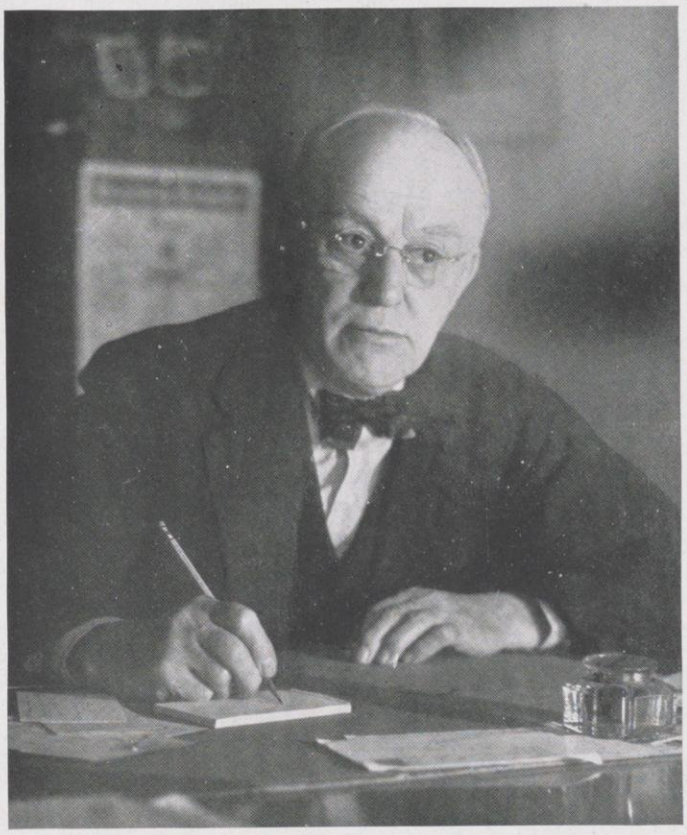
MARK H. INGRAHAM

Dean

REPLACING Dean George C. Sellery, who retired last June as Dean of the College of Letters and Science, is Professor Mark H. Ingraham. Dean Ingraham has proved very successful in his administration of Wisconsin's largest college. He has been a professor of mathematics since 1927, and chairman of the department of mathematics since 1932. One time President of the American Association of University Professors, Dean Ingraham is now chairman of their college retirement system. His shy and modest, but friendly manner accounts for his fast growing popularity among students and faculty alike.

BASCOM HALL

COLLEGE OF LETTERS AND SCIENCE



M. C. Otto

THE oldest and the largest of Wisconsin's schools is the College of Letters and Science. The tremendous task of administration of this college is ably handled by Dean Ingraham, Junior Dean Glicksman and Assistant Dean Ruedisili. The college has expanded from the original Main Hall, now Bascom Hall, to include newer and larger buildings as the campus increased in size and enrollment.

The many and diversified branches of this college offer a wide selection of fields from which the student may elect a major. The curriculum of the college is adjusted so as to offer to the student a well rounded, liberal education by making available to him a variety of elective courses in addition to the required courses of his major.

To give seniors a chance to cope with some of the problems which they will have to face, the faculty cut across departmental and college boundaries to offer a course in contemporary trends for the first time this year. Problems to be studied during the semester include: world resources and their utilization by modern science and technology; the production and distribution of economic goods; state control and individual liberty; the United States in world affairs; wartime conditions and post-war possibilities; evaluations in literature, art, philosophy, and religion of contemporary trends. Lectures are given by teachers from the various departments, representing science, the social studies, the humanities, and by outside authorities. The value of such courses now offered by the University is obvious and unquestioned.

NORMAN CAMERON

LETTERS AND SCIENCE FACULTY

A little man greatly beloved by his students, Professor Max Otto's fame has spread throughout the country. Professor Otto came to the United States from Germany at the age of five, but returned to study at the University of Heidelberg. Author of several books on Philosophy, Professor Otto's "The Human Enterprise" is perhaps most widely known.

Norman Cameron, Physician, Psychologist and Professor, transmits his supreme knowledge and understanding of human behavior to his many devoted students. Dr. Cameron spent several years as a practicing psychiatrist at the Phipps Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital. His outstanding course in Abnormal Psychology has been greatly enriched through his wide experience in this field.

W. F. Steve, professor of physics, was one of the busiest men on the hill this year. Enrollment in Physics I trebled due to its being a required course for all army and navy reserves. With his love of unusual physical demonstrations, Professor Steve succeeds in transforming a lecture on physical phenomena into a three ring circus.

