BUSINESS MEET OPENS SESSION OF PRESS FRAT

Chapters of Theta Sigma
Phi Report on First Day

A full day of business yesterday opened the national convention of Theta Sigma Phi, woman's journalistic fraternity. From the opening address by the grand president to the five-minute reports given by the chapter delegates the meetings were crammed with interesting and instructive discussions.

The reports by the chapters were detailed accounts of the activities engaged in and the progress made by the various women journalists over the country. The remarkable advancement that Theta Sigma Phi has made since its founding in 1910 was proven by the accomplishments related.

Dean Nardin Speaks

At noon the delegates and guests adjourned to the Kopper Kettle for luncheon. Dean Louise F. Nardin and Mrs. Mallory of Waupun, one of the original founders of Theta Sigma Phi, gave talks.

Among the business of the first day of convention was the decision of the members to set aside April 8 of each year as Founder's day, which is to be observed by the chapters as they see fit. Vina Lindsay of the Kansas City Post, national fraternity organizer, gave a report on the expansion of the professional fraternity during the past two years. Her report shows 19 active and three alumna chapters at the present time, with approximately 1000 members.

Aim for Expansion

One of the questions which was taken up and discussed was that of international expansion. Investigations prove that some of the foreign universities and colleges have strong journalism departments and are interested in having some definite organization for the members of those departments. Pekin, China, has a journalism department for which an English instructor is being procured.

Today is Alumnae day on the program. Theta Sigma Phis who have made good will make short talks of a hopeful nature. Louise Ludlum, Sally Spensley, Vina Lindsay, Florence Collins, Elizabeth Leitzbach and Frances Davis are among those on the program.

All chapters will be asked to discuss the question of some definite step towards organizing the alumnae of the various chapters. Already alumnae in several cities are forming organizations and it is hoped that in time this will spread to the bigger cities in the United States. At present five of the alumnae from Wisconsin chapter are gathering the alumnae in New York city into organization.

Installation of new officers to be elected this afternoon will take place tonight before a formal banquet at the city Y. M. C. A. Prof. W. G. Bleyer will address the members of Theta Sigma Phi and Sally Spensley will act as toastmistress.

SERVICE MEN ENTER LEGION

University Post Increases
Ranks at Meeting Held Yesterday

Service men at Wisconsin met yesterday afternoon at 3:30 in Music hall for the purpose of creating more interest and enlarging the enrollment of the American Legion post at Wisconsin.

Major Fitzpatrick who is connected with the Madison post addressed the gathering. He explained the benefits derived from such an organization and expressed his desire to co-operate with the students. The charter of the post has been received, fully approved, from National Headquarters of the American Legion.

Seventy men were enrolled at yesterday's meeting. The officers of the Legion wish it made clear that any man who has been in the service, whether he is attached to other posts or not, can be affiliated here. If he does affiliate and leaves, his Wisconsin connections will not keep him from becoming a permanent member of some other post.

Another meeting has been called for next Thursday night and plans for better organization will be made at this time. It is hoped that the membership will be raised to at least 800 under the influence of these meetings.

Committees have been appointed in all colleges to create interest among ex-service men and to gather recruits for next week's meeting.

CHOOSE SIX JUDGES FOR N. O. L. CONTEST

The public speaking department announced yesterday the board of judges for the Northern Oratorical league contest at Music hall next Friday night. They are the heads of the departments of public speaking in the universities represented, and include:

Prof. Glen L. Merry, Iowa.
Prof. J. M. O'Neill, Wisconsin.

PROM RECEPTION VOTED DOWN AT COMMITTEE MEET

"Bud" Follett Urges Women to

at Prom

No Prom reception will be held at the Sigma Phi house on the afternoon of May 14 as a result of the action taken at the meeting of all Prom committees held yesterday noon in Main hall.