"He said to me, 'Now listen, Les' ", with this Professor Lescohier is off on one of his famous stories which frequently interrupt his lectures in economics. A sense of humor and an uncontrollable shock of white hair add to the strong appeal D. D. Lescohier has for his students.

H. C. Berkowitz, Professor of Spanish, is a small man with an incredibly large amount of knowledge of foreign affairs. His deep interest in the Spanish peoples and nation have kept him on the alert in regard to the present political situation in Europe. Close friends of "Burkie" know that he has a beautiful garden of which he is extremely proud.

Artus, the national honorary Economics fraternity, is a society created for the purpose of rewarding scholastic excellence in the study of economics. It also affords an opportunity for students united by a common interest to meet occasionally for discussions or lectures. Membership is limited to those who attain a high grade point average in their economics courses as well as other general courses.

The Wisconsin chapter of Artus held one informal discussion meeting in addition to its regular initiation banquet.

Phi Beta's well filled program for this year, included a program each meeting consisting of a book or movie review and a reading, or a speaker. Each month two or three Phi Betas gave a public recital.

For rushing, there was a formal tea this fall, and informal rushing this spring. An afternoon party was given for the sailors. In December was the annual party given by the alumnae, and a tea-dance. Other social activities were the Waffle Supper, April Fool's Party, May Party, Faculty Dinner, and the Mother and Daughter breakfast. On May 6, Phi Beta bade their seniors farewell with the Candle Lighting Service.

SIGMA LAMBDA

Sigma Lambda's program of group activities was cut this year because most of the members are very busy trying to do what they can in the field of art to aid the war effort. They worked with Service Craft Night at the Union workshop and are taking courses in military map making, blueprint reading and tracing, and the preparation of visual aids for ordnance plants.

In place of the usual formal Spring banquet we are planning an informal buffet supper for Sigma Lambdas and members of the art school faculty. Instead of formal dances, we plan informal radio parties, entertaining groups of service men stationed on the campus.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

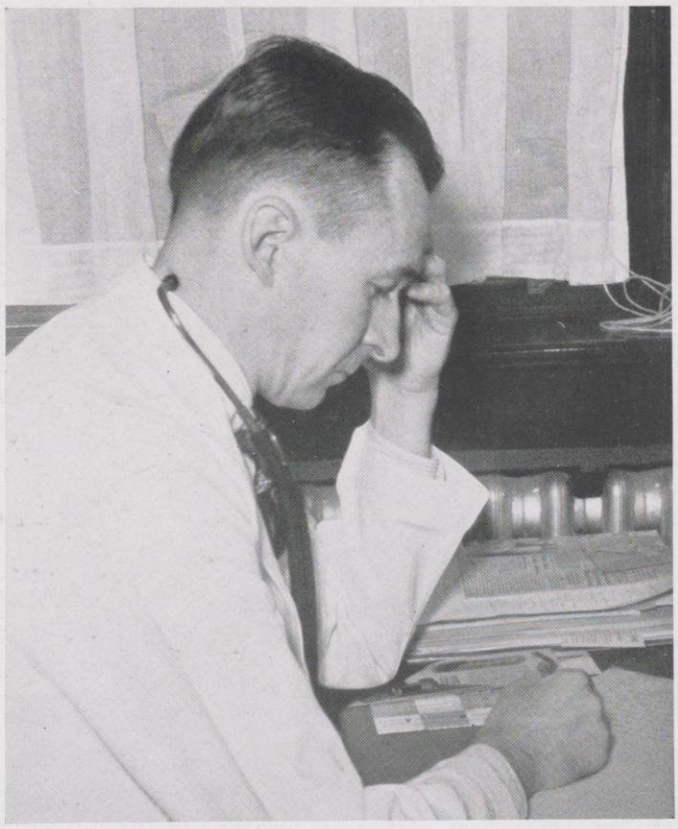
WALTER J. MEEK

Dean

ASSISTANT Dean of the Medical School since 1920, Walter J. Meek is now acting Dean in the absence of Dean William Middleton, who is in service with the Army Medical Corps. Professor Meek is one of the most outstanding professors of physiology in the country. His principles of thoroughness and exactingness to which he owes much of his success, are well known to his students. His quietness and business-like manner are rounded out with a sense of humor and an understanding of humanity.

WISCONSIN GENERAL HOSPITAL

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE



LLEWELLYN COLE

THE great need for doctors at the present time has resulted in a tremendous increase in the enrollment of the Wisconsin Medical School. The difficulty of handling this large group of students has been increased by the loss of several of the staff doctors to the armed services. Many boys wishing to pursue a career of medicine today must necessarily be turned down because they are unable to meet the high scholastic requirements of the Medical School.

The various departments of the School of Medicine are located in the Wisconsin General Hospital, the Service Memorial Institute, and in the new McArdle Institute. These departments are constantly striving to improve methods of practice and technique in the preservation of human life.

The Medical School has charge of the direction of the General Hospital and the clinic in addition to the training of future technicians and physicians. The Medical School probably keeps in closer contact with the people of the state than does any other school because of the rendering of these medical services.

The importance of medical advancement is greatly felt by Americans today. Any number of new techniques have come into use on the battlefields which are eliminating much suffering and death. Only to mention a few, we have new portable X-ray equipment, improvements in anaesthetics, and the wide spread use of sulpha drugs. Not to be overlooked is the new method of sending dried blood plasma to the fronts to be used for transfusions in cases of emergency.

P. F. Clark

MEDICAL SCHOOL FACULTY

Llewellyn R. Cole, Professor of Clinical Medicine and Director of the Department of Student Health, was a very busy man this winter. The epidemic of german measles kept the infirmary overflowing with students. Dr. Cole's periodical announcements on How to Avoid Illness were appreciated on the campus.

One time bacteriologist at Rockfeller Institute, Paul F. Clark is now Professor of Medical Bacteriology here at Wisconsin. He is doing research in the prevention and treatment of infantile paralysis. Professor Clark enjoys good music as a means of relaxation when away from his test tubes.

Dr. Harold C. Bradley is known to all as a hard working fine physiological chemist and a father of six fine sons. Like his boys, Dr. Bradley spends much time out of doors, being especially fond of skiing. He also finds time to act as advisor to Wisconsin's Hoofer's Club.

A. L. Tatum, Professor of Phamacology came here from the University of Chicago in 1928. He obtained his training at Rush Medical College and the University of Chicago. He is noted for his work in drug research and the application of drugs. Not entirely tied down to his laboratory, Professor Tatum often enjoys an afternoon working in his garden.

Professor Raymond C. Herrin of the Physiology Department obtained his degree in Biochemistry here at the University of Wisconsin. After securing an M.D. at Chicago he returned to Wisconsin where he is now doing research of kidney diseases and intestinal obstructions in addition to teaching.