"You're $200 ahead," declared Lethrop Follett, Prom chairman, when the motion to dispense with the reception had been unanimously carried. "Last year the affair at the Beta house cost $140, and exactly 19 couples attended. If 100 couples would come, a reception would certainly be worthwhile, but I don't

BADGER TEAM MEETS INDIANA IN TILT TODAY

Look For Win in First Home Conference
Game

The first home conference baseball game of the season will be played this afternoon with the University of Indiana nine which defeated the Badgers last week by the score of 7 to 6. The battle will be fought at Camp Randall instead of the lower campus and will commence at 3:30.

The Hoosiers come to Madison for a two day stay on their first conference trip away from home. They have one victory over Wisconsin to their credit, and a loss to Michigan.

Elliott in Lineup

One important change in the Cardinal lineup of last week will be in the person of "Rowdy" Elliott, who became eligible last Saturday. He successfully passed a condition exam in English and will start the game at shortstop. Farrington, who has been playing that position in all previous games will be shifted to second base in place of Gifford. Zulfer at first and Falk at third will complete the infield lineup.

Elliott's appearance in the game should add some hitting strength to the team, and Badger fans will see in action a much harder hitting team than they saw in the last preliminary game. It was not lack of hits which lost the two games last week, but both defeats can be attributed to poor defense. With this defense strengthened in the infield, the patched-up nine is back again to nearer normal form than it has been at any time since the casualty list began to grow.

Caesar, Emanuel, and Snow will make up the outfield. Caesar will play his first game at home and if he shows up at all as he did on the Indiana trip, the fans' outfield ideas will be well satisfied.

Ogle in Box

Coach Kent will probably start Ogle in the box opposing Kunkle. Ogle lost his game with the Hoosiers last week, but has a good record of preliminary games behind him and has a good excuse for the defeat in the rainy weather in which the game was played. Kunkle pitched against Wisconsin last week, and if he is hit as hard today as he was then, he will not be an unbeatable opponent.

SIGMA DELTA CHI TAKES IN SIX MEN

"Newspapers constitute the most potent influence in shaping a true democracy, and it behooves all college trained men entering the profession of journalism to assume the responsibility of bringing the press to high standards and helping maintain it there," said Lee A. White, managing editor of The Detroit News, historian of Sigma Delta Chi and editor of The Quill, official publication of the journalistic fraternity, speaking at the Sigma Delta Chi initiation banquet at the city Y. M. C. A. last night. Six new men were taken into membership, including Wyman S. Smith, Ralph Nafziger, Charles P. MacGinnis, Fred Sperry, Darrell Dunn, and Paul A. Holmes.

PHI BETA KAPPA LISTS OUT SUNDAY

ELEGY

Written in a State Street
Hasherdashery

When the mornin' breaks a rainin',
And the sky's as dull as lead,
And you wish you could forget it all,

By dreamin' on in bed,
But you grab your books and don
your coat

To get a bite to eat,
There's the swishin', swishin',
swishin',

All along State street.
Dainty feet, monstrous feet,
Swishin', on State street.

You pass the lower campus
And you say "hello" to Bill,
As the breezes from the lake front
Go through you with a chill.
But you set your teeth and grin a bit

And bear it with a will,
There's the swishin', swishin',
swishin',

All along the Hill.
Hobnailed feet, galoshed feet,
Swishin' on the Hill.

When the 'leven o'clock is over,
And the afternoon is free,
And the old canoe is ship-shape,
For a picnic o'er the lee,
There's the inner man's desire
That a "bowl of red" will fill.
There's the swishin', swishin',
swishin',

All along the grill.
Music low, music sweet,
Swishin' at the grill.

INAUGURATION IS HELD FOR "Y" OFFICERS

Dean H. L. Russell, First President, Reviews Early Days of Association Work

Officers of the university Y. M. C. A. for the coming year, including Frank Weston, president; Wesley Travers, vice-president; Earl Tower, treasurer; and Paul Romig, secretary, were installed at the weekly fellowship meeting of the university Y. M. C. A. last night.

Weston in his "inaugural address" outlined plans for Y. M. C. A. activities of an enlarged scope next year.

A live talk reviewing early history of the association was given by Dean H. L. Russell of the College of Agriculture, who was its first president.

Vocal selections were given by "Doc" Dorward.