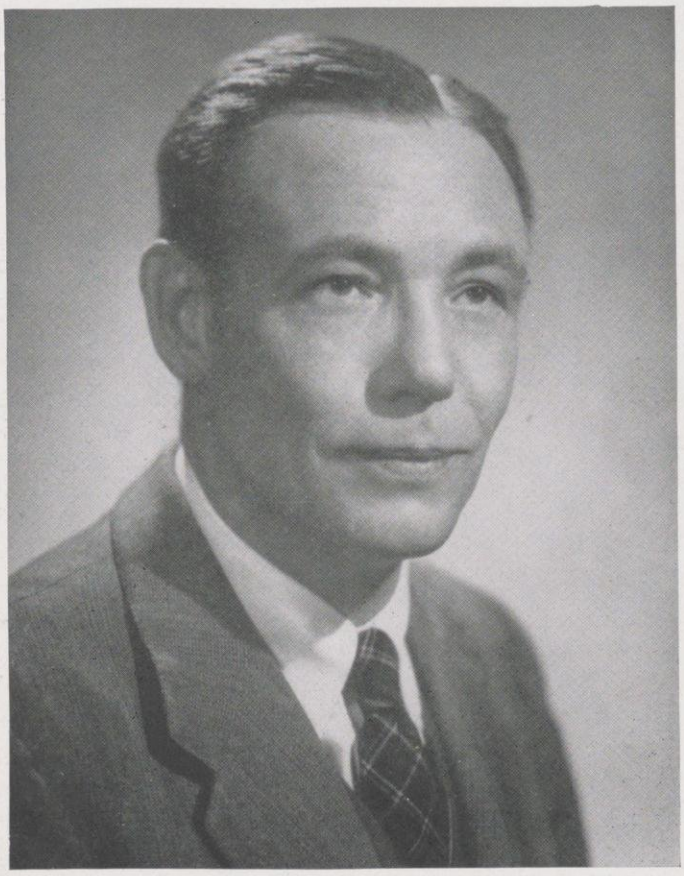
SCHOOL OF MUSIC



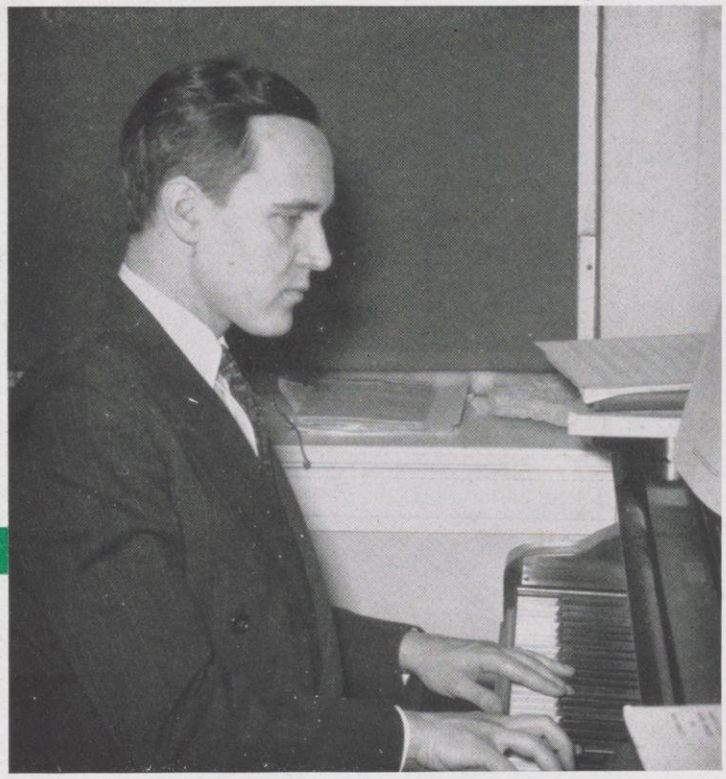
CARL E. BRICKEN

Director

CARL E. BRICKEN, Director of the School of Music, came to Wisconsin from the University of Chicago where he was Chairman of the Department of Music. Conductor of the University Orchestra, and a member of the radio committee for the University station, WHA, Director Bricken is one of the most active men of the faculty. The series of concerts presented by the University Orchestra under direction of Professor Bricken is tremendously popular with the students as well as Madisonians.

MUSIC HALL

SCHOOL OF MUSIC



GUNNAR JOHANSEN

COURSES in the School of Music, leading to the Bachelor of Music degree, are associated in three curriculums, one preparing the student for applied music teaching and performance, one for school music teaching, and the third for musical composition or the teaching of the principles of musical composition. Students in all three categories pursue certain fundamental courses during the freshman and sophomore years.

On the completion of the curriculum of the sophomore year, each student who has achieved the required grade point is given a comprehensive examination, covering the materials and the principles of the first two years. On the basis of this examination, the student is advised as to his fitness to choose and continue in one of the three curriculums.

The University Orchestra has a membership of about eighty players. Two full rehearsals and one sectional rehearsal are held each week. Membership is open to the entire student body on the basis of tryouts.

The University Chorus, an organization of two hundred voices, studies and performs masterpieces of choral literature. Membership is on a competitive basis and is open to any student in the University.

The First Regimental Band and the Freshman band serve as a training school for the Concert Band and play for the Military Department at official functions. The University Bands also play for University Convocations and cooperate with the athletic department at games.

Lecture-recitals and concerts, open to the public without charge, are given by members of the faculty of the School of Music and the Pro Arte Quartet throughout the season.

E. G. Gordon

SCHOOL OF MUSIC FACULTY

Anyone who has seen and heard Professor Gunnar Johansen at the piano can never quite forget the charm of his music as well as his manner. His class in Music Appreciation has proved one of the most popular courses on the hill. Since he has been here, Professor Johansen has had remarkable results in arousing student interest in classical music.

Courses related to the teaching of music are handled by Professor Edgar G. Gordon. He directs the "Music School of the Air" in which he teaches choral singing to rural schools. Reminding us of a postman's holiday, Professor Gordon directs his church choir every Sunday.

Professor E. E. Swinney has the tremendous task of directing the University Chorus, an organization of 200 voices. The programs for the several public concerts given each semester include A Cappella numbers, while once a year a major work of oratorio literature is produced in conjunction with the University Orchestra.

The layman's conception of an orchestra conductor is one of a long-haired maestro who frequently loses his temper in order to achieve musical perfection. Not so with Director Carl Bricken who's jovial and friendly manner seems most conducive to symphonic results.

Professor Raymond F. Dvorak is the director of the University Bands which include the Concert Band, the Regimental Band and the Freshman Band. A familiar figure to the student body, Professor Dvorak leads the singing of our national anthem and "Varsity" at all athletic contests.

Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music sorority, was founded at the University of Michigan in 1903. The seventy-six chapters of Sigma Alpha Iota through their influence and musical interest uphold the highest ideals of musical education.

Rho Chapter of the University of Wisconsin assists in sponsoring the annual Tournament of Song, Chamber Music Recitals, Music School Mixers, receptions for visiting artists, and aids the general promotion of music on campus. This year Sigma Alpha Iota met in joint meetings with the other professional sororities to do work to further the war effort.

PHI KAPPA PHI

Phi Kappa Phi is an honor society representing students from all departments at the University. The organization differs from other honor societies in that membership is open to students in any department, and in that it recognizes not only scholarship but character and leadership as well.

This year 70 members of the Senior class were elected—less than five per cent of a class numbering more than 1500 students. The primary objective of Phi Kappa Phi is to emphasize both scholarship and social obligations. As secondary objectives the organization seeks to bind more closely the alumni of the institution, to furnish an additional tie of college friendship, and to interest its members in the promotion of a more thorough education.

To the Class of 1943

Someday, when we again turn from the task of war, you can continue working in your specialized fields, and we'll again take up the job of producing for your civilian needs. But, until Victory, we must work tirelessly together doing all we can to help hasten the day when we can once again build instead of destroy.

For the Duration, Heil Quality-Built products will be serving with you at the training camps and on the battlefields — and together we'll strive for that glorious day of peace.

Julius P. Heil
President, The Heil Co.

Everywhere you go the Heil trade name is recognized as a mark of quality and service — An investment in Heil equipment pays out in low first cost, low maintenance cost and years of dependable performance — Free literature covering any of the following Heil Quality Products is yours for the asking — Heil Oil Heating Equipment — Heil Water Pumps and Softeners — Heil Road Machinery — Heil Hydraulic Dump Units — Heil Transportation Tanks — Heil Bottle Washers — Heil Dehydrating Machines.

HILLSIDE NEW JERSEY — THE HEIL CO. — MILWAUKEE WISCONSIN

To assure themselves of the ultimate in designing and cover craftsmanship, the 1943 BADGER STAFF specified

BILL'S A BIGGER MAN
THAN HIS DAD WAS IN '17

War Department figures show that today's average soldier is nearly an inch taller and ten pounds heavier than in 1917.

That's a great gain for one generation. We're glad our industry helped build Bill's husky frame.

Even before Bill was born, electric servants freed his mother from much of the work of washing, cleaning, cooking—so she and her children could be healthier, happier.

Actually, these advances can be credited to the American Way at work—free men producing the things that other men want and need—for everybody's benefit.

Today, the average American home pays only 10c a day for all-electric service—and gets about twice as much electricity for that dime as 10 to 15 years ago.

We are proud to exist under the aegis of the Stars and Stripes. We are proud of the sons, brothers, fathers and sweethearts, scattered throughout the world, who are serving that Flag. Let us pray that they may be spared to enjoy the Freedom that they are helping to maintain.

Victory demands the best efforts of all, that this Nation may maintain the liberties, culture, and right to happiness of our people.

The Brewing Industry of Wisconsin, one of the largest tax-paying units in the State, is proud to contribute to an "all-out" cause for freedom, improvement of living standards, and to provide the friendly drink of moderation that is good for you.

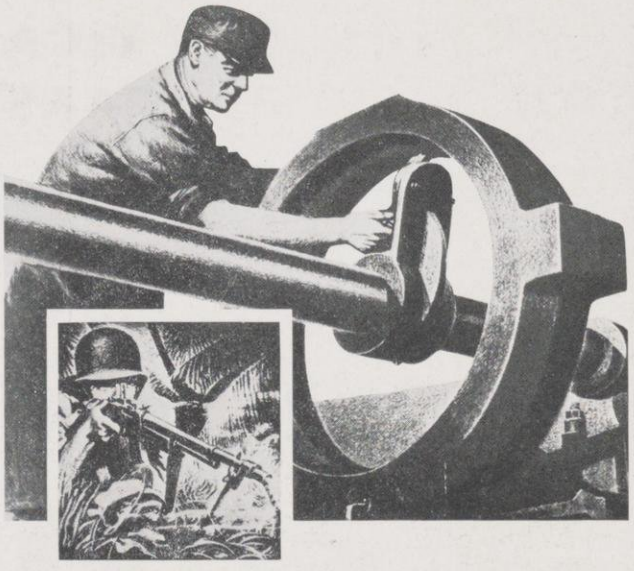
Manchester's
is a Tradition at Wisconsin

Manchester's is known to thousands of present and former Wisconsin women for its quality merchandise, for its keen insight into the needs of college women for its willingness to cater to them! Manchester's is looking forward to a continuance of this happy relationship with Wisconsin students.