S. G. A. PRESIDENT GIVES SUPPORT TO "HELLO WEEK" IDEA

"A 'Hello Week' for Wisconsin would no doubt be a success in many ways," said Marie Bodden, president of S. G. A., in reference to the "Hello Week" instituted at the University of Illinois recently.

"Hello Day" was held here at summer school," Miss Bodden stated. "It is impossible to create a permanent friendliness of spirit by saying 'hello' to everyone you meet for only one day. If an entire week were set aside as 'hello week' it would surely help a certain number of people to become better acquainted.

"I am in favor of trying the proposition," said Miss Bodden. "It could do no harm, and might develop into a valuable institution here."

TRIUMPHAL MARCH (from Aida)

By Giuseppe Verdi

When music for some magnificent and imposing spectacle is desired, Verdi's Triumphal March from his opera Aida is sure to be considered. With blare of trumpet and beat of drum in stately rhythm, it calls up pictures of great moving companies of brave men returning from triumphant victories.

Giuseppe Verdi, the greatest of Italian opera composers, and a giant as well in sacred music, ended a life of 88 years just as this century was beginning. The music from his operas is sung and whistled by the men and women of Italy with the same freedom and naturalness that characterizes the singing of popular songs by our American people. See if the eyes of your Italian shoemaker do not kindle with enthusiasm when you ask him if he knows the opera Aida! Verdi was himself one of the common people and was always proud of his ancestry.

The opera Aida was written at the request of an Egyptian ruler and is a sumptuous feast of color and sound. This march is played in the opera as the troops, flushed with victory, burdened with trophies, and exulting in many captives, return in triumph from the battle field.

The reception at the Capitol Prom night will be more elaborate than had previously been planned to make up for the curtailment of the function.

The question of drinking and morals at Prom were discussed at some length. There will be a set of detectives and policemen to prevent anything which might give an unfavorable impression, and drinking on Prom night is to be absolutely taboo. Every effort is being made to avoid causes of criticism. Mary Parkinson spoke to the women regarding appropriate dress.

Speaking on this subject Follett said:

"The future of Prom is at stake, and the women's part is a big one. Much depends on their dress and conduct."

In regard to Prom boxes, there will be a picture in The Cardinal showing the position of each party.

Each box will be decorated by its own party and will be used by them as a checking room. This will avoid the delay which would arise if 1,000 people had wraps in the same room. Marion Dickens is arranging to get maids for those parties who want them.

The transportation problem has grown larger since many taxi companies are trying to raise their prices from $2.00 a couple to $4.00 and $5.00. People were advised by the Prom chairman not to pay the increased prices, and if they cannot get a cab otherwise, to call Herman Siebken who is taking charge of the transportation facilities.

Glee club concert tickets are selling very slowly at present, and since the proceeds of the entertainment are used for Prom expenses, a bigger sale is hoped for by all Prom boosters. The performance had packed houses on the road, and is well worth hearing, according to George Bunge, manager.

Pre-Prom programs will come out a week in advance and may be obtained at the University pharmacy, Morgan's, or from Winifred Titus at Chadbourne hall.

The Prom fox trot will not be introduced at the Junior play on May 14. The suggestion was brought up at the meeting but was voted down. "Tickets are going fine," said Follett. "May 1 is the final date for refund on Prom tickets."

pose of standardizing and insuring expertness and accuracy in the decisions. This method of judging oratorical contests is considered far better than the old method of picking judges at random by trusting to luck that they know something about judging a public speaking contest, only to be invariably disappointed. It was suggested by Prof. Merry of Iowa, after much injustice had been done speakers by faulty decisions, and is a system that bids fair to entirely replace the old method.

PUNISHMENT BY ADVERTISEMENT

IN establishing Sandwichboard, the dishonorary freshman fraternity, the student senate seems to have reverted to the ancient Chinese for precedents of jurisprudence; and as Bret Harte has observed, "the heathen Chinese is peculiar."

Instead of marking culprits by clipping off their ears and noses, as was done in England and continental Europe in the brave mediaeval days, the mandarins got the idea of hitching around the Mongol malefactor's neck—providing the executioner spared him a neck to hitch it to—a slip that looked like a laundry bill, but which in truth was a scroll detailing the offense of the felon. And thus while he stood in a public place with arms tied outstretched or wearing a big wooden collar, the convicted Chinaman advertised his crime, so that "all who ran might read."

In prescribing that freshmen shall give perambulating publicity to their misdemeanors, the senate has adopted a means of punishment that may have a deterrent influence upon prospective violators.

There is danger, however, that this idea, savoring more of the calithumpian parade than of the visitation of justice, may be carried to extremes.

The buzz-saw of public opinion on hazing at the present time is a pretty good thing not to fool with. The average farmer or business man out in the state, who pays his taxes to support a democratic state university, unless he happens to be a Wisconsin alumnus, does not seem to care much about class rivalry, traditions, and student self-government, and may get "touchy" and stimulate the anti-hazing reaction if his young hopeful happens to be the sandwiched frosh exposed to jibes and humility.

Instead of making walking bill-boards of recalcitrant frosh, a less puerile and equally effective punishment might be simply to de-class freshmen who violate traditions, compelling them to wear the green cap through a part of the sophomore as well as the freshman year until they could cultivate the respect demanded for traditions.

This course of treatment might be less blatantly spectacular, but certainly it is direct and more reasonable—reasonable on the theory that if a man is not willing himself to abide by traditions in his freshman year, he should not have the right to help force others to abide by them in his sophomore year.

Disfranchisement and debarral from extra-curricular activities for a stated period could be added to give weight to the penalty.

THE SPECIAL SESSION

THE Wisconsin state legislature will convene next week in the most extraordinary special session that has been called since the state became a going concern. Its primary purpose will be to consider means of combatting the high cost of living with special emphasis on the problem of rent profiteering. The legislators should not overlook other matters that have to date played a background role although they are just as vital and pressing as any factor in the advancing cost of living.

Take as an example the needs of the university. They have been gone over, "rehashed," urged by outsiders, and fostered ever since attendance began to exceed normal. Unlike some other factors in the commonwealth, procrastination on the part of our lawmakers has not to date halted the advance of the university; yet, it has resulted in unnecessary sacrifices and crowding of the worst kind.

The legislature should not feel that we are trying to dictate its policy. We ask only that the university be given a hearing on the basis of its present urgent needs. That accomplished, remedial measures can be more readily taken.

No more concise statement of the financial needs of the university is given than in "Plain Facts on University Finances" and "What a University of 7,000 Students is Like." A perusal of these pamphlets by members of the legislature will give evidence of the need for immediate action by the special session.

The university has grown and prospered despite an almost insurmountable handicap occasioned by laboring under straightened financial conditions. For us, the term "frenzied finance" never meant spending of the wildcat variety. It has taken on a new meaning. It now infers time and effort, that should have gone into other important channels, spent in determining how to skim along with 7,000 students on a budget prepared for 5,000. With a much needed, more adequate budget, circumstances would change for the better for the university, students, and the state at large.

LAUDS WORK OF AMERICAN POET

Professor Woodberry Tells of Life of Lowell in Talk

"There were three threads running through the life and character of James Russell Lowell," said Prof. George E. Woodberry, well-known literary critic and former professor at Wisconsin who spoke before a capacity audience in Main hall yesterday afternoon on "Lowell." "Patriotism or public spirit, the literary faculty, and the poetical temperament were the three elements."

Professor Woodberry was personally acquainted with Lowell, having been engaged in Lowell's home for several weeks cataloguing the latter's library. "Lowell was the companion of his books to a rare degree for he loved to study. His books were full of marginal notes, many of which were almost complete essays in themselves. He was not only a student, but a brilliant conversationalist, and his essays are often but a condensation of his conversation."

Lowell was not so much an originator of ideas as he was a critic, according to Professor Woodberry. He believed that a critic ought to read all of an author's works before he had the right to write a criticism of any of them. As a critic of Voltaire, Lowell read 73 volumes of the French writer's works. He was proud of the fact that he was one of the first to recognize Lincoln as a great leader.