HARRY S. MANCHESTER, INC.

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do . . . do it with thy might"



In Australia, Iceland, Britain, Africa, in far-away lands and on the seas, or training in camps and bases, men from the Kohler organization serve our country. Equally in the nation's service are the fathers, brothers, sisters in the Kohler factories, producing with their might the implements of victory.

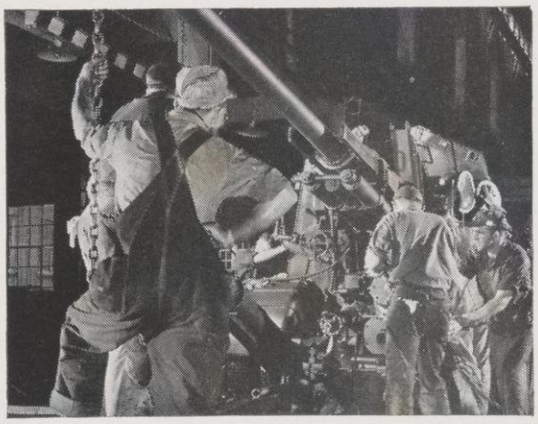
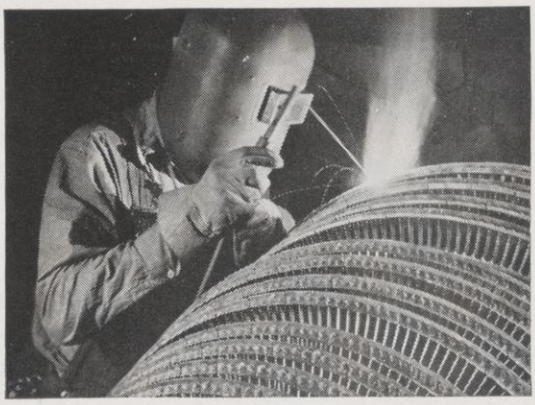
SOLVING WAR PROBLEMS...

For AMERICA



90 mm. sky guns to knock down hostile planes . . . powerful steam turbines to drive the vital ships of our transport and fighting fleets . . . delicate turbo-superchargers to carry high-flying bombers to safe ceilings — these are some of Allis-Chalmers many war products rolling from our plants in endless numbers. Behind these are motors, pumps, electric control — essential equipment for Victory.

For INDUSTRIES



Precise welding machines . . . efficient Texrope V-belt drives . . . giant chemical kilns . . . heavy mining equipment . . . high capacity transformers . . . electrical switchgear . . . sawmill equipment — these are just a few of the 1600 industrial products Allis-Chalmers contributes to America's production front. Serving every industry . . . touching every industrial process — they play a vital part in war production.

For FARMERS

Easing the farmers job, making his labor count for more is the work of tractors, plows and harvesters. From border to border . . . from valleys of New England to wide western prairies — Allis-Chalmers farm equipment is on duty . . . plowing, sowing, cultivating, reaping and threshing the nation's food supply. From farm to pantry shelf . . . from ranch to refrigerator, Allis-Chalmers products help feed the world.

Madison, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Sanchez:

With the 1943 BADGER publishing the largest senior section in the history of the University of Wisconsin, it is with extreme gratitude that we thank the Sanchez Studio personnel for a splendid job!

As our official photographer, you did an unsurpassable piece of work. Not only are the pictures of fine quality, but they were also ready on time, a most important factor in publishing a yearbook the size of this one.

To you, Mr. Sanchez, and to your assistants, then, The Badger staff is very grateful. We have enjoyed working with you, and we wish you the best of luck in future years.

Very truly yours,

B. E. J.

Our Nineteenth Badger . . .

We are proud to say that this is the nineteenth Badger to carry the Cantwell mark. Our Seventy-six years of experience rest lightly on our shoulders and we are more than ever alert to give you the most for your printing dollar.

It's just good business to contact your trade at regular intervals even though your production may be limited at the present time. If we can help you, we'll be glad to submit our suggestions. Our phone number is Badger 153.