As a writer, Lowell seemed to have been influenced by Keats more than by any other writer in the opinion of Professor Woodberry. His purpose in all of his poetry was to touch the common man. Due to public affairs, he did not develop as he began, a pure poet. He wrote "Bigelow Papers" during the Mexican and Civil wars to guide national thought.

The third and last of Professor Woodberry's lectures, on "Shelley," will be given today at 4:30 in 165 Main hall.

SOPHOMORES HOLD BIG DANCE TONIGHT

Punch that promises to be the most invigorating of any that has been served this year will be ladled out at the sophomore dance at Lathrop tonight. Marian Downing is in charge of the punch bowl for the affair and is anticipating big business for her product.

A picture of the dance is to be taken during the intermission. This picture will be included in the general scrap book of class activities which is being kept for record.

Ticket sale has been very large for the dance, canvassers reporting unusual interest in the dance. The music of Thompson's orchestra, featuring "Chuck" Carpenter, starts promptly at 9 and will continue until 10:30, when "Sparks" Dodge will take the floor for a few minutes, the dancing then going on until 12.

Dean Nardin will be a chaperon.

GRADUATE HITS ATHLETES NOW AT WISCONSIN

However, Looks Forward to Successful Season for Football

Is athletic material at Wisconsin on the downgrade? One graduate with the class of 1900 thinks so, and said so strongly in a talk given recently at a banquet of the Wisconsin Alumni association at Pocatello, Idaho.

"I asked the boys from Pocatello now at Wisconsin if the material had degenerated or was the competition lacking," said Harvey Holmes, Ph. B. '00, who pronounced the judgment. "The ready reply was that a comparison of the recent and former athletes would be somewhat likened to an airship competing in speed with a sailing yacht."

On the other hand, Mr. Holmes looks forward with hope to a successful season on the gridiron next fall. "Wisconsin has won championships, and I look for her to win the football championship in 1920," he said.

"The racing records established by Wisconsin athletes of the '90's, still remembered in the hall of fame, may have been equalled but stand unbroken through 20 years of heroic effort," continued Mr. Holmes.

"Then, too, there was 'Pat' O'Dea, who, with a drop kick, registered a score and a world's record for Wisconsin in '97. This record of 63 yards still stands, and that football season ended without a single defeat for Wisconsin and with the championship of the Middle West tucked safely away for the Cardinal."

"When the first gymnastic contest occurred at Chicago, March, 1898, The Chicago Press gave up the front page to telling how the athletic giants of Wisconsin, arrayed in pink and cardinal tights, trotted into the limelight, and an hour later, out of the line of vision with the championship."

MAY 8 SUPPER DATE FOR MORTAR BOARD

"Maytime is swallow time, therefore come to the Mortar Board supper," urges one of the posters which have been put on the campus advertising the annual Mortar board Maytime party which is to be given in the Barnard dining rooms and court, May 8.

Fraternities and sororities and large boarding houses have received letters asking them not to serve supper on that night in order that all may have an opportunity of attending. A scholarship of $100 is supported through the success of this annual supper.

"We want to urge everyone to hurry and buy his ticket either of some member of Mortar board or at his rooming house," declared Margaret Craighill, chairman of the publicity committee.

GET "BIG TOP" FOR CIRCUS DAY

Huge Canvas, 300 by 140 Feet, to Cover Lower
Campus

A real "big top" of regular circus style has been located for the university circus and will be erected on the lower campus for the big show on May 22.

Some idea as to the spread of canvas which will appear for the big performance was brought out when it was learned yesterday that the only available tent is 300 feet long and 140 feet wide. This means that nearly the entire width of the campus and all but about 40 feet of the length of the entire field will be under canvas.

The mammoth tent will come from Chicago and will be in charge of several experienced canvas men. About 200 student "hunkies" will be drafted to do the hard work of erecting the tent.

Tryouts and first rehearsals for the show will be held at the stock pavilion next Saturday afternoon at 1:30. All those who have entered acts or who have incipient ideas for stunts should appear there at that time.

So far plenty of acts have been entered to fill up the entire program, but the directors are anxious to have more material present Saturday in order that they may choose the very best talent.

Tryouts for special stunt clowns, side shows, and other features will be announced later. Parade floats and stunts will be chosen sometime next week. Those interested in parade features should call John Draper.

PRESS CLUB TO GET OUT "PI-PI" PAPER

One of the distinctly different features of the entertainment staged by Press club Saturday night at the Woman's building, in honor of the Theta Sigma Phi delegates, will be in the form of the novelty program. It will represent a miniature eight page newspaper of two column width, with a typical metropolitan makeup, containing a dance program, cast and musical numbers of the burlesque comedy, "Pi Pi," a brief record of the convention, and other material making it a serviceable and suitable favor.

Excessive business at all the local printers made it impossible for the work to be done by them in time for delivery for the evening. To keep the idea from falling through, Press club members will set up and print the program themselves. A small portion of the copy may be set by linotype if arrangements are completed, but the rest of the operations will be done in the journalism laboratories. While not engaged in rehearsals the cast and chorus of the comedy will be impressed into service at their own trade.

CHICAGO — Chicago haircuts may go to 75 cents when a new wage scale for journeymen barbers becomes effective Monday. Master barbers in eleven shops had decided today to charge 75 cents but other barbers said "A higher price would mean fewer haircuts" and were undecided.

ELECTRIC COMPANY HAS SUMMER WORK

The International General Electric company is anxious to get students, both American and foreign, to work in the company's headquarters at Schenectady, N. Y., Harrison, N. J., and New York City, with the view of going out later into foreign countries. There are openings in the accounting, statistical, order service, supply, and lamp departments.

In addition, the company desires several especially high grade men to act as general assistants to the heads of various sections dealing with the business of the principal countries of the world. There are also opportunities for summer work.

At present there are more than 100 students at Schenectady, a majority of whom are student engineers. An active Cosmopolitan club looks after new men and helps them get acquainted with the town. Further particulars may be obtained from Secretary Wolf at the Y. M. C. A.

SAYS COLLEGE MEN WILL WIN

Business Leader Points to Need of Training to Assure Success

"Business success can be had by just doing a simple thing a little bit better than the next man," said Edward Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car company and a Wisconsin alumnus, in the commerce vocational conference at the Physics auditorium yesterday afternoon, after making a record-breaking motor trip from Milwaukee to be in time for his talk.

"A business man," asserted Mr. Jordan, "when looking for a new employee has several standards by which to judge the fitness of the applicant. He must have the ability to sell himself, for every manufacturer wants to know just what he can do every day of the week. He must be able to advertise himself, he must be a credit to his organization; he must serve, and through service, gain prestige."

There should be a more definite contact, according to Mr. Jordan, between business men and university men who are about to graduate. The worlds needs trained men more than ever.

"There are three great factors in civilization," said Mr. Jordan. "Labor, the first, represents the human element which has to be handled successfully. The next factor is education, under which comes the qualities of enthusiasm, the greatest of them all; rivalry, promoted to get better methods; and profit-sharing, a method of producing more and earning more. The third factor is transportation, the most vital of them all. And at the basis of all of them is work, the pathway to success."

ANNOUNCE THE NEW REQUIREMENTS FOR RHODES SCHOLARS

The University of Oxford has abolished the requirement of the Greek language for admission and also for all degrees. Entrance examinations have also been abolished so that now any undergraduate of more than two years standing, or any graduate may compete for the Rhodes scholarship if not over the age limit of 25 at the time of going into residence.

The State of Wisconsin will elect a scholar in September, 1920, to go into residence in 1921. Applications for the scholarship will be received by the state committee until August 14.

In past years there has been a tendency for the several schools in the state to take turns in the election of Rhodes scholars; but, according to Dean S. H. Goodnight, this custom will not be followed in the future. Applicants will be judged solely on their merits. The scholar for 1920 is Leroy J. Burlingame of the University of Wisconsin; he will leave in September for England.

The April number of the American Oxonian is entirely devoted to useful information for prospective may be obtained for the sum of 25 cents from W. W. Thayer, Concord, N. H.

No plans for the competition in the university have yet been made, but they will be published as soon as formulated.
